Trial of William Preston Tyler.—The trial of Wm. P. Tyler, of Caroline county, for the death of Wm. L. Shaw on the 11th of July last, has been before the jury since Tuesday, and an array of witnesses on both sides have been heard. The testimony has all been taken and at this writing the counsel for defense have closed their arguments, leaving the State to finish, which will be done to-day, (Friday), when the jury will perform the solemn duty of finding the verdict. Much interest has been taken, but no excitement. The bailiffs have had hard work all the week to carry out the injunctions of the Court to preserve silence in the ill-fitted courtroom where even standing room has been sought long before the hour for opening had arrived.

This trial was removed from Caroline to Talbot that a more impartial one could be had, as the charges were grave, so without tediousness a brief review of the case will suffice. It will be remembered by the reading public that George M. Tyler, of Media, Penna., a few years ago bought a valuable estate on the upper waters of the Choptank river, known as Hollywood, containing about 300 acres. He removed there with his family, consisting of wife, two sons and two daughters, who soon impressed the neighborhood with their culture, refinement and social worth. The young people made suitable acquaintances and many were the exchanges of good will and hospitality at the Tyler mansion.

At the end of two years Mr. Tyler felt that his handsome estate was more of a luxury than a profit and he sold the personal property therefrom and returned with his family to their former home at Media. In the meantime the farm was rented to one William Shaw, a good neighbor and citizen whose character has never been assailed.

The Shaws took the mansion house and conducted the farm as far as known satisfactory to the Tylers. In the meantime William Preston Tyler, the accused, had become of age, had returned from Florida where he had been engaged in business and had arranged with his father to take the Caroline farm at the end of this year, as the Shaws were contemplating leaving the State at that time.—The young man's future interests were there. The strongest tie and most potent incentive to honorable activity for any young man was hard by in the person of an eminent and worthy young lady whom he had selected as his future help-mate. Under these conditions William Shaw had been induced to release a certain 12 acres to the young man, and he filled it as his own, boarding with the Shaw family. At the end of three months he made arrangements to take the tenant house, 85 rds. distant from the mansion, and opened his "bachelor headquarters," preparing his own meals.

In the meantime there had been some rumors of bad blood existing between the two occupants of the farm, and probably threats were exchanged or hot words repeatel by meddlesome parties. But up to July 11th, nothing had occurred for public comment. This was Monday. The Saturday before the father of young Tyler was down looking over the farm, and left that afternoon with no idea of a difference existing between his son and the renters of his place. Sunday following, young Tyter went over to Shaw's to borrow a plow clevis to work with early on the fatal Monday morning which was to follow. The elder Shaw loaned it, the young man returned to his home. When Monday came the younger Shaw, (the deceased), missing the clevis started angrily over to Tyler's to get it. The mother cautioned her husband to follow, as "Will was mad."

From this point on there is nothing but the evidence of the two witnesses of the tragedy, the accused, Wm. P. Tyler, and father of the young man who was killed, together with what corroborating evidence can be sustained. It is not disputed that young Shaw and young Tyler had an encounter before elder Shaw arrived, for Tyler, (113 pounds) was bruised and bleeding in the face from the effects of a thrashing given by Shaw, 165 pounds. The elder Shaw met his son in lane returning. They both went back to Tylers "after the clevis" who in the meantime had armed himself with his dog protector, a small pistol. Both men followed and the theory sustained by the evidence of the physicians who examined the wounds upon both of the Shaws were that they were rushing upon the accused in a stooping attitude or the fatal shooting was from an elevation. No elevation was claimed by either side. The result was that the elder Shaw received a scratch in the side from the discharge of the pistol while attempting to knock it out of the hand of Tyler. The younger Shaw received a wound in the hip and the fatal wound severing the jugular vein on the left side of the neck taking a downward course. Both men started for home, the young man dying before reaching the house, with his head in the lap of his heart-stricken mother who had rushed toward the scene of the struggle. Tyler was placed in custody and has been held in confinement since.

Russum & Lewis of Denton and Gibson & Carrington of Easton, represent the defense, while Robert J. Jump, State's Attorney for Caroline, and Wm. E. Stewart, state's Attorney for Talbot, assisted by P. W. Downs of Denton, represent the commonwealth. The argument of the defense lasted nearly six hours and was able and impressive. Mr. Gibson frequently brought tears to the eyes of the jury and those listening to the pathetic earnestness.

Major Stewart for the State, will not swerve from his duty to present the case as the law looks at it, stripped of all sympathy. He is an able and impressive speaker and seldom argues where his views are not endorsed by his listeners. He said he had a grave and responsible duty to perform and recognized no caste or distinction between the humblest citizen and the mightiest lord. In all probability the case will have closed before this paper reaches its readers, and public opinion is that "not guilty" will be the verdict.

