WE must pray in the Spirit, sing in the Spirit, and preach in the Spirit. When I have sometime heard the clerk say "Let us sing to the praise and glory of God," I have wondered whether it was not far more to the praise and glory of the organ or of the singing-pew, and when this is the case what a mockery it is? Only that music is sweet in God's ear which comes from the heart, and only that praise is accepted which is the work of his Spirit in the soul."—Spurgeon.

EIGHT years ago this week the GAZETTE enlarged to a nine column paper, placed a new head especially engraved at the top of its first page, improved its typographical appearance, while the present editors placed their salutatory before the public and entered the journalistic field. They have had the trials incident to a business that was antagonized on every hand by both fair and unfair competition. They have seen a rival paper issued on the same day in order to break up the GAZETTE, spread its wings and flourish. They have seen other papers issued within the radius of the same circulation rise and fail, and the ripples of their coming fading away with time. But the GAZETTE does not wish to draw comparisons that may reflect unfavorably on any, it has good will for all and wants all to succeed far more than any have yet done.

Our readers know what we are and have done toward advocating the right and censuring the wrong whenever we could, and we will not give a nauseating review of our few virtues and leave untouched the many shortcomings that lie behind. All we have to say on the subject is that we hope to long continue to serve our patrons and make the GAZETTE a still better and brighter paper as the years of experience are added to our efforts. It is now one of the oldest papers in the State, and the oldest in this county, and we propose to prove that it is still in its vigorous prime. To do this we recognize the fact that business principles must vitalize any healthy enterprise. Too much sentiment creeps into country journalism. The thriving city dailies are paid for every paper before it leaves the office, and the same for all advertising done before it is inserted. While it is impossible to be so strict in a small community, it is possible to do better.—There are many subscribers, who are "as good as gold" who are years in arrears. We are carrying a load of accounts that if paid would lift us out of debt. Is it strange we need money when we have obligations to meet that demand money?

We will thank all who are owing us to stop a moment and consider if it is not possible to in some way cancel the indebtedness very shortly, for if they do not the work of the paper and its usefulness will be impaired to that extent.

DEMOCRATIC primaries a week from to-day.

THE wells being driven for the ice company of Salisbury are now 300 feet deep. A number of small ocean shells and pieces of petrified fish have been taken up at this depth.

THE talk of a dollar's worth of silver in a silver dollar is rather nonsensical, considering the varying value of the metal. The size would have to be changed every day.

THE "Kansas Cyclone" is here, and is kicking up the dust before him and leaving a whole regiment of knocked down arguments behind him. Have the older parties no David to send after this Prohibition Golliath?

THE Mail announces that one of its editors, Hon. J. F. Turner, is a candidate for State Senator on the Talbot Democratic ticket this fall. Newspaper men ought to run this country anyhow—there is nothing fittin' in other people.

DOES Easton expect to do anything for the fresh air fund? We have much and to spare, why not make arrangements to entertain some of the semi-cooked waifs of the city for a week or two?

THE farmers of the United States sometimes think they experience hard times, but there has never been a time in this generation when any such agricultural distress existed here as now rests generally upon Great Britain and Western Europe.

JUDGING from recent sad events the criticism by the builders' exchange of Washington upon the methods employed by the government in giving out contracts for work on the public buildings is not entirely a case of sour grapes. The practice of the government in accepting the lowest bidder, irrespective of his responsibility, and then picking out some clerk without any practical knowledge of engineering to superintend the work, was very properly condemned in strong language.

"To make depositors safe," says an editorial of the Star, doubtless written by the editor who is also a bank president, "make the directors and stockholders responsible for the entire amount of money deposited." This would be a fine thing for depositors, but where would the banks to deposit in be found? Who would establish them or continue them with such a load of responsibility? The avenues for bank roberies (and not altogether by outsiders either) would open up so rapidly that no bank official would be sure of his own.

IF the agitation of the money problem will make people awake to the realization of what money really is, and its true value as a common denominator to the various products of exchange, then will the temporary stringency not have been productive of evil results only. One dollar is as valuable as a unit as it is when considered but a small fraction of a large unit, and to be as judicious in its use when it goes in company with nine hundred and ninety-nine of its fellows as when it goes alone, is but the first principle to be learned in estimating the true worth of a dollar. If poorer classes knew this as well as those who are better off, we would hear very little about hard times.

COMPTROLLER ECKELS pointed out in his address in New York Tuesday evening that the failures which have occured have been mainly in the boom cities and States of the West, where speculation has outrun discretion, and where reckless business and banking methods have been substituted for the sound and safe rules of finance and trade. The institutions and business of the East, "not less than of the South, have thus far escaped, and will, because the foundations upon which they are builded are of rock and not of sand."

