Apollo's Fount.

THE HOUR OF REST.

I LOVE, when weary toil is o'er,
To ease my mind by care opprest,
To hie me to my fav'rite bower,
And greet the welcome Hour of Rest.

There while I view the setting sun
Illume the regions of the West,
Well pleased to think my labor done,
I joyful hail the Hour of Rest.

The faithful partner of my life
Appears with smiles, to make me blest;
I view with rapture child and wife,
And well enjoy the Hour of Rest.

The moments pass in converse sweet,
And whilst I lean upon her breast,
My little prattler seems to greet
With joy the peaceful Hour of Rest.

When forc'd by storms the bower to fly,
And every warbler seeks his nest,
With me 'tis still a cloudless sky,
And still I hail the Hour of Rest.

So, when this transient life is past,
And cold shall be each throbbing breast,
May Virtue lead our souls at last,
To that Eternal Hour of Rest.

Centreville Packet.

Captains James & Thomas Dawson,

RETURN their grateful acknowledgments to the public for the encouragement they have heretofore received in running their Packet between Centreville and Baltimore, and now inform them that they have ready for business, an elegant, safe, and commodious new Schooner (called the CORSICA) built of the best materials, and fitted up in a superior stile for the accommodation of Passengers.—Capt. Nicholas Meeds having entered into partnership jointly with them, will command the Corsica, and commence running the latter part of this month, starting from Centreville landing on Wednesday at 9 o'clock, and will leave Baltimore at the same hour on Saturday in every week during the season.

They have also taken that large commodious granary at Corsica landing, formerly the property of Henry Pratt, Esq. which is repaired and fitted up in the most substantial manner, for the reception and storage of grain, where the Schooner EXPERIMENT, commanded by Captain Thomas Dawson, will attend for the conveyance of it to market—and will also attend at any place on Chester River or Corsica Creek, for the same purpose, at the shortest notice.

As the Packet will be furnished with the best Liquors and accommodations the market can afford, and every attention paid by Captain Meeds to render general satisfaction, they hope to obtain the patronage of a generous public.

One hundred dollars reward.

RANAWAY from the subscriber on the 25th January 1810, a dark mulatto man named George Haskins, sometimes calls himself George Lloyd—He is rather more than six feet high, has a small scar across his nose, one on his forehead between his eye-brow and hair, he has one on the back of his leg occasioned by the cut of a scythe: has holes in his ears for bobs, and when he absconded had ovel gold bobs in them. His clothes was a light brown cloth coat, two striped linsey jackets, one red and white, and the other blue and white—deep blue stockings with red clocks: it is unnecessary to say more of his clothing, as he is a great trafficker and may change them; he is a tolerable good fiddler and took one with him, also a gun, which he may sell to purchase drink, as he is very fond of it, and when disguised with it, is very fond of talking, and a great laugher, and very noisey.—He is a very strait well made person, and thought handsome: he borrowed a pair of boots which he wore away—he is very artful and active, and unless sharply watched and well confined (if taken) will certainly get away. I will give 30 dollars if taken in this county, 40 dollars if taken in the next county, and 50 dollars if any further distance, and all reasonable charges I will pay if he is brought to Easton, and safely delivered to Captain John Meredith, or confined in goal.
