SOUND TRUTH.

From a long article published by the Social Economist of New York, taken from the Fortnightly Review, entitled "The English View of the American Tariff," we cull a paragraph or two that ought to be read by thinking business men regardless of politics. It says:

"There appears to be a general impression in this country that the McKinley tariff has had the effect of increasing the prices of commodities generally. No doubt it has had that tendency as regards certain important productions, but the general course of prices has been downwards for a comparatively long series of years, and neither the McKinley tariff nor any other legislative measure or proposal has been able to arrest this movement. The official records of prices in the principal markets of the United States show indubitably that there has been a considerable fall within recent years. Only one or two examples need be cited. In the New York markets, wheat (red winter) has fallen from $1.27 per bushel in 1880 to 98 cents in 1890; beef has fallen from $10.44 cents per barrell to $6.96; lard has fallen from 7.91 to 6.33 cents per lb.; medium wool has fallen from 55 to 37 cents; and standard cotton sheetings have fallen from 8.51 to 7 cents per yard. These are substantial reductions, and falling as they do, coincidentally with a great increase in the earnings of labor, go to show that the condition of the working classes of the United States during the last ten years has been greatly ameliorated, whatever complaints and statements to the contrary may have been made.

"Nor has the United States suffered in the direction that the tariff reformers appear disposed to think should have happened, namely, in that of contracted foreign trade. On the contrary, the imports of commodities into the United States beween 1880 and 1891 increased from 667 to 844 millions of dollars—an increase of 177 millions; while the exports of home or domestic merchandise increased from 823 to 872 millions of dollars—an increase of 49 millions. These unitedly represent a larger increase than has occurred within the same interval on the part of any other country in the world.—And what is perhaps more important is the fact that although agricultural produce is, and probably will be the staple trade of that country, yet there has been a sensible increase of late years in the exports of what are described, in the official 'Report on the Foreign Commerce of the United States' as 'the products of manufacture.' In 1880, 83.2 per cent. of the total American exports were agricultural, 9.6 per cent. were products of manufacture, and 7.1 per cent. were products of forests, fisheries, and mining. In 1891, however, manufacturing products had risen to 19.3 per cent. of the whole—having more than doubled—while the exports of agricultural products had fallen to 73.7, and of other products to 6.9. This is surely not a bad record for a country that has adopted protection to home manufactures on such a large scale.

"Enough has probably been said to show that the American tariff, however mistaken it may be from an English point of view, and however inapplicable its operation might be to the totally different circumstances of the mother country, does not appear to have been a particularly bad thing for the Americans themselves."

MR. CLEVELAND has announced that his will be a business men's administration. He says:

The questions before the American people are questions that can be best solved by business men. Reforms of the Tariff, economy in the government, will be easily accomplished if plain, practical, honest business men are selected."

In reply to this, George Gunton of New York tersely says: "This means that the policy of the incoming administration is to be determined by business men instead of statesmen, by novices instead of experts. Mr. Cleveland seems not to know that business and statesmanship are very different callings, requiring different orders of ability. It is no reflection upon successful manufacturers and merchants to say that they seldom make great statesmen; nor is it discreditable to the Gladstones, Bismarks, Jeffersons and Websters to say that they do not rank high as business men. To be successful in the one calling is practically to be unfitted for the other. The successful business man must be, by both character and training, master of productive processes and immediate market conditions; whereas the successful statesman must be master of the art of government. The business man appropriates present industrial conditions; the statesman deals with future industrial opportunities. The one has to do with the narrow, short-range knowledge of facts, the other with the broad, long-range knowledge of political principles. One is individual and local, the other impersonal and national. The treatment of the tariff especially requires the hand of broad statesmanship and large economic generalization. The present muddled state of that vexed question is mainly due to the fact that it has been governed too much by individual interests and too little by economic statesmanship. Business is the sphere of business men, government the sphere of statesmen: to attempt to reverse their positions indicates a lack of the statesman instinct."

WASHINGTON LETTER.

FROM OUR REGULAR CORRESPONDENT.

Washington, Feb. 6, 1893.

