A Romantic Wedding.

...romantic wedding took place near ...ville, in this county, a few weeks ...e facts of which came to our ears ...ys ago. A young man, an ac... ...nce of ours, whom, for convenience, ...l call Jones, wooed and won one of ...fair daughters, who, for the same ... we shall style Miss Brown, and ...ourtship they trod the old beaten ...ward matrimony. Whether there ...objections urged by the friends or ...e are not informed. At all events, ...being of age, no objection could have ...n potent in stopping the affair. For ...e sake of romance, then, we must pre...ume, it was determined to elope. Ac...ordingly the sister of Miss Brown and a gentleman friend were let into the secret and assisted in arranging the affair. On the night of the execution the hopeful suitor and his intended, with the before mentioned sister and friend, started from home in carriages under the pretense of coming to Ruthsburg they turned their horses heads in an opposite direction and drove to Sudlersville, where the services of Rev. Mr. Aldred, who by the way, does not like romance, were obtained, and the anxious couple were about being made one, when the boys of the village got wind of it and commenced to assemble for a serenade. Desiring no publicity, Jones took his almost wife, and with the minister and two attendant witnesses proceeded toward Millington, having first procured a candle and some matches. Driving a mile or two up the road, the party alighted, struck a light, and in the county road, the happy couple were made man and wife. Parties in Sudlersville hearing of the affair, and suspecting other parties, pursued and came upon them just in time to congratulate them as man and wife.— In a few minutes the party returned, the sister and friend to their home to tell the tale of romance, and the bridegroom with his wife sought his home. The question asked by parties is from whom did they run away? At last advices the question had not been satisfactorily answered.— Centreville Observer.

A NEW STATE.

A Washington Correspondent of Baltimore Gazette, writes as follows:

The condition of the States of Maryland and Delaware is now under deep consideration by the Radical magnates.— A plan has been concocted to form a new State of the fragments of Maryland and Virginia on the eastern side of the bay, and of the State of Delaware bodily. During the process which is to be conducted under the provisions of a simple act of Congress, or, perhaps, a military order, these States are to be declared in a "territorial condition," and liable to "reconstruction." Every one knows what this means. This scheme has so far "progressed" that the new State has already been christened. It is to be called the State of "Chesapeake." "Delaware is to be stricken from the constellation of States of the Union. "If the peninsula (says the or... of Congress) is ever to be constituted ...ingle State, the present time is more ...te for the purpose than any fu... ...can be. We are now in an era ...truction. New States are being ...ed in the West—new provinces ...r borders are knocking for admis... ...to the Union. *Above all, the South... Panic in a Church.

During a crowded service at St. Philimena Catholic Church, at Cincinnati, on Sunday, and while the communion mass was being sung, the quiet and solemn event was confusedly interrupted by some one in the gallery crying out an alarm of the giving away of the galleries. For a few moments the utmost confusion and excitement prevailed. The alarm was no sooner given than hundreds of lips echoed it. The immense audience plunged, swayed and rushed towards the doors. Several persons leaped from the galleries to the floor below, falling in among the swaying mass, and for some seconds the cries and excitement were terrible. Women fainted, children screamed, men and boys were losing ground, and being crushed and trampled upon by the panic-stricken assemblage. Two women and one man jumped from a side window upon a shed, and then clambered to the ground, running from the scene with countenances bearing a deathly paleness. In all the crowd there was but one person who evinced control, a young man in the gallery, who addressed his neighbors, assuring them that the alarm was false, which was the fact. The alarm was given from the gallery, and was supposed to have been started by some fiend in human shape, with the deliberate purpose of creating a panic.

FREE BANKING.—The bill introduced by Mr. Palmer in the House of Representatives on Monday is as follows:

"The bill to amend the national banking laws authorizes the establishment of free banks. Parties making application for charters must present to the Secretary of the Treasury, as the basis of the security, twenty-five six per cent. bonds, which bonds must be by the Secretary cancelled; and in lieu of them he is directed to issue for deposit, by the proposed banking associations, four per cent. bonds, running forty years, principal and interest payable in coin, non-taxable by federal, State or municipal authority, and the interest on the bonds which may be held in Europe payable in the money of European countries. These bonds are to be convertible, at the option of the owners, from coupon into registered, or from registered into coupon. It compels the Secretary of the Treasury to redeem and cancel an amount of greenbacks or three per cent. certificats equal to seventy-five per cent. of the circulating notes issued under the banking system; provides for the redemption of the notes at New York, as well as at the counters of the banks issuing them; prohibits banks from paying interest on current deposits; provides that the engraving and printing of the new circulation notes shall be executed in the bureau of engraving and printing of the Treasury Department, that each denomination of notes shall be on distinct paper, and from lathe work, dies, bed pieces and rolls never before used in part or in whole for other notes."
