Travelers Take Notice.—When you come to Easton, or leave the town simply enquire for Cook's buss, always in attendance at the trains and boats. You will be guaranteed polite and careful attention. Avoid the clamorings and pullings of the bussmen. Cook will wait on you in a gentlemanly manner.

Sam Jones.—Sam. P. Jones came to Easton as advertised. He arrived on the noon train and was taken immediately to the Fair Grounds where several hundred people awaited him in the grand stand. He looked rather crest fallen at the small crowd, there being hundreds instead of thousands, but he was aware of the cause being more through the threatening weather than through a disregard of his presence in Talbot. He did not take much time to decry the situation but he remarked he wasn't there for a dull time and hoped the hour would be spent pleasantly together. He began with his famousmous lecture, "Get There" from which his principal sayings are taken. It is simply a rare collection of humorous and philosophical hits on American ideas and customs, and was exactly what he said his lectures were, complete at any point—like a freight train, could be cut in two any where and by tacking on the caboose would be made up. "Get there" was an American phrase born in the last decade and contained a greater field for amplification than any other phrase in the language. Hence he adapted it to his talks on he ambitions of men in general. He spoke of the politician, the minister, the financier, the farmer and did not fail to score a hearty laugh from his crowd of listeners at every touch of his linguistic brush.

Sam had no time to waste on pleasantries and compliments, he lauded a "man" in magnificent terms but scathed the mercinary and selfish pretentions of those who thought they were men but were so small and insignificant he could kill them by cracking them between his thumb nails. A dude was an excrescence, a wart on the Devil's nose, a pimple on the face of society that had nothing good in it and when it was squeezed it was like a dudine. Modern sawciety was the Devil's stronghold. Ministers were too timid to preach the truth, if they would talk less about infant baptism and the "sweet by and by" and more about the trashy now and now they would do the world more good. Sam said the highest compliment he ever had paid him was by an old darkey who was asked how he liked Jones as a preacher. The old man said "Wid de Bible he wasn't much account, but taken him oughten de Bible an he was the biggest preacher he ever hearn." Sam thought there was too much Bible in modern preaching, he left the Bible because he liked to get close to his crowd and he noticed that most of them were out side the Bible. He liked to see the fretful, thoroughbred horse impatient to start in the race, liked to watch the effort each steed made to "get there" on the home stretch, but how he did dispise and loath the contemptible little things around the pool stand betting on races. Did not want the man bred down while the horse was being bred up. In politics while the Democrats and Republicans were making grand rascals of themselves, the farmer was playing the fool. Fools always brought up the rear in a procession. He was once criticised for having so much foolishness in his lectures, he replied, "Do you you know what foolishness is?" Foolishness is the stuff you rub on fools, and it takes a good deal to go round. He required a big stock to suit his audience and always supplied the demand.

The second lecture was after dinner at the same place and was attended by increased numbers. Sam's discourse was on the subject of "Manhood and Money" which he said were two contending forces in the world today. America was run on the dollar The morality of a thing was rarely questioned "was there money in it" was the all important question. Greece flourished in learning and died under a book; Rome achieved her greatness in war and died under the spear while America was doomed to die under the dollar.

He wanted the order of things reversed, as they now stand gold is put above God, chattles above character and mammon above manhood. Selfishness was at the bottom of all evil and charity at the bottom of all good. The speaker was continually applauded and kept the audience in fits of laughter most of the time. His very odd way of putting a thing and the copious supply of first class American slan together with his peculiar intonation and manner caught the popular fancy and "took." Jones said suppose he hadn't a took in Easton, what then? What would Easton's recommendation be worth to him a thousand miles off where nobody had ever heard of the place? He could put Easton in his vest pocket and not know it was there until it began to ride his tooth pick. The people here were all right but they were so small, needed travelling about to see something, broadening out—and yet if broadened too much they would be like a pancake with no height. And so he continued dealing out fun and sarcasm, hitting right and left and putting in a good moral point occasionally until an hour and a half was up when he closed.

