National Democratic Nominations.

FOR PRESIDENT,

HORACE GREELEY,

OF NEW YORK.

FOR VICE PRESIDENT,

B. GRATZ BROWN,

OF MISSOURI.

FOR CONGRESS,

E. KING WILSON,

OF WORCESTER COUNTY.

THE DUTY OF DEMOCRATS.

The bearing which one election has upon another gives rise to some reflections which we would present to our Democratic readers. The Republican victory in the great States of Ohio and Pennsylvania, and especially that of Pennsylvania, by whatever means brought about, whether legitimately or fraudulently, are calculated to have a depressing influence upon the Democratic ranks in Maryland, more especially under existing circumstances, when the Presidential standard-bearer is one whose antecedents are specially objectionable to a large portion of the Democracy of Maryland. The golden fruits of victory are secured after the battle has been fought, and unfaltering courage and dogged perseverance in conducting a retreat often render a victory dear-bought. This unswerving resistance to the enemy in Maryland, must be presented, or under the depression of defeat even our solid Maryland phalanxes may be weakened. Every Democrat should gird on his armor, every reserve should at once go to the front, the out-posts should be strengthened, every sentinel should be thoroughly tested, the best, and clearest-headed leaders should be placed in commission, organization should be thorough and complete, and party discipline brought to the highest state practicable. The vandals who are preying upon the vitals of our national constitution and treasury, must be kept as far as possible from the domestic hearth. There should be no straggling nor desertion permitted from our ranks; and this can be effected by earnest active organization.

Let the meeting to-day in Kent be the beginning of the Fall campaign, and let every Democrat in the county be present, and inspired with fresh zeal. Let this meeting be followed by District Meetings in every District in the county; and active earnest club organizations in every school district. One month of such discipline will bring our forces into a state of efficiency which will bid defiance to the black Hessians of the enemy or the money-bags of Mr. Creswell's master.

The Elections.

We believe, from all the accounts that reach us from private and thoroughly trustworthy sources, says the Baltimore Gazette of Thursday, that Mr. Buckalew received a majority of the votes cast in Pennsylvania on Tuesday, and that he was only defeated by treachery and the grossest fraud. But the thing is done. There is no remedy for it, and rascality is triumphant. What majority the final returns may give to Hartranft is of no earthly consequences. The determination of the Cameron faction was to "count him in," and with all the political machinery in their hands, they could give him just as many votes as they deemed advisable or prudent. Of the scandalous practices in Philadelphia it may be necessary to give a narrative hereafter, although it would simply serve to show how Mr. Buckalew was cheated out of his election, and how impotent even the most reputable citizens were to protect themselves against the most flagrant abuses of authority on the part of those who had been commissioned, under the Election Enforcement bill, to watch the polls and see that no man suffered wrong. That a great party has been deprived, as we believe, of a victory it had legitimately won, and a great State remanded to the care of a faction notoriously tainted with bargain and corruption, are matters of lesser moment than the knavery such a victory seems to condone, and the unbridled licenses it encourages. We have hoped that good would flow from this movement for reform, and we hope so still. Where power is strongly entrenched, it takes more than one conflict to dislodge it, and the failure of an attack on one part of the works may yet be the precursor of better fortune in a general assault. The loss of Pennsylvania at the election on Tuesday may or may not foreshadow a like victory for the Conservatives in November. That remains to be seen. But the whole of the States of the Union are not linked to the fortunes of Pennsylvania, nor is her defection, while it weakens, absolutely fatal to the chances of Mr. Greeley. If the sky darkens over Pennsylvania, light is breaking through the clouds elsewhere.

In Ohio the Radical majority has been cut down at least one-half, and probably two-thirds; whilst in Indiana, the latest report that reaches us is that Hendricks has carried the State by a small majority. But there is much serious work yet to be done, and if the people are still worthy of the freedom they have inherited, the movement so well begun must triumph in the end, for the principles for which the Democracy and Liberal Republicans are contending, are vital to the preservation of the Republic.

The Result at Geneva.

The amount accorded to the United States by the Geneva tribunal, stated at fifteen-and-a-half millions of dollars, is the least important feature of this grave and authoritative decision, and presents a ridiculous contrast to the thousand millions which might have been awarded if any tribunal in the world could have been found to entertain the modest suggestion of Mr. Bancroft Davis for indirect damages. What is of more moment than the money damages is the three rules of neutrality on which the indemnity has been awarded, which are:

That a neutral government is bound to use diligence to prevent the fitting out, arming or equipping within its jurisdiction, or the departure, &c., of any vessel which it has reason to believe is intended for war against a power with which it is at peace.

Secondly, not to permit or suffer either belligerent to use its ports or waters for warlike purposes against each other, or for procuring warlike supplies or recruits.

