EXPORTS of gold last week reach $6,000,000, perhaps more. "Coming events cast their shadows before."

POLITICS is entertaining the average Talbot democrat now to a remarkable degree. The plums are ripe and suffering to be gathered.

HICK'S weather predictions for June have been verified so far. He says the regular storm period will be from the 20th to the 25th, and that the month will end warm and stormy.

THE owners of the Star have organized a stock company with a paid up capital of $5000. It will all be taken in a few days as if not already gone. Those who control it are Messrs. J. F. Turner, E. H. Roe, R. F. Walker, C. E. Shannahan, Wm. Reddie and Wm. T. H. Lee.

THE Gotham waiters are circulating petitions among these whom they serve, asking for the withdrawal of the anti-whisker restrictions on the part of the hotel managers. Accompanied by an "anti-tip" amendment these petitions would doubeless carry everything before them.

IN the national convention of editors held at Chicago recently, the country newspaper man demonstrated his right to stand as a teacher of the people. His readers are exactingly critical, the more so because he is personally known to them all. Individually, he is a power in the community in which he lives; collectively he is a power in the nation.

ONLY a few days ago the newspapers were talking about the close approach to the dimensions of the Great Eastern of the new steamer Campania, the former being 690 feet long, and the latter 620. Now comes the White Star Line with plans for a ship to be rightfully called Gigantic whose total length will be 809 feet and whose speed will be 27 knots. Such a craft should cross the Atlantic in four days and eight hours.

LIZZIE BORDEN'S trial has engaged the attention of most reading people throughout the country and it is not unfrequently the case that the corner grocery has its arguments for and against the prisoner with a jury of listeners to decide the case. Such has happened in this town several times and some of the best attorneys arguing. They mostly plead the cause of the accused and will clear her on the evidence before the Court.

THE President has been hunting and when he loaded for game about the size of the District Collector of Internal Revenue there was posed some conspicuous figures in Talbot as well as elsewhere who would have fallen at the first shot had the gun been trained in that direction. But the whole charge landed in the head of Hon. Murray Vandiver of Harford county. This is said to be a good appointment, and we will not attempt to dispute it. The disappointed game are posing for the next load that will come within the radius of their ambitions. It is sweet to be shot by a presidential charge of high class office powder.

MONEY is very hard to get hold of. Our banking institutions are doing less discounting than they have for a long time past. The complaint is general. Good paper can scarcely find a market save in the pocket of a shark who fleeces it. Why are things thus? It may be local for a moment, an affect an agricultural community sooner than a manufacturing one, but the great cause is general. The money question—the silver and gold problem—is yet unsolved and this country is being tossed by financial storms to her ultimate ruin if legislators backed by the demands of an intelligent people do not solve the difficulty and give us a safe and sure financial policy.

OVER-SEA telegrams tell us that Princess May of Teck, who is shortly to wed the Duke of York, will have all of her trousseau made from British and Irish materials, thus giving employment to her country people.—This is a very good example, and it is being followed here. Vanderbilt goes to the yard which built the pirates launched to burn our merchant ships and whalers for his yacht. It will not hurt him here, and has already facilitated "tuft hunting" in England Another man who bears a name once honored here for patriotism and public services buys a second-hand English yacht, taking work from American mechanics, and it seems that the New York Yacht Club will accept this as their flag ship. All of these claim to be the highest type of Americans.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

FROM OUR REGULAR CORRESPONDENT.

Washington, June 11, 1893.

"There's a curse upon the building ever since within its walls the great Lincoln was stricken down by the cowardly assassin, and if I had my way it should be entirely demolished and the ground be forever left unbuilt upon." Thus spake an old man standing in front of Ford's old theatre, who had witnessed the assassination of Lincoln and who also saw some of the harrowing and heartrending scenes which followed the collapse of the floors of the same building, last Friday, causing the death of twenty-two and the injury of sixty-eight employees of the Surgeon-General's office. It seems incredible, but it is nevertheless strictly true, that nearly 500 men should have been compelled to work in this building which as long ago as 1866 had been condemned as unfit for use and unsafe, and the knowledge that there are a number of other buildings occupied by the government that are no better but adds to the horror felt by the people of Washington at the awful and needless slaughter of human beings. Money has been freely contributed by our people for the families of the dead and wounded, and an army court of inquiry is engaged in locating the personal responsibility, likewise a coroner's jury; but it lies where neither of them can reach—in Congress, which has repeatedly refused to provide proper quarters for these and hundreds of other government employees. A similar accident is liable to occur any day at the Government Printing Office, a building known to be unsafe and yet daily occupied by nearly 3000 men and women; and the Winder building, occupied by a branch of the War Department has also long been in an unsafe condition, likewise a portion of the Patent Office and an annex to the Post Office Department. Perhaps this terrible disaster will have the effect of awakening Congress to its duty in providing safe and proper quarters for the employees of the government. If it doesn't one far more terrible will occur some day.

