June 1st 1855

This day begins with a (Tornado) wind that is carrying us along at the rate of 9 knots the hour and we expect to get home in a week.

June 2

The breze still continues and hopes are raised according go on Elizabeth and carry us there as quick as you can

June 3

The wind still holds from the same quarter we are drawing towards home and shall soon be there there is nothing talk of but home. The weather is to fine to last long.

June 4th 4 O'clock P.M.

The wind has left us and we are becalmed here hopes of getting home to gain some ground in the Gulf of St Lawrence and so we must submit.

June 5th

Still becalmed no shores 3 sails in sight all laying still. O for artificial means to obtain obtain some thing nature has forsaken us still we must hope for a wind to get home with.

June 6

Thursday

We have got a breze once more the is still some hopes of getting there we see gulf clouds plainly and one Sail

the wind has travelled around north the westward we have taken in three flushing sails and are sharp on the wind heading S W by S. but as it is set by noon the wind varied to the S W but the flushing sails there is still some hopes get of getting home this week we will cross the gulf stream to night if the Sun set clear to night and I think you have got good weather at home if it is my health been good and although it is only 1½ o'clock I must go to bed and dream a bought about home and the good times that is coming.

June 7

Good news Good news I walked to the Pinnaple to day and got some papers and see the market price Beefs Skinner, I go that it will hold go to that Price until we get home.
