WHAT THE OLD MAN SAID.

BY ALICE ROBBINS.

Well, yes sir—yes, sir, thankee—
So, so, for my time o'life;
I'm pretty gray, and bent with pains
That cut my nerves like a knife.
The winters bear hard upon me,
The summers scorch me sore;
I'm sort o' weary of the world
And I'm only turned threescore.

My old father is ninety,
And as hearty as a buck;
You wont find many men of his age
So full of vigor and pluck.
He felled the first tree cut in the place
And laid the first log down;
And, living an honest, temperate life,
He's the head man of the town.

But you see, when I was twenty or so,
I wanted to go to the city,
And I got with a wild set over there,
That were neither wise or witty;
And so I laid the foundation, sir,
Of what you see to-day—
Old, little a-past the prime of life,
And a general wasting away.

Taint a natural fever, this, sir;
It's one no doctor can cure;
I was made to bear strong burdens—
Ox-like and slow, but sure.
And I only lived for my pleasures,
Though I had been Christian bred—
I lived for self, sir, and here the end,
Crawling about half-dead.

Well, well, 'twont do to think on't;
I try to forget my pain,
My poisoned blood and my shattered nerves,
My wreck of body and brain;
Only I saw you drinking, just now,
Drinking that devil's drain;
There's where I liked to have stepped into hell,
And gone by the fastest train.

You don't like my blunt speech, mebby?
Well, 'tisn't the nicest cut,
Only when a man's looked over the brink
He knows what he's talking about;
And if, with his eyes wide open,
He's walked straight into the flame,
And nothing less than the mercy of God
Has turned his glory to shame.

Then, when he says there's a drunkard's hell,
You'd better believe it's true;
I've fought with the devil hand to hand,
And tested him through and through;
We know who've bartered body and soul,
What body and soul are worth,
And there's nothing like to a drunkard's woe,
In all God's beautiful earth.

Wife! Children! Haven't I had them?
Yes.
No man has had sweeter than I;
But children and wife are dead and dust;
Why, what could they do, but die?
Don't ask me to tell you of them, because
It blots out God's mercy even;
And it don't seem sure, though I've left my cups,
That my sin can be forgiven.

I tell you it's hard for a shattered hulk
To drift into harbor safe;
And I feel sometimes, with my three-score years,
Like a hopeless, homeless waif;
But there's one thing certain; I've overcome!
And I'll fight while I draw a breath,
When I see a fine young fellow like you
Going down to the gates of death.

You'll laugh, perhaps, at an old man's zeal;
I laughed in a young man's glee;
But God forbid, if you reach three-score,
You should be a wreck like me.

CURIOSITIES OF WEDLOCK.

In 1853, the owner of a thrifty little farm in the luxuriant region of Kentucky, known as the blue grass country, was a comely widow whose bereaved condition had tempted more than one matrimonial pretender to offer futile suit for the succession. It was believed, indeed, by the neighbors that she had determined to accept no second liege-lord; but one day, in the autumn of the year mentioned, a dusty wayfarer on the public highway leading through the farm thought he detected a less selfish disposition in the hospitable lady of the grange. A stranger in the place, pausing at her doorway to ask for a drink of water, this astute individual was asked to enter and take temporary rest; and so ingratiated himself by his deferential manner that the kind-hearted widow did not hesitate to give an affirmative answer to his request for permission to call again. He was a respectably educated Irishman of the better class, travelling in quest of some farm superintendency, and resolved at once to remain in the neighborhood for a while. His second call was followed by a third, and that by another. In short, before the neighbors had fairly exhausted their stock of wonder at the strange acquaintance they were informed that the widow and the late wayfarer were engaged to be married. When the wedding took place it was a further scandal to the gossips that, as the bride was a Baptist and the bridegroom a Roman Catholic, and each firm in their respective faiths, there were two ceremonies, one in a Protestant and one in a Catholic church. Unpopular as was the match in any light, this doubling of the bond was regarded as ominous of not more than half the usual certainties of matrimonial union, and public sentiment predicted that no good would come of it. Sure enough, after awhile the Irish husband suddenly disappeared from Kentucky, wrote briefly to his wife from this city that he had been abruptly summoned to Europe on business requiring immediate attention, and set sail on the day upon which his strange letter was dated. The next news for the deserted lady was a report of the loss of his vessel at sea with all on board; and as five or six years passed away without contrary intelligence from him or anybody else, the widow discarded her robes of mourning and gave her still desirable hand to a third husband. But, as the reader has probably supected, the Celtic rover was not dead. Two or three years after the remarriage of the lady of the grange the latter learned, to her dismay, that he survived the perils of the sea somewhere aboard, would not disturb her by returning to this country, and counselled her to make her present social status good by obtaining a divoice from him. At once withdrawing from wedlock, the horrified woman did procure the divorce; after which she and her last husband were remarried. Thus twice wedded to two successive lords the lady should have been matrimonially settled in life at last. It seemed, however, that the story was not yet ended. In 1861 she was once more a widow, and the eccentric gentleman in Ireland, hearing of it, crossed the sea once more upon another visit to Kentucky. Once more he appeared at the door of the farmhouse as a dusty, thirsty wayfarer, was recognized by the same hospitable hostess, and in every penitent fashion, renewed his old suit. Unspeakable was the fresh scandal of the neighbors when they heard that the pair were to be married for the third time! but, for all that, the wedding took place; though only in the Protestant form on this occasion, as the bridegroom had renounced his Catholicism; and the union has been exemplary in its harmony and happiness ever since. The story is given to the Clarksville (Mo.) Sentinel by a former elder of the Baptist congregation in which the thrice-married husband and wife are now zealous communicants, and he thinks its illustration of the pluralities of matrimony possible within the statute and canon laws is more curious, if not more romantic, than the average invention of the novelist.

