EX-CONFEDERATES.

Annual Meeting of the Charles S. Winder Camp Saturday

At the meeting on Saturday last, in the office of the Commander, Colonel Oswald Tilghman, the Charles S. Winder Camp of Confederate Veterans elected officers for the ensuing year, the honor being paid to those then holding the positions of unanimously re-electing them, and in addition a Color Bearer. The Rev. Dr. Rich suggested that the same officers should be retained, a motion to this effect was made by Major Stewart, and was unanimously carried. The following is the list of officers as elected:

Commander—Oswald Tilghman.
Lieutenant Commander—Prentiss Ingraham.
Adjutant—Owen Norris.
Quartermaster—Louis W. Trail.
Color Bearer—William Grace.
Chaplain—Rev. B. S. Highley.

Lieut. Commander Ingraham and Adjutant Norris were appointed a committee to see the ladies of the Buchanan Chapter, Daughters of the Confederacy, and arrange with them to secure permanent rooms for the Camp and the Chapter, where they could meet at all times; for with a headquarters it was felt certain that the orders would grow in numbers and thus increase the general interest in them.

It was found that the Camp already numbered over forty members, and with the sons of Confederate veterans enrolled, would soon become a strong organization.

The Senate on Tuesday passed the law giving additional powers to the Board of Town Commissioners of Easton.

If you owe a debt and can pay only part of it, go and do it; perhaps the other fellow is in a worse condition or is waiting to help some one out to just that extent.

It is gratifying to learn that much new property has been added to the taxable basis of Talbot county this year, and the expected shrinkage on account of transfers and abatements will not appear.

The wheat fields are looking very fine, and all farm work is very far advanced in consequence of the warm weather.

OF RELIGIOUS INTEREST.

Notes of the Churches in Our Town and County.

The question as to why the Catholic churches throughout the United States are celebrating mass for the dead sailors of the Maine is being asked everywhere. Father Waldron says that of the 253 sailors killed on the Maine, 193 were Catholics Out of that number 153 belonged to the Sacred Heart League, a powerful Catholic Church organization.

Presiding Elder Corkran says: "As the conference year draws to a close, I am more and more assured that the Easton district will round up fairly well. The long-continued rains in the fall and the six weeks of mud since the holidays, very seriously hindered revival work in many places yet we have had some great revivals, and the aggregate results of this department of work will rejoice our hearts. In finances we have done much in the way of organizing new and eliminating wornout and questionable methods. So that while we made no large advances we are in a position that gives more promise for the future. There is a growing disposition to advance on pastoral support, and there is with this growing demand for wide-awake, well-rounded pastors.

Mrs. McDonald, of Washington, will lecture and give spirit communication in Grand Army Hall, Washington and Dover streets, at 7.30 P. M. tomorrow. Subject, "The Fiftieth Anniversary of Modern Spiritualism."

Railroad Work Begun.

Work has begun in earnest on the Virginia, Fredericksburg and Western Railroad today. This road is proposed to run from Millenbeck, in Lancaster county, to the coal fields of West Virginia. Ex-Senator C. H. Gibson, of Easton, is its President, and a syndicate of wealthy Eastern capitalists are its backers. The people of this section have been somewhat skeptical of the success of the project, but are now convinced that its early completion from this city to its Eastern terminus is assured.—Baltimore News.

CONFEDERATE BAZAR.

A Most Worthy Cause Solicits Your Aid—To Care for the Old Soldiers.

Citizens of Talbot county are requested to contribute something to the Confederate Relief Bazar to be held at the Fifth Regiment Armory, Baltimore, April 11-20.

The object of the Bazar is to raise funds to aid the Pikesville Confederate Home, and to help support the widows and orphans of deceased Confederates.

Thirty-three years ago the war ended. Maryland had 25,000 soldiers in the Confederate Army. Most of these are old men; and some are unable to provide for t hemselves and their families. With the exception of State aid in the gift of the old Pikesville arsenal, no help has been afforded except through a bazar held just after the war, and private aid from time to time.

Surely every one can contribute some little money or supplies, such as poultry, eggs, butter, lard, hams, potatoes, canned goods, merchandise and anything that is not perishable. They can be sent direct to Baltimore by steamer or railroad, and a committee will receive them at the wharves. Mark the box "Confederate Relief Bazar," Baltimore. If donors signify no preference to what table, donations will be sent to the Murray table.

Mr. Henry Hollyday has been notified by President John S. Wilson, of Baltimore, Chesapeake & Atlantic, that no freight will be charged by his line on consignments to the Bazar.

MILLIONS DISPOSED OF.

Will of the Great Maryland Philanthropist Jacob Tome.

The will of the late Jacob Tome leaves to the Jacob Tome Institute, of Port Deposit, a sum estimated to be almost four millions of dollars. This, with the money it received during his lifetime, makes it the richest educational institution in the state of Maryland—richer than the Johns Hopkins University, even if the value of the Baltimore and Ohio Stock had remained the same as when Mr. Hopkins died.

Mr. Tome, with that far-sightedness which was characteristic of him, founded his benefaction during his own lifetime, and got it running in the direction he planned and desired; and it may be accepted as certain that the money he left for it will not meet the fate of Mr. Hopkins' millions. So we may look upon the Jacob Tome Institute as founded on an enormously rich permanency, and as promising a development which will make it world-wide in reputation and unsurpassed in achievement.

It is a great thing for Maryland that this institution is here, and it is a monument to Mr. Tome that will outlast any marble, and that will bless his name through centuries of time.—Baltimore American.