Mr. Cleveland is the first President since Buchannan to publicly plead the baby act, and the sight is humiliating to every man who admires pluck and bravery. Instead of making use of the means provided by wise republican legislature years ago for such contingencies, to relieve the financial distress, he says in effect: "I did'nt make this financial stringency and I will take no step towards relieving it, unless expressly authorized by Congress, which is responsible, so to do." Nice language for a President, isn't it? Please understand that there is no politics in this question; it is one of business strictly, and republicans are ready and willing to support and uphold the President in any and every effort he might make to relieve the country, but it is difficult to see how any man can uphold him in pleading the baby act. That neither he nor his Secretary of the Treasury are financiers is already well known, but they might at least have been wise enough to have taken advantage of the safeguards provided by law, instead of leaving the country to drift until Congress meets. Mr. Cleveland is apparently so blinded by his anxiety to compel the repeal of the Sherman silver law that he can see nothing else, and his blindness is little short of a public misfortune.

Now that those eminent free traders, David A. Wells and Edward Atkinson, have succeeded in naming the chief of the Bureau of Statistics—Worthington Ford, of New York,—it is to be hoped that they will not insist upon having the statistics prepered by that bureau doctored so as to make arguments in favor of free trade, but it is probably too much to hope from such sources.

A large force of pension examiners are to go over the papers in every pension granted under the act of 1890, for the avowed purpose of discovering how many of these pensioners can be dropped under Secretary Smith's recent ruling as to a portion of that law. Another purpose will thus be accomplished that is not avowed, but which is thoroughly understood here, the number of original pensions that were granted will necessarily be considerably lessened while these Examiners are putting in all their time going over old cases.

Mr. Cleveland doesn't turn down all the democrats who have spoken slightingly of him—if he did the mugwumps would get all the offices. Mr. Jacob F. Child of Missouri, who was minister to Siam, "when Cleveland was on earth before," as Col. Cockerill irreverently speaks of Cleveland's first administration, has been appointed counsel to Hankow, China. Mr. Child spoke his opinion very freely of the President during the first week of the administration, on account of the "ex" rule, which by the way, has been broken so often that nobody thinks of it now, and remarked of him publicly the day he left Washington for Missouri: "I helped to place the laurel on his brow, and I'll be here again to lay the bay upon his bier." H.

CHICAGO CORRESPONDENCE.

REGULAR WEEKLY LETTER FROM

W. D. B. AT FAIR GROUNDS.

The fiat has gone forth that the gates of the White City must be closed on Sundays. After arguments pro and con, the judges of the United States court granted a perpetual injunction restraining the World's Fair commissioners from keeping "open house" on the Sabbath day. There have been two injunctions granted in this famous litigation on the same question, one for and the other against Sunday opening, but as the United States court is the higher authority, that injunction will stand, unless set aside by the United States circuit court. We presume now there will be much rejoicing among those straight-laced, puritanical believers, as likewise there is among that other sanctimonious class, the saloon keepers of the city of Chicago. It is not often that religion and he-of-the-cloven-foot so unanimously agree.

The financial managers have been struggling under a heavy load with a hope that open Sunday would bring the balance on the right side of the ledger, but now they must needs find other means to swell their revenue to offset this unwise decision.

We wish good luck to the Duke de Veragua, who has just left us, on his journey to his native land. It looks as if Chicago citizen's would be kept entertaining distinguished personages all the year, for with the going of the Duke, the arrival of the Princess Eulalia is announced. You good women folk, who are accustomed to have your morning work all done, and dinner over by 1 o'clock, will perhaps be astonished to know that this same Princess was entertained at breakfast by the Mayor of Chicago and the engraved invitation fixed the hour for this meal at half after twelve midday. What would you think of being escorted to a breakfast held at 1 o'clock p. m. and in order to get to the festival hall you are obliged to walk on a carpet strewn with thousands of pansies? Such was the pathway made for her of nobler blood, and the invitation bidding her enter the portals of the White City was engraved on a plate of solid gold, inclosed in a double case of red silk and morocco. Electric lights and pyrotechnics all lent their aid to make night as day when this princess visited the fair.

Tall oaks from acorns grow, and so with the post office department established within the grounds. Washington officials did not think it would amount to much. In May over 2,500,000 letters (domestic and foreign, were despatched and received, while the valve of the money orders issued and paid exceeded $25,000—pretty good for a beginning and a very dull month at that.

