THE three democratic journals of this place are into a spicy logomachy. We hope it will not result as did the small fracas in a bar room on one occasion. The keeper was sweeping off the pavement when a passer-by asked where all those mashed grapes came from. "Them," said the sweeper, "them is eye balls, we had a fracas here last night."

IF our American locomotive builders continue to make as much progress in the future as they have during the last few years, England will soon cease to have the reputation of running the fastest trains in the world. The record of a mile in thirty five seconds, made by the New York Central's new Columbian engine No. 999, makes that locomotive the champion flyer of the world.

INDIA is all agog over a rain-maker, an Englishman, whose apparatus consists of a rocket, capable of rising to a height of a mile, containing a reservoir of ether. In its descent a parachute-like attachment opens out, and causes the apparatus to descend slowly. At the same time the ether is thrown out in a fine spray. The absorption of heat by the ether is said to lower the temperature of the surrounding air sufficiently to condense the vapor, and hence cause rain.

"THE mission of the gospel is the building of a divine manhood: the purifying and perfecting of life so that robust spirituality may be developed. The human soul is more precious than church or temple, and the inner voice is more infallible than doctrine and dogma. The crucial religious test must be spiritual life and purity, rather than mechanical doctrine, because living, breathing man is of far greater moment than the dry bones of past ages."—Henry Wood.

SHEPP'S Photographs of the World is a wonderful book. It cost $100,000 to put it on the market. It contains over two hundred beautiful photo-engravings printed from half-tone plates with brief description of each, and arranged like an album. To describe it is impossible, to see it is to admire. This comment unsolicited but a poor expression of the magnificence of the work. The Globe Publishing Co. 723 Chestnut st. Phila.

As incidentally mentioned in the last issue of the GAZETTE that Col. Thos. H. Hodson of Crisfield, so well known throughout the State, has received the degree of LL. D. from the Dickinson College of Carlysle, Pa., recently, yet a more extended notice would perhaps be appreciated since the honored gentleman is at present struggling so valliantly in the Federal Courts for the maintenance of the rights of Maryland in the Pocomoke Sound under the compact of 1785.—His long connection with intricate questions of equity in state matters has conspicuously placed him before the people, and it will be gratifying for all to know that they are being represented by a man of such marked intelligence that one of the first Colleges in the country has honored him with her highest diploma.

THE Ledger sees fit this week to pay its respects to the other papers of the town separately and distinctly.—To the articles dedicated to the others we have naught to say out loud, but to the article which trys to pervert the GAZETTE'S language into saying "that the legislation of the Republican party—the McKinley tariff law and the Sherman Silver law has brought the country into troubled waters,—to the verge of ruin," we will notice. The GAZETTE said nor implied no such thing. The financial question is not partisan, democrats, republicans, prohibitionists, greenbackers, mugwumps, and woman suffragists all disagree within themselves as well as other parties on the financial question. The trouble the country is experiencing is not because of McKinley nor Sherman so much as because the present powers have not and dare not disturb the existing laws, and it is this weakness on their part, this lack of ability to inaugurate a better system, this failure to command the respect of financial and business men, that virtually intimidates the wheels of progress, and have caused the "troubled waters"

THE observance of the Christian Sabbath is a question that commends itself to the American people of to-day. It has claimed the attention of the courts recently and has caused great differences of opinion among the masses. The clergy principally holding to the closing of the World's Fair on Sunday and the press largely maintaining that it is right to have it opened. Education has been more potent to shape the convictions of the masses to a "proper" observance of the day than has inspiration or Divine mandates. And since Education knows no bounds it is natural that different individuals and communities differ in regard to the keeping of the law, which aside from the Mosaic command to "Remember the Sabbath Day and keep it holy" is largely the result of man's doctoring to enforce his ideas of righteousness upon his fellow man. So widely did people differ upon the meaning of "remembering the Sabbath Day" and so hard did they strain at gnats and swallow cammels, that it was once unlawful for a physician to attend the sick on the Sabbath unless life itself was in danger. To kindle a fire on that day, to extinguish one, to leave the house the day before the Sabbath with a pen or needle "lest he should forget to lay them aside" were flagrant violations of the law. "One might have carried a bundle upon one shoulder but been a transgressor if, on the Sabbath, he slung his bundle between two shoulders, or on the other hand if he carried a loaf in the public street it was unlawful, but if two carried it well and good. So it is and was and probably will be for a long time that man will dicker and differ with the Sabbath laws and his education every time will be responsible.

If men would only learn that "the Sabbath was made for man and not man for the Sabbath," that "if thou dost well thou shalt be accepted," that it is not every one that saith "Lord, Lord" but he that "doeth the will" of the Father is alone good and that the will of the Father can only be known through the Father himself and not through man, then would the world be better.

