...be made to ...se of their friends. ...at protective duties on ...n iron be continued to save ...em from ruin and their enterprises from disaster. They prefer their request to a committee whose chairman presided over the National Convention which solemnly pronounced protective duties unconstitutional, "a fraud and a robbery of the majority of the American people for the benefit of the few." That is to say, they calmly ask Mr. Wilson and his committee and a Democratic Congress to continue to violate the Constitution, perpetuate a fraud, and go on robbing a majority of the American people for their benefit.

The same day a delegation of farmers and gardeners from Virginia appeared before the committee to protest against any reduction of existing duties upon potatoes and other farm products. About 1,000,000 barrels of potatoes are annually raised in the Norfolk district of Virginia, besides millions of dollars' worth of other farm and garden products, all of which are shipped to Northern markets. Without a protective duty the Virginia potatoes would come in competition with importations from Nova Scotia comming in ballast and paying little or no freight, and the effect would be disastrous to the farming interest of Virginia. They consequently ask that a Democratic Congress should violate the Constitution in order that the Virginia farmers may continue to defraud their customers and rob a majority of the American people to enrich themselves.—They, too, are no doubt "Democrats from principle," and do not expect to suffer in the house of their friends.

The question naturally arises in such circumstances, What precisely is a "Democrat from principle?" Does Mr, Bush or any other of the Alabama delegates know? Do the Virginia farmers know? What did they think they were voting for a year ago? If the Chicago Convention affirmed distinctly any one principle it was that Protection was unconstitutional, a fraud and robbery. It voted separately upon it and established it after discussion, with deliberation and without reservation, as "a fundamental principle of the Democratic party." And now these "Democrats from principle," finding that interest conflicts with principle, are asking that the fundamental principle be absolutely disregarded and overturned. Why would it not be in order for Chairman Wilson to inquire of some of these "Democrats from principle" what the particular principle was that they voted for when they brought the present Congress into being.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

FROM OUR REGULAR CORRESPONDENT.

Washington, Nov. 20, 1893.

A more disappointed crowd than the members of the administration it would be hard to find. So certain were they that Saturday's steamer from Hawaii would bring news of the restoration of the Queen that every employee of the State Department was compelled to take an oath of secrecy beforehand, in order to prevent any of the details contained in the dispatch from Minister Willis getting out prematurely. It was clear, however, from other dispatches that the infamous programme had miscarried, and the belief here is that the monarchy will not be restored, and that Mr. Cleveland is at last beginning to realize that between the one-sided representations of Minister Paramount Blount and Secretary Gresham's hatred of Ex-President Harrison, he has been hoodwinked into taking a course that has been more generally and, perhaps, more harshly criticised than any single act of any American President.

The great question with the administration now is how it can best sneak out of its unpleasant predicament, although it is believed that positive assurances have been given to the British Ambassador and the Japanese Minister that the monarchy would be restored in Hawaii it is not thought that any attempt will be made to do it, at least not openly or by force. In fact friends of the administration are not trying to deny what they were a few days ago positively asserting as to the nature of the instructions given to Minister Willis. Should it end in Mr. Cleveland's making Gresham the scapegoat and throwing him out of the cabinet there will be no tears shed by either republicans or democrats, as Gresham's course in this matter has caused him to lose the few friends his political somersault had left him.

Representative Bourke Cockran, the New York Congressman who has been sat upon by Tammany because he objected to being a mere puppet of Croker's, threw a bombshell among his democratic colleagues on the House Ways and Means committee who had in his absence decided that an income tax should be attached to the new tariff bill, when he informed them that an income tax imposed by a democratic administration and Congress would result in making New York City, now the Democratic Gibraltar, a republican stronghold; he also told them that this proposed tax was an attempt by certain would-be leaders of the democratic party to pander to the populists and warned them that if it was carried into effect it would prove disastrous to the democratic party. Mr. Cockran's remark created a momentary stampede among his fellow democrats on the committee, but will hardly result in getting the income tax dropped from the bill.