UNCONSCIOUS INFLUENCE.—We are teaching our fellow-beings on all sides. They are affected for good or evil by what we are, and say, and do; even by what we think and feel. May-flowers in the parlor breathe their fragrance through the atmosphere. We are each of us as silently saturating the atmosphere about us with the subtle aroma of our character. In the family circle, besides and beyond all the teaching, the daily life of each parent and child mysteriously modifies the life of all in the house-hold. The same process, on a wider scale, is going on through the community. No man liveth to himself, and no man dieth to himself.—Congregationalist.

WASHINGTON COLLEGE,

CHESTERTOWN, MARYLAND.

THE FACULTY of WASHINGTON COLLEGE has been reorganized by the election of Prof. WM. J RIVERS, of the South Carolina University, as Principal; Prof. WM. H. ZIMMERMAN, Vice Principal; and Mr JOSEPH PETERSON, Assistant Professor.

Mr. Rivers has, for seventeen years, been a Professor in the University of South Carolina. Mr. Zimmerman was for several years Vice-Principal of the Western Maryland College; and Mr. Peterson, educated at the University of Virginia, is most favorably known as a teacher in this community.

The plan of instruction will embrace a full College course, including Greek, Latin, the Modern Languages, Mathematics, Natural Philosophy, Chemistry and the other Natural Sciences, Moral Philosophy, Logic, Rhetoric, &c., and what, in the opinion of the Board of Visitors, is very important, a thorough English Education, if the student does not desire to study the languages. In order to accomplish this a Preparatory or Academic Department has been established, in which full and thorough instruction will be given in the various English branches, viz: Grammar, Geography, Arithmetic, Algebra, Geometry, History, Natural Philosophy, Chemistry, &c., and all other branches of learning required to complete an English Education.

There is an earnest and we hope a well directed effort made by the Board of Visitors to restore the College to its former condition of prosperity, and to establish an institution of learning which shall secure the confidence and support of the public.

The College will be re-opened on Wednesday, the first day of October next.

EXPENSES.—TUITION: English $40; English and Classics, or Modern Languages, $50; English Classics and Modern Languages, $60; Board, per week, $4.00.

Ayer's

Hair Vigor,

For restoring to Gray Hair its natural Vitality and Color.

A dressing which is at once agreeable, healthy, and effectual for preserving the hair. It soon restores faded or gray hair to its original color, with the gloss and freshness of youth. Thin hair is thickened, fallen hair checked, and baldness often, though not always, cured by its use. Nothing can restore the hair where the follicles are destroyed, or the glands atrophied and decayed; but such as remain can be saved by this application, and stimulated into activity, so that a new growth of hair is produced. Instead of fouling the hair with a pasty sediment, it will keep it clean and vigorous. Its occasional use will prevent the hair from turning grey or falling off, and consequently prevent baldness. The restoration of vitality it gives to the scalp arrests and prevents the formation of dandruff, which is often so uncleanly and offensive. Free from those deleterious substances which make some preparations dangerous and injurious to the hair, the Vigor can only benefit but not harm it. If wanted merely for a HAIR DRESSING, nothing else can be found so desirable. Containing neither oil nor dye, it does not soil white cambric, and yet lasts long on the hair, giving it a rich, glossy lustre, and a grateful perfume.

Cherry Pectoral,

For Diseases of the Throat and Lungs, such as Coughs, Colds, Whooping Cough, Bronchitis, Asthma, and Consumption.

