LOCAL NEWS.

ORPHANS' COURT.—Present, Judges Beck and Scott.

The court passed a number of claims against the estates of deceased parties.

James A. Roseberry, guardian to Harry C. and Samuel C. Roseberry, returned his separate guardian accounts for the year 1872, which were passed and ordered to be recorded.

Richard C. Johnson, admr. of Ann E. Stanley, returned an inventory of the personal estate of deceased: received and ordered to be recorded.

The release of James B. Jester to Wm. Wilson, executor of the last will and testament of James Wilson, was received and ordered to be recorded.

William Stevens and William H. Coleman were, on application of Henry Urie, admr. of Wm. Legg, appointed to view and estimate the annual rental value of the real estate of the minor, Walter Legg

George T. Hollyday, executor of the last will and testament of George Beck, obtained an order to sell the personal estate of deceased.

The Register of Wills was directed to issue citation for John T. Smyth, admr. of Robert Ruth, to return his first administration account.

☞ The Grand Division of the Sons of Temperance will meet in Chestertown, on Thursday, the 31st day of July, at 10 o'clock A. M.

The members of the organization will arrive in our town on Wednesday, the day previous, and public meetings will be held both Wednesday and Thursday evenings, when the cause of Temperance will be discussed.

AMAZON RED RASPBERRY.—We received a few days since a specimen box of this new variety of Raspberry, from Messrs. J. & W. K. Judefind, the propagators and proprietors; also a branch with the fruit. The berries are of fine size, a deep scarlet, and judging from the specimen branch sent, we should say good bearers. They are the latest raspberry we know of, and without being a connoisseur in such matters should say that they were an admirable berry for market. The Messrs. Judefind claim that the Amazon is unsurpassed for productiveness and hardiness. We think all about to plant berries should examine this variety before so doing.

THE M. P. EXCURSION, on Wednesday last, was a very pleasant and successful affair. There were five hundred and fifty-six persons on board the LAW, and the passage money was refunded to thirty at Grey's Inn Creek landing, who were unwilling to go, considering the boat too crowded, after buying their tickets. The managers, however, say that the LAW will carry six hundred comfortably and safely. The passengers were all comfortably seated.

The boat arrived at the foot of Broadway about one o'clock, giving the excursionists over two hours at the Park. They were met by Rev. Drs. Murray, Bates, and Sutherland, and deputations from most of the M. P. Sunday Schools of the city. The excursion party left Baltimore about half-past six o'clock, and arrived safely at Chestertown, without any thing to mar the pleasure of the occasion, at fifteen minutes to twelve.

The gross receipts were five hundred dollars, and the sum realized for the Sunday School must be from two hundred and thirty to two hundred and forty dollars.

EXCURSION FROM BALTIMORE.—The steamer Mary Washington arrived at our wharf from Baltimore, on Wednesday last, with a very large number of colored excursionists, under the auspices of the Colored Draymen and Carters' Association of South Baltimore. The Association were in uniform, and preceded by a colored band, paraded the principal streets. The entire party were very orderly and well behaved.

FIRE.—The two-story frame dwelling in Harmony belonging to Mr. William Archibald and occupied by Mr. Rambo was destroyed by fire on Wednesday last the 16th inst. Insured in the Mutual Fire Insurance Company of Kent county to the amount of $450.00. The fire originated in the back building but it is not known how.

CHARLIE GOODRICH'S BLOOD—A SHOCKING STORY IN CONNECTION WITH THE GOODRICH MURDER.

The Coroner's inquest in the Goodrich murder case was commenced at Brooklyn on Saturday, and a verdict rendered that Lizzie Lloyd King, alias Kate Stoddard, was guilty of the killing.

A Brooklyn afternoon paper says that Kate told the chief of police of that city that she had the day and date of the murder engraved on her locket, which was opened and found to contain the words, "Done Thursday, March 21, 1873;" that she said, "I had these words put on a few days after I shot him." About this locket there is another curious circumstance it is very large, almost the size of a watch.

When the chief saw it first he thought possibly it was Goodrich's watch, and therefore ordered her to give it to him. With this request she was at first loth to comply, but, seeing that resistance was useless, she passed it over. On receiving it the chief took hold to open, when she said:—"Oh, be careful; there is mineral in that which I don't want to lose." Despite the utmost care, however, a little of the mineral, as she called it, fell on the floor, and this, to the chief's surprise, she picked up promptly and then swallowed. "What did you do that for?" said the chief; and looking steadily into his eye, she said, "that is Charlie Goodrich's blood." And sure enough, on close examination, the locket was found to be filled with congealed blood.

