NERVOUS PROSTRATION

Mrs. J. Christman Proved That Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a Remedy for this Trouble.

Binghamton, N. Y.—"I was in a very nervous condition for over a year, my mind was gloomy, could see no light on anything, could not work and could not have anyone to see me. Doctor's medicine did not help me and Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was recommended. I took it and am now well. I recommend it to all afflicted with nervous prostration."—Mrs. J. CHRISTMAN, 193 Oak Street, Binghamton, New York.

The success of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, is unparalleled. It may be used with perfect confidence by women who suffer from nervous prostration, displacements, inflammation, ulceration, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion and dizziness. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the standard remedy for female ills.

If there are any complications about which you need advice write in confidence to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass.

RHEUMATISM

Mustarine Subdues the Inflammation and Eases the Soreness Quicker Than Anything Else on Earth.

Try only 25 cents and get a big box of Stay's Mustarine, which is the original mustard plaster and is made of strong, yellow mustard—no substitutes are used.

It's known as the quickest pain killer on earth, for in hundreds of instances it stops headache, neuralgia, toothache, earache and backache in 5 minutes.

It's a sure, speedy remedy—none better for bronchitis, pleurisy, lumbago and to draw the inflammation from sore feet there is nothing so good. You get real action with Mustarine—it gives after the pain and kills it right off like mad. Yes, it burns, but it won't blister—it doesn't give agonizing pain a slap on the wrist. It does give it a good healthy punch in the jaw—it kills pain. Ask for and get Mustarine always in the yellow box.

Anti-Suffs Plan Campaign.

Baltimore.—At an executive board meeting of the Maryland Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage, held at the residence of the president, Mrs. Rufus M. Gibbs, on Friday, plans were made for a campaign during the coming months while the General Assembly is in session. Gratification was expressed over an account of conditions in one of the counties, which was given in a report from one of the county chairmen, who said that the feeling is strongly against woman suffrage in her district.

The question of women taking a stand against immoral plays was taken up and it was decided that, since public morals are always in keeping with public opinion, and since it is the women who set the standard for public decency in social life, and since they do not need political power to exert their influence along these important lines, it was resolved that the attention of the membership be called to the need for concerted action by all bodies of women, and particularly religious bodies, in bringing about a condition of public opinion that will condemn the type of plays that are disintegrating the moral fiber of our youth.

Farmers To Protest Rates.

Frederick.—The Farmers' Association Saturday voted to send 100 farmers and business men before the Public Service Commission, to protest against rates of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company. President David G. Zentz was authorized to appoint the delegation.

It will be the largest number of representative men that have ever gone from this city in a body, the purpose being to have the farmers lay before the Commission in their own language a long pent-up complaint. The meeting lasted several hours. There were lively expressions of opinion over the telephone rates. George A. T. Snouffer, Adamstown, said the telephone rates were a burden on farmers and that the time had come to fight for relief. William J. Grove said the farmers had helped to establish the telephone company and in return they had been burdened with exorbitant rates.

Emmitsburg High School.

Emmitsburg.—For the purpose of looking into the needs of the public school and also to take steps to establish a high school course here, the taxpayers have appointed the following committee: H. W. Warrenfeltz, chairman; J. S. Annan, Walter Hess, J. T. Hayes, Frank H. Orndorff, Nevin Martin, Ernest Shriver and Walter Shoemaker. This committee was instructed to prepare a petition to be presented to the next General Assembly asking for an appropriation for a new high-school. With Mount St. Mary's College for young men and St. Joseph's for young ladies, this is the educational center of the county and the local citizens feel that better advantages should be given to the children in the grammar and high school courses.

An Old Marylander Dead.

Rockville. — Zachariah McCubbin Waters, one of this county's oldest and best-known citizens, died at his home near Goshen. His death followed a long illness, which began several months ago with a stroke of paralysis. He would have been 87 years old on January 15. Surviving him are his wife, formerly a Miss Magruder, of this county, and the following children, all of this county: Z. M. Waters, Jr., Edwin Waters, Mrs. Laura Griffith and Miss Mamie Waters.

Col. S. L. Wright Dead.

