Sewing Machines For Sale,

And Many More, too, if Needed.

The Demorest Sewing Machine Company uses this method to announce to the many readers of the Easton Gazette that they sell to the customer direct and make the Best Sewing Machine in the World,

And Fully Guarantee it for Ten Years.

The reason we can sell so low is that our manufacturing facilities are the largest and best in the world, and because we cut off the immense and useless expense of canvassing, selling on time, etc.

SOMETHING NEW.

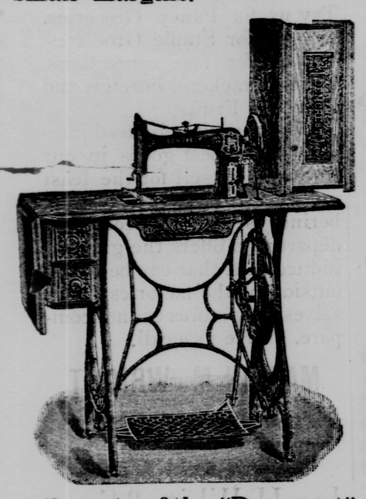

OUR NO. 4 DROP HEAD.

The head drops down out of the way while not in use, thereby giving you an extra piece of furniture in the shape of a beautiful table. The wood work is elegantly finished in dark oak. Price, $23.50.

WE SELL FOR CASH ONLY.

therefore have no losses, and can afford to sell on small margins.

The old way of selling sewing machines, canvassing from one house to another, is almost as expensive as the manufacture of the machines.

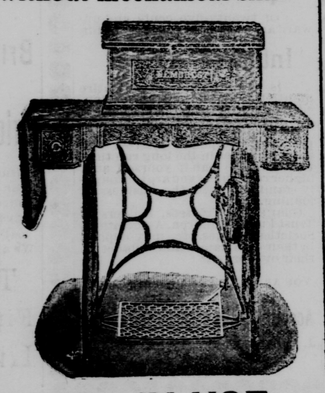

Our No. 3.

A perfect machine, with many thousands of admirers to advance its sale. In Talbot county alone there are very many of them in use, sold through the advertisement of the GAZETTE. You may have your choice of Light or Dark Oak or Walnut. Always ready to work, never out of order, makes no noise, and runs so easy.

Price, $19.50 cash.

All parts of the "Demorest" are made interchangeable so that if any piece or part wears out, it can be replaced by any one without mechanical skill.

It stands alone in the Sewing machine field, the cheapest, the best, the most popular machine on the market.

No. 31-2.

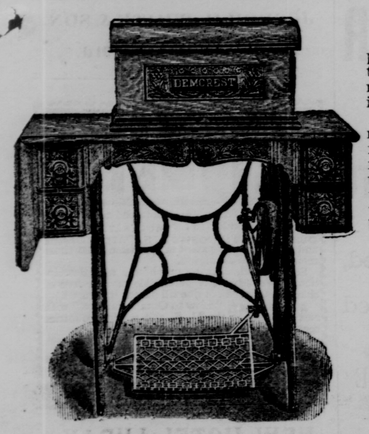

Exquisite, dnable, quiet and reliable. Finished in light or dark oak or walnut. Price, $19.50.

Don't allow high priced agents to talk you into the notion that our machine is anything but the best.

False statements from them cost you too much, and you will find are very expensive.

No one has yet attempted to excel the "Demorest."

250.000 ARE NOW IN USE.

The "Demorest" has no competitors, for their is no incentive to competition when the most that can be accomplished is to equal it.

All ordinary repairs free. Do not trade off your old Demorest machine, no matter how old it may be, a small investment in the way of repairs will most invariably put it in good order so that it will last you for a number of years longer.

OUR NO. 4.

Light or Dark Oak or Walnut. Price, $22.50.

We do not make the poor kinds—neither do we ask big prices for our good ones.

Write us for particulars, but orders received only through THE GAZETTE.

To enable us to know just what this advertisement is doing all orders must pass through the GAZETTE and a list of persons who have bought the machines in Talbot will be cheerfully furnished.

GEMS IN VERSE.

Remember, O Spain!

Thy cup hast filled overflowing
With a prodigal helping of crime.
Thou shalt gather the seed of thy sowing,
And now is the harvesting time.

For the gods have been patient and slumbered;
Not weakly they punish and pay,
But thy sins have been carefully numbered,
And this is their reckoning day.

Remember thy pirate Pizarro,
Remember the fate of Peru,
Remember thy edicts to harrow
The soul of the downtrodden Jew,

Remember thy Mexican pleasure
In numberless captives and slain—
The gods have all these in their measure.
Remember and tremble, O Spain!

