EDITORIAL CORRESPONDENCE.

AT THE WORLD'S FAIR.

The second week at Chicago still finds the members of the National Editorial Association laboring to see the great exposition and the numerous outside attractions to which invitations had been extended. The management of the Fair asked our secretary, Mr. Page of Illinois, if two thousand complimentary admission tickets would suffice for the N. E. A. "No," he replied, "we want twenty five thousand." He received them. Was also told that our badges would pass delegates and ladies to special trips under the escort of the Fair officials to witness the electric lighting at night and the various wonders not shown to the casual visitor.

The Hotel Mecca at 34th and State streets was our stopping place, and a delightful spot it is. The business meetings of the Association began on Tuesday morning, May 16, and continued for two weeks, using only an hour or two after breakfast. The rest of the time, and it proved too much for many, was devoted to the arduous work of sight-seeing. We have had among other distinguished journalists with us, Gov. Geo. W. Peck of Wisconsin, author of that "Bad Boy" with whom every American reader is acquainted. Mr. Peck has given us some happy speeches.

It would scarcely be the thing in this letter to speak exclusive of the workings, interesting programs, noted men and women of the press, the numerous features of the Association and the work of its entertainment committee, lest the same grow monotonous to the average reader—since it is not the fortune or perhaps misfortune of many to be editors.

To be brief, we see no occasion to find fault. One may add, "of course not, since you are especially favored." But aside from the free entertainments we have received, to theatres, excursions, Buffalo Bills' International Wild West with its rough and tumble elements from all nations—stock yard exhibit and special complementary trains thereto, receptions, trips on the noted whaleback "Christopher Columbus" far out on the lake, the Chicago Fire Cyclorama, numerous other cycloramas, the complexity of the Mystic Labarynth where one is so surrounded by mirrors that a prize is offered if he makes his exit without the means of a guide. Aside from our freedom to these and scores of other attractions both in the grounds and in the city there does not seem to be any desire to extortion on visitors, neither have we heard of one complaint. The city seems to feel she is entertaining thousands of guests from the four quarters of the globe, and numerous opportunities are offered to obtain reliable information and reasonable charges. Polite guards stand everywhere to direct the visitor just where he may wish to go.

The visitor to the World's Fair begins to feel, on entering, the insignificance of himself, the insignificance of a thousand selves, or ten thousand times several selves. He looks at the immense array of mammoth buildings and also sees that to attempt to "do" one would occupy his sole time had he the entire six months at his disposal. The spacious grounds, the multiplicity of walks and avenues, the thousands of people, music, this display and that, all conspire to render him speechless. The Centennial of '76 was simply an introduction to this. The marvellous developement of the world since then could be considered an era of itself, and such it is. While it is true thousands upon thousands of spaces are not yet finished, even some buildings have the "No Admittance" thereon and the work of hammering, painting, unpacking, etc., is progressing on every hand, yet the wealth of continents is there in full glory, the matchless exhibits of more enterprises than could be enumerated on this page are open for inspection. One's inability to absorb the smallest fraction of the show properly is the distressing thought. The Midway Plaisance contains four blocks of exceedingly interesting attractions. The Ferris Wheel is in the center, not finished yet. This wheel will carry 36 large cars filled with people, over 250 feet from terra firma, and will engage the attention of thousands daily. We visited the Indian village, Esquimaux village, Dahomey village, Austrian village, and a score of other villages built in exact representation of the original from which they are copied. At the Turk's village our editorial party were entertained at a Turkish theatre with special performance for our benefit. In the Irish village one has the opportunity of climbing to the top of Blarney Castle. The panorama or cyclorama of the volcano of Kilaueau or the lakes of fire is intensely interesting. In one day a visitor can belt the globe, glance at every nation and its people, visit the poles and see the icebergs, and return as tired as though it had actually been accomplished. Most of these exceptionally expensive foreign attractions outside the buildings of the fair, are extra, from 25 to 50 cents alone. To us they were free, or your editor would have passed them by as there were enough things to occupy his attention belonging to the general grounds.

Someone said, to come to Chicago right would be to carry one's clothes in the pocket-book and money in the satchel. That depends on how one cares to spend. If he is satisfied with all he can absorb and more too it will cost but 50 cents a day for admission, and five or ten cents will take him to the remotest part of the city to his lodging place. Board can be had at any price desired.

The impression given your editor on entering the grounds was that he could see in one day about all that was to be seen. At the close of the day he concluded he did not make a complete success of seeing the whole thing. At the close of the second day he was satisfied it would take a week to see it all, and at the close of the second week he came home in disgust that he had not made a respectable beginning to see the sights. He verily believes it would take a long number of years to see and digest everything worthy one's attention however hard the observer worked.

The various state buildings were inspected, Illinois having a grand one and full of wonders. California, though not fully finished inside owing to the weather and delays of unpacking, will astonish the world, with her fruits and minerals in fanciful display. Maryland, tucked in the extreme north end, surrounded by her sister states, did not look imposing nor did she appear insignificant. On entering the spacious rooms at either wing or centre, the consoling thought was that at least it was finished. No workman invited you to step aside, but lounges and upholstered chairs invited you to be at rest. We have no eulogies to bestow, for we are not asked to criticize the work of the officials and how they expended their money. They might have done better, they could have done worse, but this is true, we saw in no state building which displayed a greater variety of attractions nor gave the visitor a fuller or more comprehensive exhibit. The oyster industry was portrayed, the fishing industry, the grain elevators of Baltimore, the State's coal resources, a model of coal showing colliers at work, hospitals and schools—all that our state can justly take pride in was there, and before having read some of the adverse criticisms from democratic sources, your editor, as a republican, was heaping encomiums on the officials who gave to the citizens of Maryland a building at the World's Fair they need not be ashamed of. One thing they neglected—perhaps intentionally—and that was to display the State's finances and the record of her administration under democratic rule. But they did not fail to give statistic on coal, agriculture, fish, oysters, schools and institutions.

