Add Shelf Units With One for the Corner

IF YOU want shelves on one side of the room only, one or more of the 28 units shown here will do. A unit at each end is a smart combination. If you wish to run the shelves around two sides of the room, a corner unit, shown at C, will also be needed.

All of the units in the sketch are well proportioned with deep shelves and are especially designed to be made by the man who is handy with hammer and saw. Patterns are available with complete cutting guides for the correct shelves, door, coffee or lumber are cited and the pattern lists all materials needed. Only the simplest hand tools are required.

The A and B units are made with pattern PP-1to 7 and for the corner unit, PP-7. Patterns are 10 cents each or 25 cents for both patterns mailed in one envelope. Send requests for patterns direct to Mrs. Spears.

Goldfish Revert

Centuries of breeding have made the goldfish the most modified of all domesticated creatures in the animal kingdom.

Yet when this species of fish escapes into open water where its chances of survival are enhanced by its bright color and small size, it reverts in the original dark olive color and blends in one with in a few generations.

The President and the Crisis

("This is one place where there is always a train just around the corner. I think every word will be true hereafter, but who must work to silence a fault more so."—President Truman.)

When I arise each morning
I heave a sigh and say,
"Things cannot be as tenble
As they were yesterday."
I think the worst is over—
To trouble I say, "Scram!"
But very, very quickly
I see how wrong I am.

I rip my sheet of first jolts
And hope I may relax...
But when I reach my coffee
My optimism cracks.
The telephone starts ringing—
Complaints begin to pour
And there stands Old Man Trouble
Directly in the door!

'Tis soon I keep my chin up,
And be such brave say,
"Now be a nice, good crisis
And take yourself away!"
But insidious fads no reeding,
And when the check strikes zero
It's clear to me my troubles
Have only just begun.

By three o'clock I'm grouse,
But still I sort of hope
My burdens soon will lighten,
But hear a cry "No soap!"
A brand new P.M. crisis
Comes racing round the block
And soon is in the White House—
It never stops to knock!

But I am philosophic,
My guess I must not drop;
If I'm to keep my balance
And never lose my top,
So welcome, hearty crisis,
The old ones and the new—
It's just a little matter
Of getting used to you.

The Class as a Pet

A Boys Club annual pet show is featured this year by something never encountered at such a show before. It is a round class, owned by a seven-year-old lad, and it has created considerable applause sitting. However, we stand firmly behind the kid. A class makes a pretty wonderful pet. It is submissive, personable, its habits are never annoying, it never climbs into the dog house unless said nobody has to get up at 6:30 to let it out.

You know right away that class will never bring any scat its slippers or sit up and beg. You realize at once that it will not chase a ball across the living room. So you don't bother. All a class asks is to be let alone.

We are a class breeder and lover. Our class interests are the home of such outstanding class as Muddy Bank Boy, by Silver River Princess—Charles Island King. We also own the blue ribbon winner Pull-In-Your-Neck by Kevin Rose Charmer—Five Island Sweetheart. This summer, we are going in for prize classes, starting our kennel with the famous Champion Sells Queen of Welch's Point. Duke of Grand Central Oyster Bar and Housewife Gus.

Marital Romeos hesitate to be really a sensitive kindly person, by nature a poet in the minds of Gilbert and Sullivan:

When a married's not engaged
In his employment
Or pestering his repulsive lot
Is pest no greater or any other man's.
