Successful Banquet.

The annual banquet of the Women's Democratic Club of Calvert county, held in the Town Hall, Prince Frederick, on Saturday night last, was one of the most successful affairs ever held in the county. The hall was attractively and appropriately decorated for the occasion, the decorative scheme bearing out the Washington's birthday idea, and the tables, with lovely flowers on them, candles and place cards, also made a very pleasing effect.

The meeting was opened by Mrs. Joseph J. Lyons, president of the club, who introduced the toast mistress, Miss Sadie L. Gray. Miss Gray was eloquent and witty, and thoroughly entertained the audience. Short talks were made by Mrs. Frances McFaiden, president of the Southern Maryland Women's Democratic Clubs, and Mrs. Charles O. Clemson, president of the Western Maryland Democratic Women's Clubs.

Philander B. Briscoe, of Baltimore, in introducing the next speaker, Mayor Howard W. Jackson, of Baltimore, gave a brief outline of the splendid work of the Mayor and the major improvements he has made since holding that office.

Mayor Jackson talked on the problem of un-employment and the means of solving it. He said he was not particularly worried about this problem, as the American people have always been great enough to meet and satisfactorily solve all their problems.

Lansdale G Sasscer, President of the Maryland Senate, spoke on the important work the clubs can do; that by their organization they can best express their opinions on the various bills in the Legislature, and thus be helpful to legislation and to the taxpayers also.

Following the banquet a dance was held, with music furnished by an orchestra from Washington.

The committee in charge of the banquet, Mrs. Everard Briscoe, chairman, Miss Sadie L Gray, Mrs. Albert Wilson, Mrs. Roy Williams and Mrs. John W Williams, deserve great credit for their efforts in making the affair such a decided success. The guests numbered one hundred and thirty-one, and a number of persons who tried to make reservations at the last minute could not be accomodated. The dinner was furnished by Mrs. Mae T. King, a club member and proprietress of the Southern Maryland Inn, who was assisted in serving by a group of high school girls.

Two Men Wounded by Assailant.

Norman Stallings, aged 19 years, son of Mrs. George Stallings, of Chaneyville, was seriously wounded on Sunday morning last about 2 o'clock, when he is alleged to have been stabbed in the abdoman by Alonza Gatton, of Wallville, aged about 21, who, it is said, also stabbed George Henderson, aged about 27, in the chest. According to the statements of the injured men, Henderson was on the rear seat of a car operated by Gatton, and Miss Katherine Buckler, of Wallville, was sitting beside the driver, and that some objection was made to the speed at which the machine was being driven. In another machine, operated by Ralph Catterton, of Chaneyville, which was following Gatton's machine, Stallings was a passenger. At Port Republic both cars stopped when, it is said, Gatton stabbed the two men, and ran off, leaving his car in the road. Catterton carried the two wounded men to the Calvert County Hospital for treatment by Dr. Page C. Jett. Henderson's wound was superficial, and he was able to return to his home that morning, but Stallings was not permitted to leave the Hospital until Tuesday, when he went to his home for further treatment.

A warrant was issued by Justice William W. Duke Monday for Gatton's arrest, charging him with assault and battery, upon the oath of Stallings, and the hearing will be held as soon as the latter's condition permits.

Wind Storm Havoc.

On Sunday night a severe wind and rain storm raged for about three hours in Calvert and Anne Arundel counties and elsewhere in Southern Maryland. In the southern part of Anne Arundel, not far from the Calvert line, the wind blew down quite a number of tobacco barns, when it was at its height about midnight. Among those whose barns were blown down were Joseph Chaney, Paul Shepherd, R. Bennett Darnall, Floyd Lankford, John S. Wilson and John W. Fisher. The damage in Calvert included a barn of Herbert Ward, of Chaney, which was torn from its foundation, his garage upset and the roof of the back building carried away; Charles T. Chaney, garage removed from its foundation; C. Orville Drury, fences torn down and a porch demolished,

Mrs. Arawalton Buckmaster.

Mrs. Arawalton Buckmaster, widow of the late G. Lafavette Buckmaster, of Calvert county, died in Baltimore on Saturday last She was in the 91st year of her age. Mrs. Buckmaster was a native of Calvert county, a Miss Thomas before marriage, and lived at her home near Island Creek until middle age, but had been a resident of Baltimore for many years. She is survived by three daughters, Mrs. William Wood and Mrs. William Howard, of Baltimore, and Mrs. Emory Howard, of Port Republic, and two sons, Clinton D. Buckmaster and Armenius Buckmaster, of Baltimore. She also leaves a numerous family connection in this county.

