Miss Annie Betson of Greensborough is visiting Miss May Hubbard.

Mr. C. E. Crane and Mr. Victor Valliant of St. Michaels rode to Easton Wednesday on bicycles in less than an hour. These gentlemen were accompanied by Mr. N. S. Bogle of Kent Co. They are representing the Glendon wheel, which they advertise in this issue.

Mr. C. E. Davis is with the Adams Express Company in place of Mr. W. J. Beckwith, who has gone to Norfolk.

J. Hector Mc Neal, Travelling salesman for Wood, Brown & Co of Philida. is home on a visit. He is a young man of experience and ability and is a rousing success as a salesman, visiting only the leading cities of the north and west. He has travelled all over the country two or three times and, to his credit his merited advantages have not made a snob of him.

Forepaugh's Circus.—It came as advertised and did more than advertised. To say the show was a bad one from the standpoint usually taken in speaking of shows would not be telling the truth. It lacked the usual disgraceful crowd of rowdys, and as far as your reporter could judge was attended by a class of respectable and courteous men who were glad to give value received. No drunkenness nor disorderly conduct was noticed the entire day. On the inside the acrobatic features were wonderful and in many respects surpassed other circuses that have exhibited here. The trained and educated horses and ponies of which they had a large number, attracted great attention and won rounds of applause. The "only living Adam Forepaugh" exhibited his living $50,000 pyramid of educated horses with great pleasure. To sum it up, the show was worth the money spent, ten times more than hundreds of others that scour the country.

PREACHERS CONVENE.

MEETING OF EASTERN SHORE PASTORS OF M. E. CHURCH SOUTH, AT EASTON.

What was done and said.—Notes of interest upon the topics discussed.—Other Items.

Like all conventions and meetings held at Trinity M. E. Church, South, the conference of the Eastern Shore Preachers, of the above denomination, proved to be a most brilliant success. The ministers gathered together in convention, that they might discuss the best means and methods of properly performing the duties of a servant of the Lord.

The convention was not called to order until Thursday morning; but on Wednesday evening a preaching service was held. Rev. F. M. Tetten, of Trappe, occupied the pulpit in an able manner. The completeness, interest, symmetry, and charm of his sermon made it seem very short to many minds. Exquisitely told, good news is not well calculated to seem too long at any time. The sermon was well rounded and it would have seemed a work of supperogation to have added a word to the brief scriptural quotation which closed this gem of a discourse, and to which all its paragraphs skillfully, yet easily and simply led as to their climax.

After the service an executive session was held. Organization was accomplished. Rev. Armstrong was elected president and Rev. Lambert chosen secretary. Discussion was held as to the advisability of putting the Circuit Rider on a more substantial footing. Arrangements were perfected whereby the paper will appear under a new management and in an enlarged condition.

The convention was called to order on Thursday morning at 9.30 by Rev. J. E. Armstrong, P. E. After singing and prayer the president announced the convention in order and open to discussion. Rev. Armstrong opened by speaking on "The Outlook." He is one of the oldest ministers of this denomination on the Eastern Shore, and is also a speaker of rare beauty and excellence. He has the faculty of forcibly expressing himself and to bringing his remarks up to a climax that is most interesting. His remarks embraced the work of a long period of years, from the first Methodist conference to the present time. The steady advance of the work, the increased interest and enthusiasm was all pictured in glowing colors by him.—The Outlook, he said, was most flattering, never, in all his ministry, has the church been in better condition. The building of a new church in Easton was referred to in his address and he heartily endorsed and commended the enterprise of this people. Said he, "It will be the agency of inspiring the whole district to renewed activity. May the Lord be with you in this work." The treasurer also received a liberal portion in his remarks. He paid a glowing tribute to the worth of the press in the spreading of the gospel. In concluding his remarks he urged the pastors and people to entertain cordial and fraternal feelings towards all denominations and to try on all occasions to cultivate a broader field of view and work. He was extremely entertaining and much regret was felt when he closed.

At 10 30 Rev. F. J. Griffith opened discussion on "How to make sermons interesting to children." The Rev. Gentleman spoke at length on this all-important subject. He pointed out the necessity of having the children present at the preaching services and adjoined upon the pastors to announce before that a sermon to the children will be preached and subject announced; as subject matter he advised the preaching of the "word," but chose Bible characters that were more interesting to children. Not to use big words that they can not understand but to speak in short words and to employ interresting illustrations. Rev. Mullikin added a few tense remarks to this discussion, also Bro. Harris spoke of his experience in this subject. Kindergarten methods was brought into discussion and some very good views were expressed.