Chestertown. — Col. Samuel L. Wright, with his son, Walter, and family, left here in November to visit in California. News was received here that the Colonel had died of pneumonia after a short illness. He was a veteran of the Civil War, 77 years old. His wife died a few years ago while on a visit to the Pacific Coast. His remains will be cremated and the ashes brought East.

Family Out—Home Burns.

Cumberland.—Fire from an overheated furnace pipe partially destroyed the residence and household contents of Arthur Price, at Lonaconing. The family was away at the time. The property belongs to the Porter estate, Baltimore.

Westernport Nominations Made.

Westernport.—At the primary election for officials of Westernport, Oliver H. Bruce, Sr., was nominated for clerk to serve one year and Charles P. Tonry and William G. Paul for commissioners to serve two years. The election will be held January 12 and the officials to be chosen will take office February 7.

Chester River Boats Stop.

Chestertown.—Mercury registered 6 degrees Monday morning. The river is frozen and no boats are running. A skating carnival is now going on.

British soldiers in Palestine used labels from jars of jam as money in purchasing goods from some of the natives there. The scheme worked well until the plum and apple labels were presented to the bank for payment.

ANNAPOLIS NEWS

Tydings And Norris Win.

After much conferring and discussion, Democratic leaders at the Hotel Rennert agreed that the slate for the organization of the Legislature should be:

Speaker of the House—Lieut.-Col. Millard E. Tydings, of Harford county.

President of the Senate—William I. Norris, of Baltimore city.

Regarding the choice of Mr. Tydings there was little difficulty. This trouble consisted in allaying the opposition raised by the two other members of the Harford county delegation. Messrs. Coburn and Hopkins, backed by Michael H. Fahey, of Havre de Grace, who was bitterly fighting the selection of Colonel Tydings.

But regarding the selection of Senator Norris there was much trouble, due to the opposition of several of the county members and also of Senator George A. Frick, of Baltimore city, himself a candidate.

The discussions over the selection for this place lasted so long that finally United States Senator John Walter Smith, who had been keeping out of the fight, went to the Rennert in an effort to smooth down the opposition after Governor-elect Ritchie had done all in his power in the effort to bring about harmony. Senator Smith, it was said, was backing the judgment of the Governor-elect in making a choice for President of the Senate, and his influence was exerted to induce those of his friends who were objecting to the selection of Senator Norris to accept it in the interest of the new administration.

So much time was taken up with the discussion of the candidates for Speaker and President of the Senate that there was little time left to take up the making of a slate for the principal places to be filled as a part of the organization of the two houses.

Throughout the afternoon and evening there was a large crowd of Democrats at the Rennert, including county leaders and members-elect of the two houses.

As far as the tentative selection of desk officers went it appeared that Albert J. Almoney, of Montgomery county, will be the chief clerk of the new House, while Andrew Schaab, of Howard county, was in the lead for reading clerk of the Senate, a position he held two years ago. Mr. Almoney now is a member of the Advisory Board of Parole, but will resign as soon as the new position is assured. He has been chief clerk of the House for several sessions but was displaced two years ago by the Republicans, then in control.

Robert Biggs Elected.

Robert Biggs, Democrat, was elected Monday to the State Senate by the voters of the Second Legislative district of Baltimore city. He won by a majority of 2,913 over his Republican opponent, George W. Cameron, in a special election made necessary by the death of Senator Peter J. Campbell.

The vote was light, only 16,499 ballots being polled, of which Mr. Biggs received 9,706 and Mr. Cameron 6,793. Mr. Biggs lost one ward—the Thirteenth—which gave a majority against him of 188. In the November election Peter Peck carried this ward over Senator Campbell by a majority of 74.

Considering the lightness of the vote, compared with that in the Campbell Peck fight, when 37,431 were polled, giving Senator Campbell a majority of 3,007, the friends of Mr. Biggs found considerable cause for congratulation in the figures. He made his best showing in the Ninth ward, where he received 1,859 votes to Mr. Cameron's 769. This ward gave Senator Campbell 3,251 and Mr. Peck 2,034. He carried by 1,240 to 1,102 the Fifteenth ward, lost by Senator Campbell by 3,123 to 3,486. He showed distinct proportional gains in the Seventh and Twelfth. In the other three wards the figures were closely proportioned to those tabulated in November.