The funeral was held on Tuesday morning at 10.30 o'clock from the home of her son, Clinton D. Buckmaster, 115 West Ostend street, Baltimore, with service at Waters Memorial Methodist Episcopal Church, this county, at 1.30 o'clock, conducted by Revs. Reck, Miller and Allen, of Baltimore. Interment was in the church cemetery.

The Ford Home Almanac.

Brimful of useful facts and information and other material of human interest, the Ford Home Almanac for 1937 goes to the homes of the United States this week, distributed free by dealers of the Ford Motor Company.

Readers of the booklet will find that in addition to the time of sunrise and set, adjusted to each latitude, moon phases, eclipses and the usual other information given in almanacs, the Ford Home Almanac is replete with interesting reading material dealing with ancient and modern prophecies, some of which shaped the destiny of different countries; sea mysteries that generations of research have not solved and other miscellany.

There are also short articles dealing with the views of Henry Ford on various subjects, as well as an article showing in detail what he has done with $13,000,000,000 which the public has paid for Ford cars and trucks since the Ford Motor Company began business in 1903. Most interesting are the facts that of this vast sum, the Ford Motor Company retained for itself but 6.4 cents out of every dollar, spending the remainder, totaling nearly $12,000,000,000 for wages, taxes and materials.

While such information about one of the modern world's greatest industries will be frond interesting, teachers and economists, the housewife and mother will also find the little book handy because of the reliable information it brings for first aid treatments in many different kinds of emergencies, hints for the kitchen and care of the garden and a well planned garden chart. The motorist planning a trip to any part of the United States will find the Almanac a chart giving accurate milages between important cities.

Mr. Editor: I have read with interest the several letters which have appeared in your paper in recent weeks. From them one is forced to conclude that almost without exception the writers believe that the present method of sampling does not produce reliable samples. I not only agree with this opinion, but it is my firm belief that the existance of this condition is the only substantial reason for the failure of the Maryland tobacco to follow the upward trend on the general commodity prices, particularly that shown in tobacco produced in other sections of the country.

It seems to me that there can be little hope of permanent improvement in prices until Maryland growers can place on the market a uniformly graded and packed tobacco and provide the buyer with a representative sample upon which he can rely.

It seems to me that the solution to the problem lies in devising a new and more effective method of sampling Under the present system whereby only the best bundles out of each break are chosen for samples and that regardless of whether the hogsnead obviously contains large quantities of inferior tobacco, there can be but one result. The samples are used by the buyers only as approximate guides in making their bids. The price they would be willing to pay for tobacco similar to the sample is discounted by a sufficient margin to offset the value of the lower grades a great many hogsheads contain. This method which is the only means a buyer has of protecting himself against false packing and over sampling results in a severe penelty to the honest, careful grower, who grades and packs his crop uniformly. On the other hand the careless or dishonest grower who false packs his tobacco, receives a price very often in excess of the true value of his crop. It is quite obvious that the rewards and penalties are going to the wrong persons and a continuation of a system that tolerates it can only result in a lowering of the standards of uniformity in grading and packing of Maryland tobacco. The answer to further lowering of grading standards is, I am sure, a further weakening of demand and loss of markets which will of course result in still lower prices.

Let us therefore correct the abuse by substituting for the present method of sampling and selling tobacco a system that will place a premium on uniformity and standardization in the handling of tobacco by the grower. If this can be done, and I think it can, the standard of uniformity in Maryland tobacco will undoubtedly be raised. The result of this should be increased demand and highest average prices for our crop.

The solution to the entire problem hinges on furnishing a reliable sample I, therefore, submit the following plan for securing such a plan: First, it will be necessary for the State to make available sufficient money to pay the salary of a reliable person to represent all buyers dealing on the Maryland market This person should be chosen by the buyers, as he is to be their representative at all drawing of samples.

When the tobacco is ready for sampling it shall be necessary for the grower or his sales representrtive or both to present togetner with the buyers' representative referred to above. The sampler will be required to make five breaks to each hogshead; at each break he will withdraw five bundles of tobacco foom which the grower or his sales representative will be required to select the best sample. The representative of the buyer will then select the worse sample from the four remaing bundles. After the sampling is complete, the ten resulting samples shall be turned over to the sample tier and after being properly tied and ear-marked shall be placed in a sample room and properly safeguarded against tampering until such time as the tobacco they represent is sold,

I am convinced that when this or a similar method is adopted, false packing of tobacc will soon disappear, and the buyers would soon realize that they can safely make bids based on the samples submitted. I am equally convinced that the net result will be a sharp upward trend the price of Maryland tobacco.

Very truly your,
J. ROGERS SOLLERS.