AN idea of the awful responsibility which attaches to the business of compounding beverages, an industry known to be prosecuted with a good deal of zeal in this country, can be gathered from the fact that an epidemic of suicides has broken out in Buda Pesth and other Hungarian towns where, owing to the persistent ravages of phylloxera, grape crops have been a failure and nasty decoctions called wine substituted as a beverage. The suicides, says the European correspondent, have been traced to the influences of these chemicals.

SOUTH CAROLINA'S new liquor law, which places the traffic under the control of the state, has been declared unconstitutional by Judge Hudson of Columbia, on the ground that it authorizes the state to take business away from individuals and creates a monopoly for its own benefit. The court holds that prohibitory enactments are constitutional, but that the Evans law is not of that character, but is an act for revenue and profit. This decision may not be sustained by the higher courts, but it is feared that it may have the effect of prolonging to an afflictive degree the intervals between drinks in the Palmetto state.

AN exchange wisely says, A newspaper is the greatest help to the growth of a town that can be. It is a standing advertisement which always attracts. It gives more free puffs and explanations of the place than all others. It never lets pass a good opportunity to advocate the interests of its home enterprises. It helps all churches and never fails to speak out for its schools; resents all insinuations against the character of the citizens and industries of the town, it lives but to benefit the community. To repay its untiring efforts it asks the support of the people, not in a begging manner, but as a recompense for its labor. It is entitled to a livelihood because it gives more than it takes.—It only asks for its rights, and these it should have.

WHAT the average Talbot countian eats at home when compared with the residents of some other counties in the world, throws this county so far ahead that a search light would not discover it. For instance taking the year through he eats the choicest oysters, on half shell, escalloped, stewed or fried, fish such that no other waters than the Chesapeake produce, crabs soft and hard, the famous diamond back terrapin, and all water game fowl in season. Fruits that for variety and excellence no other spot can excel—California notwithstanding, all within the poor man's reach. Beef and pork as fine as the world produces, and spring chicken is the laborer's dish. With all known vegetables and Maryland biscuit too, what person living here cares to die—and yet there is room for more.

KANSAS troubles are probably because of the brilliant motto worn on the escutcheon of the State "ad astra per aspera," which is being literally carried out. The Baltimore Sun of Thursday says: Within the last few years Kansas has had to eat the bread of affliction and drink deeply of the bitter waters of adversity. It has not only had a government which has been busy killing enterprise and driving capital from the State, but it has had the usual number of cyclones and now the western part of the State has been passing through a protracted drought, which has almost left the people without food. Large numbers of people have been driven from the State, and those who remain are clamoring for a special session of the Legislature to make stay laws and provide seed wheat for destitue farmers. Just why immigrants should prefer to settle in Kansas to buying lands in Maryland and Virginia and other parts of the South it is hard to tell.

THE country awaits the convening of the extra session of Congress to occur August 7th, with anxiety and interest. The present status of the silver question has already awakened apprehension among the free silver men and they, combined with their opponents are anxious for a contest to decide the matter. Undoubtedly this question will be the important subject before Congress this year, and the financial workers of the world regard the handling of it as a crisis in public affairs. The attitude of both the democratic and republican parties to this subject, has on its face, at this time, the uppermost desire to repeal the Sherman law of 1890. This law was enacted in that year as only a temporary relief, and Congress will repeal it for another substitute, the like of which President Cleveland has not made known. This fact has had a tendency to precipitate a feeling of financial uncertainty, and can only be overcome as the policy of the president becomes known.

THE premium catalogue of the Talbot County Fair is being distributed. The fair will be held Sept. 19, 20, 21, and 22. It is a finer looking book in many respects than has yet been put out, but contains very much the same list of premiums. The offering of special school prizes to the public schools of eight counties is a new feature, and is likely to be a good one. The high schools are exempt in order to encourage competition among the lower schools, and yet some of the high schools wish there had been special offers to them. The following officers will gladly give information, and all people are earnestly asked to lend support to this exhibit of the industries and natural wealth of Talbot. President, F. C. Goldsborough; Vice President, Edward Lloyd; Secretary and Treasurer, M. M. Higgins; Auditing Committee, F. C. Goldsborough, Benjamin F. Parlett, M. M. Higgins; Chief Marshall, Edw. B. Hardcastle; Deputy Marshals, A. T. Warner, Geo. L. Bartlett; Superintendent of Track and Speed Department, Thomas J. Smithers; Aides to the president, Hooper W. Warner, Jas. F. Clark; Reception Committee, Edw. Lloyd, Hedge Thompson, Benjamin F. Parlett, F. H. Johnson, Wm. R. Martin, Jas. H. Willis, Geo. R. Goldsborough. The superintendents of the various departments are as follows: Horses and Mules, Edw. B. Hardcastle, Cattle, John C. Bartlett, Sheep, Chas. F. Eastman; Swine, Chas Lownes; Poultry, Henry Rieman; Fraits, Farm and Garden Products, Alfred J. Wilson; Floral Dept. Julius A. Johnson, Jr.; Machinery and Implements, Edward Woodall; Household Dept, John M. Elliott; Exhibit of Public Schools, Talbot county, Md. Alex. Chaplain.