"The Most Successful Revival's" was introduced by Rev. Armstrong. Rev. Griffith added a few words to this subject which added to its general worth. Rev. Harris and Rev. Lambert also spoke on this subject and made it most attractive.

"The Means of Making Pastoral Visiting Effective," was briefly spoken of in the speaker's usual excellent way. It cannot be denied that pastoral visiting is not so much indulged in as it once was, therefore this subject was timely, and Rev. Totten's views were voiced by all present. He called to his support many scriptural quotations. The subject was well handled and proved of great profit. Revs. Harris and Lambert both added to the discussion wisely. General discussion followed.

"The Best Way of Raising Conference Collections" was a subject that was extremely interesting, and on being introduced by Rev. T. J. Lambert gave rise to considerable debate. While all the methods stated are good, your correspondent is inclined to regard Rev. Lambert's methods as the most advisable. He was ingenious in his preparations and carried the subject to a point that made it really appear easier to raise the collections.

General discussion followed upon "Fermented Wine at the Communion Table."—"How to make Prayer Meetings Bright and Winning" was also discussed in a general way. Not hearing these two subjects comment must be dispensed with.

In the evening Rev. C. K. Millikin preached eloquently upon a text taken from Ephesians iii. 8. The sermon was a grand one and established a deep regard for the speaker in the hearts of his hearers. The ministers returned to their charges feeling that the convention had been a source of great good to them as it surely was to those of our citizens who availed themselves of the opportunity to be present. Come again, gentleman you will always be welcome. S.E.S.

The following resolution was adopted by the Eastern Shore Preacher's Convention at the close of the session.

Resolved, That the thanks of the Preacher's Meeting of the Eastern Shore are due and are hereby tendered to Mr. Samuel E. Shannahan, reporter of the Easton GAZETTE and for Easton Democrat, for careful report taken of the proceedings of this meeting.

The annual banquet of the M. E. Church, South, was held last Friday evening, the 5th at the Court House. The occasion was one of great enjoyment to the several hundred persons present, and undoubtedly surpassed all former functions of this kind. Extensive preparations had been made by the various committees and the result of their labors was truly gratifying. Numberless varieties of flowers, artistically grouped, adorned the large room, converting it into a lovely bower of fragrance and beauty. The program of the evening was of a musical and literary nature; without commenting in detail upon it, it can best be described as a most interesting and pleasing one. I cannot refrain, however, from saying that Misses Katie Norris and Lena Anderson sang beautifully, while Rev. Mr. Kesler claimed the attention of all in an address partly humorous, and partly serious. The refreshments were exquisite and, of them, I can not say too much. After all had partaken of the delicacies Bro. Harris requested the refreshment committee to bring ye scribe "another gallon of ice cream." I left the important duty of devouring the cream—in a journalistic manner—to my assistant, Mr. Heathers,—he did honor to the profession. To return to the banquet, it was a pleasant evening, and ranks in the long list of socials given by this church as the most brilliant.

Last Saturday afternoon, the Infant Class of the M. P. Church and members of the Loyal Legion were given a May Party by Mrs. Susie Grasely in one of the pleasant meadows near town. The little ones thoroughly enjoyed themselves and highly appreciated the kindness of Mrs. Grasely. The honor of being crowned May Queen fell upon pretty little Miss Merritt. The children enjoyed themselves in playing innumerable games until they were called to the refreshment table. They made an onslaught in a body and the havoc that was made greatly resembled the work of a cyclone. The refreshments were splendid both in quantity and quality. The little ones will bear me out in this. Mrs. Grasely has given a May party every year, and really deserves praise in her efforts to make the children happy.—Thanks for the kind remembrance of your correspondent. S.E.S.

WYE MILLS.

The colored man that lived with Mr. C. H. Golt at Wye Neck was killed last Tuesday. He was sent on an errand with Mr. Golt's team, and the horses became frightened, ran off throwing the man out, he fell between the wheels and was dragged for some distance; there was still life in the body when found and he lived for several hours after he was taken home. His body was badly bruised.

The Influence of Manual Training on Habits of Thought. An outline.

[Communicated.]

