THE STATESMAN—A Democratic weekly, published by the Democratic Association of Baltimore city, is one of the ablest weekly publications in the country, being a weekly review of news, politics, business, literature and art.

We will furnish the Statesman and Transcript for $4.50 in advance.

THE FIFTEENTH AMENDMENT AND STATE POLITICS.—It may, perhaps, have escaped the notice of some of our readers that the probabilities of the ratification of the fifteenth amendment during the present year are next to a certainty. The legislature (so called) of Florida has approved it, leaving but three more States to make three-fourths of the thirty-seven States. Rhode Island and Vermont have yet to vote, and they will certainly ratify it. The States of Virginia, Mississippi and Texas are, under the reconstruction act, required to do likewise as a condition of their admission to representation in Congress. This amendment, as it will then have been adopted, is a fraud upon, and in violation of the will of the people of the States; but it will be formally proclaimed, and sustained by the whole power of Congress, and the people will either be called upon to resist it, which they will not do, or to make the best of it, which they had better begin to prepare to do. Suffrage will be extended to all male citizens over twenty-one years of age, without regard to race or color, and a large addition will be made to the number of voters in our State. The great body of this new vote will unquestionably be thrown with the Radical element of the State, and it is not too soon for the people of the State to revolve this matter in their minds. The election next November will be the last held in our State under the existing franchise law.

The Easton Star, of last Tuesday, has a lengthy article upon State politics, and its remarks are applicable to our section:

Yet while there is so much apathy in Maryland respecting general politics, our people are not entirely lifeless; their own State affairs are occupying very considerable attention Next Fall there will be another general election. State officers, and a new Legislature, are to be elected. Questions are to be passed upon of vital interest to the people of the State. One year ago, wheat was selling at $2.75 per bushel; now it is worth but a dollar. One year ago, corn was worth $1.50 per bushel; now it will not clear 75 cts. These startling facts admonish our people that the affairs of the State must be in judicious hands, and must be prudently treated, or our people may be overwhelmed by bankruptcy. In Baltimore city, and in the counties, the business men are organizing, and are determined not to trust the affairs of the State, at this critical moment, to pot-house politicians and empirics. They see and feel that, to save the State from bankruptcy, and the people from oppressive taxation and ruin, the public expenses must be lopped off; and in order to do this, honest and decided men must be elected to the Legislature, who will defy the lobby. Little county "Rings," organized after the Radical fashion, are operated as a close corporation for the distribution of the county spoils among themselves, and the management of the State and county affairs in their own special interests, and for their individual profit and advancement, to the exclusion of everybody else and the detriment of the public interests, must be broken up. They see and feel that if this is not done, and done promptly, the Democratic party of Maryland will soon become as corrupt as the Radical party of the North. There is no denying the fact, that the tendency of political affairs in our State for some time has been morally downward; that the Lobby at Annapolis, during the sessions of our Legislature, has been gradually increasing in power and influence; that as it has increased in power and dominated in legislation, in the same ratio have the public expenses been augmented; and that wherever local "Rings" have succeeded in getting control of county affairs, there the roads have been neglected, the local administration has been lax, and the county taxes have been enormously increased. These facts are transparent all over the State, and call for reform. The Democratic party, which is responsible to the people for the proper management of the affairs of the State—and the counties, while having the control of our State politics, should require an instant change for the better of all concerned. It cannot permit things to go from bad to worse without losing its hold on the confidence of the masses. It should not be said with truth that "we are as bad as the Radicals." No man should be elected to office at this time, for positions high or low, either in State or county, who is not prepared to give the unqualified pledge to reform, and whose integrity of character and ability are a warrantee that his pledge will be redeemed. We are glad to know that a movement is on foot throughout the State to reform the politics of the party in the State, and that those who have heretofore kept aloof from politics intend to take the lead in it. They, as business men, know that if the public expenses are not curtailed at this time, with produce at less than half price, general ruin must inevitably follow. They know that if such important offices as county sheriffs, are not placed in competent, reliable and prudent hands, hundreds of struggling debtors must be unnecessarily broken up and ruined. Every man who is under execution; every prudent business man, must see and feel the force of this. We have been an attentive observer of our State politics, and for sometime have noticed much in our party to regret; we are gratified to know there is a disposition abroad to correct the errors of the past. We shall cordially cooperate in this movement for reform. We want the standard of our public functionaries raised a little higher; we want to see the very best men put in public positions; we want the State expenses reduced; we want either better local laws, or a better administration of existing laws; we want to see county expenses curtailed, and all local rings and combinations for corrupt purposes, broken up. If the people are with us on this platform, we should like to hear from them; if they agree with us, we want their cooperation and sympathies. We want to be able to report to the friends of reform in other parts of the State that the Democracy of Talbot are virtuous and sound, and prepared to unite with the virtuous and sound throughout the State for a complete and radical reform of the affairs of the State. We know well enough that the people of Talbot county will act right in this matter, if they are not misinformed and misdirected. They are feeling the pressure as well as those of other counties, and want relief. Relief can come only in the way we have pointed out; by the union of the virtuous for the promotion of virtue and the cordial cooperation of all good men for the promotion of reform. Let the people but look to their interests in this matter; let them but confidently demand the reforms they need; let them place themselves as a wall of steel against all extravagance in future legislation, rally together for the right, and next winter will witness a defeat of the Annapolis Lobby, and next year a wholsome reform in the administration of county affairs throughout the State.

