MAD DOG.—Last Thursday morning a rabid dog was killed on Water street by the town bailiff. PENINSULA ITEMS.

CECIL COUNTY.

The Democrat says: Billy McNutt, who was convicted at the last term of Court of larceny, and sentenced to the penitentiary for five years, does not like his lot. On Tuesday morning last, he was notified to get ready for a trip to Baltimore, but idstead, went into his cell, and with an old knife ripped out his bowels. The wound is serious, but not dangerous. Billy declares that he will die rather than go to the penitentiary, and constant watch has to be kept over him.

QUEEN ANNE'S COUNTY.

The Citizen, of Saturday last, says: On Thursday morning, about 8 o'clock, the dwelling house, on the corner of Commerce street and Railroad Avenue, occupied by Mr. Jos. V. Coursey, was discovered to be on fire, and, the alarm being given, the citizens soon gathered, but the flames were so far advanced as to destroy this portion of the building. By the very hardest work the store house connected with the dwelling was saved, but in a damaged condition. Fortunately there was but little wind, and the fire burned slowly, thus affording the citizens advantages which enabled them to save adjoining property. The fire originated from the kitchen flue, and was confined for some time between the plastering and the shingles before it was discovered. The property belongs to the Misses Keatings, and was insured in the Cecil Fire Insurance Company for $1,200. We are glad to state that Mr. Coursey saved all his furniture.

WICOMICO COUNTY.

The Advertiser says that a valuable horse belonging to Capt. Wm. M. Ruark, broke loose from a post where it was hitched, in Salisbury, and walked into the mill pond of Thomas Humphreys and was drowned. The dwelling house of Mr. S. S. Malone was entered by a vagrant last week and robbed.

THANKSGIVING PROCLAMATION.

The President has issued his annual Thanksgiving proclamation, and it is notable in one particular. The "Rebellion" is now designated as a "dreadful civil strife." The proclamation is as follows:

The approaching close of another year brings with it the occasion for renewed thanksgiving and acknowledgment to the Almighty God over the universe, of the unnumbered mercies which he has bestowed upon us. Abundant harvests have been among the rewards of industry. With local exceptions health has been among the blessings rejoiced in. Tranquility at home and peace with other nations have prevailed. Frugal industry is regaining its merited recognition and its merited rewards. Gradually, but under the providence of God, surely, as we trust, the nation is recovering from the lingering results of a dreadful civil strife. For these and all the other mercies vouchsafed, it becomes us as a people to return heartfelt and grateful acknowledgments, and with our thanksgiving for blessings we may unite prayers for the cessation of local and temporary sufferings.

I, therefore, recommend that on Thursday, the 27th day of November next, the people meet in their respectable places of worship to make their acknowledgments to Almighty God for his bounties and his protection, and to offer to him prayers for their continuance.

In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand, and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

Done at the city of Washington this 14th day of October, in the year of our Lord one thousand, eight hundred and seventy-three, and the independence of the United States the ninety-seventh.

A CURIOUS LAW-SUIT DECIDED.

Chancellor Bates, of Delaware, delivered a very interesting decision of the Court of Chancery, at Dover, last Thursday week. Mr. J. H. Primrose, of Smyrna, commenced the erection, over two years ago, of a shed in the rear of his storehouse. The adjoining property is occupied by Dr. J. E. Clawson, and the shed when completed would have closed up the window of the Doctor's sitting-room. He therefore sued out a preliminary writ of injunction, restraining Mr. Primrose from building the shed, and after the usual course of such cases, the matter has now been finally adjudicated by the Chancellor, the injunction being made perpetual, and Mr. Primrose being ordered not to build the shed.

The Chancellor has held the case under advisement, since it was argued a year ago, and has given the question careful consideration, his opinion being exhaustive. He considered that the right to light and air, enjoyed without interruption for over twenty years, rested on the same ground as all other "incoporeal rights" under the Common Law of England, upon which he based his decision. He stated that the Constitution of this State, adopted at the Revolution, 1776, accepted the Common Law of England for its governance; that for this particular case, which was the first ever brought before the State Courts, no law had ever been provided, and therefore the Common Law of England must guide him in his decision; that that law provided that where light and air had been admitted to a dwelling from any quarter, uninterruptedly, for a period of twenty years and over, it could not be shut off, and that, under this ruling, the Doctor was entitled to the light and air which had so long been afforded him uninterruptedly, by his window, and he should therefore make the injunction perpetual.

