THE EDITOR'S COLUMN

This old cliché makes a good point. All of you know the price we can pay for your livestock is what we can pay for the products you produce. Also you know that what we can pay for the meat and the by products is greatly affected by the supply of livestock and the demand for them. The greater the supply of livestock and meat products is the marketing of the supply with the demand, whereas the supply and demand may be. The job of national wildlife ranchers is to balance the supply of wildlife with the demand by efficient disposition of the stock to the places where people want to buy it.

Answer to Question 1:
There is no question about Maryland's oldest sport. It is horse racing which began in Maryland in 1708, over 300 years ago. Horse racing is older than the State of Maryland. But coming in at Maryland's most popular sport, horse racing is also the State's most important cultural activity. Horse racing is a major source of revenue for the State and a major source of employment for the State. Horse racing is a major source of revenue for the State and a major source of employment for the State.

YOU RAISE 'EM.
HE SELLS 'EM.

It is a far cry—an average of over 1,750 miles—from New York on the Eastern range to ranch on the Western range. Clyde E. Jones is the man who, perhaps more than any other, helps bridge that gap.

has recent lost his interest in agriculture. The new produce and feeds livestock on his 500-acre farm in Illinois.

The nationwide sales departments which he heads market more of the products of American farms and ranches than any other organization in the country. That's why we say of the start of this story, "You raise 'em—he sells 'em."
