August Furniture Sale

The week ushers in a business movement that will bring joy for its helpfulness to every careful and ambitious housekeeper, in Philadelphia and vicinage. The pride of every wife and mother is

The Home

And that which makes the beautifying and bettering of it easy, is a welcome event to the housekeeper, and makes home happier.

Such help has this store given, in nine previous August Sales; but never before have we approached the magnificent possibilities that we lay before Our Public during this unequalled August Furniture Sale of 1899.

The added knowledge of a year of vast doings is in it—
The keener competition of a dozen manufacturers has helped it—
Your yearly encouragement has shown enlarged possibilities.

The Exhibit is more imposing
The Furniture is more beautiful
The Prices are the lowest we have ever known

This, notwithstanding conditions—higher costs of lumber of all kinds—better rewards for the hands that did the labor.

Those who may benefit by this sale—

1. All Thrifty Housekeepers
2. Young Nest Builders
3. Hotel Proprietors
4. Apartment and Boarding-House Managers
5. Colleges and Schools
6. Men with Offices to make more convenient and comfortable

4. Furniture that is splendidly put together and handsomely finished
5. Careful selections before the hurry need-time
6. Delivery whenever you wish
7. Fifteen to twenty dollars worth of furniture for ten dollars of cost

For the sale which starts today we have in stock and on the way enough to make a solid train-load almost two miles long—in value aggregating

More Than Five Hundred Thousand Dollars

America leads the world in furniture building—we have done the most to make it so—and American furniture holds front place in this selling. But France and England are represented in the stock, and Austria sends us plenty of its famous bent wood furniture.

Bluster and brag, glue and veneer do not make furniture; neither do efforts to copy our sales of past years bring forth movements that can even shadow the magnificent opportunities that are brought within reach of Our Public by this August 1899 Sale.

Having the longest continuous Philadelphia experience—and the knowledge of these past years, we may justly claim the prestige as—

Grandfathers of the Furniture Business

There are two and a half acres displaying Furniture in the regular store on third floor. Another store on Fourth floor. To this are added today the great widened Main Aisle and Cross Aisle, and eight other sections of the house, making this the most elaborate and extensive exhibition of Furniture that Philadelphia has known.

JOHN WANAMAKER

A Sensible Wife

Will always watch the advertisements, especially grocers. By this means she will be enabled to save in the course of a year enough money to pay for a good many other household necessities. The main point is to bestow your patronage upon a house which has the reputation of living up to its newspaper announcements. The housewives of Easton know that we are in that category; We have just received a fresh lot of Dried Beef, Hams, Shoulder and Bologna which we slice in any quantity.

THE WEATHER IN AUGUST.

Predictions Made by Weather Prophet Irl R. Hicks.

On August 1st a Vulcan strong period is central, calling for rising temperature, falling barometer, with summer clouds and blustering local rains about the 2nd to 4th. These conditions will not wholly disappear, but last over until the reactionary days, 6th to 9th. New moon at apogee on the 6th, and on the equator on the 8th will augment the tendency to storm conditions on and touching those dates. Very black and highly electrical clouds will appear in many sections, with heavy gusts of wind and necessarily local showers here and there. Change to cooler, westerly winds and rising barometer should normally follow progressively from about the 8th to 11th. By the latter date the barometer will begin to fall again in the far West, and during the Vulcan period, 11th to 14th, another warm wave will intensify normal summer heat and usher in more thunder clouds with scattering showers. Westerly winds, rise of barometer and perceptible rise of temperature will fill the period of anti-storm conditions, lasting up to about the 18th. A Mercury period is central on the 21st, extending from the 17th to 26th. The earth's autumnal equinox is also felt from this date. General tendency to cloudiness will prevail throughout the Mercury disturbance and the time of marked disturbances will center about 18th to 20th and 23rd to 25th. Look for extreme summer heat about the 18th-26th, with possibly a moderate respite about the 20th. Black, blustering thunder clouds, with hard winds and heavy showers, will visit many sections at this time. In fact the most favorable outlook for rains during this month is within the Mercury period. Many electrical disturbances will be natural on and touching the 22nd, from which date on to the 26th great warmth, with low barometer and many summer storms, will be most natural. Equatorial, or autumnal equinoctial storms, up the southern seas will, in all probability, develop at this time, in which event winds will shift and blow steadily from northern latitudes for several days, causing a break in the high temperature over much of our continent. At the same time the southern coast regions and far inland from that direction will be liable to heavy persistent rains. By the 28th high temperatures are apt to return generally, and the month will close with a marked reaction to storm conditions from West to East.

Moral Value of Manual Training.