To the Farmers of Southern Maryland:

I have read with interest and quite a little amusement the letters in reference to the tobacco situation in Southern Maryland, beginning with the one from Mr. G. W Prior, of the Leaf Tobacco Association. In that letter he is putting the blame on the farmers for not stripping and packing straight and has just cause to do so. But if Mr. Prior will look back a few years and remember a grading law was passed to help solve this very problem. This grading law gave us a grader that saw what was in the sample as drawn, and marked it accordingly, not taking the sample as drawn by the inspector as a guide, but letting the buyer know what to expect when he bought the tobacco. Therefore, this would have soon made the ones that packed wrong know that it would pay to assort his tobacco in the right way and pack it accordingly. But what happened? These same buyers and commission men that compose the above Leaf Tobacco Association, fought the grading law hard and said that they would not pay as much for tobacco that was graded, and the main lot of farmers fell for it and consequently the law was repealed with the help of our Senator from Calvert county, I am sorry to say. Now, after a lapse of a few years, they come back with the same old story, and I understand that they will have a man on the line to see what is in every hogshead that is sampled, and I am glad to see it, but the difference is that man will represent the buyer and not the grower as he should.

The several letters of Mr T. Newton Gibson and Mr. George Boyd were very good, and also the letter of Mr. Lomax last week. But I wish to call Mr. Lomax's attention to one item where he stated about hogsheads losing 15 pounds from green heading. That may be correct too. But, Mr. Lomax, what about the armfuls of tobacco that I have seen taken off the head of the hogshead and thrown back. Who looses that? I will tell you. If the hogshead stays sold the manufacturer looses and if it happens to be reinspected the grower looses. I think, Mr. Lomax, that these things should be seen after also, if you are willing to help the farmer.

Now Mr. Southern Md. Farmer, I have tried to picture what has been happening and am now calling upon you to get together this year and say what we want and not take what the other fellow wants to give you. The Farm Bureau of Maryland has stepped in and will make every effort to get what we want, if you will get behind them. They cannot do anything unless we put our shoulder to the wheel and help push. The farmers in all five of the Southern Maryland counties are doing this. So Mr. Tobacco Grower, how about you? The Farm Bureau is only asking your help for one year to see what they can do. Let's make our motto this year be "all for one and one for all."

C. C. BUCKLER, vice president
Calvert County Farm Bureau.

Food Market Advice.

One of the largest single boatloads of haddock on record was brought into Boston, in time for your fish dinners this week or, if you prefer cod steak fish fillets, swordfish or whiting they are also plentiful and reasonably priced. The same thing is true of oysters, clams, smoked and salted fish.

All poultry is cheap in the light of current meat prices and also in comparison with both last year's and the past five year's average prices. Small size fowl represents the best value but chickens, ducks and turkeys are all very reasonable. Fewer eggs have been coming to market in the past week or so but, as yet, retail prices are unaffected.

Cheese is a concentrated food, it has a flavor most people like and it costs very little. It can be used in combination with most vegetables and with all breads and cereal foods as well as with milk and eggs to mak hearty main course dishes for lunch or dinner.

Combinations of circumstances have made grapefruit the outstanding fruit of the year for quality, abundance and good value. It is interchangeable with oranges or orange juice as a breakfast fruit and in addition is a favorite course or salad or dessert ingredient at lunch and dinner. Oranges are still a good value though navels are fairly high. Apples are higher but still a good value. Pineapples are more plentiful and strawberries, though somewhat higher, are cheap and plentiful for the season.

Beef prices have eased slightly, pork prices are unchanged and reasonable and veal is a little cheaper. Lamb prices are somewhat higher though still moderate.

Here is a menu* planned around foods which are readily available and moderate in price:

Oyster Cocktail
Boild Haddock Egg Sauce
New Potatoes Spinach
Bread and Butter
Jellied Grapefruit Wafers
Coffee.

IN MEMORIAM.

In sad but loving remembrauce of my dear wife, SALLIE SMITH, who departed this life one year ago—March 1, 1936. Gone but not forgotten. Loved in life, in death remembered.

Affliction sore sometimes she bore,
Phiysicians were in vain,
God thought it best that she should rest,
And eased her of her pain.

Home is sad, O God how dreary,
Lonesome, lonesome, every spot
Listening for her voice till weary,
Weary for I hear her not.

I miss thy kind and willing hand,
Thy fond and earnest care,
My home is dark without you,
I miss you every where.

Heaven retaineth now my treasure,
Earth the lonely casket keeps,
And the sunbeams love to linger,
Where my sainted wife sleeps.

By her devoted husband.
WILSON SMITH.

BOWEN.—In fond remembeance of our beloved son, MELEIN U. BOWEN, Jr., who passed away 4 years ago—February 25, 1933. Gone but not forgotten.

We often sit and think of him,
When we are alone,
For memory is the only friend.
That grief can call its own.

Like ivy on the withered oak,
When other things decay,
Our love for him will still keep
Green and never fade away.
