THE biblical mandate to "judge a man by his lights" should be changed to judge a man according to the torpidity of his liver.

AZURIZAWA RYOCHI NICHOME SANJUKANBOZ KIO-BASHI-KU is the name of a Japanese gentleman who has discovered the secret of photographing in natural colors.

A San Francisco lad in shooting at a target, missed it and hit a Chinaman. This must not be construed as evidence of a malevolent spirit. Accidents are bound to happen and Chinamen are thick.

IT is said that Mr. Cleveland's first inquiries about a candidate for office is whether he is addicted to the use of liquor.—Dover Index.

That enquiry will tangle up the Deleware democrats completely.

FASHION now dictates that at a 5 o'clock tea no two cups and saucers shall be alike. This gives a chance to rake the top shelf of the china closet for remnants of old sets, and it is therefore less foolish than it seems.

IN order to head off the proposed inquiry into the allegations about Senator Roach, of North Dakota, Senator Gorman has proposed to the democratic caucus that a wholesale inquiry into the moral character of all Senators be ordered. The democratic caucus will never favor such an investigation. The risk is too great.

AN effort is being made to save from electro-death young N. Y. Harris, the murderer of his school-girl wife. The plea is made in his behalf that he is educated, intelligent and of family so good as to command a little money. It might also be stated that Harris only married and killed one girl, whereas with his social qualities and his knowledge of poisons he could easily have raised this moderate limit.

EDITOR SHEPARD of the Mail and Express died suddenly under the physician's treatment of ether on Friday of last week. The paper made a simple announcement without the usual black columns, saying that it was not in conformity to the ideas of the late editor to paint grief in black lines. The Col. made his paper proclaim that which to his conscience was right at any cost. He was a moulder of public opinion and not a follower. This far south the Mail and Express has met with a cold reception, but the Southern people are not blind to the gigantic results achieved by the high toned moral sentiments of the paper under its late leader, and honor the man who was so diametrically opposed to political trickery.

CERTAIN advantages a Congressman enjoys which ordinary people do not share. For example let it be supposed that a Senator feels fatigued at the close of an afternoon session. He descends to the basement of the Capitol and has a warm bath drawn for himself in a superb tub of white marble. If he prefers, he can make it a Turkish bath, for which all the appurtenances are at hand. There are attendants skilled in massage who will thump and slap him to his heart's content. For all this he is not required to pay a cent. Perchance a favorite corn has annoyed him during the day. He summons the official chiropodist, a salried expert in government employ, who operates free of charge. If he expects to spend the evening out, he may want a shave and hair-cut, which are readily obtained at the hands of deft-fingered barbers, likewise in the service of Uncle Sam. The hair tonic applied to his locks, the "brilliantine" for his mustache, and the cologne bestowed upon his countenance through an atomizer, are all purchased out of the contingent fund of the Senate. Finally a gratuitous "shine" is put on his boots by a stipendiary boodblack. Among other things which this contingent fund pays for are castor oil, of which any Senator can get a dose for nothing, quinine pills, "pond lily wash," and court plaster. These are but a few of a hundred of such queer things which are enumerated in the accounts of the secretary of the Senate, together with ginger ale by the case and lemons by the box, as being required at government expense for the comfort of that august body. The Representatives at the other end of the Capitol have their barber shop also, but they pay for their shaves and haircuts. For some reason which has never been clearly explained, a Senator is supposed to have need of many more luxuries than are granted to a member of the House. He is allowed a clerk at $2,000 a year, while only lately, for the first time, has it been decided that a Representative may be granted a clerk, so long as the salary of such an assistant does not exceed $100 a month.

The Crime of Possessing Money.

A Pacific slope statesman who has a Governor and knows all about it, contributes to the Californian an article upon current money questions, in which he starts with this solemn announcement: "The interests of the money lender and the masses are in conflict, and the gold standard was adopted at the instance of those who possessed money."

At whose instance else could it have been adopted? What have any of us to do with a standard for measuring anything we do not possess? The yard is adopted as a standard of measurement by those who possess cloth; the acre by those who possess land, the bushel by those who possess wheat. No doubt any other standard would serve as well, if it were generally agreed upon and did not vary. But no farmer would wish to sell his wheat by the jugful, not knowing what fraction of a bushel each jug would contain. Certainly he would not expect "the masses" who possessed no wheat to alter the size of the jug at will, or to measure his wheat with jugs of variable size.

What Mr. Sheldon and the silver agitators generally are really aiming at is that those who have borrowed on a high standard should be able to pay back on a low one. They would pay a bushel with a jugful. And they justify this plan on the theory that the man who owns money is ipso facto a pirate, whom it is their duty to circumvent.