Camp Chesapeake--Third Day.

The encampment of the Fifth Regiment Maryland National Guard, Col. Jas. R. Herbert, at Catonsville, was the scene of more than ordinary attraction yesterday, the occasion being the official visit of the Governor of the State. The early part of the day was devoted to the usual military duties incident to camp life, the men being all reported well, the influence of abundant exercise in the open air overcoming generally the effects of change.—There was no rain what ever at the camp, although a heavy shower was experienced in the city about 4 P. M., and the parade ground was in excellent condition. During the afternoon the Frederick turnpike presented a lively scene. Every description of vehicle—the full family carriage, the light barouche and the still lighter buggy wagon, and even the covered furniture wagon—was brought into requisition to convey visitors to the camp ground.

About 5 o'clock, P. M., Gov. Oden Bowie left his quarters at Barnum's City Hotel, accompanied by John Merryman, Esq., in the private carriage of the latter, and attended by an orderly, proceeded to to the ground. There were some thousands of spectators to witness the inspection by the Governor, among those present were Major General R. N. Bowerman, who, with Major Simon, inspector general on his staff, drove out with Captain W. Voegler, of the steamship Baltimore, of the Baltimore and Breman line, and G. A. Von Lingen, Esq, of the house of A. Sschumacher & Co.; General Andrew W. Denison, postmaster of Baltimore: General J. S. Berry, late adjutant general of the State; Gen. Carr, Gen. Neilson and other military gentlemen, together with Mayor Banks and a number of the members of the city council. Of the large number present, at least one-third were ladies.

The regular afternoon parade took place about half-past six o'clock, the members of the regiment wearing white pantaloons. As the regiment stood in line on the parade ground it presented a fine appearance, and as the adjutant, and subsequently the colonel, gave the orders, they were executed as if it were the movement of one man. After a short delay Gov. Bowie, dressed in a plain suit of black, and mounted on his celebrated charger Stonewall Jackson, and Gen. Bier, Adjutant General of the State, each surrounded by a portion of their personal and general staffs, in full uniform, rode into the parade ground and were received by the regiment at a present, the band playing "Hail to the Chief."

Col. Herbert then put the men through the manual, in admirable style, after which the Governer and Adjutant General, with their staffs, rode at a walk along the front of the line and returned by the rear in a brisk trot. Reaching the head of the column on their return, the party took up a position opposite the colors, when the regiment was put in motion and passed in review before the Governor in sections, then in solid columns, and finally at a quick step. Again whelling into line with the precision of veterans, the manual was gone through with, when the men were ordered to stack arms and stand at ease.

A new feature in the military scene now developed itself near the head of the column, caused by the movements of Capt. Clotworthy's secton one, battery B, Maryland artillery, who was present with two of his new pieces just received from the general government. The guns, under the skillful handling of the artillerymen, at once commenced to belch forth, and a salute of twenty-one guns was fired in honor of the Governor. The firing was made in admirable time, and elicited the commendation of the military gentlemen present. The battery left the city about five o'clock, each piece drawn by four horses, the men riding on the horses and the caissons, and the officers mounted.

The salute being ended, the Governor and staff rode to the centre of the regiment, where Gen. Bier, in a few remarks, presented Col. Herbert with a beautiful State flag, to which the Colonel responded in fitting terms. The artillery then fired a salute to the flag, and after the customary salutes from company officers and reports of sergeants, the parade was dismissed, and the respective companies marched to their quarters, the parade occupied nearly two hours.