HON. JOHN F LACEY, Member of Congress from Iowa, gives in plain language the situation as follows:

"If the democratic majority could at once resolve and satisfy the country that they would let the Tariff alone and stand by the former system under which the country has enjoyed great prosperity, we would have no difficulty. Everybody expects legislation hostile to American production. The democratic party is pledged to such a course. There can be no revival of confidence until that party satisfies the country that it will not carry out its pledges. A systematic and wide-spread attempt is being made to blame everything on the silver law. But the silver law made no trouble until the Senate and Presidency went to the democrats. It was not until that party became assured of the power to destroy Protection that confidence became impaired. It is not legislation that the country needs, in my opinion. The situation is a "forced and unnatural one," as you say, and grows out of the fear of legislation. What the country needs is assurance that there will be no legislation. The present lack of confidence is the sober second thought of the country. Last fall the nation resolved on the reversal of the policy under which it had prospered. It is now showing that its sober business sense is more to be relied upon than its hasty political judgment. It is impossible to consider the question without reference to politics, because it is the change of policy resolved on in a political contest that has brought about the present uncertainty and lack of confidence."

WHAT are you worrying about this hot weather?

If it is personal comfort, consider the cows lashing out the existence—of the flies—all day long in sunny pasture, and be thankful you are not a cow.

If it is a trip to Chicago, think of the special cars arriving hourly at that city laden with swine that march in steady, unbroken procession to the knife that severs a heart at every fall and be thankful that you are not booked for that route.

If it is politics and you are infested with it, try red pepper and cream, all ticks leave after one application.

If it is your wife's millinery bill that worries you most, think of your own souvenir bills for beer and split the difference in favor of your wife.

If it is the silver question, do as the editor of a country paper does—go without silver until his teeth chatters with the thermometer at 106 in the shade.

If it is the dry weather that bothers take courage that it could be dryer if it tried, and it is not seeming to try.

If it is the wet weather, think of those who want it wetter and can't have it so in this local option town.

If it is the lack of a suit of clothes that agitates your upper story be like the above editor—go without or try prohibition and get one.

If it is a small stack of bills unpaid thank the powers that your credit is exhausted and they can't grow larger.

If it is the new dress—crinoline or no crinoline—try bengaline or antifat or anti-lean. There is always a substitute.

If it is that you have no relatives in Chicago, think how glad they must be.

If it is a fellow who had your best girl out riding, take courage and have no more spoiled livery bills sent to your care.

If it is the fellow that 'never came' solace your young heart with the thought that the ice cream was all gone anyhow.

If it is who is to be next Senator from Talbot, remember that you will probably eat no figure one way or the other, and try killing potato bugs to an antidote.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

FROM OUR REGULAR CORRESPONDENT.

Washington, July 17, 1893.

Indications increase as the time for the meeting of the extra session draws nearer that there will be just as bitter a fight among the democrats over the tariff as there will be over silver, and whether correctly or not Mr. Cleveland is classed among those democrats who will favor a revision of the tariff on protection lines. The attempt on the part of the administration to center public attention on the silver question was the deliberate and intentional result of the conviction that it would be suicidal both for the democratic party and for the country for the democratic Congress to keep the pledges made by the Chicago platform, in the construction of a tariff bill, and that it was necessary to withdraw public attention from the tariff in order to prevent the change of attitude being so noticeable. The free trade wing of the democratic party in Congress, mostly from the south and west, are just beginning to catch the drift of this movement and they say they will demand that Congress carry out the party platform and wipe out so much of the tariff as represents protection to home industries, and open our markets to the manufactures of the of the world.

It seems more probable now than at any time since the election that the republicans in Congress may by acting with that wing of the democratic party which will vote for moderate protection be able to prevent the utter destruction of many American industries that cannot possibly exist without some protection. But even with the hardest work on the part of the republicans it is probable that the reductions made in the present duties will be large enough to cause a general reduction in wages throughout the United States, in order to allow our goods to compete with the products of European labor, but a reduction in wages, bad as it is, is preferable to the entire loss of employment that would necessarily follow a triumph of the free trade wing of the democratic party.