The President has heard the official proposition made by the commissioners from the new provisional government of Hawaii for the annexation of that country to the United States, and is now, with his usual thoroughness and care, studying the question, in all its bearings, in order to make up his mind whether he will take any steps towards annexation, make any recommendations to Congress, or leave the whole matter for the incoming administration and Congress.—Before the commissioners arrived it was thought probable, indeed it was informally agreed that a treaty by which the United States took the republican government of Hawaii under its protection would be about the proper thing for the present, leaving annexation to follow, as it unquestionably would have done in a few years. But when the ultimatum of the commissioners, annexation or nothing, was received the situation was changed. The President and all his cabinet are favorable to annexation, but as it would have to be preceded by Congressional legislation, and the life of the present administration and Congress is so nearly spent it may be deemed advisable by the administration not to begin what would probably have to be ended by the new Congress and administration. A decision will probably be reached in a few days. The Hawaiian flag, red, white and blue stripes, with a red cross in the corner, is flying from the top of the hotel at which the Hawaiian commissioners are quartered. There is nothing foreign looking about the members of this commission.

A determined effort is being made to secure some silver legislation on a compromise basis before the session closes. Dan Lamont and Don Dickinson are here in the interest of the new administration, and to submit to the silver men several propositions for a compromise, all of them involving a suspension of the purchase of silver by the government. They say that if their efforts are not successful an extra session of Congress will certainly be called.

The bill authorizing the expenditure of $50,000 in the preparation of an exhibit for the World's Fair, showing the progress of the colored race since 1863, has been favorably reported to the House, and the manner in which it is spoken of by members indicates that it may pass, but owing to the crowded condition of the calendar, action on no measure is certain.

Probably no single action of the President during his entire term has been more talked about than the nomination of Judge Howell E. Jackson, of Tennesee, an able jurist, but an uncompromising democrat, to succeed the late Justice Lamar on the bench of the U. S. Supreme Court.—The President had stated to a number of gentlemen his intention until the day before he nominated Judge Jackson, and the cause of his change of mind was a notification he received to the effect that twelve republican Senators would vote with the democrats against the confirmation of any republican he might nominate. The reason given by most of these republicans was that an attempt to force the confirmation of a republican would result in either tying up the Senate for the rest of the session, or the adoption of a cloture rule, and that they would not take any chances of either. Contrary to precedent Judge Jackson's nomination has been referred to a committee. It has been customary to confirm the nomination of ex-Senators without referring them to committees. Judge Jackson although a democrat, is not a believer in the doctrine of State rights. Democratic Senators say privately that his confirmation depends upon Mr. Cleveland's wishes.

The House while sitting as a committee of the whole adopted a very sensible amendment to an Appropriation bill, giving the owners of American quarries a chance to compete with foreigners in furnishing the marble for the new Congressional library building, but when the vote was taken in regular session the party whip was brought into use and the protection cry raised; consequently the amendment was rejected by a party vote.

Secretary Foster's report on the condition of the Treasury, and his estimates of receipts and expenditures for this and the next fiscal year has put an end to the talk about a bankrupt treasury, which has been more or less prevalent among democrats ever since Congress met.

The amount of mutilated currency now being presentted to the Treasury for redemption averages $1,500,000 a day, being much larger than for many years. It is believed that this is largely caused by the scare concerning the carrying of the germs of contagious diseases in old paper money.

The attempt to make the Panama Canal investigation a star-chamber affair is not well received. The people want to know the whole true inwardness of this business and if it injures anybody's reputation so much the worse for them. H.

Marseilles' Bread Riots.

PARIS, Feb. 3.—Bread riots broke out in Marseilles yesterday while the carts were carrying the loaves to the centers of distribution under military guard. The rioters made several attempts to break through the guard to the carts, but were driven back. In the abattoir district the guard at the bread depot was overpowered, the doors were forced, and the building was pillaged. All the portable furniture was smashed and much of the bread was thrown in the street. In the evening rioters stormed a bakery. The proprietor met the leaders after they had forced the door with a revolver in each hand, and when they tried to seize him fired two shots. Two rioters were wounded severely, and the rest retreated.