A few questions elicited the fact that, on leaving Goodrich's house on Friday morning, she had taken away, with her other articles a cup full of blood which had oozed from his head. The blood coagulated. She had been eating a little of it every day since the tragedy till her arrest. The story is almost incredible, but the portion in the locket and the disposition of the portion that fell gives it credibility. In addition, however, to any specific testimony, her wildest behavior becomes credible when the fact is known that six years ago she was in a lunatic asylum, and that her lunacy was brought on by disappointed love. Mary Handley, in an interview with a reporter, said she had learned when she and Kate were room-mates, that the latter was in a lunatic asylum six years ago. She also said "I have known her to get out of her bed at midnight—unclothed—walk up and down in the darkness, playing on an old accordeon, for an hour at a time. This she did repeatedly, and it was only one of her freaks."

REES' CORNER, Kent Co., Md., July 15, 1873.

Mr. Editor—The children of Public School No. 5, Mrs. Mary Price, teacher, gave an interesting Exhibition in the K. of P. Hall at this place, on the 8th inst., consisting of Recitations, Dialogues, Tableaux and Vocal and Instrumental Music. The night was beautiful and the Hall was crowded, the larger portion of the audience being of the gentler sex, who enjoyed themselves, judging from the frequent applause coming from their side of the house. The children all did so well in their various parts that we cannot say more for one than another. They were assisted in their singing by Prof. G. H. Thompson, Rev. Mr. Nelson, Professor Theodore Ascherfeld and others. We heard Professor Ascherfeld for the first time on the organ, and were charmed. The singing is said to have been the best ever heard at a public school in the county.

The Hall was very prettily decorated with flowers and nothing occurred to mar the pleasure of the occasion. The Rev. Mr. Nelson opened with prayer followed by a chorus from the school. Master Groome Fisher delivered an original address in a plain and manly style

* * * * * * *

After the exercises Mr. Charles G. Ricaud, for the Teacher, presented handsomely bound and useful books as premiums to a large number of the scholars, Master William Judefind, taking the first premium for good conduct and proficiency in the studies of the School, Miss Annie Strong received a Card for the first composition in School.

Mr. Ricaud then addressed the scholars and audience, and was received with applause.

The audience was dismissed by the school singing "Good Night" and the benediction from the Rev. Mr. Nelson.

IDA.

We are obliged to omit part of our correspondent's letter for want of space. —ED.

PLAYING A LITTLE GAME.—Between the newspaper reporters and certain classes of sympathizing citizens, Kate Stoddard, the murderess of Charles Goodrich, bids fair to become a first-class heroine, some of the latter even going so far as to propose subscriptions for her. The woman herself seems to be taking things easy. Monday morning she asked the jailor to furnish her with the morning papers, and when these were handed her she sat down and eagerly read all she could find about her case, criticising as she went along. A prominent official connected with the police expresses the opinion that the woman is playing a shrewder part than most people suspect; in other words, that she never murdered Goodrich at all, and only makes believe she did to shield another individual, not yet arrested, being well assured that she will not be hanged. This theory is obtaining many converts.

EX-PRESIDENT ANDREW JOHNSON was attacked by the cholera during its recent visit to Greenville, Tennessee. After a fierce struggle with the disease he rallied and got better, but afterwards took a relapse and came near dying. His physician was immediately sent for, and watched at his bedside for one whole night, never leaving him for a moment, and finally succeeded in enabling him to pass the crisis. It is said of Mr. Johnson that while he was at home he did all he could to administer to the wants of the sick and the dying. He thinks of returning to Washington to live.

