THE BIRTH OF CHRIST.

Turn, now, my Muse, to Bethlehem's sacred plains;
Awake, my lyre! awake to noble strains!
Join in the chorus of that wondrous night,
When all around was glory—all was light.
Hark! 'tis the music of celestial choirs,
Oh! catch the wonder that the song inspires,
Hark! to that theme they strike their harps of Gold,
So long by prophets and by kings foretold!
"Glory to God on high, and peace on earth,
Good will to men,"—all hail a Savior's birth.
Behold a God in human form array'd,
The King of Heav'n is in a manger laid
He leaves the realms of majesty above,
And dies to satisfy the Father's love.
Tremble, oh earth! Be darken'd, oh, ye skies!
For Jesus, man's Redeemer, bleeds and dies:
He quits the dreary mansions of the grave,
To justify the souls he died to save;
And then the work of man's redemption done,
Ascends to Heaven and mounts the eternal throne.
Ye Cherubim and Seraphim adore!
For man that dies, shall live for evermore!
Angels! ye ministers of brightness, see,
Mortals are clothed with immortality!

The hour arrives—the dawn at length draws nigh,
Behold it twinkling in the Eastern sky!
The orb ascends, and opes the peeping day,
And drives the shadows from the hills away.
Behold the Sun of Righteousness benign
Rise on the earth with influence divine,
And bid its beams to every land be given,
To light the pilgrim on his road to Heav'n!

Through lands of darkness and despair ye view
The Word of Light its Sacred way pursue:
See those who from their earthly all depart,
T' enforce its doctrines on the Heathen heart;
Lo! Pagan Gods, and murd'rous idols, fall,
And own the Christian's God, the Lord of all.

Go on then, Christians! still pursue the same,
We bid you prosper in Jehovah's name;
The work is God's—the Lord is on your side.
Let man oppose you, and let man deride;
Heav'n's mighty buckler can avert the blow,
And hurl the weapon back upon the foe

Land of a chosen race! at length be'old
Thy scatter'd sheep are hastening to the fold;
Messiah, shepherd of the flock, shall come,
And bid them welcome to their long lost home.
A bye-word and reproach to be no more,
Their curse abolished and their wand'rings o'er,
Belov'd of old to them it shall be giv'n
To shine the brightest on the plains of Heav'n.

But hark! the trumpet sounds! its voice shall bear
The mighty summons through the realms of air,
Arise, ye dead! to judgment God is come!
Arise, ye dead! receive your final doom:
Mount—mount on wings of everlasting love,
Ye living saints! ascend to worlds above,
The heavens are moved! behold, they roll away,
Amid the thunders of the dreadful day,
And earth itself and all therein expire,
And blaze—a mass of unextinguished fire;
Time's latest hour has pass'd—the scene is new;
Eternity has burst upon the view.
My lyre has ceas'd—no mortal tongue can tell
The joys of Heaven, or the pangs of Hell.

We make the following Extracts from "Irenæus" Letter in the last New York Observer:

PAYING ONE'S DEBTS.

To pay one's debts is obviously one of the simplest dictates of honesty. The basis of all dealings among men is the expectation that an obligation to pay will be respected by the debtor. The credit system in the advance of civilization, scarcely known in barbarous States, has grown out of this confidence and with its growth has come the opportunity and temptation to be dishonest. The system is necessary in civilization, but it has been extended beyond all bounds of necessity and has demoralized the country. The man who buys goods on credit, or borrows money without giving security, or who induces his neighbor to be his endorser, incurs a liability to do his neighbor wrong; and in many cases the rashness with which he took the risk was criminal, and his failure to pay may justly involve him in postive dishonesty. Yet very few men think themselves dishonest simply because they fail to pay their notes when due.

HONESTY IN BANKNUPTCY.

