TO-DAY is yours, tomorrow never will be.

WE are spoiling for the spoils, sing the fellows that voted for Cleveland.

THE country clamors for a change in Inauguration Day to a more desirable season of the year.

THE Eastern coal sales agents at New York Tuesday on agreed to reduce at once the price of anthracite coal, 10 cents a ton on broken, 40 cts on egg, 60 cents on stove and 50 cents on chestnut sizes.

THE post office fever rages the country over and will leave more disaffection in its wake, and sorrow and vexation among its victims than it will create strength. Many seek but few are chosen.

EX-POSTMASTER GENERAL WANAMAKER and party left Washington last week on a tour of the United States and Mexico. The trip will cover 12,161 miles, and will traverse twenty states, three territories and one province. The party expects to return to Philadelphia by May 18th.

WHEN any one hears of the newspaper man who had heretofore been tendered political office and proved unworthy of the trust, then it will be time enough for the President to discriminate; but newspaper men and editors as far as we have noticed, have made efficient office holders and reflected credit on the appointing powers.

THOSE excitable and illogical partisans who endeavored to make political capital out of the fact that the Fifty-first Congress appropriated a billion dollars to meet the needs of the country are remarkably silent now as to the expenditures authorized by the Democratic Congress which has just gone out of business, although the amount exceeds by $35,000,000 the total which caused the use and abuse of so much campaign language. There is sound reasoning in the defensive statement so common a little while ago. This is a billion dollar country, and if things continue to move along at their present gait it will be a two billion dollar country before many Congresses pass into history.

WE advertise the legitimate business of those seeking our columns, we print plain and elaborately according to the taste and demands of the customer. To guarantee fair treatment and absolute satisfaction is an old motto which we have used for years in our business to which our friends and customers can testify. If we have enemies we do not known it—nor care to know it. We like to feel kindly towards all and do service for as many as we can. We have been refitting and buying new material for some months past and are better prepared than ever to work well and work cheap. Let us do your printing and advertising for awhile, won't you?

A GENTLEMAN of means residing in Easton says some of the neighboring towns—and one in particular—seem to think he can carry the public debt without inconvenience. Most every day he is beset with a "small loan" as a "personal favor," that note-to-take-up gag is worked, the over drawn bank-account excuse is played, the man-who-failed-to-keep-his-promise plea is used. Oh, the miseries of wealth with plenty of friends to help to use it, or the tortures of granting petty loans when each will bring a dozen new ones! The undesirability of being poor! Surely life has many phases none of which are purely paradisiacal.

IT is gratifying to note the tendency of the farmers of this county toward the importance of raising valuable stock in preference to the worthless sort which is no less expensive to keep. Poultry, hogs, sheep, cattle and horses are claiming distinct attention. No raiser or breeder seems indifferent. Valuable strain is the all important question, and it remains but a few years before the present generation of common breeds will have vanished and in their stead will have sprung up the useful and ornamental throughout the ramifications of domestic stock raising. Talbot has a grand future if her citizens continue to take advantage of all Nature's lavish favors.

THE Talbot road league called to meet to-day, and noticed in another part of this paper, should be well attended. No question of local importance is assuming such gigantic proportions as is this question, the country over. We cannot afford to be behind nor even indifferent to the necessity of good roads in Talbot. Union makes strength—concert of action insures success. If the people think goods roads, say good roads, demand good roads and be satisfied with nothing but good roads—the good roads will come—then better ones—then in time the very best that human ingenuity can devise the county and country over.

THOSE intenterested in the exhibit of the Public School Work at the World's Fair from Talbot county feel somewhat discouraged at the prospect of not receiving the necessary appropriation to defray the incidental expenses of boxing, shipping, putting up, etc. This will amount to about $200, a sum insignificant for a rich and prosperous county like Talbot. But the School Commissioners do not feel justified in spending the public money for such a purpose.—The work of our schools deserves the credit due to time and labor that has been spent by teachers and pupils, and Talbot will not be ashamed her exhibit in this department with the hundreds of competitors. This work must go to the Fair. Send in your names and the amount you are willing to contribute, to the GAZETTE, and let us swell the list already started in this field or more next week. This was given us just before going to press:

Friends, this is a starter, roll up liberal subscriptions from every section of the county.

A CHICAGO paper recently gathered the statistics for several years of murders, legal hangings and lynchings. In 1887 the murders were 2,355; in 1889, 3,567; in 1890, 4,290; in 1891, 5,906 and 1892, 6,792. There were 123 legal hangings in 1891, or one legal hanging to 48 murders, and 107 legal hangings in 1893, or one to 63 murders. Murders are increasing and legal hangings decreasing. As a result, the statistics show that lynchings are increasing. In 1891 there were 195 lynchings and in 1892 there were 236.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

FROM OUR REGULAR CORRESPONDENT.