Four Killed by a Boiler Explosion.

VICKSBURG, Miss., Feb. 3.—The old Planter's compress, located in south Vicksburg, near the round house of the Mississippi Valley railroad, exploded yesterday. Two large boilers were torn to fragments, demolishing and scattering their brick foundations and the house in which they were located. The roof was thrown into the air a hundred feet. The boilers had been in use for thirteen years. The killed are: James Caldera, engineer, horribly mutilated; Joe Finiches, head severed from body; Wells Clifton and Nathan Ward, the last two colored. Five were injured, two of whom may die.

A Big Ocean Steamer.

GLASGOW, Feb. 3.—The Lucania, the new steamer of the Cunard line, was launched yesterday in the presence of 50,000 people. Her dimensions are: Length over all, 625 feet; breadth, 65 feet; depth, 41 feet; and nearly 30,000 tons in measurement. The Lucania is twenty feet longer, and seven feet broader than the Teutonic or Majestic, and is intended to accomodate 450 first cabin, 250 second cabin, and 600 steerage passengers.

Four Murderers Lynched.

RICHMOND, Va., Feb. 2.—A special from Azwell Court House, Va., says: Monday night four negro men murdered and robbed two white men at Richlands, named Ratcliffe and Shortridge. The murdered men lived in Buchanan county, and were at Richlands with their wagons for the purpose of purchasing goods. The four negroes were captured, confessed the crime and were lynched.

Arrested for Cannibalism.

HAMBURG, Feb. 3.—Three of the seamen of the Norwegian ship Thekla, from Philadelphia, who were rescued by the Danish Herman, after enduring the terrible sufferings on the foundering vessel, have been arrested on a charge of murder, the charge being based on their own confession that they killed and ate a sailor of the ship in order to save themselves from death by starvation.

Treasurer and Treasure Missing.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 3.— D. Lancaster Drew, secretary and treasurer of the Central Savings Fund and Safe Deposit company, is among the missing, and so is $10,000 of the company's fund.

Alarm for the City of Peking.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 3.—There is no news of the missing steamship City of Peking. She is now ten days overdue, and the insurance men are becoming alarmed.

Field and Forest.

THIS IS the season of the year in which to "Shoulder Arms" and march to the Field and Forest after the Fur and Feathery Tribes. Before going provide yourself with a first class Gun. We are

HEADQUARTERS ON FIREARMS,

and are now exhibiting the finest line of BREECH LOADING GUNS, and MUZZLE LOADING GUNS, Rifles and Pistols we have ever shown. Together with this we have a full line of Gunning Coats, Pants, Vests and Caps, as also a LARGE SUPPLY OF AMMUNITION. Call and see us on anything you want in this line.

Cook Stoves, Parlor Stoves, Ranges and Coal Oil Stoves.

WE HAVE the largest and best assortment in Easton. We have them in all styles and sizes, at lowest prices, and feel sure we can give you a stove that will render entire satisfaction. Don't fail to examine our stock before you buy.

LAP BLANKETS, ROBES AND HORSE COVERS.

THESE GOODS have just arrived, and we have them in large quantities, beautiful patterns, and at prices that cannot fail to please. This stock is so complete that you will certainly save money by calling on us.