Early in the day, when it seemed evident that the vote would be light, there was some uneasiness in Democratic ranks, on the theory that the district being normally Democratic, the lighter the vote the lighter the majority for Mr. Biggs. The shortness of the time for preparation, and the consequent lack of information as to any undercurrents that might have been at work, contributed to keep something of this feeling alive throughout the day.

The law provides for the official canvass of the vote on the Thursday following the election. The question whether Mr. Biggs will be permitted to take his seat and participate in the formal part of the selection of officers for the Senate when that body convenes Tuesday was under discussion.

Mr. Biggs issued the following statement:

"No one regretted more sincerely than I the loss which the city of Baltimore and the State of Maryland sustained by the death of Senator Campbell and a very high honor has been conferred upon me by the voters of the Second Legislative district in electing me as his successor. I realize, of course, that I cannot bring to the service of the city and the State the ripe experience of Senator Campbell, but it will be my constant effort to merit the confidence which the voters in the district have shown in me.

Birthplace of Lafayette

Chateau de Chavagnac.

BEFORE daylight on the morning of September 6, 1918, there was an unusual amount of bustle and stir in the little town of Aubiere, a suburb of Clermont-Ferrand, the capital of the department of Puy-de-Dome, in one of the most historic regions of France—the ancient province of Auvergne, says the Christian Science Monitor. What was the occasion which produced all this early morning excitement? Surely no call to battle or no signal to go over the top, because the actual horrors of the world war never extended into this sleepy corner of south-central France; and the American regiment quartered hereabouts was merely passing through the last stages of its preliminary training prior to its triumphant moment of action upon the heights of the Meuse, which occurred during the last days of the war.

It was the one hundred and sixth anniversary of the birth of the great Lafayette, and the regimental band of Col. Arthur S. Conklin's Three Hundred and Third heavy field artillery regiment had been invited to share with a few American army officers the honor of representing the American expeditionary forces—yes, the United States of America—at the birthplace and the early home of the great hero who aided so much in the work of winning its independence as a nation. The last bandsman had returned from the early breakfast served in the village square of Aubiere, and with his instrument had joined the crowd already climbing into the huge army motor trucks drawn up before the band's billet.

As the first rays of the dawn appeared, and the procession of Aubiere's peasants commenced from the crooked alleyways of the town to the surrounding fields and vineyards, the trucks moved out of the village and over the hill toward Clermont.

After the brief ride through the thoroughfares of the city of Clermont-Ferrand, which was just awakening to the day's activities, the bandsmen arrived at the commodious railway station where specially reserved cars on the morning train south awaited them. After the sun was up the train ambled out of Clermont and was soon making its way leisurely through the colorful Auvergne country.

The Setting Supreme.

The day proved to be perfect, warm, and clear; the views from the car windows were entrancing, and the "mademoiselles" tending the gates at each crossing waved their greetings to the groups of young Yankee soldiers which filled the windows of each compartment in the train. The landscape was dotted here and there with the picturesque red-roofed villages, from the center of which rose the gray stone church towers; the countryside seemed to be an immense vineyard filled with endless acres of grapevines; and the mountain peaks, now extinct volcanoes, stood out in bold relief against the clear blue sky like sentinels. Occasionally an old castle ruin frowned upon the travelers from some overhanging cliff or neighboring hillside.

After a ride of three hours, the train passed into the department of Haute Loire and made a short stop at Brionde, where many gayly-dressed country folk with their lunch baskets boarded the cars. A few moments later, the train reached the little village of Paulhaguet, where the order sounded to detrain. After much hurrying and scurrying about at the little way-station, many vehicles of every sort and description were pressed into service for the transportation of the men to their destination. Some rode in autos, some in carriages, and a bass tuba player with his immense instrument was obliged to ride on the front seat of an outlandish coupe, by the side of the driver. The horse was not fleet-footed; and the tuba player reached the Chateau de Lafayette nearly an hour later than the other bandsmen, who had watched the great bell of his brass horn dazzling in the sun's rays, slowly making its way up the mountain road several miles below.

Fine Ride to Old Castle.