The first manual habit which the school should cultivate is that of attention. A true philosophy of childhood teaches us to supply the early years of school life both objective teaching and manual occupation. Train the child to habits of attention by giving him employment to which he can attend. The school should train to habits of observation. Crude ideas of what constitute observation are too prevalent. Much instruction which is given under the name of "observation lessons" falls short of the real need. Constructive work trains the mind to habits of observation. The pupil observes for a purpose. Manual training is in the elementary and high school what laboratory work is in the college. The school should train to definite and accurate thinking. Loose and shallow thinking must prevail when facts and relations are imperfectly understood. Every teacher knows how difficult it is to get pupils clearly to apprehend the exact thing to be done. Half a class will raise their hands to answer before they really know what the question is. A boy corrects an error in his arithmetic or algebra, and thinks no more about it. He is used to such mishaps. But, when he comes to similar oversights in the work-shop, he finds that his labor is lost and his material spoiled. He quickly learns to work with his faculties alert. The manual training, from paper folding to metal work requires thoughtful attention.

The school should cultivate the æsthetic nature. No one can construct a well finished article in wood or metal without learning better to appreciate good workmanship. No one can execute ornamental designs in wood carving or lathe work without gaining along with the skill in manipulation a corresponding delicacy of thought and feeling. The school should train the executive powers of application. Children gain the power of application very slowly. Too many never gain it at all. The world is full of men who have no power of persistent effort. They are intelligent enough to do good work, but they are restless and unstable. The schools should not only inform the mind, but also invigorate the character. Manual training strengthens the will. It gives force and direction to every mental act. The boy conquers in the work-shop his sluggish tendency to do things carelessly. He learns the lessons of industry, perseverance, genuineness.

Respectfully,

EDMUND DANDRIDGE MURDAUGH.

Resolutions of Respect.—At a recent meeting of the Peninsula Press Association held at Dover, the following resolutions were ordered to be drawn and published.

WHEREAS It has pleased an All-Wise Providence to call from labors to reward our beloved brother, J. Bascomb Clark, therefore be it

Resolved that the members of the Peninsula Press Association have recognized in him a pure minded, noble hearted man whose long connection with them as a brother editor and his deep interest in all that pertained to the welfare of this body endeared him to them.

Resolved that in his untimely removal, this Association submits with becoming resignation to the Divine mandate and deeply feels a loss which will long be borne,

Resolved that we tender to the widow our deepest sympathy in this her unparalleled affliction, and commend her to Him who never fails to comfort those depending solely upon him.

Resolved that the State of Delaware has lost a most valuable editor and an uncompromising champion for good government.

Resolved that these proceedings be spread upon the records of the Association, that a copy be sent to the widow, and the papers of the Peninsula be requested to publish the same.

THE LAND OF SUNSHINE.

A Unique Country where the Skies are almost Never Clouded, while the air is Cool and Bracing, like Perpetual Spring.

As an anomalous southern resort, by reason of the fact that there one may escape summer heat no less than winter cold, New Mexico is rapidly becoming famous. Averaging through out the entire territory 5,600 feet in altitude above sea-level, and characterized by dry air which, unlike a humid atmosphere, is incapable of communicating heat, the temperature in midsummer remains at a delightfully comfortable degree through the day, and at night becomes invariably brisk and bracing. The sunshine is almost constant yet the most violent out-of door exertion may be undertaken without fear of distressful consequences. Sunstroke or prostration are absolutely unknown there. It is an ideal land for a summer outing. Its climate is prescribed by reputable physicians as a specific for pulmonary complaints, and the medicinal Hot Springs at Las Vegas are noted for their curative virtues. The most sumptuous hotel in the west, the Montezuma, is located at these springs. Write to Jno. J. Byrne, 723 Monadnock Block, Chicago, for "The Land of Sunshine," an entertaining and profusely illustrated book descriptive of this region, the most picturesque and romantic in the United States.

SAMUEL PATCHETT & SON.

The Cheap Funeral Directors and Furniture Men of Dover Street.

We wish to inform the public in general that they can either do arterial embalming, cavity embalming or embalm by the new method, and do guarantee that they can keep a body as long as any one who only uses arterial embalming. I will guarantee and can prove that I am the oldest embalmer in Easton, and have never made a failure either. Embalming costs but little, and we wish to give the public the benefit of it. Come and get our prices.