The administration having by its lack of foresight and of firmness when firmness would have proven beneficial brought the cash in the Treasury down to the lowest point at which it has been since the Buchanan administfation came so near to bankrupting the government, is now very diligently at work stopping the leak at the spigot while that of the bunghole is going right along all the time. Here are two instances that will illustrate the spigot style of statesmen: the Postmaster General in glancing over the list of supplies purchased for post offices discovered an item that deeply aroused his anger. He was thunderstruck, so to speak, when he saw that the U. S. government actually bought twine for the letter carriers to use for tying up bundles of mail. "Let them buy leather straps and use them," shouted the apostle of spigot economy, as he dictated an order that no more twine was to be bought for their use. The next great act of spigot economy also relates to the letter carriers. A lot of old cast off letter carriers' leather bags, which have been from time to time forwarded to Washington by postmasters who have made requisitions for new ones, have been at considerable expense patched up and as long as the supply holds out they will be sent to those postmasters who make requisitions for new ones. The letter carriers may feel thankful that they are not required to buy their own bags as well as straps.

The democrats acknowledge that they are afraid to submit their tariff bill to a democratic caucus. Those in charge of the bill say that it would certainly be cut all to pieces if it went before a caucus, and that they prefer to rely upon the power of Mr. Cleveland, whose idea the bill fully represents, to force the bill through Congress and silence the democratic opposition thereto. Much depends upon the character of the bill, which will presumably be made public this week or next, as to whether it can be forced through Congress.

...ISHED UPON ...FICE.

...AY, - - NOVEMBER 25, 1893.

CLIFTON P. HAND, Republican candidate for Sheriff has filed a bill contesting the election of Wm. J. Dukes. On this bill the Court has passed an order directing Mr. Dukes to answer on or before the 29th of November, at which time it is expected the Court will fix a day for taking testimony.

THIS is a list of the Grand Jury.

Geo. C. Moore,	W. W. Baynard,
Wm. E. Lowe,	Thos. E. Grace,
James P. Reese,	C. F. Eastman,
W. E. Shannahan,	C. Thos. Stevens,
Thos. F. Bridges,	M. T. G. Earle,
Jos. O. Kemp,	Chas. M. Jump,
Chas. G. Mullikin,	Chas. H. Brunker,
Alexis G. Pascault,	John S. Griffith,
Perry T. Leonard,	H. K. George,
J. Harold Wheeler,	J. A. Frampton,
Dr. J. H. Anderson,	G. R. Collins,
Samuel Harrison.

And this the oath they took:

You shall diligently enquire and true presentment make of all such matters and things as shall be given you in charge, or shall otherwise come to your knowledge, touching this present service: The counsel of the State of Maryland, your fellows and your own, you shall well and truly keep secret; you shall present no person for envy, hatred, malice or ill will; neither shall you leave anyone unpresented for love, fear, favor or affection, or for any hope or promise of reward, but you shall present all things truly as they come to your knowledge, according to the best of your understanding, so help you God.

And these are some of the facts:

Registration lists changed, Ballots put up as sample ballots which were not samples of the official ballots.—Official ballots furnished to voters with Republican emblem different from the one filed with the Secretary of State, etc.

And this is the result:

No presentment made.

THE Baltimore Sun has been recognized as a staunch advocate of honesty in public affairs and purity and fair dealing in the conduct of elections. For years it advocated the passage of the Australian Ballot Law and it has denounced frauds and their perpetrators unsparingly. It has posed as the Apostle of reform so long that the public had almost gotten to believe in its sincerity. And yet when the most unblushing frauds have been perpetrated in Talbot County at the election on the 7th inst.—when the whole spirit and intent of the election law have been disregarded, when the election supervisors have one kind of ticket prepared for the voter and another kind put up as a sample or specimen ballot with the intent to deceive and mislead the voter, when the honored judges of our Court deem the matter grave enough to bring it specially before the grand jury, when the good citizens of our county irrespective of party feel outraged and humiliated, the Baltimore Sun, in the issue of Nov. 21 makes a joke of the whole affair and makes it appear as if these people have done a very funny thing. That the Easton Democrat whose editor printed the fradulent ballots should make excuses, that the Easton Ledger should think it very funny surprises no one, but for the Baltimore Sun to throw the weight of its influence on the side of a crime that strikes at the foundation of civil government, to try to laugh down an outrage on the rights of the people, to give aid and comfort to the conspirators who originated and carried out these frauds, for the Sun, to which so many people look for information and guidance to take such a course is certainly a great surprise to the good people of Talbot. We can only hope that great paper, when it discovers its error will strive to undo the wrong it has done by the article above referred to.