Washington, March. 13, 1893.

One of the most difficult roles ever attempted by a public man is that of setting himself up as being better than his party. This the friends of Mr. Cleveland have persistently done for him ever since his entrance into National politics, and the claims of his worshipers about his having refused to make one single promise during the last campaign have been louder than ever since his last inauguration. Well, the idol has been shattered, and in view of the whole world. One of the most prominent nominations to office he has made—ex Gov. Gray, of Indiana, to be minister to Mexico—was the result of a bargain made at the Chicago convention, not, it is true, by Mr. Cleveland in person, but by his personal representative at that convention, Hon. W. C. Whitney, of New York. The terms of this bargain were that Gov. Gray was to withdraw as a Presidential candidate and throw the Indiana delegation to Mr. Cleveland, and in return was either to have a place in the cabinet or a first class foreign mission, if Mr. Cleveland was nominated and elected. That bargain has now been carried out by Mr. Cleveland, just as any other politician would have carried it out, and it is about time there was a cessation of the talk about his being better than his party.

Mr. Cleveland's ingenius method of knocking the army of office seekers out by sections, as it were, shows that he is a wiser man than when he was President before, and has furnished no end of amusement for those not after office, as well as for the office seekers not in the prescribed sections. First, he disposed of the section that were after the offices held under four year commissions, by telling them that no official would be removed until the expiration of his term, except for cause. Next he jumped on the section that held office under his first administration, nearly all of whom were here ready and willing to again affix their autographs to the official pay roll, by telling them that none of them would receive an appointment, unless it were in some exceptional case where special qualifications were demanded that were not possessed by any new appliecant.—And his last knock-out was directed at the democratic editors who are hankering after the official flesh-pots. His words on this subject are herewith quoted for the special benefit of the editors of your democratic contemporaries, who might otherwise Hake the mistake of expecting an office. Said Mr. Cleveland, "I have been surprised to notice the very large number of newspaper men who have made application for office. I remember that during the campaign, and in fact during almost the whole of the last administration, the democratic newspapers charged that in the appointments of Whitelaw Reid, and other journalists Mr. Harrison was attempting to subsidize the press. Now, don't you see that I should be laying myself open to precisely the same charges if I were to honor the drafts made on me by newspaper men? I do not like the idea which the editors of little democratic papers all over the country seem to have, that they are entitled to the office of postmaster in their town."

Those close to the administration say that the withdrawal of the Hawaiian treaty from the Senate does not indicate that Mr. Cleveland is opposed to annexation. They say that he thinks a more satisfactory treaty can be negotiated, and they predict that the new treaty will be negotiated and sent to the Senate before the present extra session comes to a close. In other words, if these gentlemen be correct in their statements, the principal objection to the treaty was that it was negotiated by a republican, instead of by a democratic administration.

The democrats may not be inclined to faver the makers of "moonshine" whiskey, but official figures show that Mr. Cleveland's first administration collected $51,095,682.04 less from internal revenue that the administration of President Arthur did, and $115,385,524.73 less than was collected during President Harrison's administration.

Representative Henderson, of Iowa predicts that the Fifty-second Congress will go down to posterity as "the know-nothing and do-nothing," and indications are plenty that the Fifty-third Congress will rival if not surpass it in knowing nothing and doing nothing.

There has been a red-hot, although not a public fight, over the re-organization of the Senate. It is not entirely over yet, but it has gone far enough to show that Mr. Cleveland has been defeated in his attempt to have the Committee on Finance made up in the interest of his own financial ideas and against silver.—Senator Vorhees, a pronounced silver man, will be its chairman, and a majority of its members will be silver men.

HORSES AND HORSEMEN.

By the Gazette's Special Horse Column Editor.

From the Kentucky Stock Farm.

I have been reading with much interest the different articles in your paper on promoting the interest of the trotting turf, and if you consider my views worthy of space please let it go in with the balance, and it may be considered for what it is worth. In the first place the kite shaped track is a failure as to point of attendance. People will go the first time out of curiosity, and then when they have only seen the start, and have ample time to lose all interest in the race before they see the finish, it is not likely they will rush back in large numbers the next day to watch the backs of the drivers going away and the heads of the horses coming home and can't tell who is ahead or behind except at the start and finish.