In the face of the world we impeach thee
Of guilt that belittles all sin,
And by the Most High we will teach thee.
Come, now is the time to begin!

—W. H. Howells.

The Land of Used to Be.

Beyond the purple, hazy trees
Of summer's utmost boundaries,
Beyond the sands, beyond the seas,
Beyond the range of eyes like these
And only in the reach of the
Enraptured gaze of memory,
There lies a land long lost to me,
The land of Used to Be!

A land enchanted, such as swung
In golden seas when sirens clung
Along their dripping brinks and sung
To Jason in that mystic tongue
That dazed men with its melody—
Oh, such a land, with such a sea
Kissing its shores eternally,
Is the fair Used to Be—

A land where music ever girds
The air with belts of singing birds
And sows all sounds with such sweet words
That even in the low of herds
A meaning lives so sweet to me
Lost laughter ripples limpidly
From lips brimmed over with the glee
Of rare old Used to Be—

Lost laughter and the whistled tunes
Of boyhood's mouth of crescent runes,
That rounded through long afternoons
To serenading plenilunes,
When starlight fell so mistily
That, peering up from bended knee,
I dreamed 'twas bridal drapery
Snowed over Used to Be!

Oh, land of love and dreamy thoughts
And shining fields and shady spots
Of coolest, greenest grassy plots,
Embossed with wild forgetmenots,
And all ye blooms that longingly
Lift your fair faces up to me
Out of the past, I kiss in ye
The lips of Used to Be!

—James Whitcomb Riley.

The Tragedies of Peace.

Peace hath her tragedies no less than war.
Grim war is but the normal state of men
In this rude world, where he who cannot fight
Must yield to him who can. The elements,
The passions and the lust of victory
O'er barren fields, o'er treach'rous waves and all
That bar man's road to better things impel
To conflict. He who fights must lay aside
The tender luxuries of life that sap
Virility. With manhood's strength begirt
He conquers first himself and then delights
In lesser strife that overcomes the foe.

The tragedies of war in bloody death
May end, but not in shame. The tragedies
Of peace in degradation worse than death
Find consummation. Decadence comes
When peace effeminate laps all her sons
In wantonness of wealth. So fell great Rome.
Once mistress of the world, when circuses
And boundless luxury filled every heart
And warlike spirit fled. And so hath Spain
Forgot her Cid and in her brutal fights
With harmless bulls and in her lust for gold
Become more cruel than the grave and lost
Her manhood. Not a nation of the earth
Hath sunk so far beneath contempt.

O war, we hail thy horror and thy woe
If they shall breed again the sturdy strength
Of simple manliness that made the world
In homage bow to Washington and them
Who, spite of poverty and raging kings,
To mankind gave the first true liberty!

Thought.

Thought is deeper than all speech,
Feeling deeper than all thought.
Souls to souls can never teach
What unto themselves was taught.

We are spirits clad in veils.
Man by man was never seen.
All our deep communing fails
To remove the shadowy screen.

Heart to heart was never known.
Mind to mind did never meet.
We are columns left alone
Of a temple once complete.

Like the stars that gem the sky,
Far apart, though seeming near,
In our light we scattered lie.
All is thus but starlight here.

What is social company
But a babbling summer stream?
What our wise philosophy
But the glancing of a dream?

Only when the sun of love
Melts the scattered stars of thought,
Only when we live above
What the dim eyed world hath taught,

Only when our souls are fed
By the font that gave them birth
And by inspiration led
Which they never drew from earth,

We, like parted drops of rain,
Swelling till they meet and run,
Shall be all absorbed again,
Melting, flowing, into one.

—C. P. Cranch.

When the Boys Went By.

They've gone away, responsive to our leader's call for men,
Oh, if those marching boys in blue might all come back again!
Oh, if it only might be so—that when their work is done
They might return as now they go—each father, husband, lover, son!

Ah, proudly they have marched away to do whate'er they must,
To meet the foemen in the fray, returning thrust for thrust!
But some, when guns have ceased to roar and flags have ceased to fly,
Will lie upon some other shore, beneath some other sky.

They've marched away, with banners gay, with manly steps and proud;
They've gone to mingle in the fray, admired by the crowd,
And some among them as they pass will hear our cheers again,
And some who cheer today, alas, will weep for lost ones then!

—S. E. Kiser in Cleveland Leader.

Prayer.

Prayer is the soul's sincere desire,
Uttered or unexpressed,
The motion of a hidden fire
That trembles in the breast.

Prayer is the burden of a sigh,
The falling of a tear,
The upward glancing of an eye
When none but God is near.

—James Montgomery.