No doubt this irrepressible conflict between the borrower and the lender, the man who has and the man who has not, is as old as society itself.—With all the talk we hear about the "parity" of gold and silver, there never was any long period when the two metals were actually in common use side by side, or when important contracts were not made distinctly payable by some one definite standard, whether it was a ducat or a doubloon, a sovereign or a Spanish milled dollar. And if we could all manage to pay off our debts now in cheap money, the hated money lender would simply take care in the future to lend his money on stricter terms, so that he should be paid by the same standard used in borrowing.

Of course the claim is made that the piratical creditor has locked up all the gold and made it so scarce that he has practically raised the standard and thus is claiming more than he is entitled to. But if he kept his money locked up, how could he be a lender? The present financial position of the United States is a forcible illustration of how little gold will suffice to maintain an indefinite volume of currency, as long as the standard is undisturbed. But no means has yet been discovered by which debts can be paid, even in the cheapest money, by those who possess nothing with which to pay. We could bring about no end of temporary disturbance by changing the standard, but after things had adjusted themselves to the new rule, the relation of debtor and creditor would be just as it was before.—Phila. Times.

Abe Lincoln's Religion.

A fierce newspaper dispute is now going on as to the religion of Abraham Lincoln. It seems to us that it makes very little difference what his religion was or whether he adhered to any particular creed or repudiated them all. He was one of God's chosen instruments for the righting of wrongs and for lifting mankind to higher and better ideals. His life and work were a rebuke to those who fritter away their powers in denouncing their fellow man because they refuse to subscribe to this or that theological fad. Lincoln had no theology but he had plenty of the very best sort of Christianity.—Reading Herald.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

FROM OUR REGULAR CORRESPONDENT.

Washington, March. 27, 1893.

Mr. Cleveland's rules for the government of presidential appointments which have been announced from time to time since his last inauguration, are entirely praise-worthy; but, unfortunately for him and his fame, there is one little draw back to his occupying the proud place in the country's esteem to which such an excellent set of rules would seem to entitle him; he does not live up to them, except in cases where the applicant hasn't "pull" enough to impress him. The rule against the appointment of ex-office holders has been the oftenest re-iterated, but it is now claimed that it was only devised for the purpose of letting down easy a lot of men who held office between '85 and '89, but who have since lost their grip and become inelligible in the eyes of Mr. Cleveland, as a number of "ex's" have already been appointed to some of the most desirable positions.

When Mr. Cleveland was asked by a Congressman to appoint one of the President's forty-eleventh cousins to an insignificant office he became indignant and read the Congressman a scorching lecture on the evils of nepotism, receiving therefore the plaudits of the country, but it did not take long to find out that the rule against nepotism was like all the rest—made to be broken. The knowledge was obtained by an enterprising citizen who filed an application for the U. S. counselship at Sheffield, England—one of the best in the service—now held by Mr. Benjamin Folsom, Mrs. Cleveland's first cousin.—He was informed that the anti-nepotism rule did not apply to "cousin Ben," who was already in office, so that public office is still a family snap, notwithstanding that "public trust" business.

A portion of the reciprocity work of the last administration is soon to be undone. A friend of Mr. Cleveland is authority for the statement that he will shortly withdraw the discriminating duties imposed by Mr. Harrison on coffee and hides from Venezuela, Hayti and Columbia. It will be remembered that these duties were imposed because of the failure or refusal of these countries to negotiate reciprocity treaties with us, and now if they can have the same privileges that countries enjoy which did negotiate reciprocity treaties with us it stands to reason that some of those countries will abrogate the existing treaties by which products and manufactures of the United States are allowed entrance upon better terms than are enjoyed by those of European countries, as countries, like individuals, will seldom pay for what may be had for nothing.

There is nothing like a little firmness occasionally. The republican Senators in caucus positively refuse to sanction the democratic program for the election of new officers of the Senate at an extra session, even when coupled with Senator Gorman's proffered compromise, providing for the election of officers now and their being sworn in July 1, next. It was a matter of principle with the republican Senators; they believed that the unbroken custom of always waiting until the opening of the regular session should be followed by the present Senate, and they notified the democrats that they intended filibustering to prevent the election of these officers, if they persisted in the attempt. The democratic caucus has not officially decided to abandon the attempt to elect officers, but enough democratic Senators have expressed themselves individually to make it almost certain that the election will be quietly allowed to go over to the regular session.