Many prominent citizens of Caroline have been in attendance, as well as citizens of Media and Philadelphia. Mr. George M. Tyler and wife, parents of the prisoner; J. Weaver, his maternal grandfather whose venerable face and hoary locks have not been away from the anxious trial a moment; Miss C. A. Weaver, an aunt; Samuel W. Hawley and Frank W. Baker, all influential citizens of Media, have watched with unabated interest the trying ordeal, where the life or liberty of the eldest son of an idolizing mother is at stake.

The jury in whose hands is entrusted the verdict is Zebulon Stafford, Chas. H. Brunker, Denny Williams, Geo. C. Moore, Samuel J. Slater, Wm. Hughlett, Thomas F. Chance, C. Thomas Stevens, Edward W. Hughlett, Edward G. Lowe, Isaac Bryan, and John W. Beckwith, who were selected from the twenty-six called, the others being challenged.

—A prominent feature in the current number of Harper's Weekly is a graphic description of life and society in the city of Washington, written by Henry Loomis Nelson and attractively illustrated by C. S. Reinhart. It is the fifteenth article in the famous series "The Great Capitals of the World." The Horse Show is well represented by a front-page picture by Max F. Klepper, and two pages of striking sketches drawn by Remington. There is also a notable page of football illustrations from instantaneous photographs. In "A Study in Fresh Water," W. S. Harwood gives some interesting facts about lake commerce, illustrated with several views of the Sault Ste. Marie Canal and the whaleback steamers. The fiction includes a pleasant story by Flavel Scott Mines, entitled "A Gentle Conspiracy." The editorials and the departments of Music and Drama and Amateur Sport are full of interest.

Among Our Churches.—Ebenezer M. E. Church, Rev. W. E. Avery, pastor.—Last Sunday morning Rev. J. M. Lindale, of Cordova, creditably filled the pulpit of this church.—His sermon was delivered in a free and easy manner, with graceful tact and intonation, which showed that he is blessed with eloquentionary powers of considerable degree. His remarks were listened to with prayerful attention, and so interesting did he make his sermon that it was with deep regret his congregation heard him close. Rev. Avery was in his place Sunday night and preached an excellent sermon on "The use of Liberty."—The choir and orchestra contributed their mite to both services. The Sunday School is proving most beneficial. The session last Sunday was better attended than usual, nearly 250 being present; while the collection fell slightly short of $7.00. The Epworth League meetings every Sunday evening at 6.30 are well attended, and ever prove a source of great good. Tomorrow morning, the Sacrament of Lord's Supper. Subject for evening servic, "Jacob, the Supplanter and Prince."

SS. Peter and Paul Church, Rev. Fr. Waldron, pastor.—Last Friday morning at 10 o'clock a memorial service was held in memory of a friend of Father Waldron's, who was killed in a railroad accident a month ago.—This service is familiar with all and it is unnecessary to describe it in detail. Of the decorations too much cannot be said. In the center of the aisle of the church rested a beautiful catafaqualx, surrounded by six large candles heavily draped in mourning. At the head of the catapaulx stood a large floral cross surmounted by a dove. The altar and chancel was heavily draped in mourning, large streamers of black rested against the walls, forming quite a contrast from the days before, reminding one that death had taken the place of joy. The music was rendered by the regular church choir. A large congregation was present, and quite a number from a distance.

Christ Church, Rev. L. B. Baldwin, rector.—The Rev. L. B. Baldwin preached the first of a series of Advent sermons at Christ Church last Sabbath morning. The subject of his discourse was "It is appointed unto all men once to die." The congregation was large and was what every minister loves to have—thoroughly attentive. It is a noticable fact that Mr. Baldwin never fails to please, and at the same time instruct his hearers. The text of the evening service was taken from the words of Sir Walter Scott to his son in law when on his death bed, "My son, be a good man." The subject was treated in a masterly way, this, in addition to some grand music by the choir made the evening service a source of much pleasure and profit. Tomorrow morning the subject will be, "After death, what?"

M. E. Church, South, Rev. C. D. Harris, pastor.—On to-morrow morning, the Sacrament of the Lord's supper will be administered at this church. The pastor would be pleased to see every member present. In the evening, Mr. Harris will preach the second sermon of a series, styled "The Portrait Gallery." The subject of this sermon "A murderer hanged." All cordially welcome. S. E. S.

The Epworth League of the Methodist Episcopal Church, of Easton, met last Tuesday evening for the purpose of electing a new board of officers, the term of the old board having expired. The meeting was opened by singing and prayer, after which, the election of officers took place. The result is the following excellent board. Walter H. Thompson, president; F. A. Shannahan, 1st vice president; Chas. H. Goodee, 2nd vice president, Wm. M. Coney, 3d vice president; L. R. Hooper, 4th vice president; Miss Mary S. Jump secretary; S. E. Shannahan, Jr., assistant secretary; Wm. S. Grace, treasurer.—The League is in a prosperous condition, and with such a board of officers its future will be brighter than ever.