Then comes a bankrupt law which releases men from the legal obligation to pay their debts; a law which in the opinion of many cannot be moral, because no law should relieve a man from the obligation to do his moral duty. Great hardships would result from the establishment of this doctrine, and it is not at all probable that a commercial age like ours will tolerate the principle; but it is true, nevertheless Greater hardships result from the bankrupcy itself, and those who advocate bankrupt laws never take those evils into account. But men who go into business, incur liabilities and make promises to pay, ought to have the consciousness that no law of God or man will ever let them escape from the positive and perpetual obligation to pay their debts to the uttermost farthing. It may require toil and care and economy and fasting and suffering; but no honest man will ever imagine that a bankrupt law has taken off from his soul one straw's weight of duty to pay principal and interest, every cent he owes.

PUTTING PROPERTY INTO YOUR WIFE'S HANDS.

There are many ways in which men avoid paying their debts, which will not bear the test of honest investigation. Many a man fails in business, and when his creditors come upon him for the property which surrounded him, it is suddenly discovered that his reputation for wealth was built upon the possession of a splendid house and grounds which he had made over to his wife. He had been trusted because he was supposed to be rich. But his riches were false pretences. His wife was rich, and under our laws, which are far more favorable to women than to men, she holds the wealth, and the creditors are defrauded. To put one's property into the hands of another, so as to save it from the liabilities of business, and then to do business on the strength of that property, is not honest in the sight of God or good men. But there is a vast deal of this wrong-doing in every commercial comunity, and it is unlikely that the most of men dissent from my position that this is positively wrong. The wrong lies in concealing the fact that the assignment has been made, and continuing to demand and receive credit on a fictitious basis.

VARIOUS FRAUDS AND CHEATS.

The merchant who sells a piece of goods concealing a defect and warranting the article to be sound, the grocer who sells adulterated coffee, tea, sugar, &c.; the builder who uses defective timber or mortar, the mechanic who slights his work and deceives his customer, the miliner or mantua maker who keeps back, the remnants of silk, the day laborer who is idle when he ought to be at his work, the subscriber who reads a newspaper without paying for it, the servant who take a commission at the expense of his employer, the agent who derives advantage, pecuniary or otherwise, not known to or authorized by his principal for whom he is doing business -all such men and women are dishonest. They may profess to be Christians, but they are all in a bad way. Some other things next week.

The New Baby--A Boy's Soliloquy.

"Yes, there's another of 'em up stairs now. I knowed it; cause pa told me I must be quiet and sit down in the corner with my book, and mustn't play ball, nor ask Willie Smart to come in and help me put my new puzzle together. Then there is a cross nurse who is always scolding me for getting in her way, no difference where I get.

Besides, Miss Gadsill was here to-day and she took me on her knee, and patted me on the back just like cook does while I'm choking, and said my nose was another degree out of joint, but I know better, for this is the third time she has told me so, and it's no more out of joint now than it ever was.—She's a hateful, 'goggled-eyed old maid—that's what she is.

"I saw it too. It's got a little, round red head without any hair, with great deep wrinkles instead of eyes, and when it cries it opens its mouth as wide as though it meant to swallow itself. Pa helped me up on the side of the bed and told me to kiss my dear, pretty little sister; and when I wouldn't and called it a horrid, ugly little thing, he said I was a naughty little boy, and then the nurse shook me and said I'd ought to be ashamed. I didn't get to kiss my ma at all—I knew better than to try it; for once, when another baby came, I climbed on the bed, and putting my arms around her neck, hugged and kissed her but all the time I had my knee on the baby's head, so I was whipped and put in my crib without any supper, because I didn't know it was there.

"Little Jennie thinks it's nice to have a new sister, but then she was the baby before, and don't know anything about it. I can remember, long, long ago, ma used to call me her 'sweet little darling,' and pa dandled me on his foot, and said I was a fine fellow, and aunt Susan declared I was a 'perfect little angel; but then Tom came, and all my toys were given to him, 'cause he was the baby, and I was cuffed and scolded by everybody 'cept grandma, and she's good to me yet, though there's been two new ones since

"I wonder where all the babies come from. Ma says the Lord sends them. I wish he wouldn't send any more to our house; we've got more'n enough now. It might be nice for them if they could stay little always, but they have to grow big after awhile, and then they ain't no better off than the rest of folks. I rather think if I was a baby, I'd ask the Lord not to send me where I'd have nothing to do but lay on my back and chew my toes, and have folks say I was the 'darlingest, cunningest little creature they ever had eyes on.' That's the way babies are always treated, and it's a deal better than being told one is a good for nothing, mischivious little rascal, or a troublesome, careless boy—that it is."