Maj. Handy has in a measure acknowledged his obligations to the press outside of Chicago, as evidenced by the fact that the Illinois Press Association who are visiting the fair this week, have at last been provided with the necessary passports during their stay. Perhaps it's "better late than never," but it would have been better if the department of which he is the head had never heard of him.

The attendance last week was large when compared with the previous weeks; this is partly accounted for by the almost perfect weather, and the presence on Thursday of the princess Eulalia. What crowds, however would attend if the railroads would reduce their rates and the Fair management stop their quarreling, and see to it that the exposition and all its appurtenances were finished at once!

Herr Krupp exposed to view enough armament to storm the city of Chicago, and he enjoys the rightful distinction of having constructed the largest gun in existence.

Slowly but surely the exhibits in all departments are taking form, and the departments of electricity, mining and liberal arts, evidence quite marked improvement in the ways of installation over last week.

Perhaps one of the most interesting exhibits is that in the fisheries building. This is attested by the crowds who gather two and three deep in front of the glass cases, which confines within them specimens both common and rare of the finny tribe; and adjacent thereto and reached by a corridor, supported by corinthian pillars, is the building wherein are housed not only the products of the deep, in the way of canned goods, but also the nets, boats, lines and even models of the fishermans' houses.

Truly the exposition is a city of magnificent distances and the management cannot put into execution any too soon the contemplated order for more settees and commence the donkey service of locomotion between the buildings.

Mothers, bring your boys and girls and let them see the fair, and if they or you get tired, just take them to the children's building, receive a baggage check for them, and go on your way rejoicing. On your return you will find they have been kindly treated and tenderly cared for, and ten to one if they don't cry for more next time you come. I know it is novel, but it's safe, convenient and restful. Try it.

The tenants of the Midway plaisance have about resolved to join in the selection of a chief to represent them officially before the directors. They have been outrageously treated by the management and think this way will solve the difficulty.

To those who hold photographic passes, and who sometimes imbibe a little too freely, take warning from the following: One in that condition was seen by the guards apparently in great physical and mental agony. On inquiry if they might assist him, he looked at them with half closed eyes, shook his tangled locks, and said: "It's all right, I want to go into the fair, and I am just trying to shape myself up, to look like the picture on my pass." They let him in.

The little electric road, running inside the grounds, had a motely crowd last week for passengers.

The railroad management had invited all the citizens of the plaisance to take a ride, and they seemed to enjoy the outing hugely.

COUNTY GLEANINGS.

Gossip From Various Points Collected by Faithful Reporters.

WYE MILLS.

Mr. E. H. Eshleman met with a very narrow escape on Tuesday last, while making ice-cream he was caught in some part of the machinery, his clothes were badly torn but fortunately for him the machinery broke and he was rescued after receiving a slight wound.

Miss Rose Mullikin went to Baltimore last Saturday and returned Sunday.

Children's Day will be observed here Sunday next the 17 inst. All are welcome.

School will close on Friday and our teacher Miss Zenolia Miles, will leave on Monday for her home in Somerset county.

Prof. Chaplain and Mr. G. C. Moore were here on Monday morning last to inspect the new school house.

ROYAL OAK.

Rev. Jeremiah Pastorfield, a former pastor on Royal Oak Circuit of the M. E. Church, but now located in Washington, D. C., has been in the community since June 10th.

Our village school was closed on Thursday as Miss Robinson was ill. The vacation began yesterday.

At the Children's Day service in Ferry Neck on Sunday afternoon the program used was the one prepared by Dr. Payne and the speakers were: Introductory Address, Miss Annie Benson. Columbia, Miss Florence Newnam. Guards—Masters Ball, Harper and Leonard, and Misses Newnam, Denny and Leonard. The exercises were both effective and patriotic.

The Royal Oak School used a program entitled "Among the Birds." The idea was brought out throughout the service. Among the most appreciated items were: A Recitation by Emily Hunt, The Bluebird's Temperance Song by Linnie Kilmon, and a Duet by Lizzie and Mary Kilmon. The decorations were very simple but at the same time beautiful. Many persons have said that this was one of the most successful Children's Day services ever held in this church.

Mr. Pastorfield lectured on "Opportunity" in the Ferry Neck Church on Wednesday evening, but had a very small audience.

Rev. Jas. H. Lightbourne of Fourth avenue M. E. Church, Brooklyn, is spending a few days with us, and will probably preach in the M. E. Church tomorrow evening.

Rev. Jere. Pastorfield will preach tomorrow at 10:30 A. M. at Royal Oak and at 3 P. M. in Ferry Neck. The probationers will be received into full membership at these services.
