Keeping the Babies Well in Summer.

Some of the ways by which mothers can help to keep their babies well and comfortable during the hot weather are explained in the accompanying bulletin from the Bureau of Child Hygiene of the State Department of Health. Here they are:

"The coming of the warm weather means good times and better health for most of us. Little babies, however, face great dangers unless their parents are extremely careful. The dread 'summer diarrhea' sometimes known as 'cholera infantum' is ready to take a toll of infant lives.

"Thirty years ago, forty out of every thousan babies died of this disease before they reached their first birthday. Now, there are only one fifth as many deaths from summer complaint, in old portion to the number of babies. Our record has improved very much but the disease is still a source of great danger to young children. There were over sixty deaths from this cause among babies, in Baltimore, last year and over twice that number in the counties. Many of these lives are lost unnecessarily as could be saved if the proper preventative measures were taken.

"The cause of the disease, in the great majority of cases, is a germ which finds its way into the baby's food. It is plain that the child who is nursed by his mother is best protected against infection. Every effort should be made to encourage breast feeding wherever possible.

"If mother's milk is not available, the best substitute is fresh cow's milk, or sweetened evaporated milk mixed with an equal quantity of water. Sugar and additional water, if any is to be added, should be mixed with the milk according to the directions of a doctor. All milk or milk mixtures given to children up to the age of two years should be boiled.

"The utmost cleanliness must be observed during the preparation and storage of the milk mixture. All pots pans, bottles and nipples must be sterilized by boiling. The person who prepares the milk his ure must wash her hands carefully before starting.

"Flies are carriers of disease germs. Strict precautions must be taken to see that they do not get to the baby or the milk at any time. The baby's bottle should not be left in the baby's crib because the nipple is sure to get dirty. The crib should be screened or covered with mosquito netting.

"In every county in Maryland there are public health nurses ready and eager to help any mother with advice or suggestion. One need only to call or write to the County Health Officer and the nurse will do her best to help.

"Just a little care may mean the difference between life and death to the baby."

Death of Joseph Bowen.

Joseph Bowen, husband of Mrs. Christiana Fowler Bowen, died on Monday morning at his home near Prince Frederick, after a long illness. Mr. Bowen was aged about 70 years, and was a son of the late William H. Bowen and Eliza Buckler Bowen. He spent most of his life in the Third District, but for some time past had been living a few miles from here. He is survived by his wife; two sisters, Mrs. Daniel Howes and Mrs. Lee Ogden, and a brother, William H. Bowen.

The funeral was held on Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at Waters Memorial Methodist Episcopal Church. Rev. Dr. S. Paul Schilling conducting the service.

Huntingtown took both games the past week, while Greenock won only one, making the two teams tie for first place. With only two more games to play, these two clubs are fighting it out for first place.

Senator Lansdale G. Sasscer will hold a sound truck rally here at the Court House grounds at 1.30 P. M. Saturday, July 2nd next. Canada's Friendly Act.

The quadrant of Admiral John Paul Jones, Father of the American Navy, was formerly presented to President Roosevelt by Mayor D. Lawrence MacLaren, of St. John, New Brunswick, as a gift to the Naval Academy at Annapolis. The presentation was made on June 2, when the President addressed the graduating class at the Naval Academy.

There is an interesting history attached to the relic. After the death of the naval hero, his quadrant was given to his grand nephew, Simon Graham, who went to Canada from Scotland and settled at Rexton, N. B. Graham's son gave the quadrant to D. L. MacLaren, father of the present Mayor of St. John. Mayor MacLaren, in company with Sir Herbert Marler, Canadian Minister to the United States, presented the relic to President Roosevelt.

This friendly action on the part of Canada had the warm approval of Prime Minister MacKenzie King, who expressed himself as pleased that a Canadian restored this historic treasure to the United States. The incident will further promote the friendly relations existing between our two countries.

During the administration of President Theodore Roosevelt, Mayor MacLaren's father wrote the Chief Executive, offering to give the quadrant to the United States. This letter never reached the President. Some White House aide, whose racial and religious views evidently bore no love either for the Father of the American Navy or His Britannic Majesty's great Northern Dominion, sent the older MacLaren a most discourteous note, reject the generous offer.

In this day of conquest, greed for territory, suspicions, hatreds, undeclared wars and the like, it is gratifying to find the United States and Canada in such complete accord. In fact, in view of our common interests closely similar democratic principles, and almost identical ideologies of government, it is rather difficult to determine just where the United States ends and Canada begins, as border fortifications and armed soldiery are, happily, absent.

Movie Attractions.

Spurred by the current wave of revivals of the most outstanding films of the various major studios, and by public demand at the box-office, Artinemas Associates, Inc., has completed plans to bring back "The Son of the Sheik," the last picture ever filmed by the dashing, dark-eyed Rudolph Valentino, widely acknowledged as the great-est screen lover of all time.

Based on the popular novel of the same name by E. M. Hull, and directed by George Fitzmaurice, this colorful story, replete with breathless action and thrilling romance in the vast outdoors of the Sahara desert, will be the feature attraction at the Marlboro Theatre beginning Sunday, June 19th, for 2 days.

Those who have seen the movie will be grateful for the opportunity to see it again, and those of the younger generation who have never before seen Valentino, will be grateful for the opportunity to discover for themselves what gro the vital qualities of this extraordinary personality that makes his name and fame still live on, with the power to draw capacity crowds in every city where this feature has so far been shown, twelve years after its initial release.

In addition to "The Son of the Sheik" there will be shown a "Three Stooges" comedy, a sportlight and the latest News Events

Not to see "Bringing Up Baby," the film featuring Katherine Hepburn and Carey Grant, to be shown here and at Solomon's this week, will be a major error, for it is one of the funniest movies of the year. Summer is the season of laughter and love, an Jack Taylor has been giving appropriate and excellent screen fare. "Nothing Sacred" and "The Awful Truth" were fine comedies but "Bringing Up Baby" tops them all.

Farm Work Sheets Must be Filed By June 18.

Farm work sheets, showing information as a basis for participation in the conservation phase of the 1938 Triple-A Farm Program in the East Central Region, should be completed and submitted to the local county office not later than June 18, W. G. Finn, director of the East central division, announced.

Farmers who expect to take part in this phase of the 1938 program, who have not submitted information for their farms, about submit work sheets by this date in order that the records of the county office may be completed and the checking performance started as soon as possible after June 18.

Mr. Finn pointed out that the filing of a work sheet in no way obligates the owner or operator of the farm. It merely supplies information about the farm which serves as a basis for participation in the conservation program. However, the filing of a work sheet for each separate tract of land owned or operated by a producer is necessary prerequisite to the filing of an application for payment.

Mr. Finn also explained that all requests for changes in the land to be regarded as a farm in accordance with the definition of a farm under the 1938 program must be filed by June 18. "Only those tracts of land operated as a unit may be included under a single application for payment," he said, "and in order for a tract of land to be considered as a unit, information must be filed by the above date showing that it is being operated as a unit."

In reviewing performance under previous Agricultural Conservation Programs in the East Central Region, Mr. Finn said: "In 1936, 353,000 applications for payment were received, representing approximately 626,000 farms. In 1937 more than 490,000 applications were filed. Approximately three-fourths of the 1937 payments have been made to date, and it is expected that the remaining payments will be made at an early date."