One day this week I was looking at and admiring the beauties of our own Muskrat Park when a gentlemen approached and questioned me thus. "Say, Ferguson, why or how is it that Gen. Seth forbade us as oystermen catching oysters the first of last September and now tells us that that law was N. G. that we can catch, sell or do anything else with the oyster from the 1st of September, has that law been repealed or another law made?" I told him that so far as I knew the law was good last September and is the same now, but that the Gen, had an ax to grind to day and wanted him and other oystermen to turn the stone.—He looked at me a little while, muttered, 'D—n his ax," turned and left me gezing at the beauties of our loved and expansive park.

Democratic primaries to day. Roosters commenced crowing early this morning. Lots of candidates in the field, but as a republican I shall vote for Charlie G. He is the best of a bad lot. After the smoke of the fray clears away and things have settled as in the olden time, the postmaster is to be appointed, that is what I hear on the street. It is time it was done and if Mr. Gibson wants to please all people of all parties in this district he will appoint or have appointed S. H. Willey, the one man that is endorsed by one hundred and thirty six democrats out of a possible hundred and fifty. Endorsed by nine-tenths of the business men of the town, and by two thirds of the entire population, independent of politics. Make the appointment, Mr. G, and be quick about it, and we shall all be pleased and—well I will say more when Mr. Willey is installed in the lower room as postmaster.

Rev. Mr. Prouse filled the M. E. pulpit last Sunday morning. All who heard him were delighted with the sermon that he preached. At night Dr. Robinson of Royal Oak, took charge and did as he has always done in the past, talked well and pleased his congregation. I've often wondered why the Dr. did not fall into line and start out as preacher, he is well fitted for it and it is an easy way of making a living. But I guess he knows his business better than I do, and I shall be content to let him jog on.

Escaped from Jail.—Two prisoners made their escape from jail on Thursday night early and were followed by the sheriff and officers all night without being caught. The men were Perry Allen Meyers who broke into the store of Mr. Sol Thompson at the Oak on the 12th of August, and Isaac Dobson who bit off a man's ear in a fight. The prisoners had sawed one of the bars near the gate in two. It is probable that the other six did not know anything about it or there would have been a general delivery. The men had very little start on the posse who were in pursuit, but managed to elude detection. They must have gone to the woods. All the prisoners in jail were colored.

REGULAR WEEKLY LETTER FROM W. D. B. AT FAIR GROUNDS.

Judge Stein, of the superior court, Wednesday morning decided that the World's Fair directors and officers who had been directly responsible for closing the exposition gates on Sunday, July 23d, had violated the injunction granted in the Clingman petition and were consequently guilty of contempt. He ordered that Directors Gage, Hutchinson, Henrotin, McNally and Kerfoot should be fined $1,000 each and stand committed to jail until the fine was paid. In the case of Director Victor F. Lawson, the court held that officer had voted in behalf that the injunction had lapsed and was not intentionally guilty, In view of this mitigating circumstance a fine of $100 was imposed. Director General Geo. R. Davis was held less directly responsible, and was fined $250 with the same provision regarding payment. Messrs. Massey, Forbes, St. clair and Higinbotham were regarded by Judge Stein as instruments for the execution of the directors' ruling and were discharged. Director Natham was also discharged. Atty. Eddy, representing the Fair company, moved for an appeal from the court's ruling and at the conclusion of the arguments Judge Stein granted the appeal.

The exhibitors from Paraguay in the Agricultural building claim they have been the victims of petty thieves and vandals ever since the exhibit was opened. Dr. Hassler, the commissioner for Paraguay, has not been friendly to the Columbian guards' service since he was a victim of one himself, but now he is disgusted and indignant to the degree of revenge. He suspects every visitor is a thief, and he does not spare the women. After stealing scores of wax match boxes, filled with fancy biscuits, bottles of spiritous liquors, and drinkable exhibits, non-intoxicating, they almost broke the commissioner's heart by carrying off last night four exquisit lace handkerchiefs and worth $140 and like those made by the Jesuits in Paraguay centuries ago. They had been stolen after forcing the lids of the glass cases. Altogether the commissioner figures $3,000 worth of exhibits stolen and no one arrested. He said: "I feel tempted to put strichnine in these open biscuit boxes to poison these thieves. It is not the intrinsic value of the stolen articles I grieve over, but our exhibits are spiled. I called on a guard to arrest a man who was caught taking a box of wax matches, but he laughed and said that is not enough to arrest a man for."

