LOCAL NEWS.

Orphans' Court.

Present Judges Nicholson, Shallcross and Willson.

On application, letters of administration on the personal estate of Samuel C. Gleaves, late of Kent county, deceased, were granted unto William M. Slay, who filed a bond with John N. Usilton and Wm. B. Usilton, as sureties in the penalty of three hundred dollars, which was approved. S. F. Smith and James M. Vansyke were appointed to appraise the said estate—and the usual notice to creditors was ordered.

Wm. W. Stephens, admr. of Thos. H. Stephens, returned an inventory of the personal estate of said deceased.

David Jones, admr. of Richard Goodman, returned a list of sales of the personal estate of said deceased; also, a report of the rental value of the real estate of said deceased.

Wm. Ford, admr. of Geo. B. Ford, returned a list of sales of the personal estate of said deceased.

Wm. J. Wilson, ex. of Alexander Wilson, returned a list of sales of the personal estate of said deceased.

Marion deK. Smith, admr. of Amelia O. Wright, returned a list of desperate debts due said deceased.

Saml. Beck, admr. of Benj. R. Cronch, returned his first and final administration account.

Wm. J. Wilson, ex. of Alexander Wilson, returned his first administration account.

George Vickers, guardian to Joseph S. Flower, returned his guardian account for the year 1875, and received an order authorizing him to expend an additional sum of money for the support and education of the said minor.

On application, the indentues of Reuben N. Perry to Samuel V. Farson, were ordered to be cancelled.

☞ On the first page of to-day's issue will be found the address delivered by Prof. Rivers of Washington College, before the Teachers' Institute of Kent county, in June last.

The Cost of the Bell

On the new M. E. Church of this town, was one hundred and seventy-five, and not seventy-five dollars, as the types said in last Friday's paper.

The Public School

Of this town has two hundred and fifteen pupils on the roll this term, and the average daily attendance is large.

Washington College.

The intermediate examinations continue through next week, commencing on Monday afternoon.

Tuesday Night Last

At four o'clock, the wind suddenly broke out from the North West and blew almost a hurricane. In the midst of it the chimney of a house on Kent street, between High and Cannon, blazed out, the sparks and burning cinders scattered in every direction, and but for the drenched condition of every thing by the previous heavy rain, the fire of last week on a large scale must have been repeated.

The steamer Law did not leave her wharf, in consequence of the storm, until this morning.

The County Teachers' Association

Will meet at the school room in Chestertown, on Monday next, at ten o'clock, A. M.

It ought not to be necessary to repeat that those meetings are free to those who take interest enough to go and hear; and any adult may become a member. These teachers' meetings are elevating the standard of our public school teachers and begetting an interest on the part of the people. The questions to be discussed on Monday are interesting.

Old Kent

Is omitted this week to make room for Prof. Rivers' address, but will be resumed again in our next issue, provided Col. Hanson supplies the copy in time. From all parts of the State a lively interest is manifested in the articles by the natives of the county and those directly connected therewith. We have been surprised to know how many of Baltimore's prominent citizens are natives of our county. We have just received the following:

BALTIMORE, 29th Jan'y., 1876.

Mr. Eben F. Perkins—Dear Sir: Enclosed please find one dollar for one years' subscription to the "Transcript." Let it embrace your issue of last week, and the week before. As a native of Kent and one whose ancestors are indentified with its early colonial history, I feel a deep interest in Col. Hanson's articles—an interest which might be enjoyed I presume by every Kent countian in the land connected by birth with the ancient stock. Col. Hanson is not only slowly dragging out our progenitors from the twilight of the past, but is placing them before us with a correctness of pedigree that is truly wonderful, when considered in connection with the labor involved in his tedious researches. Although I emigrated from Kent when a mere lad, and more than forty years ago, I have always felt a lively interest in the welfare of my native county.

Yours, truly,

JAMES H. HODGES.

FAIRLEE.

MR. EDITOR:—The resignation of the Teacher of Fairlee school (No. 10) has caused quite a flutter in the bosom of our usually placid village society. It became a question of more importance who should succeed the retiring pedagogue than who should succeed the incumbent of the White House. According to rumor the applicants were as numerous—well, as there was any need to be. In fact there were three instead of ten or a dozen, and the Trustees made their selection, I doubt not, with the honest motive to secure the best interests of the school.

Yet there is dissatisfaction, and the question has arisen as to how far the wishes of the people, parents and guardians, should be allowed to influence the action of the Trustees. Legally the people are not recognized in the management of the schools. They have sanctioned the delegation of their power over them to other hands, and nothing, I apprehend, but the gross abuse of this delegated authority can justify their interference.