THE THIMBLE.—The name of this little instrument is said to have been derived from "thumb-bell," being first thumble, and afterward thimble. It is of Dutch invention, and was brought to England about the year 1605, by John Lofting, near London, pursued it with great profit and success. Formerly iron and brass were used, but latterly steel, silver and gold have taken their places. In the ordinary manufacture, thin plates of metal are introduced into a die, and then punched into shape. In Paris gold thimbles are manufactured to a large extent. Thin sheets of sheet-iron are cut into dies of about two inches diameter These being heated red hot, are struck with a punch into a number of holes, gradually increasing in depth to give them the proper shape.

The thimble is then trimmed, polished, and indented around its outer surface with a number of little holes, by means of a small wheel. It is then converted into steel by the cementation process, tempered, scoured and brought to a blue color. A thin sheet of gold is then introduced into the interior, and fastened to the steel by means of a polished steel mandril. Gold leaf is then applied to the outside, and attached to it by pressure, the edges being fastened in a small groove made to receive them. The thimble is then ready for use. Those made in this manner do not wear out, as so many ordinary gold thimbles do, but will last for years. The gold coating, if cut away by needles, may be easily replaced, but the steel is of an excellent quality, and very durable.

Vaccination.

In the present epidemic of small-pox, which is ravaging so many of our cities, it will no doubt relieve the minds of many to see the following authoritative opinion of Dr. George B. Wood, the venerable Emeritus Professor of the Theory and Practice of Medicine in the University of Pennsylvania:

"Though vaccination, once performed, very often fails of affording complete protection against small-pox, yet it almost always modifies it partly, rendering it a comparatively mild and safe disease. * * The complaint, as it occurs after vaccination, is very seldom fatal, and, in the vast majority of instances, leaves no unpleasant traces behind it. Though the cases of varioloid, or secondary small-pox, occurring after a previous variolous attack, are proportionally less frequent than those which follow vaccination, yet they are not only proportionally, but in the aggregate, more fatal. * * * * Of 248 cases of natural and modified small-pox noticed by Drs. Bell and Mitchell of Philadelphia, 64 were after vaccination with but one death, and 15 were after inoculated or natural small-pox with six deaths. In the course of my practice, though I have seen much of the disease, I have lost but one patient after vaccination; and in that instance death occurred, not from the violence of the varioloid disease, which was mild, but from the supervention of inflammation of the brain, consequent on the peculiar state of the patient's constitution at the time. Thus, it appears that if the protection afforded by vaccination is not perfect, it is yet superior to any other. * * * * * But, whatever may be the cause, the fact is certain, that one vaccination fails to afford security against a modified form of small-pox in very many cases; and, though the resulting affection may be in general neither fatal nor deforming, yet it is inconvenient, and may become the source of a further spreading of the disease, and in some cases is very dangerous. It is important to find a remedy for these evils; and happily such a remedy is afforded in re vaccination."—[Wood's Practic of Medicine, vol. 1, p. 393.

THE EUREKA
FANNING MILL.
The Greatest Invention
OF THE 19th CENTURY!

FARMERS, LOOK TO YOUR INTEREST.

THE attention of Farmers and Mechanics is particularly directed to the combined economy, utility and practicability of the Eureka Mill, and to the many other advantages it possesses over every other Fanning Mill which has been introduced to the public. It is the fruit of long and patient investigation by the inventor, who has made it his constant study for over twenty years. He has secured several patents for Mills, and has always been rewarded with the best of success. But not feeling satisfied with his former attainments, he determined to reach the climax, and he now believes that his new invention will warrant him in exclaiming in the joy of his heart, like the philosopher, Phythagoras, EUREKA, signifying in the Grecian language, "I have found it." This has given the name to this new Mill.