The consequences involved in the decision may seem scarcely equitable, in some cases, where a man will be forbidden to erect a building on his own property, in such position as he may desire, on account of the inconvenience it may cause to a neighbor, who has chosen so to locate his dwelling as to get light by way of No. 1's lot. In some of the States the English law of "ancient lights" has been rejected by the courts, on grounds of public policy, as being inconvenient in the rapid growth of our towns and cities. The Chancellor, without making any question on this point, considered that the proper remedy was with the Legislature; that the province of the court is not to alter the law but to administer it as it is, and especially so where rights of property are concerned.—Wilmington Commercial.

STABILITY IN OFFICE.—In each of the principal departments of the British governments there are two under secretaries, one permanently in office "works the machine"—the other who must be a parliament man, comes in and goes out on a change of ministry. The Philadelphia Press notices the resignation of one of the fixtures, Mr. Edward Hammond, who has resigned the office of principal Under Secretary of State for foreign affairs in England. Mr. Hammond, now seventy-one years old, obtained a clerkship when he was twenty-one, his father then filling the office which the son now relinquishes. Having a special facility for acquiring languages, he steadily rose in the foreign office, where such an aptitude was most valuable. He has been permanent Under Secretary since 1854, carrying on the business of the office through successive political vicissitudes. During the last nineteen years he has held this situation with Lord Malmesbury, Lord John Russell, Lord Stanley, Lord Clarendon, and Lord Granville. Each and all of these were largely indebted to him for information and instruction. This English practice of keeping, without regard to party mutations, in each of the principal offices one man who is familiar with all the duties and traditions of his position, is necessary to uniformity and efficiency in the operation of all the chief departments of a government, and the more of it we have in this country the better.

☞ There is good authority for saying both the President and Judge Richardson now anticipate a speedy return to specie payments. It is believed that the balance of trade is now so largely in favor of this country that it can be maintained in our favor during the winter and perhaps during the coming year. Besides, within the last three months the coinage of gold in this country has very largely increased. The mints are now coining monthly four millions of dollars in gold, which it is thought will be sufficient to answer the purposes of importation, and with the present rate of coinage, the balance of trade in our favor, the fact that the Treasury has a large quantity of gold, and that large sums are constantly arriving from Europe, are considered indications which shows that there has been no moment so opportune for the resumption of specie payment since the war as now. It is certain that the President will refer to this subject in his message, and it is now expected he will recommend some legislation to that end.—Baltimore American.

The Easton Journal says: We do not presume Judge Goldsborough will receive many Democratic votes in this section, and his vote against Torbert in 1870 and Grant in 1872 are looked upon by Republicans as more heinous offences than his acts during the war.

THE
FANNING MILL.
The Greatest Invention
OF THE 19th CENTURY!
FARMERS, LOOK TO YOUR INTEREST.

THE attention of Farmers and Mechanics is particularly directed to the combined economy, utility and practicability of the Eureka Mill, and to the many other advantages it possesses over every othhr Fanning Mill which has been introduced to the public. It is the fruit of long and patient investigation by the inventor, who has made it his constant study for over twenty years. He has secured several patents for Mills, and has always been rewarded with the best of success. But not feeling satisfied with his former attainments, he determined to reach the climax, and now he now believes that his new invention will warrant him in exclaiming in the joy of his heart, like the philosopher, Phythagoras, EUREKA, signifying in the Grecian language, "I have found it." This has given the name to this new Mill.

In this Mill are all the former improvements, to which have been added several more, adding still greater advantages than were at first anticipated, or even thought possible by the inventor himself. It embraces the three great essentials necessary in every invention.

It combines Utility, Economy and Practicability!

THE EUREKA MILL

Is small and lighter, and is capable of doing more and better work in a given time than any other Mill ever invented. It is the only Mill that will successfully remove from wheat such pests as Cockle, Garlic, Oats, Rye, &c.

Should an extra quality of grain for seed or gristing purposes be required, it can be so arranged as to catch in one box perfect grain, and in the other, grain fit for market or mill. Here is made a great saving usually lost sight of: for nearly one-quarter of the grain cleaned in the common Mills is lost when sown, on account of shrunken kernels and inferior grain. The Eureka Mill saves all this, and gives seed every kernel of which will grow when put into the ground, and this saving will, in a short time, pay for the Mill.

HINES & BURCHINAL,
Chestertown, Md.,

Owners of the Mill, are having them manufactured at the Sash Factory and Plaining Mill of NOLAND & Co., Port Deposit, Md., which is a guarantee they will be put up in the very best manner.
