BABY'S BIRTH-DAY.

Twelve months have gone,
The rounded cycle brings once more the dawn
Of the fair day, when Summer, with his flowers—
Brightening the hedges, fields and garden bowers—
A bud from blossoms chose as sweet as June,
And while morn's gold dropped through each leafy rift,
And bright-winged birds with breezes sang in tune,
On the home altar placed his sacred gift.

Some tiny leaves,
Full of the perfume which to young life cleaves,
By Nature's fingers delicately moulded
Softly and silently have since unfolded
We breathe the sebtle, delicate perfume;
We feel and recognize the nameless grace;
Behold the soul's first dawning beams illume,
And sparkle o'er the pure, sweet baby face.

Her curls of gold—
Ne'er can their preciousness in words be told.
With lucent lights, like the first beams of morning,
Shines each soft silken tress her head adorning.
In flowers on their flexile stems ne'er yet,
Their fresh and fragrant heart-dew still unshed—
Such witchery grace, and airy joyance met,
As in the dancing curls on Linnie's head.

In her blue eyes,
When broke is sleep's soft trance, a sweet surprise
Is rayed like glory from the day-star beaming,
As if of bright-winged seraphs she'd been dreaming;
The soothing, rapt bewilderment meanwhile,
As slowly, softly, her red lips unclose,
Changes and brightens—kindles to a smile,
Like sunshine glancing o'er an opening rose.

The skylark, heard
When all morn's rosy waves of air are stirred
By the sweet rain of the rare music falling
From heights aerial—itself enthralling
In the meshes of its own ecstatic song—
Doth give a magic sweetness, which to earth,
So Fancy whispers, never could belong,
But in Elysium must have had its birth.

Yet, there is found,
In all this rare enravishment of sound,
No note with such deep, quiet force appealing,
To the heart's inner, holier shrine of feeling;
Or can such deep and full content impart,
As baby's voice, when musical and clear,
And innocent, as her own guileless heart,
In half-formed words it meets the listening ear.

CAROLINE ORNE.

FALL WEATHER AND WARM BLOOD.—We should never allow ourselves to forget that nature intended us for warm-blooded animals. In this climate of surprising changes, we are very apt to forget it, especially in the fall and spring. At such seasons, when we freeze and simmer on alternate days, there is engendered in a certain recklessness, which takes no heed of cold or heat, dampness or dryness, and receives all temperatures with the same front, generally a defenceless one. It is certainly very troublesome to change front as often as the weather, and there is a prejudice in American minds against such change, which has a great deal to do with the rapidly increasing population of our graveyards. People like to have some stability of purpose, and if they can have it in nothing else, they will try to have it in their dress.—They will not make a change until they make a permanent one for the season.—No matter how hot it is in the spring, they will wear spring clothing until summer, and no matter how cool it may be in August, summer clothes must be worn until fall shall actually set in. Thus oft times suddenly and with sad results, we find ourselves approaching the condition of the fishes and lizards, for the chill, that alert forerunner of disease, is ever ready in our climate to take advantage of circumstances. We suppose that there are no people in the world so indifferent to the demands of the weather—especially cold weather—as Americans, and one reason for this is that very many of us are ashamed to keep warm. To wrap up, and button up, and to put down windows whenever there is a chilling change in the air, argues, to most minds, a namby-pamby eagerness to be well that is repugnant to the hardy American soul. So, rather than be laughed at, we shiver.—We prefer tragedy to comedy, the grave to the ridiculous.

☞ A lazy dyspeptic was bewailing his own misfortune, and speaking with a friend upon the latter's hearty appearance. "What do you do to make yourself so strong and healthy?" inquired the dyspeptic. "Live on fruit alone," answered the friend. "What kind of fruit?" said the lazy dyspeptic. "The fruit of industry; and I am never troubled with indigestion."

☞ Caleb Cushing says that he believes his late affair about the yellow dog has given him greater notoriety than any other act of his life. He is constantly receiving newspapers containing editorial comments on the suit, and people point him out in the streets as the man who put an injunction on that dog.