The alleged news of the preparation by England to resist by force the decision of the Behring Sea Arbitration should it be in favor of the United States, as it must be if the arbitrators decide without prejudice, found a few people here who took it serious ly, but most people regard it as merely one of the stories of the silly season, through which the world usually passes at this season of the year.—Such action on the part of England would mean war, but England does not want war with us; it would precipitate the inevitable loss of her possessions on this continent.

Secretary Morrion is one of the most persistent seekers after free advertising in the present cabinet.—Scarcely a day passes that he does not announce some alleged reform in some branch of the Agricultural Department, but as far as can be seen the only reform is in the announcement.

In order to give the new democratic chiefs of divisions in the Interior Department full swing to promote democrats without regard to their merits the board of promotion created by Secretary Noble for the purpose of deciding what employes were entitled to promotion has been abolished and all promotions are to be made on the recommendations of the chiefs, a system which has in the past made the chiefs petty tyrants and in more than one instance blackmailers of the clerks under them.

It is admitted on the quiet by Mr. Crisp's friends that there is to be lots of shaking up in the membership of the House committees, and that a good many democrats who had prominent and desirable committee places in the last House will be given only minor places in the coming reorganization. They do not feel free yet to openly boast of these changes, which have in reality been ordered by Mr. Cleveland, for although there is no candidate in sight to make a fight against the election of Crisp to be Speaker they realize that a combination might be made within forty-eight hours of the time for holding the democratic caucus that might do the business for Crisp and upset things generally. Repre. Bland, of Missouri, who has been chairman of the Coinage committee whenever the House has been democratic, for these many years, is to be left out in the cold and they are saying that he has consented, but that is doubtful.—Springer is to be sat upon hard, and instead of hitting back he and his friends are begging that he be given his old place at the head of the Ways and Means committee and expressing his willingness to make any promises that may be required. It is believed, however, that he is needlessly humbling himself and that he has no chance of getting his old place. Holman also is to go. His economy was good enough when one branch of Congress was republican, but now the democrats want to get at the cash

What to Do in Case of Sunstroke.—As the season of sunstroke and heat prostration is now here, the greatest care should be exercised to guard against both, which are often fatal. Anything like over exertion should be avoided, the head should be kept covered, and the rapid drinking of ice water should not be indulged in. Where there has been a case of sunstroke or heat prostration health commissioner McShane, of Baltimore, lays down the following preliminary treatment: Quickly loosen the clothes about the neck, remove the patient to a cool spot and place in a reclining position. There are two conditions existing in sunstroke—where the body and head are excessively hot, and where there is a marked lowering of the temperature. If the former conditions exist, apply ice to the head, mustard plaster to the spine, and send for a physician. If the latter prevail, as may be easily ascertained by feeling the forehead, chest and limbs of the patient, make hot applications to the head, feet and legs, administer a mild stimulant and summon a physician. The treatment of both sunstroke and heat prostration are similar, the latter being simply heat apoplexy. Last year when the number of sunstrokes were unusual, the method of treatment by plunging the patient into an ice bath was introduced in Philadelphia. Of course, it was only an experiment, and resulted fatally in two or three cases.—Exchange.

From the Pamphlet issued by the Trustees of the Bennington Graded Schools, 1890.

THE TYPEWRITER IN SCHOOL.

"A No. 2 Remington Standard Typewriter, the most perfect and durable writing machine in the world, has just been placed in the school, to be used for educational purposes. This machine was chosen after a long and severe trial on various kinds of work by the side of other machines.

"The ability to use the Typewriter is coming to be looked upon as a necessary part of a practical education, and in thousands of cases this knowledge is the means of earning a living. But valuable as a knowledge of this machine is to a person seeking a clerical position, the general use of it as an educational means is destined to make it of far greater value to the public schools. There is no doubt but that these machines will be used in the near future for their educational value alone in all High Schools and Grammar grades in the country. It is the testimony of educators who have tried it, that no other device in the hands of the pupil contributes so much towards a knowledge of correct business English. Its use calls immediate attention to business forms, to the correct use of capitals, to correct spelling, to neatness, to accuracy of expression—in short, to everything that should characterize English composition. But is such knowledge worth anything? A gentleman from a distant city, who often finds business situations for young people, recently told the writer that he could secure desirable places for any number of young men and young women at $15 per week, if, having other qualifications, they could write good English and spell correctly."