Thirdly, to exercise due diligence in its own ports and waters, and as to all persons within its jurisdiction, to prevent any violation of the foregoing obligations and duties.

These are just principles, and quite as valuable to Great Britain as ourselves, inasmuch as, in the event of Great Britain getting hereafter into war with a power with which we are at peace, American neutrality is secured. We see nothing gained for this country under these proceedings which might not have been secured under the Johnson-Clarendon treaty.

Novel Breach of Promise Case.

Suit has been instituted in the Baltimore City Court, Judge Scott, by Jacob Lenz, through his counsel, W. Hollingsworth Whyte, against Mary Schomm, to recover $3,000 damages for an alleged breach of promise of marriage The par filed in the case yesterday sets forth that the parties had engaged themselves in marriage; that a reasonable time for the fulfillment of the engagement has now eladsed; that the plaintiff, suitor, Lenz, has always been ready and willing and anxious even to comply with his engagement, but that the lady has neglected to embrace the opportunity, and has, indeed, refused to marry, leaving him with no other consolation than the law's cold formalities, a suit before a grave judge, and damages in the sum of three thousand dollars, with which he hopes to assuage his grief and mortification. It is very plain to see that Mr. Lenz does not believe in woman's rights.—Sun of Wednesday.

The Defeat of Harry Bassett.

It has been mentioned by telegraph that the celebrated racer, Harry Bassett, the rival of Longfellow, was beaten at prospect Park, New York, on Saturday, by Monarchist, owned by M. H. Sanford. This was a most unexpected result, as the odds were extravagantly in favor of Bassett. The race was a dash of three miles, and very exciting. In drawing for places Monarchist had the inside, but Bassett got the best of the start by a full length. At the quarter pole they were head and head, but Bassett soon got the lead, and coming up the stretch they seemed to move almost with the speed of the wind. The after Bassett run the closer Monarchist seemed to hang to him, and at the finish of the first mile, which was run in 1.45, Bassett only led three-quarters of a length. The next mile was almost repitition of the first, but entering the stretch Monarchist was still only a neck behind the favorite, and when again they came up the scratch both were going more slowly, and passed the stand, having run the two miles in 3.37¼. As they passed the stand the general opinion was that Monarchist was running the fastest, and that if he only stuck to his work he would win Bassett, however, kept the lead until well into the straight, when the whip was applied to Monarchist, and he came up even with Bassett, amidst the greatest excitement. Monarchist came home the winner by two lengths, in 5.34½. On returning to weigh neither horse appeared to be distressed—Monarchist certainly was not while Bassett entered away to his stable. The scene at the finish was one of the greatest excitement, all present, even some of the losers, shouting themselves hoarse.

A CHINESE HOME,—Springfield, Mass., seems to be made, for a time, at least, the headquarters of the Chinese deputation of scholars in this country. A house has been rented for six months, to the 1st of April next, with the privilege of renewal, if desired. It is to be furnished by the party, except the carpets, and they will live as at home, in Chinese style. Those who will remain are as follows: Chief Commissioner Young Wing, who is a very able man and a fit representative of the shrewdness and progressiveness of the present Chinese government; Tsang Lan Sing, interpreter for the commission, his wife, three daughters and three sons; Commissioner Chin Lan Pin; Yeh Shun Tung, the teacher, and five servants, two of whom are the barber and tailor.

A Canadian Horse Epidemic.

TORONTO, Oct 8.—The disease among the horses continues, and there is scarcely a horse in the city fit for work. The interruption to business is becoming very serious. Merchants are unable to ship or get goods from the depots. There are no hacks on the stands.

A Benefactor Remembered.

Mr. B. T. Hanley, well known in the West and South, and whose fortune is estimated at $3,000,000, is said to be dying in Texas. In 1823 Mr. Hanley engaged in the mercantile business in Cincinnati, selling fine silks and ribbons. He was very successful for a time, and invested every cent he had in his business.—He finally became involved in debt, and was on the eve of bankruptcy. Mr. S. W. Davis, of the same city, a bookseller and blank book manufacturer, hearing of Mr. Hanley's misfortune, and, although being a stranger to him, knowing his integrity and honesty to be beyond question, helped him out of his difficulty. Mr. Hanly strove to repay his benefactor, but he was doomed to a greater misfortune than he had experienced before. One night this store was burned to the ground, and he was reduced to poverty. Mr. Hanly determined to leave the city, and Mr. Davis advanced him sufficient money to pay his expenses and engage in some new enterprise. It was not until October, 1860, a lapse of forty five years, that Mr. heard from Mr. Hanley had amassed a large fortune estimated at $3,000,000, the whole of which, with the execution of a small bequest, he now wills to Mr. Davis.

Died.

BENNY.—At Galena, on the 29th ultimo, MATTIE T., second daughter of Dr. S. P. and Mary L. T. Benny, aged 10 years, 3 months and 15 days.
