New Anecdotes of Scott.

No pleasanter anecdotes have been told of any man. These are generally well known, but I trust that the following may be new to my readers. Mrs. John Ballantyne was just married. She was young, the beauty of Edinburgh, and half spoiled by flattery. She was to meet Sir Walter at dinner, and resolved to put on airs, and show the great lion of the time that she was not to be brought to fawn even at his feet. He asked her to take a glass of wine, and she affected not to hear him; but the great man, instead of noticing this girlish folly, proceeded to talk with her with such politeness that she speedily felt ashamed of herself. This lady related that once, at her own table, on the occasion of a large and ceremonious dinner party, there was a scarcity of spoons, and what added to the awkwardness, at the precise moment when the servant was washing the spoons for further use, a most determined pause in conversation ensued.—The silence was so profound that no sound was to be heard save the whispers of the servants just without, and the washing of the spoons. At last the blushing lady's husband drank, "Relief to all in distress," which broke the spell, and set all laughing, while Mr James Ballantyne called out with a line of Shakespeare,

"My lord, my lord, methinks you'd spare your spoons."

"Not I, indeed, my lord," responded Mrs. B., "for I have none to spare." "Net amiss," said Sir Walter, in genial recognition of the lady's hit Next day a parcel came to her, directed in an unmistakable handwriting, containing a dozen of the handsomest spoons that could be obtained in Edinburgh. This same old lady relates a story which deserves to be held as one of the most singular among the curiosities of literature. She relates that once when her brother-in-law, James, was reading to her, Scott entered, and told him to go on reading. As the reader proceeded, Scott at first nodded approbation, then said "Good!"—"Very good!" "Charming!" "Powerful!" until at last the upper lip began to tremble, and the tears fell. Taking his staff, he strode across the room and looked over Mr. Ballantyne's shoulder to see what the volume was. It was "The Lay of the Last Minstrel." He was quite in discomfiture, dashed the tears indignantly from his eyes, uttered an impatient "pshaw!" and said, "God help me, James, I am losing my memory."—M. D. Conway, in Harper's Magazine.

A Fire in the Rear.

The Indianapolis Journal publishes the following queer story: A day or two since a ruralist from Andersonville or thereabouts visited the city on business, and in the course of his peregrinations purchased a package of Roman candles for the purpose of amusing his progeny on his return. His fireworks were carefully deposited in a rear pocket, and a short time thereafter he wended his way to the depot to take the evening train. While loitering in the waiting room admiring the stacks of gingerbread, hard-boiled eggs, and doughnuts temptingly displayed on the lunch counter, he carelessly whisked his left coat-tail against the red-hot stove, and trouble immediately ensued. The first rocket narrowly missed the face of a native who was in a half comotose condition, caused by too much extract of hops; and without waiting to inquire into particulars, he made the door in two gigantic leaps. All the occupants of the room immediately endeavoured to follow his example, and with a worthy determination not to be distanced, the proprietor of the candles forced himself into the midst of the throng, endeavoring frantically to escape.—In the meantime the candles fizzed and popped, giving strength to the evident impression that the party was being bombarded from a sort of an infernal machine; and strange as it may seem, the innocent cause of all the trouble was the most frightened man in the lot. Not until fearful holes had been burnrd in the broadest portion of his nether garments, and the epidermis looked as though a strong mustard plaster had been pulled of violently, did he discover the cause of the panic. Order was finally restored, though the effects on the man's coat tails were disastrous; and we are also informed that his unmentionables required immediate half-soling. The victim was willing to testify that not one of the candles missed fire.

A Practical Joker Discomfitted.

Charles Farren, a young gentlemen employed in one of the manufacturing establishments of Lafayette, Ind., went to his boarding house at a late hour one night lately, and thinking to give his landlady a sensation, marked his face in spots with red keel. He walked in the sitting-room and had taken a seat by the fire before the spots were noticed. The landlady all absorbed, looked up from her work in a moment, and noticing the red spots on his face, asked in evident alarm: "Why, Charlie, what on earth is the matter with your face?" "Don't know," replied Charlie, "but guess it is only varioloid" Then occurred a scene better imagined than described. The landlady was at first paralyzed with horror, but recovering in a moment she rushed to the door, opened it quickly—"Get out of this mighty quick," said she, "get out," she screamed at the top of her voice, and deaf to all expostulations from poor Charlie, she hustled him out without his overcoat. In a moment she opened the door and kicked his overcoat and cap out, as though afraid to touch his clothing with her hands. Charlie stood out in the cold, completely bewildered with the unexpected turn affairs had taken, when he heard a window raised, and a gentle voice called him by name "Here, Charlie, here is your trunk!" There was a plunge in the snow, and, sure enough, there was Charlie's new trunk, with all his store of clothes and personal effects. The practical joker sought the first sheltering roof at hand, but took the precaution to wash his face in the snow.

An Affectionate Pigeon.

A man set to watch a field of peas which had been much preyed upon by pigeons, shot an old cock pigeon, that had long been an inhabitant of the farm. His mate, around whom he had for many years cooed, and nourished from his own crop, and assisted in rearing numerous young ones, immediately settled on the ground by his side, and showed her grief in the most expressive manner. The laborer took up the dead bird tied it to a short stake, thinking it would frighten away the other depredators. In this situation however, his partner did not forsake him, but continued, day after day, walking slowly around the stick. The kind hearted wife of the bailiff on the farm at last heard of the circumstance, and immediately went to afford what relief she could to the poor bird. On arriving at the spot she found the hen-bird much exhausted, and that she had made a circular beaten track round the dead pigeon, making now and then a little spring towards him. On the removal of the dead bird the hen returned to the dovecote.