To train the hand means to train the powers of the eye, and to bring the muscular and nervous systems into working accord. Some kinds of manual training give the whole body useful exercise. All kinds rest the brain and relieve the body after purely intellectual work, while cultivating them in another fashion and developing the creative instinct. And they teach directness of purpose, concentration of effort, accuracy of observation, and also mental and moral precision and honesty. The teacher, and even the pupil himself, may think that a book lesson has been learned when it has not been, or that an idea has been mastered when it has been only half grasped or wholly misunderstood. But this cannot happen with manual work. A tangible thing is done, and rightly done, or it is not. A stitched seam is straight, a leaf is correctly drawn, a carpenter's joint is true, or it is not. Neither deception nor self-deception is possible in the workshop, and the spirit of accuracy, system, conscientiousness, self-reliance, and helpful cooperation that it develops is carried over into the other class rooms. Moreover, the workshop may cultivate taste as well as skill; and although it does not teach trades, it celebrates the dignity of manual labor, and often develops individual likings and aptitudes far it. The same is the case with the lessons in "comestic science" given to girls. They are not taught to be "professed" cooks or dressmakers. But their finger, eyes, and palates are trained; the importance of cleanliness, neatness, order and exactness is impressed upon them; respect for household work and interest in it are awakened; and these great benefits are augmented by such instruction in hygienic and alimentary law as could hardly be made to seem practical and important without the help of the cooking stove.—North American Review.

There is No Kissing Bug.

Another summer dream has been exploded and, like the morning mist, is fading away. The kissing bug is no more. It is no more because it never was. A Washington correspondent of the Pittsburg Dispatch explains how the industrious insect was invented by a versatile reporter to help alleviate the ennui of the long summer days It was suggested by the fact that there was a colored man whose pastime was to kiss unprotected females as they walked in some of the remoter streets. The name "black bandit" was facetiously given to him, and as he successfully eluded capture, it was suggested that perhaps the man was a myth and that there was a bug that did the business, and to it was given the name of kissing bug. An ingenious correspondent who knew something of Greek gave it this entomogical name, which means black bandit. What was intended as a summer joke gained credence and spread, and blame was laid to its door for the misdeeds of all sorts of bugs. Indeed, in a number of stores in this city the "kissing bug" is exhibibited, and a peculiarity of the exhibition is that no two bugs shown are of the same kind. Ephemeral creature of a summer's day, must we lose thee so soon, when summer resorts had just begun to advertise, "No mosquitos or kissing bug?"—Troy Press.

Bismark's Iron Nerve

Was the result of his splendid health. Indomitable will and tremendous energy are not found where Stomach, Liver, Kidneys and Bowels are out of order. If you want these qualities and the success they bring, use Dr. King's New Life Pills. They develop every power of brain and body. Only 25c at Dr. Councell's Pharmacy.

OF GENERAL INTEREST.

An Expert's View on Crime—American Vessels under British Protection.

Under the new order of the War Department ten new regiments are being recruited in this country and two are being formed in the Phillippines. The enlistments are until June 30, 1901, unless sooner discharged. About 17,000 men will thus be added to the military establishment, and the most of them are for the Phillippines.

There was no explanation of the stranding of the Mohegan, one of the most awful disasters in the history of the seas, because all the officers lost their lives and there was no one to tell why the ship had gone so far out of its course. It was a striking coincidance that sent the Paris upon the same rocks, but in this case the circumstances were more fortunate, as all the lives were saved. Thus we now know what caused it. The captain said he alone was resonsible, he made an error in calculating the time, because he mistook lighthouses eighteen miles apart. There is now a well defined movement to compel a double responsibility, so that in the case of one man making a mistake the other may correct him.

The long pending controversy between Newfoundland, Great Britain and France, concerning the French share of the former, has reached a point where the United States has a more immediate interest than ever before. Heretofore American shipmasters have been permitted to secure herring for bait along the disputed French treaty coast. Within a few months, however, they have complained bitterly of the treatment accorded them by French officials, and have been forced to put themselves under the protection of British warships on that station.

At the recent session of the American Medical Association Dr. Daniel B. Brower, professor of mental diseases in Rush Medical College, Chicago, made the startling statement that "crime in the United States is increasing in a vastly more rapid ratio than is the population." He said present laws were defective because they were principally directed against crime and against the criminal. A judge should also be a physician, and in making up sentence should consider the biological condition of the criminal. The checking process should begin with the children of degenerates. These should be taken care of by the courts and placed in favorable environment at the age of seven years. Criminals incapable of reformation should be placed in confinement for life, that they may not become constant menaces to society. And as a high essential in this scheme of reform, the pardoning power, said Dr. Brower, should be transferred from the political officers of the State to a board "whose members should be skilled in criminal anthropology."

Service at Trinity Cathedral tomorrow, Feast of the Transfiguration: 11 a. m. Service, Sermon and Holy Communion, 8 p. m. Evening Prayer and Sermon. The offerings of the Congregation will be received for the building of the new St. Pauls by-the-sea, at Ocean City. This work is being vigorously prosecuted by the Rev. Mr. Gantt and his vestry and has the cordial approval of the Bishop of the Diocese.

This season has proved so far a record-breaker for Ocean City. Never before have Marylanders patronized their home seashore so much as this year. The Atlantic Hotel, the largest and best at the resort, has been turning people away for lack of accommodations, and scarcely a day goes by but there is a demand for more rooms than are at the disposal of Manager DeShields. The beach is unsurpassed, and bathing in consequence is a feature. A number of Eastonians are spending August at Ocean City.