And what a ride it was! what superb scenery and glorious country, picturesque, mountainous! It seemed difficult to believe that a land of such overwhelming beauty in summer could in winter be transformed into a wild, bleak region known as the Siberia of France. It was a great day for the young Americans; a most delightful diversion from the daily routine in Aubiere, marching drills and drills in the uncomfortable gas masks, band rehearsals, parades, and reviews, and evening band concerts in the town square.

The Chateau de Chavagnac Lafayette stands upon the crest of a lofty eminence commanding a magnificent view of the beautiful Auvergne country; miles and miles of verdant fields and woods stretched far away to a distant horizon flanked with long ranges of majestic hills and mountains. The grounds of the chateau are spacious and attractive, and the little village of Chavagnac adjoins the estate on one side, while the other three sides are open to the distant view. The old castle itself, flanked on two sides with large round towers, presents a strikingly medieval appearance; long rows of French windows are built across the upper portion of the front of the building, and large portholes are seen on each side of the small main doorway.

Castle Built in Fourteenth Century.

The castle was built in the fourteenth century, burned in 1701 and rebuilt, as nearly like the original as possible, before Lafayette's birth, on September 6, 1757. The family records date back to the year 1000, when "a certain man by the name of Motier acquired an estate called Villa Faya, and thereafter he became known as Motier de la Fayette," according to Martha Foote Crow in her biography of Lafayette.

The great hero is a direct descendant of Pons Motier and the noble Alix Brun de Champetieres who were married in 1240, and according to the old parish register in Chavagnac Lafayette's full name was Monseigneur Marie-Joseph-Paul-Yves-Roch-Gilbert Dumotier de Lafayette. Here, in this grim old castle, the Marquis de Lafayette spent the first 11 years of his life; and in later years the hero returned to his birthplace after his triumphant career in America and lived here for a time with his family. He instituted various kinds of reforms on his estate and in the villages adjoining; and all of the work for the people of his native town was for their betterment, their enlightenment, and emancipation. The peasantry were greatly attached to him.

The later years of Lafayette were spent at his wife's estate, La Grange, 40 miles east of Paris.

The latter part of the forenoon of this anniversary day in 1918 was spent in looking over the estate and neighboring village. The bandsmen were conducted through the chateau, saw Lafayette's own room and what few relics are to be seen, including a peculiar looking article of furniture designated as his bathtub. Many of the American boys wandered through the quaint, picturesque village, visited the venerable parish church and purchased beautiful lace work made by the women of the town to send home to their friends.

SWAMP SOIL AMAZINGLY RICH

Wilderness Offers Rich Return to Those Who Will Take Up Work of Reclamation.

Beginning with the great Dismal swamp just south of Norfolk, Va., and reaching in an almost unbroken strip of tangled wilderness in the Everglades of Florida, the swamp region of the South is one of the greatest undeveloped possibilities and one of the largest and most picturesque bits of wilderness left in America.

Neither its economic value nor its beauty is very generally appreciated. Every one knows about "the arid lands of the West" and how they are being reclaimed, but few realize that the southern swamp lands offer a far richer return in the work of reclamation. The deep black ooze which underlies their stagnant waters will make the richest soil in the world. This is the region which offers the best opportunity for the carrying out of our long-delayed program of furnishing farms for soldiers.

There is no type of country which offers such effective resistance to invasion and improvement as a southern swamp. Tropical jungle is no more dense and much easier cut through, for the bulk of the tropical growth is soft. But a Georgia swamp, for example, consists of a close growth of hardwood trees and tough bushes interlaced with various kinds of vines and creepers such as the vicious green briar with its inch long thorns. The whole has much of the quality of a barbed-wire entanglement.—Niksah, in Chicago Daily News.

Kept Guessing.

"When you see a man doing some fool stunt on the street nowadays," remarked the Observer of Events and Things, "you can never tell whether he's doing it on a bet or is working for some moving-picture concern."

What's the Benefit?

The tread of an English inventor's automobile tire contains numerous small pieces of steel, so inserted in the rubber that the latter does not touch the ground.

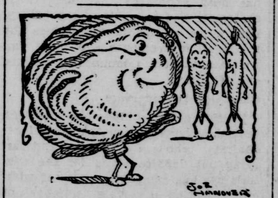
CAP and BELLS

NO SPHINXES FOR HIM.