Tit For Tat.—The Easton Ledger man has been editorialized in several contemporary journals to the effect that he is after this office or that under the Cleveland administration. The editor positively asserts to the GAZETTE that he wants but one office—the one occupied by the present incumbent John Manamaker. To these editors who are trying to saddle small favors on Mr. Baldaway, he facetiously responds in a tit for tat fashion as follows:

Charles Cox Hopper, of the Chestertown Transcript, is reported to be an applicant for the Rock Hall post office, in his county.—There are others who want it, but the eternal fitness of things, if regarded, should settle it for Mr. Hooper.

J. Don Plummer, of the Greensborough Free Press, it is said, wants to be postal clerk on the Delaware and Chesapeake Railroad, in place of Mr. Seward, the incumbent. This appointment is in the classified service. Mr. Plummer should be gratified.

It is intimated that the Rev. Burton S. Highly, editor of the Talbot Times, will be an applicant for the position of guager in the internal revenue service, if he can get the support of the Dorchester Era.

CORDOVA FRIVOLITIES.

CORDOVA, MD., Nov. 30, 1892.

MR. ED. GAZETTE:—We write to inform you of a little piece of news, since much comment has been made in this neighborhood on the different ways and schemes that were adopted or agreed upon last fall in the shape of wagers between all kinds of people, on the election. Our people here were also equally as enthusiastic and hopeful on both sides; so much so, that Col. Jno. L. Fisher and Hon. James M. Wooters wagered that each would ride the other in a wheelbarrow through the streets of Cordova in the event of the election of either candidate of their choice. It was said the day after election "it snowed." Since that time, much has been said with reference to this bet between the contracting parties above mentioned. Finally a time was set for the ride, which was on the 19th, but it snowed again, but many people, especially us Republicans, were out to see that the Colonel would carry out his promise. Some said he was at his comfortable home, enjoying the pleasures of his family, and some said he was down in the cellar, while another said he had gotten into a sweet potato hole in the floor, and had the hole covered with carpet. Well, for a failure to perform a contract by as good a republican as Col. Fisher, and having our democratic friends laughing at us (they had already had one laugh over the election), we didn't propose for them to have two, at least, at our expense, so on Saturday last the gallant Col. secured a nice, light, safe and strong wheelbarrow from a friend. With a splendid plush blanket and with flags borne by the sturdy sons, was seen the Colonel coming with Mr. Wooters in a comfortable way seated in the wheelbarrow, apparently enjoying his ride, singing "As We Go Marching On." Occasionally the Col. would have to stop for a rest, and the only thing he had breath enough to waste away was in saying, "Never mind, my friend, you will have me to roll in '96." Thus the election wager between these gentlemen was pleasantly passed and paid, and witnessed by a number of people, all of whom, of both parties, enjoyed. It was only an agreement of pleasantry, for it is known that every good republican will fulfill all contracts. *

Grange Meeting.—The regular meeting of Kings Creek Grange will be on Saturday, Dec. 10th at 2 p. m. The object of the meeting will be for the election of officers. All members are requested to attend. Kings' Creek Grange, No. 75 is the only one remaining out of nine at one time in the county.—Meetings are held every second and fourth Saturday in the month. The membership is from 30 to 60, which is made up of some of the best farmers in the county. The Grange is 25 years old.

Mr. Ephraim Dedenderfer's Belief.

AN OUTLINE OF THE FUNERAL ADDRESS.

He knew but One, the only God:
The Lord Christ Jesus—He,
The Father, Son and Spirit Holy:
Three in one; one in three.

The scriptures—a spiritual guide—
Understood from within
They were a lamp to light his feet;
Heaven New and Earth were seen.

The Ten Words were his guide of life,
Them he did truly live,
Honor to whom honor was due
He always sought to give.

The little ones were home with him,
Because he loved them so,
These he tried to cheer and guide,
And help them truth to know.

Within three days, from earthly garb
He knew that he would rise,
To see the sun and moon which shine
In spiritual skies.

"He's gone," some say, but this not so,
He simply went up stairs;
With angels now he finds the place
The Lord for him prepares.

His friends and all his children dear
He ever more does love;
His wife also; when come to him—
Both ONE ANGEL—Above.

St. Michaels Items.—From our regular correspondent.—I. O. Harrison and wife, of Baltimore, spent part of this week with his father, Jas. Harrison.

Miss Emma Tarr, of the State Normal School, spent last Sunday with her father.

