Our baby has been continually troubled with colic and cholera infantum since shi birth, and all that we could do for him did not seem to gve more than temporary relief until we tried Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. Since giving that remedy he has not been troubled. We want to give you this testimonial as an evidence of our gratitude, not that you need it to advertise your meritorious remedy.—G. M. YELLOWSTONE PARK AND OMAHA EXPOSITION.

Personally-Conducted Tour via Pennsylvania Railroad.

The Yellowstone National Park is unquestionably one of the most interesting regions on the globe, for within it is displayed the greatest collection of nature's manifold wonders. Indeed, this mountain-bound plateau, high up on the summit of the everlasting Rockies, is a veritable playground for the world's giant forces.

The personally-conducted tour of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, which leaves New York on September 1, affords the most satisfactory plan of visiting this wonderland and viewing its marvelous features. A stop of two days will be made on the return trip at Omaha, affording an opportunity to visit the Trans-Mississippi Exposition. Tourists will travel by special train of Pullman smoking, dining, sleeping and observation cars in each direction. Eight days will be spent in the Park. A stop will also be made returning at Chicago. The round-trip rate, $235 from Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington, covers all necessary expenses.

Valuable to Women.

Especially valuable to women is Browns' Iron Bitters. Backache vanishes, headache disappears, strength takes the place of weakness, and the glow of health readily comes to the pallid cheek when this wonderful remedy is taken. For sickly children or overworked men it has no equal. No home should be without this famous remedy. Browns' Iron Bitters is sold by all dealers.

"Fresh Air" Benevolences.

The "Fresh Air" Society, of Baltimore city, is making appeals for help in its self-appointed task of sending poor children from the city slums to breathe the pure, fresh air of the village and farm. It solicits summer homes for poor children of both sexes. The society endeavors to pay for the transportation, both ways of all those who can be given such homes, sending some one to see to the safety of the children on each trip.

This is truly a philanthropic effort exerted in the right direction. No nobler or more effective charity can possibly be undertaken than that of giving to those who have never known anything else than the poison-tainted air of the city slums a chance to breathe freely in an atmosphere which heaven and earth have agreed to make pure and sweet. The mental, moral and physical uplift which these children can obtain from a visit to rural scenes is of more value to them than the teaching of the kindergarten, the training of the gymnasium, free concerts, lectures, and, indeed almost all other means which can be employed for their improvement.

We hope that some, at least, of those who are reached by this article will be able to help in this work by giving homes for a time, even if short, to some one or more poor children. Any interested in the work can obtain information, &c., by addressing the Baltimore News, Baltimore. Md.

August Ladies' Home Journal.

All those who are fond of bright, entertaining fiction for midsummer reading will find the August Ladies' Home Journal entirely to their taste. As usual, the August issue of the Journal is largely given up to short stories, there being nine in the one number, and all by well-known writers. These include a picturesquely weird story by Julian Hawthorne; a strongly realistic tale by Clara Morris, the actress; a humorous adventure by John Kendrick Bangs, and romances told in a tenderer key by E. H. Mayde. Abbe Carter Goodloe, Sewell Ford. and Bettina Welch. Virginia Woodward Cloud graphically pictures "A Girl of Salem" in vigorous verse, and Julia Magruder concludes her novelette, "A Heaven-Kissing Hill."

There is genuine humor in Robert J. Burdette's "Tongueless Liars," and fresh interest in "Summer Piazza Stories." "Shall Our Girls go to College?", is answered by Edward Bok, who also writes in advocacy of "Giving Allowances to Girls." Mrs. S. T. Rorer tells what is "The Best Diet for Bloodless Girls," and identifies the various kinds of mushrooms growing in the woods that are fit for food. There are practical articles in needlework, millinery and on a variety of homely topics, and the musical feature is a song, "When I Wait at the Bars for Nell." By The Curtis Publishing Company, Philadelphia. One dollar per year; ten cents per copy.

McClure's Magazine for August.

Short stories by Rudyard Kipling, Rowland E. Robinson, William Allen White, Cutcliffe Hyne, and several others, make McClure's Magazine for August especially a fiction number. In Mr. Kipling's story we have a new and most diverting chapter in the lives of those most ingenious and audacious Engiish school boys—Stalky, Beetle, and McTurk. In Mr. White's we have an account of the first real passion of our old friend, the King of Boyville, Winfield Hancock Pennington—familiarly known as "Piggy." The other stories are no less characteristic of their authors: and all are interesting, cheerful, and wholesome, affording a diversion that is both nutritious and palatable The fiction, however, is by no means all that is noteworthy in the number. It contains a religious poem by Mr. Gladstone; an account by Colonel Andrew S. Rowan of a peculiarly hazardous secret journey made by him across Cuba, after the war began, in order to carry messages from our government to the insurgents; the conclusion of Charles A. Dana's reminiscences, giving new information regarding the fall of Richmond the assassination of Lincoln, the arrest of Jefferson Davis, and other events at the close of the war; and an account by Major-General Miles of his observations and experiences as a guest of honor, last year, at special royal reviews and manœuvers in Russia, Germany, and France. The illustrations of the number are remarkable fine; and so is the special cover designed by Kenyon Cox.
