Better Jail Facilities Needed.

The Grand Jury at the May term of the Circuit Court for Calvert county, at the session recently ended, in its report, signed by Sidney W. Asbury, foreman, and Elsop R. Watson, clerk, had the following to say about the Calvert county jail:

"We have examined the county jail and find it unsanitary. The conditions there are so deplorable, that we think the only solution to the situation is that a new jail be built. We wish to go on record as unanimously recommending a new and modern jail for Calvert county."

In the past few years the County Commissioners have spent an amount in repairs to the structure which would have materially aided in reducing the debt on a new jail. Much of their efforts for some time past have been to check those on the outside from passing in any article to the prisoners, but so far they have been unsuccessful in the schemes they have worked out.

Fortunately the type of prisoners incarcerated are usually those who are confined in default of fines for petty offenses, or unable to give bond on appeals after preliminary hearings, as the more serious offenders are carried to jail in Baltimore or at Upper Marlboro for greater security while awaiting trial.

It is generally the case, however, that the usual occupants are not concerned with receiving aid from the outside in the way of implements to enable them to break out of jail, or weapons to attack the jailor. Their wants apparently run more to liquor, and that they receive a plentiful supply of it from their friends is evident from a row of empty bottles lying on the ground all around the building.

As might be expected, fights ensue when more than one is confined in jail, and all are drunk, and then windows are smashed and furniture broken.

The jail is a one story structure, with no wall around it. The cost of maintaining a constant guard would be considerable and the County Commissioners have for a long time been trying to meet the conditions mentioned by using iron screens in front of the windows, first on the inside, and more recently on the outside. The last set of screens placed on the outside of the large rear cell were of iron and, particularly substantial, costing $100, but they had been in place but very short time when the jailer found that a large section had been opened up on one of them. The County Commissioners realized then that the amount paid for that particular set of screens was so much money thrown away. All who are aware of the state of the jail must heartily concur in the recommendations of the Grand Jury.
