No Substitute For Local Paper

The surest way to develop the local community and create permanent prosperity is to encourage the building up of steady payrolls.

Information that shows the individual his interest in productive enterprise is indispensable to the sound solution of questions that encourage the establishment or growth of industries and business.

Just as industries bring business to every store, so do they make possible advertising and subscribers upon which the local newspaper depends, and hereinn lies the interest of editors in the pro lems of industry.

That this philosophy is sound annd has a direct bear ing on the prosperity of every community, every busi ness and every individual is evidenced by figures released by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States covering the period from 1940 to 1950. They show that for every 100 new industrial workers in nine counties surveyed by the Chamber, retail sales zoomed $360,000, personal income $590,000, and bank deposits $270,000.

An increase of 10 industrial workers meant 174 new jobs in other lines of work, 112 more households and a population increase of 296 —new purchasers of all manner of goods and services. The survey covered a ten year period and was designed to measure the impact of new industry on local business.

The problems of industry are the problems of the people. They involve the welfare of the publisher, who is the spokesman for the people and every business in the community.

People rely heavily on the home town paper. No other agency is a substitute for it. From politics, deaths, births and editorial comment on public issues, local and national, to household recipes the grass roots press inform its subscribers.

It is the newspaper that people live with, sit down with, and study. Its editorials help its readers formulate their own conclusions on current issues—not necessarily in agreement with the editor. It is therefore logical that editors should take the lead in discussing issues which involve production and payrolls—bread and butter for all.

Best On Record

As 1954 approached its end, the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, which complies elaboratestatistical studies of health, stated that the "health of the American people has been the best on record."

In reporting the findings, Newsweek said that during the first 11 months of the year the tuberculosis death rate dropped 20 per cent over 1953, and that from influenza and pneumonia 25 per cent. Slight reductions were recorded for heart, artery, and kidney conditions. And the death rate was also lower for diabetes.

There were 50 per cent more cases of measles and whooping-cough than in '53. But the death rates were very low.

The point of all this is that the health of the people gets steadily better—and the average life expectancy gets steadily longer. Over a period of years, the gains have been spectacular. And there is hope that medical science maybe on the verge of subduing killers which are not now thoroughly understood, such as cancer.

Such progress is of enormous importance to everyone—our lives are literally at stake. And it is important that the facts be made known as widely as possible —for those who favor socialized medcine or some variant thereof have, deliberately or not, tried to make it appear we get inadequate medical care, and that government intervention provides the only answer.