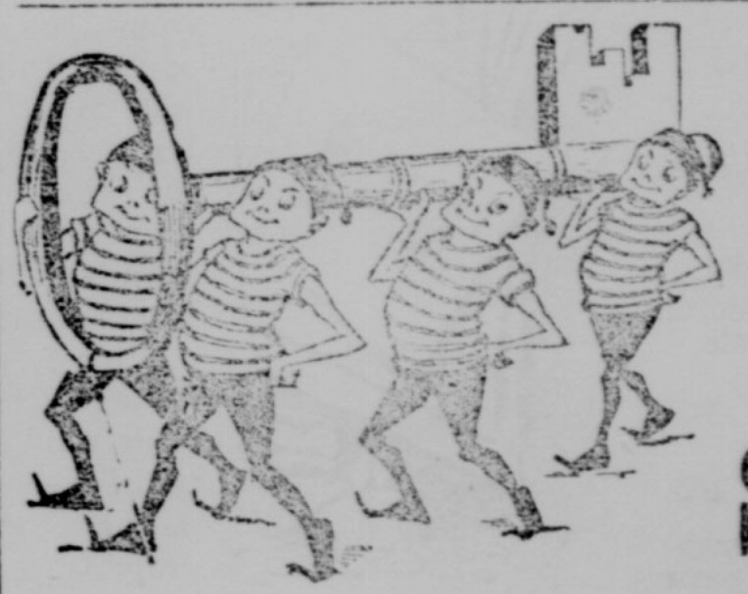
Corn Shellers and Fodder Cutters.

JUST FROM the Manufacturers, with all the late improvements. These articles are needed on every farm and the low price at which they are offered places them easily within your reach.

SAUSAGE CUTTERS AND STUFFERS.

THESE ARE the best we could find in the market, and in the past they have given unusual satisfaction. They do splendid work and are very cheap. Call and see them. Our stock is complete with hundreds of other things you may need. Come and see us.

SHANNAHAN & WRIGHTSON HARDWARE COMPANY,
EASTON, MD.



THE KEY TO THE SITUATION.

Our stock is perfect in every detail, and the worry and anxiety of shopping is instantly banished on entering our establishment. One sees so much that is pleasing to the fancy that it is difficult to decide where to begin. Let us assist you. On entering the Dry Goods Department a magnificent line of and numerous other things, may be seen. One of the attractions of these goods is the greatly reduced price at which they are sold.

LADIES' DRESS GOODS, DRY GOODS, LADIES' COATS

Gloves, Silk and Linen Handkerchiefs, Neckware, Cuff Buttons,

In the Grocery Department we have a lovely and most complete line of Plain and Decorated China, Candy and Fruit.

The New Year is now upon us and 1892 has passed into history. Realizing this, we have reduced our prices to the lowest figure, which almost vanishes with the old year.

B. P. COX.

HARDWARE!

BREECH and MUZZLE LOADING GUNS.
AMMUNITION AND LOADED SHELLS.

As we load all our own shells, we can recommend them as being first class in every respect and much superior to factory loaded shells. A trial will convince you of their merit.

LAP BLANKETS ROBES AND HORSE COVERS.

We have a large stock and very low prices.

ENTERPRISE SAUSAGE STUFFERS and CUTTERS.

-:- LARD CANS, -:-

HAY KNIVES, FODDER CUTTERS, RED WARRIOR AXES, MUSKRAT TRAPS, AND OTHER SEASONABLE GOODS.

AUBURN AND LITTLE GEM WAGONS.
Razors, Pistols and Cutlery.
We are still Selling Coal Oil at 10 cents a Gallon.

and as pioneers in knocking the price down, we claim a continuance of your patronage.

E. T. NICOLS.

The Man who needs a Bank Book.

You've heard of farmers selling their crops as they stood. No harvesting to pay. No barn-work to consider. You'd take a less price for the certain, quick, easy sale, and the cash in hand, wouldn't you?

That's what many a mill does with us. We buy the cloth on the spot. They cut the prices to us; we snap up the advantage, and share with you.

A man who buys Overcoat and Suit from us for this long winter's service turns many a dollar back into his pocket.

He'd better get a bank book and keep count of his savings—and keep on buying at Oak Hall.

Twelve Dollar Overcoat for ten—that's nothing. Any and every time—we're that much under regular price.

You'll find it a Five Dollar saving on a Twenty Dollar one.

And yet, we pay for better trimmings, better work, more style in our suits, in our Overcoats.

We make the best ready-made Clothing there is —and still sell it for the lowest prices.

We are manufacturers—that's the whole secret. Most stores buy the clothes they sell. We don't.

Wanamaker & Brown,
Sixth and Market, Philadelphia.

For example, we pay Railroad Excursion Fare from Easton if you purchase $40 worth.