It is my opinion that it would pay the owners of few kites already built to turn them into good regulation tracks. Then I think the five per cent. entrance is a bad plan and I see many associations are changing to five per cent. and five per. cent to winners. I think the entrance would be better at five per cent, to enter and five per cent added to start, so that all starters would pay ten per cent. I do not believe that many associations can exist on five per cent. straight. Then I believe there should be a rule providing for the punishment of any member of an association to buy pools, bet or allow any one to do it for them, on any race given upon their grounds. If they wish to play the races they should go away from home to do it I know of officers of associations who play the races, and I believe their influence often effects the decisions of weak kneed judges who too of en preside, and it would be better for owners and drivers if such judges were never born. It is a burning shame that judges' stands should contain the kind of timber in the shape of judges that many do thoroughout this country.

Many associations do not pick out their judges until it is time to start the first race, and then take perhaps a lawyer, or Colonel Jones, because he is prominent, and then a farmer of good character to make them solid with the country people; and, Mr Editor, it is a God's fact that some of them don't know which way the horses should go around the track until they have seen them started, let alone knowing anything of the rules by which associations are governed They stand up in the stand, look wise, and wonder if this world was made for them alone an if all their acquaintances see them in their exalted position, little knowing the contempt in which they are held by owners and drivers They are there to await developments When the heat is over, seven times out of ten they look at each other with an undecided twinkle of the eye, and wonder what horse finished third, fourth, and on down to twelfth, for they only saw the first two in a close finish. In many instances it takes, with the help of outsiders, fifteen to thirty minutes to place the horses, and then it is often done wrong. They will offer many excuses for their errors, and do the same thing over.

About the next move after the next heat, up comes the smart man that has a two dollar pool on a short horse and stands to win $16 or $20 and in an excited manner tells these judges that he has money bet on this horse and the driver is pulling him, and he has the right to call for a new driver, and it is their duty to put one up. They then consult each other and finally conclude something is wrong and either put up another driver or call the one up that is complained of and give him an unmerciful lecture before the crowd, and they clap their hands and the judges think they have done something smart, when in fact the driver is the gentleman and undoubtedly has been driving for dear life to get as good as third or fourth, and possibly to beat the flag. I see many writers are trying to inaugurate some plan to stop drivers and owners from robbing. It is my candid belief there are more owners and drivers robbed by incompetent judges than outsiders by the owners and drivers, and if the associations were anxious to build up their reputations they would employ competent men as judges, and all this trouble would be averted.

Then there is another matter, I wish to speak of and that is the Board of Appeals. I have seen some of the worst decisions that man ever saw go to the Board of Appeals and that board sustain the decisions of judges who knew no more about horse racing than a hog does about heaven.

There is another point I wish to speak of that is in my opinion the worst feature and I believe should be acted upon by the mother association—that is the starter. In no opinion starters are born and not made While I must say they can improve by experience, there are few that have the combination which consists of an honest man with a quick eye and mind and a strong voice, and a thorough knowledge of the rules, with nerve enough to enforce them in a gentlemanly way; should have no friends to favor nor enemies to punish, and when you find such a man price should cut no figure and if associations feel they cannot afford their price let them cut off one purse and pay a first class starter and keep the corn huskers out of the stand. Why, Mr. Editor, it is surprising to look over the men that are trying to start horses. They, or at least some of them, have seen Harry Loper or Frank Walker start and they think it is a snap. and that Loper and Walker are making a fortune and they go into the business by writing all over the country that they are professionals and have a new method of starting and will work cheap to get acquainted, when they actually know nothing about the business and many can never learn. They get up in the stand and are lost as a ship at sea without a rudder. The horses score and score until the crowd begins to manifest its impatience, and then the corn husker gets rattled and says, "go" but he don't know which or they are trotting or pacing, and the lucky man that is off in front is the only one in it.

I have seen starters that you could not tell when they said "go," but if the bell didn't ring the drivers kept on going. You have no protection under such starters, and associations hire such men because they know nothing about them, only they offer to work cheap, when, in fact, they are a detriment to the association if they would work for nothing They should hire good starters and pay them for their work enough to make them a good salary, and encourage good men to become starters. As it now stands associations should be compelled to name their starter on the entry blank they send out, so that drivers may know who will start them, and then, if the starter don't suit, they can enter where there is one that they have confidence in his ability to do the work according to rule, and do justice to all. Also, many secretaries should stop taking conditional entries and holding out inducements for entries; and then, contrary to agreement, send in a suspension to the mother association, when, in fact, the secretary is in the wrong, and has misrepresented the case to the mother association. I believe if the evils I have spoken of could be blotted out, and with some other changes made, the trotting turf would soon be raised to a standard of excellency.