"I want to keep talking," said Senator Sorghum, "at least enough to prevent any general reference to me as a sphinx."

"But such references imply a certain degree of compliment."

"I don't think so. The sphinx is made up of such contradictory elements that he can't be classified, and the only remark I ever heard attributed to one was largely in the nature of a joke."



A GREAT HEAD.

1st Carrot—Bright chap, isn't he?

2nd Carrot—Yes, that's Mr. Cabbage. He has a great head on him

Unkind Suggestion.

The swan sings but one song—or so
On good authority we've heard.
Oh, how we wish some folks we know
Would imitate that gentle bird.

Candidly Defined.

"What is your idea of a free government?"

"A free government," said the bolshevist, "is one that offers no opposition to our efforts to kick it to pieces and start something under our exclusive control."

Explained.

"What do you mean by saying that the prisoner struck you amidships?"

"Well, you see, judge, I had just had one schooner and was reaching for another when he hit me."

Real Joy.

"Was Maude honestly glad to see you when you came home?"

"Glad? Why, when she came rushing in to greet me I saw at once she'd forgotten to powder her nose."

Suitable One.

"What is the reigning style of floral decoration for brides just now?"

"I don't know, but it ought to be a shower bouquet."

Their Advantage.

"Good typewriters are always in demand."

"No wonder; they have their business at their fingers' ends."

Naturally.

"What do you think of the record flyer's remarkable feat?"

"That with his remarkable feat he marks a long step forward."

Something Learned.

"Has the government taught you anything about railroading?"

"Yes," replied the old-time railroad manager. "It has taught us that the traveling public can be made more docile and forbearing than we had imagined in our fondest hopes."

PRETTY.

"Is she very pretty?"

"Very. She keeps her father broke buying gowns to equal her face."

Agitations.

Through centuries the world has faced,
Philosophers assert,
It has been very often scared,
But seldom badly hurt.

Arbitrary Assertion.

"How can you assume to speak with authority on this subject, which you have not studied thoroughly?"

"That, sir," replied the uncompromising citizen, "is the very method by which I show my authority."

Wrong Emotion.

Doctor—Madam, I am sorry to have to tell you that we are despairing of your husband's recovery.

Prospective Rich Widow—I don't see why you are despairing about it. I'm not.

Sticking to It.

"You never get anywhere unless you pick something out and stick to it."

"Even that doesn't always work. Look at the fly on the fly paper."

Her Style.

"What a thin voice that girl has!"

"So thin it sounds as if she sung all her selections in a skeleton key."

Mean Suggestion.

"Jims says he writes a great deal of fugitive poetry."

"So he that reads may run?"

Bringing Up a Family

Charlottesville, Va.—"I am the mother of five children and I have depended on Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription to keep me well and strong each time, and it not only did this, but I had practically no suffering. I have also taken 'Favorite Prescription' whenever I felt bad or became run-down, and it has always built me up very quickly. I know 'Favorite Prescription' is the very best medicine a prospective mother can take to keep her in a good healthy condition."—Mrs. D. C. Gentry, Belmont Ave.

Richmond, Va.—"While raising my family Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has been a great comfort to me. I have two children who are 'Favorite Prescription' babies, and they are as healthy as any one could wish. My health was perfect all the while and in neither case did we call in a physician. My nurse has been in this line of work for forty years, and she always advises her patients to take 'Favorite Prescription' during expectancy; in fact, she does not care to handle a case without it. I have been very thankful that she recommended 'Favorite Prescription' to me, for I am sure it has saved me much distress and pain and enabled me to have strong, hardy children."—Mrs. Urcell McCullough, 703 Church St.

Fredericksburg, Va.—"Dr. Pierce's Anuric is the best kidney medicine I have ever taken. I was suffering with kidney trouble and bladder weakness. I would have severe pains across my back and through my kidneys. My druggist advised my taking 'Anuric' (anti-uric-acid), and must say I found it excellent in ridding me of this condition. 'Anuric' strengthened my kidneys and rid me of the backache. It also strengthened the bladder. I would advise those who suffer with such complaints to take the 'Anuric' Tablets."—Mrs. W. S. Cox, 908 Hanover St.