From N. Y. Tribune.

"DEMOCRATS FROM PRINCIPLE."

"We are Democrats from principle, and we do not expect to suffer in the house of our friends." It was Mr. Bush, president of the Mobile and Birmingham Railway Company and the Clifton Iron Works of Alabama, who said this in an address to the Democratic members of the Ways and Means Committee on Thursday. He appeared as the representative of the coal and iron industries of Alabama in opposition to free coal and iron, and was accompanied by a number of capitalists who are interested in the development of these industries in Alabama and Tennessee, where they have embarked about $135,000,000 in mining and manufacturing enterprises. Under the operation of the protective duties which the Democratic National Convention denounced as "a fraud, a robbery of the majority of the American people for the benefit of the few," these enterprises have been very successful. They have not only brought hand some returns to their projectors, but have furnished employment to large numbers of persons, who have been enabled thereby to maintain themselves and their families in comfortable independence. They have besides gridironed with railroads the sections where they are located, and developed their resources until Alabama now produced annually 1,000,000 tons of pig iron and 5,000,000 tons of coal. In that State alone the coal and iron interests furnish employment to 70,000 men and support one-fifth of the entire population of the State. All this was due, Mr. Bush and his associates said, to the protection of iron ore and coal by the tariff.

"Democrats from principle" they said they were; and they did not expect to suffer in the house of their friends. They had consequently come up from Alabama to ask their 'friends' now in control of all branches of the National Government not to strike down deliberately the successful business enterprises they had built up; not to shut off the production of coal and iron in Alabama; not to close up the business of the railroads in the State: not to destroy $125,000,000 of invested capital: not to turn 70,000 men out of employment; not to deprive one-fifth of the entire population of State of the means of subsistence. They are quite certain that this will be the result of putting coal and iron on the free list, as it is now understood the Ways and Means Committee propose to do. So they make this appeal to a Democratic Congress is Guaranteed, even in the hands of a child to bring the boomerang back perfectly and harmlessly.

The Emerson Boomerang Gun.

THE ONE DOLLAR SIZE

It Shoots a Crescent Shaped Arrow that Returns of Itself!!

It is the most wonderful gun in the world. Its strange action is based upon a law of nature but little understood by most people, but with an absolute certainty of result. The directions are so PLAIN, SIMPLE and EASY that a mere child in half an hour's practice with this gun can outdo the greatest Australian expert boomerang thrower in existence, though he may have spent a life time in acquiring his mysterious skill.

The American cyclopedia says of the Australian boomerang: "It requires no ordinary a skill which Europeans find it next to impossible to acquire." But with the Emerson Boomerang gun which costs only one dollar, a mere boy can bring it back to the right or to the left, though of course the skilful boy can beat the clumsy one every time. In Woods Natural History of Man, it is stated that the making of a boomerang is so difficult that it often requires days of the utmost skill and patience to make a good one. Now they are turned out by machinery and every one warranted. Four are given with every gun and extra ones cost only 50 cts. a dozen, postage paid.

Its use is by no means confined to children or to lawn games.

It has a wonderful fascination for the old as well who seem to find intense delight in the beautiful and almost mysterious flight of the curved arrow that darts suddenly far away when the gun is sprung, and only to pause in its flight and turn about and come whistling swiftly home again as if pulled by some invisible thread, instead of going on and falling to the earth as any other missile would do. The greatest sport with it is when lawn parties are given and an open hoop target is placed behind the shooter, a prize being given to the one who brings the boomerang back through the hoop the most times. The arrow is very sensitive to any inclination given to the gun, and will return to the right or to the left according as the gun is inclined at the time of shooting, hence great chance for fine skill. The gun has spring action. No powder and no noise and perfectly harmless.

It takes a part to slip into a bag which is only about 4 inches wide and 30 inches long, and the whole thing weighs less than two lbs. Every gun in a neat bag with target complete, $100.