DEAD SHOT FOR INSECTS.

Strong alum water is a sure death to bugs of any description. Take two pounds of pulverized or of crystal alum and dissolve in three quarts of boiling water, allowing it to remain over the fire until thoroughly dissolved. Apply, while hot, with a brush, or, what is better, use a syring to force the liquor into the cracks of the walls or bedstead. The pulverized alum is worth about 50 cents a pound, and that in crystal from 15 to 20—a cheap remedy. The latter requires a little longer time to dissolve. Of course an experiment to verify the claim above made, can be made by employing a mere fraction of the quantities above named. A less perfect cure for insect pests is to scatter the powdered alum freely in places where they abide. Powdered borax, scattered thinly where Croton bugs and cockroaches travel or abide, will expel them at once. It is a sure expulsion for the Croton insect. Almost all strong saline solutions are efficacious in the destruction of these household pests, which are both destructive and annoying, and the mixture of alum or any other material need not necessarily be hot.

WHAT THEY STOOD FOR.—The Titusville Herald remarks: A young lady whose "pa struck ile" a few years ago and who has since been at school, recently returned, and a party was given for her benefit. Upon the bottom of her invitation cards she caused to be inscribed R. S. V. P., and one was sent so an illiterate rich fellow, who had also made his money by boring. He did not go, but sent a card with the letters D. S. C. C. Meeting him in the street, she asked him what the letters meant. "Tell me first what yours mean." "Oh, mine are French for Respond if you cannot accept." "Well, mine are English for D—n sorry I can't come."

☞ Laura Cuppy Smith, the spiritualist and free-lover, writes: "Lover of my girlhood now walks the viewless causeways of the air, and inasmuch as he was cultured, loftly-souled and large hearted, he doubtless loves and is beloved by many a fair and queenly woman, in 'that land of light and song;' yet he finds time to return to earth's turbulent scenes and bathe my toil-worn spirits in the deep waters of his passonate and intense affection, and those chords in my inmost being that first responded to his touch, remaining mute in presence of all others, thrill and vibrate as of yore, in an ecstacy of rapture when swept by his spirit touch." Which, says the editor in commenting upon this poetic effusion, is blissful but unsatisfactory.

FANNING MILL.
The Greatest Invention
OF THE 19th CENTURY!
FARMERS, LOOK TO YOUR INTEREST.

THE attention of Farmers and Mechanics is particularly directed to the combined economy, utility and practicability of the Eureka Mill, and to the many other advantages it possesses over every other Fanning Mill which has been introduced to the public. It is the fruit of long and patient investigation by the inventor, who has made it his constant study for over twenty years. He has secured several patents for Mills, and has always been rewarded with the best of success. But not feeling satisfied with his former attainments, he determined to reach the climax, and now he now believes that his new invention will warrant him in exclaiming in the joy of his heart, like the philosopher, Phythagoras, EUREKA, signifying in the Grecian language, "I have found it." This has given the name to this new Mill.
In this Mill are all the former improvements, to which have been added several more, adding still greater advantages than were at first anticipated, or even thought possible by the inventor himself. It embraces the three great essentials necessary in every invention.
It combines Utility, Economy and Practicability!
THE EUREKA MILL
Is small and lighter, and is capable of doing more and better work in a given time than any other Mill ever invented. It is the only Mill that will successfully remove from wheat such pests as Cockle, Garlic, Oats, Rye, &c.
Should an extra quality of grain for seed or gristing purposes be required, it can be so arranged as to catch in one box perfect grain, and in the other, grain fit for market or mill. Here is made a great saving usually lost sight of; for nearly one-quarter of the grain cleaned in the common Mills is lost when sown, on account of shrunken kernels and inferior grain. The Eureka Mill saves all this, and gives seed every kernel of which will grow when put into the ground, and this saving will, in a short time, pay for the Mill.
HINES & BURCHINAL,
Chestertown, Md.,
Owners of the Mill, are having them manufactured at the Sash Factory and Planing Mill of NOLAND & Co., Port Deposit, Md., which is a guarantee they will be put up in the very best manner.