This local agitation of the question of the power of the Trustees of our public schools has suggested some thoughts which may be properly, I think, brought to the attention of all of those gentlemen serving in that capacity throughout the county and State. First, then, they are not, as usually represented, "the fifth wheel to the coach." They are vested with powers and responsibilities greater, in some respects, than belong to the County Boards. On them devolves the actual choice of the person who shall train and instruct the children of their respective districts. All else that may be done is but preliminary to this. And as the delegation or possession of power always implies duties, how important it must be that these duties be clearly comprehended and fully appreciated. I need not suggest that the knowledge of the Trustees of the condition of the school, and the capacities of the pupils, should be such as to enable them to decide properly who should have charge of them. It is presupposed that this knowledge of the school is sufficiently intimate and accurate as to make them the fit judges in the case. Hence it would seem that their duties do not begin and end with the selection of the Teacher. The beginning is a thorough knowledge of the school, gained by frequent visits to it, and monthly or at least quarterly examinations of it. The Trustee need not be a scholar to gain this knowledge. After attending three or four examinations and paid a few unexpected visits, any one of ordinary judgment can decide what progress is made and what is needed to help the efficiency of the school. Besides, there is a moral effect of such visits, and it is three-fold. It stimulates the pupils to diligence in study, to propriety of demeanor, and to punctuality in attendance. The Teacher, feeling that his efforts are appreciated is encouraged and cheered in his work—and the people, conscious that their appointed agents know more of the school than they do, readily and cheerfully acquiesce in their measures. It is almost impossible, with an active wide-awake Board of Trustees, to have a poor school. It is very possible, even with a good Teacher, to have a poor school with Trustees indifferent to and negligent of their duties.

How like an over-tasked drudge the unappreciated Teacher goes to his daily toil! How bitter the constant thought that his labor is thankless! He may be mistaken; he may have a strong hold upon the people for whom he spends his weary days and thoughtful hours, but of what avail is it if it finds no expression?

Let those, then, charged with the direct and immediate supervision of our schools give to the Teachers the sympathy and co-operation they so greatly need. It will strengthen them, it will stimulate them, it will give them success.

Give the children at least one day in fifty; it will animate and encourage them. It will make your schools what they should be, the bulwarks of morality and national prosperity.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for the opportunity you have given me to express my views on this and kindred topics and hoping that good may result therefrom, I am very truly and sincerely yours,

HOWARD MEEKS.

NURSERY STOCK.

Apple, Pear, Peach and Cherry Trees and Small Fruit Plants by the 100, 1,000 or 10,000.

I HAVE for Spring planting, the most extensive and choicest assortment of Fruit Trees and Plants I have ever before offered to planters.

APPLE TREES.

The growers of this valuable and profitable fruit in Md. generally have been sadly disappointed, in getting trees from the North, as winter varieties there, when planted here, mature their fruit too early in the fall to keep through the winter with us. For this reason, and to secure reliable winter keeping apples, I grew my Apple Nursery on my farm in Va., three hundred miles South of here. I have a choice selection which cannot fail to give satisfaction. I have largely of a variety called Smith's Horse, (not the old Horse apple). The fruit can be picked nearly as early as the Early Harvest, and being double its size, sells readily at from $5 to $7 per bbl.

PEACH TREES.

Almost all my Peach Trees were budded from bearing trees, grown on my own and two adjoining farms, the buds being taken from the trees while the fruit was on them; leaving no doubt in my mind, that my stock is true to name.

I have not a long list of varieties; have budded chiefly, of late, most approved canning sorts, including three (3) very valuable new varieties for canning, very popular in Delaware, ripening with and after Smock.

I also have a large stock of Early Beatrice. I fruited this variety last summer. Several of my friends in Kent saw the fruit, and can testify that it was fully 10 days earlier than Hale's; a high-colored, showy, firm peach. I think it well worthy extensive cultivation.

PEAR TREES.

I have secured a large stock of Standard and Dwarf Pear Trees, from a reliable source in New Yerk; and can furnish, in quantities, of the most approved varieties. No better Pear Trees can be grown anywhere than in New York.

CHERRY TREES.

I have but few varieties of this fruit, and the planter wants but few for profit.

SMALL FRUIT PLANTS.

I have a large supply on hand. I recommend but few varieties. My extensive experience as a fruit-grower, enables me to judge of the merits of the many kinds in the market. I have rejected two thirds of them, as not worthy of cultivation.