If the heart of the man is defiled thereby, or by attending the World's Fair on the Sabbath he causeth his brother to stumble, then is it evil to attend on that day. The heart is the temple of the living God and man is accountable for his acts to him who made him. The laws that men make are judged from the human standpoint only and may or may not be holy and infallible guides to righteousness.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

FROM OUR REGULAR CORRESPONDENT.

Washington, June 18, 1893.

If there is any one class of government employees who ought to be absolutely secure in the positions they hold, no matter how often or how radical the change in the administration and heads of departments, surely the Union veterans should be that class, particularly the crippled ones. This is not a matter into which politics should enter at all. Long ago Congress enacted a law stating in the most explicit language that these men should be given preference in all branches of the civil service, but I am sorry to say that this administration has violated that law right along whenever some position, outside of the classified service, which was held by a veteran was wanted for a democrat, and not satisfied with that Assistant Secretary Simms, took advantage of the lack of appropriations by the last Congress, which made the dismissal of sixty-eight clerks from the General Land Office necessary, to dismiss a number of crippled veterans among them. It was a needless act of cruelty, and it doubtless seemed all the harder to the Union veteran who had left a leg or an arm on some battle field to know that he has been discharged from the service of the United States, for which he fought by an ex-confederate, who at the same time was fighting against it.

Two of these crippled veterans, with only two legs between them, who were dismissed called upon Assistant Secretary Simms, who himself lost a leg on the Confederate side, to ask for reinstatement, and if the conversation which was reported to me as having taken place between them really did occur, and I believe it did, the veterans certainly had insult added to the injury which had previously been done them. When they pleaded for reinstatement because of their crippled condition preventing them earning livings for their families outside of the government service Mr. Simms told them that there were many crippled ex-confederates who had to earn their living without employment from the government and without being helped out by pensions from the United States. Your correspondent does not believe in reviving or keeping alive the prejudices of the war, but he does think that the treatment meeted out to these Union veterans is an everlasting disgrace to this administration. The son of a confederate officer said of the discharges of Union veterans: "These men gave four of the best years of their lives to the preservation of this government, and if I had my way it should be high treason to dismiss one of them."

It is rumored that Mr. Cleveland has concluded to call the extra session of Congress earlier than September, but members of the Cabinet deny that any change has been made in the program or is likely to be made. The pressure from New York city is particularly strong for an immediate extra session, but no one here expects it to meet before September.

The verdict of the coroner's jury which is trying to locate the blame for the Ford's theatre disaster, is expected early this week.

Although the officials at the State Department still maintain a silly air of mystery about the resignation of Minister-Paramount Blount, the man who achieved more notoriety in one minute, by lowering the American flag in Hawaii, than he had been able to get in all his previous life, there is little doubt that he has resigned and that his successor has been selected. He never would have been made minister at all except to attempt to legalize the illegal acts he performed while acting as "my personal representative," a position unknown to the constitution or laws of the United States. There are reasons for believing that his resignation was not voluntary, but was requested by the administration for several reasons, chief of which is its anxiety to crawl out of the awkward position in which Blount's acts, while acting under its carefully prepared instructions, have placed it.

The democratic Congressmen have forced Postmaster-General Bissell to get down from the high horse upon which he climbed in the early days of the administration, and it no longer requires charges against republican fourth-class postmasters to get their places for democrats. The edict has gone forth that all republican fourth class postmasters must go, and it is now only a question of how soon Maxwell can make the preparations for the decapitation act. It no longer requires any other endorsement than that of the democratic Congressman from the district to get a democrat appointed fourth class postmaster. This pleases the democrat Congressman immensely and republicans raise no objection; it it only the mugwumps who are unhappy because of the melting of the P. M. G's. mugwump backbone.

CHICAGO CORRESPONDENCE.

REGULAR WEEKLY LETTER FROM W. D. B. AT FAIR GROUNDS.

Kaiser Wilhelm could not have picked out a prettier day for his subjects and friends to celebrate the anniversary of his birth the 15th of June, and if he had been present at the celebration in this city and the Fair, his heart must have swelled with gratitude and joy to know that if his people so honor him while living how much they will revere his memory when he shall have passed away. It was meet that the Germans should set apart this day and keep it as they did. Many of the business places were closed, and the flags and banners played an important part in the decorations. But such a parade! Streets were blocked and travel impeded, and all because everybody joined with the sons of the fatherland in making the day one long to be remembered. Singing societies, instrumental music, speech-making all were called in requisition, and at night the festivities were concluded by a magnificent display of fireworks.

The weather has been delightful, and large crowds have taken advantage of it. The turnstiles record the biggest weekly attendance yet.

We have long been accustomed to see Bunker Hill monument in granite, but when we behold the same, as was the case Saturday night, as one immense obelisk of fire, words seem inadequate to describe it. Massachusetts is always to the front, even when it comes to brown bread and baked beans, but she fairly outshone herself at the celebration given in commemoration of the revolutionary battle. The Governor of the Bay state and staff arrayed in all the trappings of pomp and ceremony were on hand to keep things from getting dull.