Ayer's

Sarsaparilla

Is widely known as one of the most effectual remedies ever discovered for cleansing the system and purifying the blood. It has stood the test of years, with a constantly growing reputation, based on its intrinsic virtues, and sustained by its remarkable cures. So mild as to be safe and beneficial to children, and yet so searching as to effectually purge out the great corruptions of the blood, such as the scrofulous and syphilitic contamination. Impurities, or diseases that have lurked in the system for years, soon yield to this powerful antidote and disappear. Hence its wonderful cures, many of which are publicly known, of Scrofula, and all scrofulous diseases, Ulcers, Eruptions, and eruptive disorders of the skin, Tumors, Blotches, Boils, Pimples, Pustules, Sores, St. Anthony's Fire, Rose or Erysipelas, Tetter, Salt Rheum, Scald Head, Ringworm, and internal Ulcerations of the Uterus, Stomach, and Liver. It also cures other complaints, to which it would not seem especially adapted, such as Dropsy, Dyspepsia, Fits, Neuralgia, Heart Disease, Female Weakness, Debility, and Leucorrhœa, when they are manifestations of the scrofulous poisons.

It is an excellent restorer of health and strength in the Spring. By renewing the appetite and vigor of the digestive organs, it dissipates the depression and listless langour of the season. Even when no disorder appears, people feel better, and live longer, for cleansing the blood. The system moves on with renewed vigor and a new lease of life.

PREPARED BY

Dr. J. C. AYER & CO., Lowell, Mass.,

Practical and Analytical Chemists,

SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS EVERYWHERE.

Every year increases the popularity of this valuable Hair Preparation; which is due to merit alone. We can assure our old patrons that it is kept fully up to its high standard; and it is the only reliable and perfected preparation for restoring GRAY OR FADED HAIR to its youthful color, making it soft, lustrous, and silken. The scalp, by its use, becomes white and clean. It removes all eruptions and dandruff; and, by its tonic properties, prevents the hair from falling out, as it stimulates and nourishes the hair-glands. By its use, the hair grows thicker and stronger. In baldness, it restores the capillary glands to their normal vigor, and will create a new growth, except in extreme old age. It is the most economical HAIR DRESSING ever used, as it requires fewer applications, and gives the hair a splendid, glossy appearance. A. A. Hayes, M.D, State Assayer of Massachusetts, says, "The constituents are pure, and carefully selected for excellent quality; and I consider it the BEST PREPARATION for its intended purposes."

THE

EUREKA

FANNING MILL.

The Greatest Invention

OF THE 19th CENTURY!

FARMERS, LOOK TO YOUR INTEREST.

THE attention of Farmers and Mechanics is particularly directed to the combined economy, utility and practicability of the Eureka Mill, and to the many other advantages it possesses over every other Fanning Mill which has been introduced to the public. It is the fruit of long and patient investigation by the inventor, who has made it his constant study for over twenty years. He has secured several patents for Mills, and has always been rewarded with the best of success. But not feeling satisfied with his former attainments, he determined to reach the climax, and he now believes that his new invention will warrant him in exclaiming in the joy of his heart, like the philosopher, Phythagoras, EUREKA, signifying in the Grecian language, "I have found it." This has given the name to this new Mill.

In this Mill are all the former improvements, to which have been added several more, adding still greater advantages than were at first anticipated, or even thought possible by the inventor himself. It embraces the three great essentials necessary in every invention.

It combines Utility, Economy and Practicability!

THE EUREKA MILL

Is small and lighter, and is capable of doing more and better work in a given time than any other Mill ever invented. It is the only Mill that will successfully remove from wheat such pests as Cockle, Garlic, Oats, Rye, &c.

Should an extra quality of grain for seed or gristing purposes be required, it can be so arranged as to catch in one box perfect grain, and in the other, grain fit for market or mill. Here is made a great saving usually lost sight of; for nearly one-quarter of the grain cleaned in the common Mills is lost when sown, on account of shrunken kernels and inferior grain. The Eureka Mill saves all this, and gives seed every kernel of which will grow when put into the ground, and this saving will, in a short time, pay for the Mill.

HINES & BURCHINAL,

Chestertown, Md.,

Owners of the Mill, are having them manufactured at the Sash Factory and Planing Mill of NOLAND & Co., Port Deposit, Md., which is a guarantee they will be put up in the very best manner.

PEACH BASKETS.

PEACH Growers and Shippers are respectfully informed that we are now manufacturing the justly celebrated "Mitchell Patent Peach Basket." This Basket is constructed on a principle which prevents the fruit from settling or crushing, and is positively endorsed and recommended by all the leading Commission Houses in New York and Philadelphia as the best Basket in use. Our Baskets are made of the choicest material, and none but the best experienced workmen will be employed in their construction; and we desire to call special attention to the fact that we are using in the basket this season a malleable nail, manufactured expressly for our use, and which adds materially to its firmness, strength and durability.

Having purchased the newest and most improved basket machinery, we are prepared to sell the best basket in the market, at a price that will defy competition. Our facilities are such that we can make 5000 baskets daily, all of which will be thoroughly inspected before leaving the factory. Orders may be sent to
