Present, Jas. Beck, of Geo., Thos. Lusby, and William Stevens.

After passing sundry claims against the estates of deceased parties, the Court transacted the following business:

The release of John C. Burchinal, John W. and Lizzie ...nes, ... Burton Burchinal, Mary H. Burchinal and Addie Burchinal to Wm. D. Burchinal, administrator of John H. Burchinal, was received, and ordered to be recorded.

A power of attorney from Rachel M. Clark, administratrix of Joshua Clark, to C. H. Baker, to settle said estate, was received and recorded.

Rachel M. Clark, admr'x. of Joshua Clark, returned an inventory of the personal estate of deceased: received, and ordered to be recorded.

Letters of administration on the personal estate of John Greenwood, of Benjamin, were granted to James A. Pearce and George W. Greenwood, who gave bond with George W. T. Perkins and Wm. N. E. Wickes as sureties. L. S. Fowler and John L. Stam were appointed to appraise the estate, and the usual notice to creditors ordered.

C. H. Baker, executor of Wm. T. Baker, dec'd., returned his first administration account, which was passed, and ordered to be recorded.

☞ The Democrats of Queen Anne's county, have nominated the following county ticket:

For State Senator, James T. Earle — For House of Delegates, Dr. Roderick W. Bareckson, Budd S. Ford. For State's Attorney, Thomas J. Keating. For Sheriff, William C. Dudley. For County Commissions, Wm. T. Hammond, Jos. E. George, Daniel Friel. For Orphans' Court, Walter K. White, Richard C. Tilghman, Augustus McCabe. For County Surveyor, Benjamin S. Elliott.

A Causeless Panic.

Professor Agassiz has never prophesied that a "tidal wave" is to make havoc on the North Carolina coast in October. The denial is publicly made, by the authority of that distinguished savant. So, far, therefore, as Agassiz is concerned, or so far as his scientific knowledge extends, there is no foundation for the alarming stories which agitate the minds of the North Carolinians. That this feeling of alarm is genuine is proved by an amusing letter from a Government engineer at Wilmington, who has written to Agassiz to ask if the story of his prophecy is true, and it is in response to this letter that the formal contradiction is made. Moreover, the people on the coast—having a blind and altogether unreasonable belief in the paragraphs they read in the newspapers—are removing their household goods into the interior, and getting ready to fly themselves from the wrath to come. The engineer in question says he has many men "exposed" upon the coast, engaged in the improvement of the mouth of Cape Fear river, and he would be sorry to see them all swept away. He may now comfort himself with the thought that neither Agassiz nor anybody else knows or can know whether there is to be a tidal wave or not, and may follow his pursuits in peace. Sufficient to the day is the evil thereof.

General Washington's Accounts.

The Treasury Department officials, in making arrangements for the better preservation of the valuable papers, have lately removed from a vault, in which they have laid for more than half a century, the accounts of General George Washington while he was commander-in-Chief of the American Army during the revolutionary war.—The accounts are stated in General Washington's own handwriting, and are written in clear and bold characters, and arranged with systematic accuracy. The title page of accounts bears the following inscription: "Account of G. Washington with the United States, commencing June, 1775, and ending June, 1783." Entries are made of every item of his household expenses, and for all moneys used in transportation of troops, and in fact every expense incidental to the Revolutionary war. Reference to history will show that General Washington, although offered a compensation while serving as Commander-in-Chief, repeatedly declined to accept any, as these accounts show. General Washington's determination not to cover up and take advantage of the oversight of other Government officers, is well illustrated by the following entry and the marginal note in explanation of the same. It appears as follows:

"By cash, £133 16s. Note.—This sum stands in my account as a credit to the public, but I can find no charge of it against me in any of the public offices, where the mistake lyes. Know it, but wish it could be ascertained, as I have no desire to injure or be injured."

Washington also submitted a table giving the amount of money received at different times, giving its nominal value and value by depreciation, from which it appears that in October, 1777, $1,000 was worth $911; in January, 1778, $2,000 was worth $1,370. The market value of money continued to depreciate, so that in March, 1799, $2,000 was quoted at $200, at $500 and at $50. The final note at the end of his statement is as follows:

"I received moneys on private account in 1777, and since which, except such sums that I had occasion now and then to apply to private uses, were all expended in the public service, and through hurry, I suppose, and the perplexity of business, for I know not how else to account for the deficiency, I have omitted to charge, while every debt against me is here credited July 1, 1783."

THE EMPEROR NAPOLEON.—A correspondent of the New York Tribune, writing of two photographs of the Emperor Napoleon, one taken before the war, the other taken in June last, says the former is the portrait of a man over-burdened, over-worked, haggard with care and anxiety, and more toil than he had strength for. In the latter the face has grown round and full; the cheeks are firm; the eyes have a careless good nature; the face and figure are younger; in the whole attitude and expression of the man as he is to-day there is an appearance of ease, of relief, of good living, and of saying, "You think I care, but I don't."

A lady in Columbus, Ohio, fell in love, while in a street car, with a Californian worth $270 000 who sat beside her, and succeded in marrying him within a week.

THE GREAT

EUROPEAN CIRCUS.

No one who has witnessed the gorgeous street pageants of the Great European Circus, which were given in the Streets of New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Washington and Chicago, can possibly have forgotten them. The brilliant cortege of Knights in burnished steel armor; the the resplendent beauty of the gay lines of elaborately decorated Chariots, Carriages, Platform Cars and Allegorical Tableaux Vivants.

The long procession of Ladies and Gentlemen mounted on gallant steeds; the handsome Globe Car, with the Goddess of Liberty on the summit of an immense sphere representing the World, the Fairy Chariot of Queen Mab drawn by a team of fourteen diminutive Shetland Ponies, the prettiest and cunning little creatures ever seen in the world, and the grand culminating feature of the vast pageant, the great Colossal Leonine Car, bearing upon its spacious dais a group of Beautiful Women, in the center of which a large Living Lion!

Free, Loose, Uncaged and Unchained, Couching in all his Native Majesty and Beauty!!!

All formed a scene of iridescent splendor which could not fail of leaving an endurable impression. The streets through which it passed were densely thronged by masses of people. Men, ladies and children flocked from all quarters of the town to witness the passing splendor, and it was unanimously agreed this procession—the wonderous pageant—was beyond comparison the finest which had ever been witnessed.

This immense establishment, famous alike for its gorgeous street display, the magnitude and variety of its company, and the surpassing excellence of its performances, is under the direction of the proprietors of the Circus which created so much excitement in Paris during the Great Exposition, and now returns more brilliant, more vast and more attractive than ever.

The novelty and grandeur of the Street procession have been enhanced by the addition of an immense vehicular structure called the

AURIFEROUS CHARIOT OF ALEXANDER!!!

Among the peculiar and imposing features of which is a colossal Golden Statue of the famed war horse,

BUCEPHALUS!

This splendid Chariot will contain the full Silver Cornet Band, will play the most popular airs of the day, and will be drawn by a team of Arabian Horses.

Wait for it! Look for it!—See it! It has no rival! No superior! No equal! It stands above all other exhibitions combined! None but itself can be its parellel!