Every new order issued by the administration isn't a reform by a jug full. For instance, the order shutting out visitors to Mr. Cleveland on Mondays, and closing the offices of the heads of departments to visitors on Cabinet days—Tuesdays and Fridays. This is something entirely new and Senators and Representatives are doing some rather hard kicking about it as it only leaves them three days in the week to see the President and heads of departments. This idea does not seem to gee with the claim so often made that this administration was to be nearer to the people than any of its predecessors. No other administration ever found it necessary to shut out the people three days in every week, exclusive of Sundays.—It seems that the "Jeffersonian simplicity" was all exhausted in the campaign.

The first chief of division appointed by Postmaster General Bissel was a republican. He wanted a man who possessed ability and knowledge not to be found in his own party so he was compelled to give the position to a republican clerk in the department, whose resignation of the place he then held was at that time in the hands immediate superior.

There's too much cackling over the alleged economy in dismissing a few employes from the departments.—Wait until the end of the administration and see if it has not spent more money than was spent by the Harrison administration. As the case stands it is a duplication of the "billion dollar Congress" cry which followed the close of the Fifty-first Congress.

CAROLINE DEPARTMENT.

Edited by Edward E. Rogers.

Mr. Geo. Davis has sold his farm to a Mr. Morris. Consideration $1,800.

A roller flour mill is talked of for Preston.

The Preston Dramatic Company will present the highly amusing and intensely interesting drama "Nevada, or The Lost Mine," on Thursday evening, April 6th. On the following evening the company will play "The Lady of Lyons."

During his pastorate on this circuit Rev. John Sewell made many friends. His gentlemanly demeanor, coupled with his earnestness in religious work appealed to the respect confidence and love of not only the members of his church but also to those outsiders, to whom he directed the most strenuous efforts of an enthusiastic nature. He did much good here and his labors are appreciated by the people of this charge. Notwithstanding the evident regret that Mr. Sewell could not remain with us, our people have a warm welcome in readiness for Mr. Wilson, our new pastor, when he shall arrive.

A new millinery store will be opened in Preston about April 1st. The business will be conducted by the Misses Ella Williams and Lillie Bradley.

Mr. Isaac Noble, who has been ill for some time is out again.

As soon as the work of compilation can be completed our readers will be regaled with some very interesting matter concerning the people who resided in this vicinity years ago. The history will embrace such a feature of this transitory life as will render it an interesting article for perusal and will be worthy of preservation as a reference.

Dr. J. R. Phillips is making improvements on his premises and will finally have a neat and comfortable residence.

Mrs. Melvin and family removed from the parsonage to Baltimore this week.

Fresh fish are no more a luxury.

If some enterprising gentleman (or lady) with a few thousands of capital would come to Preston and establish a manufactory we would esteem it a favor for which we would be eternally grateful.

THEORETICAL "HOSS SENSE."

Queer title, that, somebody exclaims. Granted, but it seems to express just the character of the subject matter of the theme. Perhaps before I am done with this department more than a few queer titles will be set in type to be thrown upon a cold world and numerous themes hatched which the prosy, as my Grandfather-used-to-do, literary persons would scorn to waste their talents on, but I believe something may be said on every subject and if nothing is effected criticism may be engendered, and then something must drop!

In this burly-burly world, where wealth social and political preference is the objective point of a surging mass of humanity, those little fellows in the rear end are lost sight of; those laboring men back yonder, who, from necessity or foolish choice have started in the race encumbered with pick and shovel, a mule team and a No. 20 plow, an ax and a wedge, a "stick" and a rule, or a pen and scissors, are soon hidden behind such a cloud of dust as only the lucky few who got the start know how to raise; their enthusiasm soon wanes because of the tax on their physical strength, and some are next found immortalized in epitaphs, while others yet are seen in various institutions founded by the fellows who "got there." To the lucky possessors of those things which constitute success in a worldly sense, the laboring man is a clod, a machine, a nobody. Is this the just estimate of the humble herd of bread seekers? Yes and no. The basic principle of true manhood is a disposition to be somebody regardless of environments. The man whose aspirations are not controlled by the sordid grasping after those things and conditions which are only elevating from a worldly view and then only so long as the conditions remain unchanged, he is the man whose life is used to symbolize the nobility of character, which the wise accept as the realization of the true inwardness of that inspired assurance that "God created man in his own image." Ay! a man. Depravity has so metamorphosed the descendents of that parent stem that we cannot trace the family resemblance.