"The habits of care, neatness, accuracy, and skill necessary to a successful manipulation of the Typewriter enter into the intellectual make up of the pupil, and reappear in whatever he may undertake to do. One of the most obvious advantages is a more perfect mastery of the English language. If he uses the Typewriter, the student must give attention not only to spelling, capitalizing, punctuating, sentence-making, and paragraphing, but also to the weightier matters—thought and style. Poverty of idea and infelicities of style are more apparent on a printed page than when disguised in poor chirography or veneered with elegant penmanship."—Education, January, 1887.

A CONSCIENTIOUS VERDICT.

The Opinion of a Live Baltimorean on an Important Subject.

While paying a business visit a day or so ago at the offices of Matthew Robson's Son & Co., the well known shipping agents on Baltimore St., a reporter of the BALTIMORE METHODIST found Mr. Arthur W. Robson, the active head of the firm, engaged in talking to one of the never-to-be repulsed typewriters representatives.

"The Remington! Yes, sir, this is a No. 2 Remington Machine, which I have in my private office for personal use; you will find another just on the outside of the partition, used by my assistants. . . . What do I think of the Remington? Why, my good friend, there is no other typewriter. I have gone through the experimental period; tried them all; and spent dollars and dollars upon these much 'vaunted' typewriters; but a few months of this sort of nonsense convinced me of the folly of experimenting for the benefit of typewriter manufacturers, so I simply sold these 'most perfect' and 'improved' typewriters, bought two Remingtons with their cabinets and now nothing but a Remington 'goes' in this office.

Our young man ventured to refer to the accredited improvements made by the other typewriter companies.

"My friend," Mr. Robson exclaimed. "Do you think that the Remington people are going to stand to one side, and allow their well merited success to wane? No, sir, they are live men and every practical improvement, after being thoroughly tested, is added to the Remington, so that it is ever the most modern machine. Why, look around you, to confirm what I say. And as to the durability of the Remington, it was only recently that I met the manager of the business here, who allowed me to read a letter received from the Ellicott Machine Co., one of the largest firms manufacturing machinery in the State. In the course of the letter they said: 'One of our Remingtons has been in constant use for perhaps five years, and we as machinists cannot understand why it does not wear out.' You may consider me somewhat a crank on the typewriter question, but I have had enough costly experience to entitle me to rank as a connoisseur, and I would strongly advise, if you desire to economize your time, and keep yourself in perfect good humor, whether in writing your letters yourself, or dictating to an amanuensis, profit by experience and invest in a Remington Standard Typewriter."

Pondering over these words of wisdom, the "Methodist" young man left Mr. Robson's office, in company with the typewriter representative, the latter remarking: "This is the way we are repulsed at every turn. I tell you it is hard work selling typewriters, when in the face of evidence, such as we have just heard, you have to practically admit that the Remington is head and shoulders over the machine we competitors try to sell."—Methodist, Sept. 24th, 1892.

ATTENTION FARMERS.

WE ARE IN THE FIELD THIS SEASON with the best and most complete assortment of Implements and Machinery ever offered on the Eastern Shore. First come Plows, and the "Bise-li" leads them all in lightness of draft and best work in all conditions of land. Next comes the "Oliver" pattern plow manufactured by Bissell, which is, we claim, superior to any Oliver sold; this plow we have sold a great many of during the past and pre-ent seasons and can give a host of references supporting our claim. Lastly comes the "Advance," which is too well known to need any comments. Of the Harrows we are selling the complete line made by D. M. Osborne & Co., including Spring Tooth, Spike Tooth; and Disc—the Spring Tooth especially being the grandest thing of its kind ever put on the market. One of them last winter sold at a sale for $16 which was within $2 of what it cost originally, the bidding having commenced at $10.

In Corn Planters we have the U. S. Combined Check Row Corn Planter. This Planter uses a plunger direct from the check row rod to the rotary seed plates and does away with all the shakebar and center irons between the seed boxes. A single pin spring anchor is furnished with the U. S. and with their use the wire can be drawn the same tension at each end of the field, thereby insuring great accuracy in planting.

Our Sulky Cultivator is the "Akron," which is already at the top of the heap both as a cultivator and as a fallow worker.

We are still selling the Osborne Binders and Mowers, which are most reliable, and also the Empire Binders and Mowers, which are new to this section, but have more good points than any machine ever sold.

Farm Wagons—We are handling the "Jackson" and "Auburn." The Jackson is the old Webster very much improved and no one should think of buying a wagon without seeing them. To continue to enumerate all the good things that we have would take up so much of your time that we will cease with the assurance that no matter what you may want we believe we can suit you from a shoe peg to a traction engine.

P. S.—Barb Wire is lower than ever before. Do you need some? We have a large supply.
