Remarks on board of Ship Brutus
In the port of Hakodady On the Island of Matzumay one of the Japannese Islands In passing through the the Straits of mat zumay we found our selves short of Wood and water this being the Nearest port We run in to get A few supply When we An chored the government officers came on board to find out what we came for the next day All of our wants were supplied they would Not allow any one to go on shore but the Captain and they kept A street match all of his movements ther women they kept out of sight our Eyes were Not blessed with A sight of them Except at A distance I have heard ther ladies are partial to yankeys I suppose it the cause of there being concealed and forced to be virtuous A gainst there own Inclination they have some verry fine Cloths of there own manufacture Silks Satins and cotton cloths of all discription and all kinds of wooden ware their princi pal food is rice we saw No flesh will eaten of any kind what ever they will Not Except as A present any thing from the Ship they want Nothing from us ther main object is to keep us A way from there parts they wait for No other Course with foreigners