There are among our laboring classes such men, so accustomed are they to finding obstacles in their path they would be frightened were they to travel half a mile without seeing anything larger than an ant hill. These men are above the scorn and contempt of narrow minded, domineering capitalist, whose standard of a man is dollars. The few opportunities they have are appreciated and they grow in strength character, in morality and intellectuality. There is a place in the world for every man to fill, and when the logic of a will, directed to the accomplishments of the desire of a manly heart, is brought to bear on human life obstacles melt into insignificance, and that place is filled honorably. The laboring man, then, deserves sympathy in proportion to the degree of his disposition to do and the magnitude of the obstacles in his way. The point I desire to reach is this: That he who does manual labor has but to cultivate a taste for good literature, educate his understanding to a sense of his moral duty, and exercise the dignity of a free born American citizen, to welcome that which many would-be tyrants would show wisdom in emulating. Because you are poor in this world's goods does not debar you from seeking advantages and appreciating the evident one of printed knowledge and a God-given mental capacity. Those idle hours may be made profitable to you by employing them in judicious reading and study.

THE LAND OF SUNSHINE.

A Unique Country where the Skies are almost Never Clouded, while the air is Cool and Bracing, like Perpetual Spring.

As an anomalous southern resort, by reason of the fact that there one may escape summer heat no less than winter cold, New Mexico is rapidly becoming famous. Averaging through out the entire territory 5,600 feet in altitude above sea-level, and characterized by dry air which, unlike a humid atmosphere, is incapable of communicating heat, the temperature in midsummer remains at a delightfully comfortable degree through the day, and at night becomes invariably brisk and bracing. The sunshine is almost constant yet the most violent out-of-door exertion may be undertaken without fear of distressful consequences. Sunstroke or prostration are absolutely unknown there. It is an ideal land for a summer outing. Its climate is prescribed by reputable physicians as a specific for pulmonary complaints, and the medicinal Hot Springs at Las Vegas are noted for their curative virtues. The most sumptuous hotel in the west, the Montezuma, is located at these springs. Write to Jno. J. Byrne, 723 Monadnock Block, Chicago, for "The Land of Sunshine," an entertaining and profusely illustrated book descriptive of this region, the most picturesque and romantic in the United States.

To The World's Fair For Nothing.—The Press (New York) is making one of the most liberal offers ever made by any newspaper. It proposes to pay all the expenses of the fifty of the most popular school teachers thirty from New York and Brooklyn and twenty from places other than New York and Brooklyn—to the World's Fair at Chicago.

The excursion will be made on a magnificently equipped train of drawing room, sleeping and dining cars, and the trip will cover a period of about two weeks. The hotel accommodations at Chicago will be first class, the expenses of which, including meals on the way and in the exposition buildings and fares and admission into the grounds, will be paid by The Press.

The selection of the fifty favorites will be made on the ground of popularity, their popularity to be tested by ballots printed in every issue of The Sunday Press

Strength and Health.

If you are not feeling strong and healthy, try Electric Bitters. If "La Grippe" has left you weak and weary, use Electric Bitters. This remedy acts directly on the Liver Stomach and Kidneys, gently aiding those organs to perform their functions. If you are afflicted with Sick Headache, you will find speedy and permanent relief by taking Electric Bitters. One trial will convince you that this is the remedy you need. Large bottles only 50 cents at J. O. Henry & Bro.'s Drug Store.

Some Things Being Done.—In many respects Easton is not New York, but in some few respects it approaches the business centres of trade and industry. Several improvements are now going on, and several industries are booming.

Mr. M. B. Nichols is having placed in his once magnificent front a still more elaborate and handsome one. There will be in the future but one entrance door instead of two. This will make two handsome plate glass display windows where three were before. Mr. Flowers is doing the work.

Siegel & Co. are astonishing the public with their "Great Down Town Department Stores" on Dover St. They have enlarged and connected other store rooms, until they have the appearance of a busy little bee hive all the time. Their stock is as complete as they say it is in their advertisement.

Out at Mr. Hubbard's Canning Factory the roar of the gasoline furnaces and the clatter of the tin handled with wonderful dexterity in the making of tin cans excites the admiration of all visitors They are cutting up fifty boxes of tin per day into thirteen thousand complete cans, some being two pound and some three pound. Four expert seemers do this amount and the cappers and other workmen finish the cans up with the same expertness. Mr. M. H. Swing is the manager of the factory and has introduced some of the most unique and labor-saving devices and economical appliances for the work that has yet been used.

The Wrightson Packing House out near the depot of the Penn. R. R. is also engaged in making up tin as fast as boxes are received. Mr. Wrightson's men are none the less expert than those of the Hubbard Factory and the appliances for converting a sheet of tin into a nicely finished can while one takes a breath are as interesting to observe as at any place. This factory has two hundred and fifty thousand cans to make up for the Farmers Packing Co. recently organized here.

