THE YOUNGER SET

With Joan Wyatt would make up her mind who she likes best of two certain boys. By the way, Joan, why didn't you go out to the cars at the last dance and get those presents?

Special congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Donald Thompson who were quietly married on Friday nite. Mrs. Thompson, Arabell Thomas, was given a shower the Wednesday before they were married. It was supposed to be a bridal shower like gal every thing but those unmentionables you get at a shower.

They tell us Mr. and Mrs. Dudley Ewing are going house keeping. I think daughter, Patricia Anne will like it? Good home keeping Mother!

Wonder why Annabell had to be in by 11 the other night. Must have over stayed your time the night before.

Sonny Thomas says he is going to get himself a '42 Chevrolet. Who, Sonny?

Would like to know if Sonny Ewing is still engaged to the most wonderful and beautiful girl in the world. I mean the one from Pa. Did someone cut you out or vice versa?

Also like to know when Collie Smith is going to the knot to Jean? B-Day make it soon?

Sailor for Carville Tolson. Please don't get disgusted with the column. It's all in fun! Although remember the old saying, "The truth always hurts."

Don't you think Merle Thompson and Leon Young make a magnificent couple? Ask you always to by M Merle?

Would like to see Virginia and Ann Rose come out more often. Haven't seen you around for quite some time!

Girls, did you know Rodney Denny was a bugeud. He's quite grown up but he'd be a lot better if he'd learn some new steps.

Warren Chesney was taken to the hospital last weekend and was operated on for acute appendicitis. Hope he's lot better by now.

Also Arnold Thomas was suppose to be sick but he looked all right to me when I saw him. Were you trading, Arnold?

It seems fishful of only two without left we've added three to the list—M. S., G. C. R. T., A. T.!

Harold begg must have been jealous of Warren. He climbs on his car and goes to join Warren. I think he had to have 7 stitches taken in his lip. Now I'm not sure as if I'm wrong, I'm sorry.

Question for Mary Skinner. Are you glad Charlie married yet? Also is he cud he good or is he just borne an insect?

Question Bill Ewing Cooney. Where was your sisterfriday night? No date!?!

Sorry didn't thrall to have the whole family in this week.

Bye Now.

THE ROADSIDE CHURCH

The little church by the side of the road,
A symbol of our God,
Shrined in many hour and fat.
Abid even some stood.
Standing by the roadside,
In quite simplicity,
Radiating faith and strength,
To our humanity.

Erected by the roadside,
Many years ago,
A guiding light to passersby;
Rich blessings to bestow,
Bringing cheer at Christmas-tide
With decorations bright,
Ringing out with joy and song,
Of Silent, Holy night.

Loved by generations,
Memories it does recall—
The little church by the side of the road.

Not pretentious at all.
Plain, simple, and humble
A beacon in the night,
The little church by the roadside,
To guide your children right.

Standing by the roadside,
A bit battered, scarred and worn,
Sometimes as you pass it by,
It looks quite forlorn.
God grant this little church,
May live and breathe again,
Bringing inspiration and peace
Unto the descendants of man.

MRS. J. W. KEITH

Mrs. J. William Keith, one of Queen Anne's County's most active and admired matrons, passed away at the Easton Memorial Hospital early Monday evening after an illness of three days.

Mrs. Keith suffered a stroke at her home early Friday morning and was removed to the Easton hospital where she remained in a coma until her death Monday.

Well-known throughout the county, her home was a "mecca" for young people for many years. Known for her charm, her gracious ness and her wit, few people in the county have not, at some time, encountered the hospitality of her home.

Her five children surviving are Mrs. J. H. Fielding Jones, Washington, D. C.; Mrs. Louis H. Perkins, Centreville; Mrs. Harry B. Tingle, Wilmington; J. William Keith, Jr., and Donald L. Keith. One grandchildren, Ray Perkins and John T. Bishop, Joseph C. Bishop and W. Harry Bishop, brothers, and Mrs. W. I. Davis, Queenstown; Mrs. J. Norman Mason, Miss Nettie Bishop and Miss Pearl Bishop, Centreville, sisters also survive.

Funeral Services were held from the Keith home Wednesday at 2:30 p. m., the Rev. Joseph B. Vaughn and G. E. Lebler officiating. Interment was in Christ Hill Cemetery, Centreville.

SPORTS

by
GEORGE W. ALDRIDGE, Jr.

There should be a better brand of baseball in Centreville this year than we've ever seen there before. The roster of the Baltimore Orioles is really loaded with the youngsters they've signed in addition to the many, many players which have returned from the service the war's end. This means that Herb Atkinson will be sending the best to Centreville and he'll be letting all that can't produce go. Another angle we have to consider is that all of these men will be shooting for higher goals while they're playing Class D ball. There'll be no one playing just to make a living because the pay isn't that good and employment is only for about five months a year. The chief problem facing Asbury Bartlett, Chairman of the Orioles Committee in Centreville, is that of living accommodations for the players. There will be twenty-four of them coming into Centreville the last of April. Dover also has the same problem but on a much larger scale. They have five teams, over 120 men, coming in there for their Spring training. Jim McLeod has been discharged from the service and is going to Florida on Sunday with Tommy Thomas and the Baltimore aggregation. He'll definitely manage the Centreville club this season.

The Centreville High Boys and Girls teams each beat Cordova and lost in Easton during the week. The County Legion team dropped a tough one on Monday night to Denton. They lost by one point which was scored against them in the last two second of the game. The entire game was very loose and rough due to some poor work by the referee. Leroy Morris, Bill Rickets, and Bill Hastings did most of the scoring for the locals. I'm sorry to hear that this team had to withdraw from the Eastern Shore Independent Basketball Tournament which is to be played in Salisbury on March 8th, 9th and 7th. The club can't meet the expenses of a Night entrance fee and three trips to and from Salisbury. I'm picking Crisfield to take away the high honors in the tournament.

Col. Knight, Dover, Del., sports writer, is president of the Mid-Del Senior Pro League for the 1946 season. At a meeting in Harley, Del., on Sunday, the league was reorganized and will contain of eight teams five from Delaware and three from Maryland. Their season will open on May 5th. Queen Anne's County will be represented in the league by a team from Church Hill under the guidence of Ralph Wells and Norman Dudley.

The Easton Yankees may have a home-town boy on first base for them this season.

We may have a future boxer; weight champion in young Bill Downes from Centreville. He has been taking up all comers at Charlie Ball Military Academy this year and a few weeks ago he knocked out one of West Point's best heavyweights.
