THE Seventh Annual Commencement of the State Normal School will be held in Concordia Hall, Baltimore, on Thursday evening, May 30th. We are indebted to the Principal, M. A. NEWELL, for a complimentary ticket, and catalogue of the School.

CONCERT NEXT THURSDAY.—We call attention to the Concert at the Town Hall next Thursday evening. If we may judge by the past this will be a musical entertainment well worth hearing. The managers assure us it will be superior. The proceeds are for the benefit of the Catholic Church to be built in our town. The singers have been practicing for the occasion. Mrs. McCauley, who sang on the last occasion without preparation, is prepared, and one song from her alone will be well worth the admission fee.

PAINFUL ACCIDENT.—Banks Logan, a negro man, last Monday had the two first fingers of his right hand mutilated and mashed to a jelly in a corn sheller. They were amputated by Dr. E. A. Vanhort, and though the patient suffered excrutiating pain and exhibited the premonitory symptoms of lock-jaw is now, by careful attention, doing well.

Letter from Galena.

Mr. Editor—If you will allow some space in your estimable paper, I will try to give an account of the entertainment which was held in the school room, on the evening of the 3rd inst. It consisted of Tableaux and Music. The house not being very closely packed, we that were present could enjoy it much better.

The first scene was entitled "The Seasons." This was acted by the Misses Ella Brice, Laura Betton, Jennie Wilson and ——. Each was dressed to suit the season she represented. It was well performed.

The second scene on the programme was "Antony and Cleopatra," performed by Mr. J. R. Starkey, Misses Kate Price and Emma Kendall. I must say that this was acted well by the different parties.

"The Flower Girl" came next. Miss Jennie Wilson personated her in this scene. The clear, sweet voice of the "Girl," as she sang the flower song, was very soothing indeed. The audience was well pleased with it, for they called so loudly that she had to appear the second time.

Next came "Old Maids' Hall." The actors in this were Misses Annie Airey, Kate Price, Ella Brice and Lucie Miller. Here let me say that this beat all that had been played. I tell you, Mr. Editor, if laughing ever makes one fat, I think some of us ought to have gained a few pounds. We had considerable sympathy for poor Dinah, the servant. The way that Old Maid beat and cuffed her about was heart-rending. But we must pass to the next scene, viz:

"Old Bachelors' Hall." Of course there were no old maids in this scene. But, if we may judge by the way they kept eyeing this finely furnished apartment, they would liked to have set things to rights. They cannot intrude; it is consecrated ground. It was acted by J. R. Starkey, G. W. Sutton and W. N. Sherwood. We have heard snoring before, but the snoring that was did in that "Hall" caps all. Some said that "Old Bachelor" will never wake up. But he did. We saw him a day or two since, but he looks mighty pale.

Next scene was "Romeo and Juliet." G. W Sutton, E. Lynch, Miss Laura Price and E Benny were the actors in this. The performance was excellent. But we must hasten to the next scene.

The curtain raises, when lo and behold!: "Auld Lang Syne" was sung by Miss Aiery. The audience was completely convulsed with laughter. Such a peculiar tone of voice we never heard before. And that dress, why, that was enough to upset the most sedate of us.

"Troilus and Cressida" came next. G. W. Sutton, Miss Lucie Miller, E Lynch, Miss Adie Wilson, T. Horsey and Miss A. Parr took part. This was well performed if we are a judge of such scenes.

Next on the list was entitled "King Henry VIII." The performers in this were J. R. Starkey, Misses Price, Sutton and Woodall.

The "Banquet of Peru" next greeted our sight. Actors—Misses Kendall, Price, Jones, Parrott, and Messrs. Horsey, Sutton, Lynch, Starkey. They certainly did make "Black Betty" suffer. It appeared that some of them imbibed rather too freely of the critter, for they got into a fight (mimic). The curtain drops and we impatiently wait for the next scene.

"Woman's Rights" proved to be the next one. Those that took a part in this were Messrs. Starkey, Horsey, Sutton, Jones, and Misses Parrott, Rodgers, Sutton, Medders. As this question is now somewhat agitating the public mind, we thought that it was appropriately introduced. Some of the men were placed in rather ridiculous positions as well as the women. One man was seen ironing, whils his wife attended the club. Another was left washing while his wife went to the convention to proclaim for "Woman's Rights." We saw one poor fellow down in the dirt, with his sleeves rolled up, rubbing knives. The way he used ashes was truly terrific to the spectator. But, poor fellow, he knew what was coming if he didn't get his task done. His wife was walking up and down, puffing independently, and casting a sly glance at him occasionally, to see if he was idle. I presume enough has been said about "Woman's Rights," so we will proceed to the next scene.

"Mamma is sad." Miss Ella Medders represented the mother, and Miss Mira Benny the child. This was a change from mirth to sadness. It was truly a sad picture. "But Mira made mamma glad." We turn from this to the next.

"Indian Scene." Acted by Misses Price, Kendall, Parr, Jones, and Messrs. Horsey, Sutton, Jones, Lynch. This was splendidly acted. It called to our imagination what the early settlers had to endure. But the curtain soon dropped, and we were informed that it was the last scene for the evening.

In conclusion, I will just mention that Misses Airey, Price, and Lucie Miller, gave us some excellent music.

The lady managers, Misses Price, Benny, and Lucie Miller, deserve a great deal of praise for the manner in which the exercises were selected and executed.

Thus we spent one pleasant evening, never to be forgotten as long as memory lasts, and we do hope that it will not be the last they will have in this town.

The Gold Mine Building Association Case.

[From the Balt. Sun, of Thursday.]

In the Criminal Court, yesterday, Judge Pinkney filed his opinion in the case of Henry Sonneman against the Gold Mine Building Association, which is of considerable importance to other building associations.

The facts of the case are as follows:—Henry Sonneman, in August, 1870, bought the premises No. 509 West Baltimore street, subject to a mortgage to the Gold Mine Building Association, to secure the weekly dues on thirty shares of stock. The weekly dues on these shares were twelve weeks in arrears, and the laws of the association prescribed a fine of five cents per share for every week in arrear. Sonneman offered to pay the association eighteen dollars for twelve weeks' fines, but the association demanded $117 fines, calculating them in arithmetical progression, as follows: For the first week one fine, for the second week two fines, for the third week three fines, &c., carrying all the previous fines, so that at this calculation the fines for the twelfth week alone amounted to eighteen dollars. Sonneman refused to pay the fines calculated in this manner, whereupon the association, through its solicitors, Clendinen & Wilson foreclosed the mortgage, and Sonneman, by L. Henninghausen, his attorney, obtained an injunction to restrain the association from selling the property. After nearly two years' litigation, and after hearing of the case, the court made the injunction perpetual, deciding that the association could only claim eighteen dollars for fines.

The Thorough-bred Stallion,
LEGATEE,

Is now making the Season in this county, and it is desirable that he shall not travel much, and as his list is well nigh filled, (having a limited number of mares,) those who wish to breed to him had better communicate at once with Mr. A. Governor Bowie says this horse has no equal in the country, and is breeding his choicest stock to him.

The Turf, Field and Farm, in speaking of LEGATEE, long before he was thought of traveling here, states that "he is the finest bred horse in America, and should make a superior stallion."

LEGATEE has won a number of races, among the rest, the "Restoration Stakes," at Long Branch, purse $5,000, easily beating several celebrated and frequent winners upon other occasions. See handbills.