The work on the building of the Ice Factory has begun. The old slaughter house at the north end of Washington street is torn down and the place assumes the role of industry with its adjoining neighbors, the water works, the electric light plant, the foundry and machine shops and the roller process mills.

The large machinery ware house and repair shops of the Geiser Manufacturing Co., Waynesborough, Pa., established here through the indomitable perseverance of Mr. George Wingard, marks an era of new business for Easton. He found that one of the greatest inconveniences of which the people generally of this section labored was the delay and difficulties in having repaired any part of their machines when out of order or broken; an accident or break occurring sometimes at a most critical and busy period causing them great loss in crops and time. This he determined if possible to remedy and with his characteristic enterprise and indomitable energy, he has done so in the most effectual way by opening his large storage and repair shops. In these he will keep in storage, not only the machinery he sells, but a full stock of repairs of all kinds in his line of machinery, and in addition thereto he has secured the services of one of the best, most skilful and competent machinists and mechanics and has fitted out one of the most complete repair shops that can be found outside the large cities. Here one can get repairing of all kinds done at the shortest notice, in the most skilled manner, and also any and all parts of their line of machinery.

To those interested in the class of machinery handled by Mr. Wingard, and all our farmers are, we suggest that they pay a visit to the Peerless Storage and Repair Shops when in Easton, for they will be amply repaid. The company issues a handsome and interesting book of their machinery and of their progress which Mr. Wingard will send to anyone on request.

THE SPRING OPENING

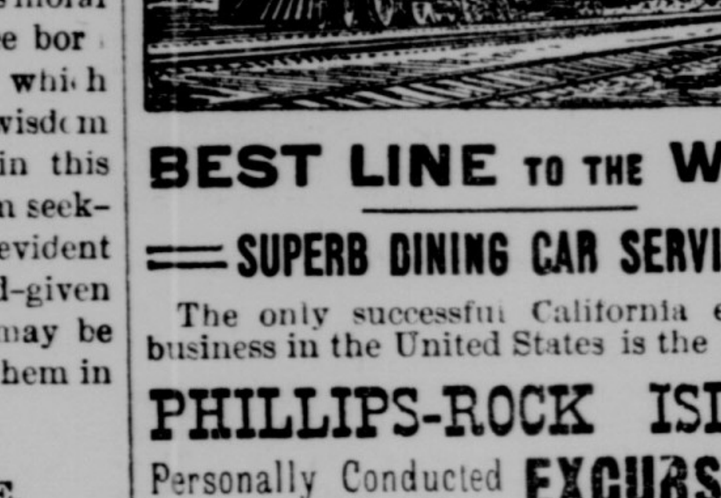

of millinery, dress goods and their concomitants BEGINS TO DAY, and will continue throughout the season at Annie E. Rathell & Co's, Limited.

The Road League.—Last Tuesday the Talbot Co. Road League had an interesting meeting in the Court House. There were many points of interest discussed and an increased enthusiasm seemed manifest. The meeting adopted these resolutions:

"Resolved, That the executive committee be requested to wait upon the County Commissioners, and urge that the supervisors of all this county be instructed to use proper means in draining and mending the roads.

"Resolved, That it is the sense of this meeting, that the Commissioners be requested to instruct the supervisors that no water be allowed to remain on the sides of the roads or in the ditches."

The Bright and Genial Spring

Shuffle off the weighty overcoat Hang up the winter suit

Set your faces and your wishes to Spring Overcoats and Spring Suits.

The hands and the wit of our thousands of workers—cutters, helpers, sewers—have been gathering Spring goods into our house for many days. All ready now—we're glad to say.

Spring promises big for business. We've prepared big. The cloth buying amid the hum of mills, the quiet purchases from cloth makers who hunt us up, the making-up of one, two, five hundred suits at a stroke—interesting and perennially new as the story of how the wool off the sheep's back grows through a hundred processes into its perfect use is to your thoughtful mind—skip it all.

Don't skip this; you'll buy from the manufacturer direct or from a store that buys to sell again. Which will you do? Your dollars are at stake.

Will you buy your $10 suit from us?
Will you buy your $20 suit from us?
Will you buy your Spring overcoat from us?
Silk-lined or not, long or short—we have all.
We can save you 15 to 25 per cent., surely—perhaps more.

The goodness of the Clothing—that's another thing. Stores, like people, make their own reputations. After more than thirty years of selling reliable, all-wool clothing, under guarantee of standing by our goods, we'll not swap horses now. If you buy our clothing, you buy the best.

The prices are the lowest because we sell as well as make the goods. The money saving and the good wear go to you.