Rev. Mr. Dunn who has been visiting relatives in Carroll county the past week is expected to fill his pulpit tomorrow.

Mrs. Frank Wittman spent part of this week in Baltimore.

Miss Amanda Blades, of Baltimore was in town this week.

Herbert Dodson and friends from Baltimore enjoyed themselves last week with their fowling pieces. I did not see much game that Herbert had, but the supply of powder and shot was exhausted.

Miss Lilly Harrison and Maurice Fairbank both of St. Michaels, were married last week at Ray's Point by Rev. Dr. Morris. They will reside in Mr. Fairbank's new house.

Miss Julia Whaeton, of St. Michaels and Wallace Boulin, of South River, were married last Tuesday night at the home of Geo. Larrimore, by Dr. Morris.

Who shall have the post office? Rather early for that yet, but it is the question that is asked often. Judging from what the democrats say and admit, they are afraid that who ever may be the lucky one to get it, will not be able to keep it in the high state of perfection that it is in now. We have a post office that every citizen boasts of as being as near perfect in every detail as a country office can be. When Mr. Benson retires, he will carry with him the thanks and well wishes of every man in this district for his endeavors the past four years to please and oblige the public.

Robt. Brown has bought of Mrs. Harvey her house and lot adjoining his coal yard.—This will give to him one of the best yards in town.

Died suddenly in St. Michaels, Nov. 25.—Victoria Rideout, colored, aged 61 years. It has been but a few years since that if a colored person died in our town the first question asked by the undertaker, and those interested, "where are funds necessary for burial to come from?" I speak of the majority of cases. True there are some that do who leave enough to pay, or have friends to attend to the last sad office. This has been changed. I do not believe there are twenty colored people past ten years of age that do not belong to some society that has for its end the care of the sick and the burial of the dead. Money is always ready for the undertaker. Two or three colored women with Victoria Rideout as leader brought this great change about. She was always found working for the welfare of her people. A poor uneducated colored woman, yet her work and its effects will last for generations to come. A consistent member of the M. E. Church, no one doubts that though the call to her Maker was sudden, she was ready for the life beyond, ready to lay down her burden and cross and take up the crown.

Harper's Magazine for December is a superb Christmas number, unexcelled in the quality of its contributions and in the beauty of its illustrations. It opens with an important descriptive article, "A new Light on the Chinese," by Henry Burton McDowell, fully illustrated by Theodore Wores. Among its many other striking features is a play by Mary E. Wilkins, entitled "Giles Corey, Yeoman," recalling the tragedies attendant upon the strange witchcraft delusion in Salem, Massachusetts, two hundred years ago. It is admirably supplemented by four full-page illustrations drawn by Howard Pyle. A series of five illustrations of the ballad of "Lord Bateman," drawn by William Makepeace Thackeray, and here published for the first time, will also attract much attention Mrs Anne Thackeray Ritchie in a note of comment tells how these drawings were discovered and how they came into the possession of Harper's Magazine. A timely and thoroughly readable article on "Some Types of the Virgin," by Theodore Child, presents an interesting history of the Madonna in art, and is accompanied by eight illustrations from the old masters. Constance Fenimore Woolson contributes an entertaining story of "A Christmas Party," and there is also a charming Christmas tale, entitled "Le Revellion," by the distinguished French writer, Ferdinand Fabre. Both these stories are handsomely illustrated. "Pryste Noel," a Christmas carol, by Louise Imogen Guiney, is beautifully illustrated by F. V. Du Mond Thomas Bailey Aldrich contributes a charming poem entitled "Nourmadee," which is accompanied by several characteristic drawings by H. Siddons Mowbray. Besides the short stories already mentioned, there are many other articles which will interest the readers of the magazine.

Sixty Million Bushels of Wheat—A Bushel for Every Inhabitant of the United States. The Kansas Crop of '92.

Never in the history of Kansas has that state had such bountiful crops as this year. The farmers cannot get enough hands to harvest the great crop, and the Santa Fe Railroad has made special rates from Kansas City and other Missouri River towns, to induce harvest hands to go into the state. The wheat crop of the state will be from sixty to sixty-five million bushels, and the quality is high. The grass crop is made and is a very large one; the early potatoes, rye, barley and oat crops are made, and are all large. The weather has been propitious for corn, and it is the cleanest, best looking corn to be found in the country to day. Cheap rates will be made from Chicago, St Louis and all points on the Santa Fe east of the Missouri River to all Kansas points, on August 30 and September 27, and these excursions will give a chance for the eastern farmers to see what the great Sunflower State can do. A good map of Kansas will be mailed free upon application to Jno. J. Byrne, 725 Monadnock Block, Chicago Ill., together with reliable statistics and information about Kansas lands.