Among the great discoveries of modern science, few are of more real value to mankind than this effectual remedy for all diseases of the Throat and Lungs. A vast trial of its virtues, throughout this and other countries, has shown that it does surely and effectually control them. The testimony of our best citizens, of all classes, establishes the fact, that CHERRY PECTORAL will and does relieve and cure the afflicting disorders of the Throat and Lungs beyond any other medicine. The most dangerous affections of the Pulmonary Organs yield to its power; and cases of Consumption, cured by this preparation, are publicly known, so remarkable as hardly to be believed, were they not proven beyond dispute. As a remedy it is adequate, on which the public may rely for full protection. By curing Coughs, the forerunners of more serious disease, it saves unnumbered lives, and an amount of suffering not to be computed. It challenges trial, and convinces the most sceptical.

Every family should keep it on hand as a protection against the early and unperceived attack of Pulmonary Affections, which are easily met at first, but which become incurable, and too often fatal, if neglected. Tender lungs need this defence; and it is unwise to be without it. As a safeguard to children, amid the distressing diseases which beset the Throat and Chest of Childhood, CHERRY PECTORAL is invaluable; for, by its timely use, multitudes are rescued from premature graves, and saved to the love and affection centred on them. It acts speedily and surely against ordinary colds, securing sound and health-restoring sleep. No one will suffer troublesome Influenza and painful Bronchitis, when they know how easily they can be cured.

Originally the product of long, laborious, and successful chemical investigation, no cost or toil is spared in making every bottle in the utmost possible perfection. It may be confidently relied upon as possessing all the virtues it has ever exhibited, and capable of producing cures as memorable as the greatest it has ever effected.

Iron in the Blood

MAKES THE WEAK STRONG.

The Peruvian Syrup, a Protected Solution of the Protoxide of Iron, is so combined as to have the character of an aliment, as easily digested and assimilated with the blood as the simplest food. It increases the quantity of Nature's Own Vitalizing Agent, Iron in the blood, and cures "a thousand ills," simply by Toning up, Invigorating and Vitalizing the System. The enriched and vitalized blood permeates every part of the body, repairing damages and waste, searching out morbid secretions, and leaving nothing for disease to feed upon.

This is the secret of the wonderful success of this remedy in curing Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Chronic Diarrhœa, Boils, Nervous Affections, Chills and Fevers, Humors, Loss of Constitutional Vigor, Diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder, Female Complaints, and all diseases originating in a bad state of the blood, or accompanied by debility or a low state of the system. Being free from Alcohol, in any form, its energizing effects are not followed by corresponding reaction, but are permanent, infusing strength, vigor, and new life into all parts of the system, and building up an Iron Constitution.

Thousands have been changed by the use of this remedy, from weak, sickly, suffering creatures, to strong, healthy, and happy men and women; and invalids cannot reasonably hesitate to give it a trial.

See that each bottle has PERUVIAN SYRUP blown in the glass.

EUREKA

FANNING MILL.

The Greatest Invention

OF THE 19th CENTURY!

FARMERS, LOOK TO YOUR INTEREST.

THE attention of Farmers and Mechanics is particularly directed to the combined economy, utility and practicability of the Eureka Mill, and to the many other advantages it possesses over every othhr Fanning Mill which has been introduced to the public. It is the fruit of long and patient investigation by the inventor, who has made it his constant study for over twenty years. He has secured several patents for Mills, and has always been rewarded with the best of success. But not feeling satisfied with his former attainments, he determined to reach the climax, and now he now believes that his new invention will warrant him in exclaiming in the joy of his heart, like the philosopher, Phythagoras, EUREKA, signifying in the Grecian language, "I have found it." This has given the name to this new Mill.

In this Mill are all the former improvements, to which have been added several more, adding still greater advantages than were at first anticipated, or even thought possible by the inventor himself. It embraces the three great essentials necessary in every invention.

It combines Utility, Economy and Practicability!

THE EUREKA MILL

Is small and lighter, and is capable of doing more and better work in a given time than any other Mill ever invented. It is the only Mill that will successfully remove from wheat such pests as Cockle, Garlic, Oats, Rye, &c.

Should an extra quality of grain for seed or gristing purposes be required, it can be so arranged as to catch in one box perfect grain, and in the other, grain fit for market or mill. Here is made a great saving usually lost sight of; for nearly one-quarter of the grain cleaned in the common Mills is lost when sown, on account of shrunken kernels and inferior grain. The Eureka Mill saves all this, and gives seed every kernel of which will grow when put into the ground, and this saving will, in a short time, pay for the Mill.

HINES & BURCHINAL,

Chestertown, Md.,

Owners of the Mill, are having them manufactured at the Sash Factory and Planing Mill of NOLAND & Co., Port Deposit, Md., which is a guarantee they will be put up in the very best manner.