ANOTHER SUMMER RESORT.—A number of prominent Marylanders, including United States Senator George R. Dennis Hon. W. T. Hamilton, ex-Comptroller Woolford, Robert Fowler, Senator I. M. Denson and several others, visited the Synepuxent beach, opposite Berlin, Worcester county, Md., 20 or 25 miles below the capes, last week with the view to locating there a fine large summer hotel, which will cost about $25,000. Robert Fowler offered to give $5,000, and Dr. Pitts pledged the extension of the Wicomico and Pocomoke railroad to the beach. Committees on site and subscriptions were appointed, and the meeting adjourned. The beach at Synepuxent is pronounced one of the finest in the world—comparing favorably with the celebrated Galveston beach. The drive at low tide is forty miles in length, the surf-bathing splendid, and the safe bay behind (between Haw-Hammock and the main land) is fine for sailing or rowing, whilst its waters abound in the finest varieties of fish,

ARAB CUSTOMS.—That which makes one of the great charms of Algiers is the picturesqueness and variety of the costumes, especially in the old town. At first it was impossible to distinguish the different nationalities of the wearers, but by degrees we learned to tell them almost at first sight. The most picturesque are the Arab pur et simple, with their tall, erect figures, straight features, magnificent carriage and dark eyes. There is one peculiarity about them, and that is, that they always have their heads covered, the whole head-dress or capote of their burnouses being bound round the head with a thick cord of camel's hair, wound round six or seven times.

Their wives are shrouded from head to foot in white haiks and burnouses, the only sign of difference of rank being shown in the exceeding fineness of the stuff worn by the ladies, which covers them completely, only one eye being allowed to be shown. These poor women are looked upon as beasts of burden in the tents and among the lower classes; while among the upper they are simply pampered slaves, whose one idea in life is to minister to the pleasure of their lords. Various attempts have been made by the French to emancipate them from this unhappy condition, but as yet in vain.

On this subject, E. Charbonneau, the head of the Arabic-French school, and a learned French archaeologist, tells the following anecdote, which was related to him by the famous Mussulman lawyer, Si Chadli: A chief of the tribe of Haracta, between Aid Reida and Tibessa, went on some business to Constantine. A few days later he returned to his tribe, and, calling his wife, desired her to fetch four posts and some cord. She obeyed, when to her horror, the chief threw her down on the ground, lashed her to the four stakes, and, taking a stick, commenced beating her with all his might.

Her cries brought all the inhabitants of the tents to their doors, who endeavored, though in vain, to stop her husband's arm. "But what has she done," they exclaimed. "She is the pearl of the tribe, the best of mothers, the model of wives!" "What has she done?" retorted the monster. "Nothing, I am only relieving my mind."

At last, being exhausted by his own fury, he condescended to stop and explain that at Constantine he had seen an Arab woman, backed up by the French authorities, drag her husband before the court to complain of his ill-usage, and the Kadi had actually given judgment in her favor. So monstrous an infraction of Arab usages had infuriated the chief to such a degree that he had forgotten the object of his journey, and only hurried home to wreak his vengeance, for the insult offered to the male sex, on the body of his unhappy wife!

THE

EUREKA FANNING MILL

The Greatest Invention OF THE 19th CENTURY!

FARMERS, LOOK TO YOUR INTEREST.

THE attention of Farmers and Mechanics is particularly directed to the combined economy, utility and practicability of the Eureka Mill, and to the many other advantages it possesses over every othhr Fanning Mill which has been introduced to the public. It is the fruit of long and patient investigation by the inventor, who has made it his constant study for over twenty years. He has secured several patents for Mills, and has always been rewarded with the best of success. But not feeling satisfied with his former attainments, he determined to reach the climax, and now he now believes that his new invention will warrant him in exclaiming in the joy of his heart, like the philosopher, Phythagoras, EUREKA, signifying in the Grecian language, "I have found it." This has given the name to this new Mill.

In this Mill are all the former improvements, to which have been added several more, adding still greater advantages than were at first anticipated, or even thought possible by the inventor himself. It embraces the three great essentials necessary in every invention.

It combines Utility, Economy and Practicability!

THE EUREKA MILL

Is small an l lighter, and is capable of doing more and better work in a given time than any other Mill ever invented. It is the only Mill that will successfully remove from wheat such pests as Cockle, Garlic, Oats, Rye, &c.

Should an extra quality of grain for seed or gristing purposes be required, it can be so arranged as to catch in one box perfect grain, and in the other, grain fit for market or mill. Here is made a great saving usually lost sight of; for nearly one-quarter of the grain cleaned in the common Mills is lost when sown, on account of shrunken kernels and inferior grain. The Eureka Mill saves all this, and gives seed every kernel of which will grow when put into the ground, and this saving will, in a short time, pay for the Mill.

HINES & BURCHINAL,

Chestertown, Md.,

Owners of the Mill, are having them manufactured at the Sash Factory and Planing Mill of NOLAND & Co., Port Deposit, Md., which is a guarantee they will be put up in the very best manner.