The band soon after the parade gave a splendid serenade to the wife of Col. Herbert, at that officer's headquarters. In the meantime the men could be seen partaking of their suppers, apparently with a will after the fatigues of the evening, and at the same time Mr. Ed. Levell, the sutler, was dealing out "rations" to many of the visitors of the city. The camp is a decidedly popular resort, and during its continuance will doubtless be still further visited by large numbers of persons.

The officer of the day was Captain John W. Torsch, of Company I, with Lieut. Parkhurst, of Company E, officer of the guard. Yesterday happened to be the birthday of Captain T., and, although busily engaged on duty, as soon as the fact became known, he was the recipent of many compliments from the members of the regiment. Among others was a very handsome bouquet, received at the hands of Lieut. Col. J. Stricker Jenkins.

To-morrow afternoon the regiment is to be inspected by General Carr, commander of the first brigade, when another entertaining military spectacle will be offered. It is understood that the camp will be continued until Saturday.—Sun of Wed.

The Advent of the Heated Tem —How to Keep Comfortable.

What comes right home to people in the form of discomforts of the "heated term" is not to be overlooked or set aside by saying that "it cannot be helped," and "we must make the most of it," and all that. Nor will it be obviated by the suggestion that the Irish Church disestablishing bill has passed the ordeal of the Lords in the British Parliament; nor by the admitted fact that the harmony which has obtained at the great New England festival was "not one of discord, not well understood," but was real harmony flowing from an immense instrumentation, and from the throats of cannon and those of thousands upon thousands of men and women of the land.

Though it is to be doubted whether an avoidance of heat or cold or other climatric changes conduces on the whole to increase strength of years of body, still the discomforts which are brought upon one in this latitude in the hot season point to the necessity of adopting forms of amelioration.

Those who swathe themselves in flannels and wear thick woolens in summer cannot, of course, be reasoned with on the subject. But, if there be any sense in Dr. Franklin's prescription of frequent "air baths," then it would seems that the smallest portion of clothing possible, consistant with propriety, were the healthiest condition. People who are afraid of bodily exposure to air can comfort themselves with the idea that exposure for purpose of bathing out of doors, or in doors, or at rising up in the morning, or laying down at night, rarely, if ever, results in colds. Sitting in narrow currents of air, or taking off a part of one's clothing, are usually the cause of colds.

Those, therefore, who are not sick, and have no need of going to springs and ocean-side resorts, or, being well, are not able to have fine accomodations there, or cannot stay out the hot term should they go, should make the best of things at home. A person with a small room can wash himself cleaner with soap or other detergent than those who go bathing with "clothes on"—a condition that has been waggishly termed, "getting wet as by a shower, or falling overboard." Cleanliness is the first requirement to tolerate comfort in the heated terms. Next, the enjoyment of as much air as possible, with quiet of body and mind. Moderation in eating and drinking is, of course, a requisite. Above all things, they should keep calm and cool early in the day.—National Intelligencer.

THE FOURTH OF JULY.—Yesterday, in the first branch of the city council, Mr. Johnson offered a preamble and resolution that as it has been customary to celebrate the Fourth of July, and as the latter comes this year upon Sunday, the day be celebrated on Monday following. The resolution requests that the mayor announce by proclamation or otherwise to those in the employ of the various city departments that Monday, the 5th of July, will be observed as the Fourth of July, and request the citizens of Baltimore to so celebrate that day. The resolution was adopted in both branches.—Sun of Tuesday.

Aid to the Proposed New Railroad Connection.

The memorial asking an appropriation by the city of $300,000 to aid in the construction of a branch railroad from near Elkton, Cecil county, to Massey's Cross Roads, on the Delaware railroad, so as to make a close connection with Baltimore and the Eastern Shore railroad, which was presented on Saturday to the city council, was on Monday referred to a joint special committee, as follows:—First branch, Messrs. Wickersham, Escaville and Perry; second branch, Messrs. Owens, Brown and White.—Sun.

A Faithful, Untiring Friend.

"It has for five years been a most faithful, untiring servant, and its eye is not dim nor its natural force abated. A multitude of garments have been made upon it, and not one has failed to do honor to the machine. I have had an opportunity of examining and using other varieties of machines, but I very much prefer the Grover & Baker stitch for strength, elasticity, and beauty. I have seen no other machine so simple in its construction, so easily understood and kept in order."—Letter from Mrs. E. D. Sanborn, St. Louis.