In this Mill are all the former improvements, to which have been added several more, adding still greater advantages than were at first anticipated, or even thought possible by the inventor himself. It embraces the three great essentials necessary in every invention.

It combines Utility, Economy and Practicability!

THE EUREKA MILL

Is small and lighter, and is capable of doing more and better work in a given time than any other Mill ever invented. It is the only Mill that will successfully remove from wheat such pests as Cockle, Garlic, Oats, Rye, &c.

Should an extra quality of grain for seed or gristing purposes be required, it can be so arranged as to catch in one box perfect grain, and in the other, grain fit for market or mill. Here is made a great saving usually lost sight of; for nearly one-quarter of the grain cleaned in the common Mills is lost when sown, on account of shrunken kernels and inferior grain. The Eureka Mill saves all this, and gives seed every kernel of which will grow when put into the ground, and this saving will, in a short time, pay for the Mill.

HINES & BURCHINAL,
Chestertown, Md.,

Owners of the Mill, are having them manufactured at the Sash Factory and Planing Mill of NOLAND & Co., Port Deposit, Md., which is a guarantee they will be put up in the very best manner.

VINEGAR BITTERS

J. WALKER, Proprietor. R. H. MCDONALD & Co., Druggists & Gen. Agents, San Francisco, Cal., and 34 Commerce St., N.Y.

MILLIONS Bear Testimony to their Wonderful Curative Effects.

Vinegar Bitters are not a vile Fancy Drink, Made of Poor Rum, Whiskey, Proof Spirits and Refuse Liquors, doctored, spiced and sweetened to please the taste, called "Tonics," "Appetizers," "Restorers," &c., that lead the tippler on to drunkenness and ruin, but are a true Medicine, made from the Native Roots and Herbs of California, free from all Alcoholic Stimulants. They are the GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER and A LIFE GIVING PRINCIPLE, a perfect Renovator and Invigorator of the System, carrying off all poisonous matter and restoring the blood to a healthy condition. No person can take these Bitters according to directions and remain long unwell, provided their bones are not destroyed by mineral poison or other means, and the vital organs wasted beyond the point of repair.

They are a Gentle Purgative as well as a Tonic, possessing, also, the peculiar merit of acting as a powerful agent in relieving Congestion or Inflammation of the Liver, and of all the Visceral Organs.

FOR FEMALE COMPLAINTS, whether in young or old, married or single, at the dawn of womanhood or at the turn of life, these Tonic Bitters have no equal.

For Inflammatory and Chronic Rheumatism and Gout, Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Bilious, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers, Diseases of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys and Bladder, these Bitters have been most successful. Such Diseases are caused by Vitiated Blood, which is generally produced by derangement of the Digestive Organs.

DYSPEPSIA OR INDIGESTION, Headache, Pain in the Shoulders, Coughs, Tightness of the Chest, Dizziness, Sour Eructations of the Stomach, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Bilious Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, Inflammation of the Lungs, Pain in the regions of the Kidneys, and a hundred other painful symptoms are the offsprings of Dyspepsia.

They invigorate the Stomach and stimulate the torpid Liver and Bowels, which render them of unequalled efficacy in cleansing the blood of all impurities, and imparting new life and vigor to the whole system.

FOR SKIN DISEASES, Eruptions, Tetter, Salt Rheum, Blotches, Spots, Pimples, Pustules, Boils, Carbuncles, Ring-Worms, Scald Head, Sore Eyes, Erysipelas, Itch, Scurfs, Discolorations of the Skin, Humors and Diseases of the Skin, of whatever name or nature, are literally dug up and carried out of the system in a short time by the use of these Bitters. One bottle in such cases will convince the most incredulous of their curative effect.

Cleanse the Vitiated Blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the skin in Pimples, Eruptions or Sores; cleanse it when you find it obstructed and sluggish in the veins; cleanse it when it is foul, and your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood pure, and the health of the system will follow.

PIN, TAPE, and other WORMS, lurking in the system of so many thousands, are effectually destroyed and removed.