Would that foreign lands, if they have any more people of royal lineage for our "400" to entertain, send us such amiable, agreeable, democratic princes and princesses as were Eulalia and her husband. She was here such a short time, and yet among all she made hosts of friends. The dedication ceremonies in the Spanish building were rendered more interesting because of her presence.

Ex-President Harrison, Gov. Matthews and many other distinguished Indiana sons, were present at the dedication of the Hoosier's state building. The structure is very comfortable looking, with its broad verandas and spacious halls, and is altogether one of the most inviting and home-like among the many state buildings.

Matters are gradually but surely shaping themselves in the installation of exhibits, and so much has been accomplished in the manufactures building that now Chief Allison can get his much needed rest. This, the largest building in the world, is now completely installed and it is a fair in itself. The Italian section shows much from the land of the bandits and very dainty and pretty is the workmanship of the displays made. France seems to have set the pace for other nations to follow, for surely it would seem that she had left nothing out. It is magnificent almost beyond description.

There is no need for many who did expect to come to the fair to stay home because of the false reports that have gone out concerning the cost of living here. When a good clean room can be had for $1 per day per person, and in some cases less, and meals from 25 cents up, there is no necessity for people remaining home because of these reports. They are absolutely groundless. So come and bring the children and have a good time, for world's fairs don't occur every year.

The King's Daughters and Sons discussed the subject of social and moral reform last week in the art palace, and we don't know any better place to put their teachings into practice than right here in Chicago.

The women of Arkansas deserve great credit and praise for the perseverance and pluck they have exhibited in the finishing of their home, without the aid of the legislature of their state. We Yankees who have never been south only know by tradition of the many beautiful women who reside south of Mason and Dixon's line. At the dedication of the Arkansas building this tradition was made real, for the presence of many beautiful southern women helped to make the exercises more interesting than they otherwise would have been.

"The King of Glory Shall Come In." So sang the chorus in rendering Handel's "Messiah" before an audience of thousands in festival hall. They were assisted by an orchestra of over 100 instruments, under the able leader ship of Prof. Tomlins, and the phrasing, execution and technique of the soloists, especially the tenor Edward Lloyd, was a great pleasure to listen to.

All the big bugs connected with the fair and many other prominent people endeavored to make the leave taking of the British commissioners one long to be remembered and as pleasant as possible in the reception given in their honor.

The junketing trip of the Illinois Press association was a success in every way and the reception given in Illinois state building was everything that could be desired.

While fakirs in all lines are numerous, there is an especial pestilential multitude of those selling pictures, maps and guide books of the grounds. They cry them into your ears at the railroad stations, boat landings, and at the gates outside the grounds, falsely shouting the "Official Guide." If the visitor will bear in mind that there is but one "Official Guide" that it is the only guide sold within the grounds, and await entering the grounds before purchasing, he will avoid a petty imposition. As the genuine "Official Guide" sells for 25 cents, there is not much at stake, but it is just as well to avoid even a small swindle by the outside fakir, if you care for a guide book at all. The genuine guide book is an especial aid for those who wish to make rapid work of seeing the fair.

ATTENTION FARMERS.

WE ARE IN THE FIELD THIS SEASON with the best and most complete assortment of Implements and Machinery ever offered on the Eastern Shore. First come Plows, and the "Bissell" leads them all in lightness of draft and best work in all conditions of land. Next comes the "Oliver" pattern plow manufactured by Bissell, which is, we claim, superior to any Oliver sold; this plow we have sold a great many of during the past and present seasons and can give a host of references supporting our claim. Lastly comes the "Advance," which is too well known to need any comments. Of the Harrows we are selling the complete line made by D. M. Osborne & Co., including Spring Tooth, Spike Tooth; and Disc—the Spring Tooth especially being the grandest thing of its kind ever put on the market. One of them last winter sold at a sale for $16 which was within $2 of what it cost originally, the bidding having commenced at $10.

In Corn Planters we have the U. S. Combined Check Row Corn Planter. This Planter uses a plunger direct from the check row rod to the rotary seed plates and does away with all the shakebar and center irons between the seed boxes. A single pin spring anchor is furnished with the U. S. and with their use the wire can be drawn the same tension at each end of the field, thereby insuring great accuracy in planting.

Our Sulky Cultivator is the "Akron," which is already at the top of the heap both as a cultivator and as a fallow worker.

We are still selling the Osborne Binders and Mowers, which are most reliable, and also the Empire Binders and Mowers, which are new to this section, but have more good points than any machine ever sold.

Farm Wagons—We are handling the "Jackson" and "Auburn." The Jackson is the old Webster very much improved and no one should think of buying a wagon without seeing them. To continue to enumerate all the good things that we have would take up so much of your time that we will cease with the assurance that no matter what you may want we believe we can suit you from a shoe peg to a traction engine.

P. S.—Barb Wire is lower than ever before. Do you need some? We have a large supply.

E. T. NICOLS.