There are two main points of interest in the fair wrere visitors never seem to tire. One is the Midway plaisance, the other is Columbia avenue in the manufactures building. On the Midway you see the nations of the earth in all their gaudy apparel. On the Columbia avenue you see the best productions of these nations; a gilded procession of the most costly and georgeous wares, fabrics and trinkets of Paris, Rome, Florence, London, Berlin, Vienna, New York, Constantinople, Madras and Takio. A man walked the length of the street the other day. It was a good day for aimless promenading. The wooden pavement was damp and cool underfoot. Refreshing breaths of lake wind caught him at each corner. He saw, first high tiers of graceful statuary ranged under velvet canopies and guarded by swarthy Italian marines. He saw men from Switzerland leading visitors through a recess fairyland of carvings and jewels. He saw men from Norway and Denmark standing in the street doorways of their pavilions. Russians in solemn black coats, buttoned up to their heavy beards lounged among the kiosks. He saw Belgium's heavy arches and France's magnificent doorways. Through them he caught glimses of silks, bronzes, porcelains, golden ware, He leaned on plush ropes and looked into the most luxurious apartments known to England He saw Germany's minarets, the riotour show of rich colors and foliate decorations; the dripping fountain sand the tangled grillwork. The daintiest and most products of American mills were fluffed and festooned in booths, some of which seemed carved from ebony and silver. The peaked roof and sheltering eaves of Japan's airy castle invited him to a ramble among the fire-flies and the dragoons. He saw many more things thro' the glass walls or wide doorways of the miniature palaces, yet the best thing he saw was the street itself.

No. 202.—Transposition.

A ONE, in days of old,

'Twas needed, we are told,
When one a journey went.
No garments TWO and new
Were hidden there from view;
Necessities were few,
With little, men content.

No. 204.—Charade.

The TOTAL, brave and stout,
Of the days we read about
Is a personage no doubt all deplore;
In his old hall—never new—
With his vassals round him true
And a very strong ONE TWO his front door.

How he put TWO his plate armor
And went forth to do some harm or
Wed some celebrated charmer, willy nilly!
With a "brow of gathering gloom,"
How he strode into the room,
While his foes, expecting doom, all looked silly!

He was to the manor born;
Bench and ONE he held in scorn,
And the church was left forlorn by his saber.
He was picturesque enough,
But his tone was somewhat gruff
And I fear a trifle rough for a neighbor.

Palindromes.

Interesting to puzzle makers are the palindromes or sentences the letters of which read the same from right to left and left to right. Here are several good examples: Repel a leper. Was it a cat I saw? Evil did I ere I did live. Big was I ere I saw Gib. Live on, o do no evil.

We want a boy in every town in the United States to sell single copies of the SATURDAY BLADE and CHICAGO LEDGER. The papers are readily sold in every shop, store, factory, on the street, to farmers, at home, and to strangers who are in town. Any hustling boy can start out and sell these bright illustrated papers to almost any one, and can get regular customers to buy every number as fast as it is received. They are the easiest selling papers published, as agents testify.

BOYS

The papers sell for 5 cents a copy. The boy sends us 3 cents for each copy he sells, and keeps the other 2 cents for himself. It costs nothing for the boy to start in business, and he runs no risk of having papers left on his hands, as we take back all unsold copies. Not only boys make good agents, but girls, and invalids, or those who cannot do hard work—Every one who wishes to make money should apply for an agency. To any one who will secure us an agent to handle the papers regularly, we will give a copy free as long as the agent thus obtained sells the paper in the town for which he was appointed. There is a boy in every town who would be glad of the opportunity to make money in this way, and we ask those interested in boys to send in the name of some bright hustling lad who will agree to take hold of the business. The SATURDAY BLADE is dated and sold on SATURDAY, and the CHICAGO LEDGER on Wednesday. The BLADE is a newspaper, fully illustrated. The LEDGER is a family story paper, also fully illustrated by our own artists. The great popularity of these papers is fully attested by their immense circulation. The average weekly circulation of the SATURDAY BLADE is 275,000 copies, and that of the CHICAGO LEDGER 140,000 copies. Certainly no stronger proof of their selling qualities could be asked; and nearly all these hundreds of thousands of copies are sold by boys. The BLADE is the wonder of the newspaper world, and the LEDGER is close after it.