The world's congress of female beauties attracted crowds—and yet just such beautiful women can be met with on the streets of any American city,

We were especially favored with invitations to various entertainments within the city. The Auditorium theatre gave us a performance of America. To those visiting the World's Fair and have limited means, miss the Midway Plaisance, miss the Ferris Wheel, omit Buffalo Bill's program, pass by all other pay attractions, but don't miss America at the Auditorium. McKay's Spectatorium is not yet open, and it may eclipse the sights of America—but, how can it, is the question. There roll before the enchanted observer, the wealth of Spain and the departure of Columbus on the voyage of discovery. Bespangled cavalry and uniformed infantry accompany him—he embarks, the sailors unfurl the sail, the Pinta moves, they waive adieux. Storms are on the mighty deep, and darkness settles on the world of waters, the blinding lightening plays upon the mast head and the small craft is tossed at the mercy of the gale. Ominous clouds roll over and forked lightening and deafening thunder in vain intimidate the mariner; day dawns, the clouds disperse, the waves are quiet. Mutiny arises and Columbus is bound—he promises to return after three days, but as darkness settles again lights move along the distant horizon—day dawns and land is sighted from the mast head. They land—they behold strange beings and return with them to Spain. The georgeous reception of Columbus before the Spanish Court. The other voyages, the landing of the Pilgrims, the history of Jamestown, the building of cities, the revolution, the civil war, the liberation of slaves, the introduction of art, science, learning, the whole panorama of 400 years rapidly and georgeously portrayed on a stage in vivid colors and with 700 moving actors all at one time, crowning the whole with the World's Fair grounds in scenic display, all conspire to make America the grandest spectacle—the most astonishing revelation of the genius of man—the acme of enthusiasm—the focal point for an evening's entertainment in the city of Chicago.

Biscuits and Rolls.—The Phoenix Roller Flouring Mills, Geo. M. Wilson, Proprietor, is making Family Flour, far superior to any on the market. No inferior wheat is allowed to enter the Mill, the result is first class Flour, give me a call. June 3rd, 4t.

CAROLINE DEPARTMENT

Edited by Edward E. Rogers.

While hiving a swarm of bees recently Mr. Frank Thomas was stung so badly as to require the services of a physician.

Rev. James Wilson preached for us last Sunday evening. Mr. Wilson is visiting his nephew, who is our pastor. The Church people welcome him heartily, knowing his zeal in Christian work, and firmly believing that in him they see the personification of Christian character.

Mr. Franklin Davis, who has been very ill for several days, is improving.

Mr. Wm. E. Todd left for Ridgely on Monday last, where he will superintend the erection of Mr. Geo. E. Davis' new dwelling.

The newly elected board of Town Commissioners met on Saturday evening last and organized by electing J. H. Douglass, President and E. E. Rogers, Clerk. W. T. Tuff was elected Chief Bailiff.

Contractor Thomas Carmine is superintending the erection of a dwelling at Harmony for Mr. Curtis Wright.

Mr. Ed. Dixon, who has been visiting his parents, Col. and Mrs. G. G. Dixon, started last Sunday on his return to the Pacific coast.

Miss Sallie Davis has secured a position in a store in Philadelphia.

Our farmers say that they never knew the cut-worms as prevalent as they have been this season.

Our town is gradually improving in appearance, but that seems to be the limit of its enterprise. However, there is talk of widening Railroad Avenue, but talk is cheap over here.

It is said that Mr. Robert Messick, canner at Bethlehem, has contracted for 240 acres of tomatoes for the season's pack.

Mr. Havrecamp, who owns a small farm near Preston, is engaged in willow culture. His willows are planted in an old time mill pond and he is making the business a profitable one.

The Young Woman's Christian Temperance Union of Preston, held a public meeting in the M. E. Church on Wednesday evening, May 24th, when they were reinforced with eight new members. Miss Annie Stewart of Chestertown, made a very interesting address. Addresses were also made by Dr. J. L. Noble and Mr. Walter Sparklin.

The "Y" will observe "Flower Mission Day."

Exchange Milling.— Geo. M. Wilson guarantees better flour in exchange for wheat than any other mill, as I put all the Best Patent, in with the exchange flour, which gives it a rich creamy color, and is all the life of good flour, every barrel is made to grade with sample, from one of the leading Mills of the world. je3 4t.

Early Rising.—Those who are opposed to early rising—and as time goes on the numbers seem to increase—will learn with interest the opinion of a German Doctor who has been collecting information about the habits of long lived persons and finds that the majority of long livers indulge in late hours. At least eight out of ten persons over eighty never went to bed till well into the small hours and did not get up till late in the day. He considers that getting up early tends to exhaust the physical power and to shorten life; while the so-called invigorating early hours are, he thinks, apt to produce lassitude and are positively dangerous to some constitutions. This explodes the old maxim of early to bed and early to rise.

13 Years Practical Experience.—Personal polite and prompt attention given every customer at Geo. M. Wilson's Roller Flouring Mills, a big Stock of flour always on band, at Rock bottom prices for Cash. Je. 3 4t.
