Sudden Death.

Mr. Richard J. Payne, of Bell Air, died very suddenly on last Sunday morning. He had but a short time previous left the breakfast table, after eating a hearty meal, and was sitting on a chair, when, without uttering a word or sound, he suddenly fell to the floor and immediately was a corpse.

The New Building Association.

At a preliminary meeting of those favorable to the formation of a new Building Association in Chestertown, held at the office of C. H. Baker, Esq , on Tuesday evening last, on motion E. F. Perkins, Esq., was called to the chair and T. W. Wickes appointed secretary. A general interchange of views on subject took place, and a committee, consisting of C. H. Baker, Esq., T. W. Russell, J. K. Willis, T. W. Wickes, and S. E. Sullivan, was appointed to report a Constitution and By-Laws to the next meeting, which will be held at the same place on Thursday evening the 21st of December.

Christmas Books.

We looked in yesterday at the establishment of C. F. Stam & Bro., Chestertown, and were entertained by an examination of their stock of Books for the season, embracing among a great variety, Walter Scott's works complete, a very handsome illustrated edition, complete, $10.50.

Charles Dickens, complete, $10.50.

Wm. Cullen Bryant's Library of Poetry and Song. Tennyson's Poems, embracing his latest, "The Last Tournament."

Byron, Shakespeare, Milton, Pope, Dante, Goldsmith, Burns, Poe, "King Arthur," Lord Lyttons latest Poem. Tyndals "Hours of Exercise in the Alps." Holland's "Bitter Sweet" and "Kathrina."

Robinson Crusoe, Arabian Knights, Swiss Family Robinson, Fairy Tales, &c., &c.

Bibles, Prayer Books, Hymn Books, Mrs. H. Beecher Stowe's, "My Wife and I."—Pink and White Tyranny.

We recommend those of our readers who desire any thing in the way of Books, to give the Messrs. Stam a call, and especially the ladies.

GEN. BUTLER AND THE DEBTS OF STATES.—We see it stated that Gen. Butler is examining the subject of State indebtedness, its magnitude and prospective increase. He considers that the practice of State governments of carrying out improvements, and assuming additional debts therefor, is one which bids fair to assume such importance as to demand the notice of the federal government. Perhaps he will next discover that the occasional practice of individuals in assuming liabilities which they are not able to meet injuries the national reputation and ought to be taken in hand by Congress. It would, moreover, be edifying to know whether Gen. Butler is stimulated in his present investigations by the "magnitude" of the "State indebtedness" created in the South by carpet-bag adventurers, and the "prospective increase" of the same, and whether he proposes to submit any motion in Congress in reference thereto? As an honest statesman, solicitous to preserve helpless people from being plundered, it may be that he desires to rescue the harpies which threaten to "improve" them till they are so utterly bankrupted and ruined as to be practically lost to the Union. If so, much as we might sympathize with such a result, we cannot concede that his remedy is the right one, or that anything whatever to do in the regulation of its internal affairs.

MRS. MYRA CLARK GAINES is a lady whose name has been identified for twenty years with a series of important and interminable law suits. At various times these have been decided in her favor, and it has latterly been supposed by the public that she had fully established her rights to immense property in New Orleans, which she claimed under a supposed will of her father, Mr. Daniel Clark. But now comes a Judge of a Louisiana Court and decides that Mrs. Gaines is the illigitimate daughter of Daniel Clark, and that hence the will which he was supposed to have made, but which no one ever found, could not have left her anything. Mrs. Gaines is therefore no longer the richest woman in America, but is furnished with an undesirable parentage instead of a princely patrimony. The uncertainty of the law has never been more fully illustrated than by this case, and it is entirely probable that it will yet lead to still further unexpected and conflicting results. Whether Mrs. Gaines ultimately gains her fortune or loses her identity it is impossible to predict.

The New Hampshire Democracy.

CONCORD, Dec. 13.—The Democratic State Convention met here to-day. A platform of resolutions was adopted declaring that the party is pledged to the perpetuity of the Union; of protection of the rights of every citizen; opposition to every species of corruption; against privileged classes and privileged capital; and for a tariff for the benefit of the federal government and not of monopolists. The resolutions further denounce the establishment of martial law at the South as unconstitutional and atrocious.

James A. Weston was renominated for Governor by acclamation.

JUDGE EDWARD G. BRADFORD.—Hon. Edward G. Bradford, appointed by President Grant to be judge of the United States District Court for the district of Delaware, in place of the venerable Hon. Willard Hall, resigned, was born in Cecil County, Md., July 17, 1819, but his parents removed to Wilmington, Del., when he was three years of age, and he has resided there ever since that time. He was partially educated at Bristol College. Pa., under Rev. Dr. Bedell, but completed his studies and graduated at Delaware College in 1838. Though holding a leading position in the State for many years, he has never filled any important public place, and this appointment is recognized as a due recognition of his merit.
