LOCAL NEWS.

Orphans' Court.

Present Judges Nicholson, Shallcross and Willson.

Mary E. Turbit, executrix of William B. Turbit, returned an inventory of the personal estate of said deceased.

Henry Graves, admr. of Wm. Graves, returned an inventory of the personal estate of said deceased.

Araminta M. Griffith, admr. of Caroline Frazier, returned an inventory of the personal estate of said deceased, and received an order for the sale thereof.

R. Hynson, admr. of Edwin Smith, returned a list of sales of the personal estate of said deceased.

The indentures of Charles F. Simpson to David R. Derickson, were filed and ordered to be recorded.

Chas. H. Baker, executor of William T. Baker, was authorized to have repaired certain out-buildings on the "Forest" farm of said deceased.

Sunday School Matters.

A County Sunday School Convention was in session at Galena in Kent county, last Wednesday and Thursday. Delegates from two of the schools in Chestertown, were selected, as follows: M. E. Church—M. deK. Smith, Esq., Mrs. Mary Browne and Miss Lizzie Voss. From the M. P. Church—John W. Collins and Willard Melvin, Esqs., and Miss Mary J. Plummer.

Thinking some information in reference to the number of officers, teachers and scholars attached to the schools in this place would not be without interest, we have obtained from the proper authorities the following:

Protestant Episcopal School, Colin F. Stam, Esq., Superintendent—Number of Teachers and Officers, 17; number of scholars, 86. Total, 103.

Methodist Episcopal School, Charles H. Baker, Esq., Superintendent—Number of Officers and Teachers, 33; number of scholars, 143. Total, 176.

Methodist Protestant School, William B. Usilton, Esq., Superintendent—Number of Officers and Teachers, 32; number of scholars, 175. Total, 207.

Grain and Fruit Crops.

The prospect for an abundant wheat crop in Kent county was probably never better than at the present time. Harvest is rapidly approaching, and unless some disaster intervenes, a most bountiful return, and of excellent quality, must reward the farmer's toil.

Oats, also, look well, and are making a promising growth; but a very inconsiderable breadth of land (mostly the strips in wheat fields on which corn was shocked last fall) being devoted to their culture. The crop is a very uncertain one. We believe there has not been a good general yield of this grain, in Kent county, for about twenty years.

Corn has made an unusually good stand, and is growing finely. The cut-worm, last year so destructive, has not been troublesome, consequently there will be but little re-planting.

Clover, timothy and other grasses are unusually flourishing.

All accounts agree that of peaches there will certainly be a full half crop, which will be more remunerative than a very abundant crop. The prospect of a fair price, we learn, is also good, from the fact that canners have disposed of last season's stock at paying rates and are preparing to go to work on a larger scale the coming season, and also because of the almost complete failure of the crop on a great part of this entire peninsula.

In reference to pears our information is meagre, but, so far, to the effect that the crop will be short.

Strawberries

Of excellent quality, are abundant and very low in our market; ranging from 5 to 8 cents per quart.

Soft Crabs

Can now be had in our market. As yet they are rather small and not abundant. They have been selling at 75 cents per dozen.

Sale of Town Property.

James M. Vandyke has purchased from William B. Usilton the desirably located brick dwelling and premises, on the corner of Mill and Cannon streets, known as the old Anderson residence.

Mr. Alonzo Ming has purchased the old brick house in Church Alley, for a long time occupied by the late Edward Carty, for $550, which he is renovating and intends shortly to occupy as a residence.

Warum's Sentence.

Thomas P. Warum, says the News of Saturday, indicted for rape, whose case was removed from this county to Easton, and tried and found guilty last week, has been sentenced to fifteen years' imprisonment in the penitentiary at hard labor. The penalty for such a crime is death, or imprisonment in the penitentiary for not less than eighteen months nor more than twenty-one years, and the impression generally prevails in this community that the convict has been mercifully dealt with.

A GAME of base ball the first of the season, was played Saturday afternoon.

Unearthing a Mastodon.

PROF. OTTO LUGGER, Entomologist and Naturalist, connected with the Maryland Academy of Natural Sciences, Baltimore, visited our town last week for the purpose of taking preliminary steps toward the excavation of the skeleton of a Mastodon supposed to be imbedded in the marl pits situated on Mr. George B. Westcott's farm, in Queen Anne's county, not far from Church Hill. Some time ago Mr. Westcott discovered a tooth and tusk of enormous size in these marl pits and took them to Baltimore, where they were pronounced to be the remains of a Mastodon. Thereupon, the Academy of Sciences determined to search for the skeleton. We hope they will succeed, as this is an animal particularly interesting to scientific men, revealing a page in the book of nature which time has almost blotted out.

Mr. Lugger is a most affable gentleman, enthusiastically devoted to his profession, and in his extensive travels, embracing almost every quarter of the globe, by his unwearied researches has accumulated a vast fund of knowledge as an Entomologist and Naturalist.

OUR WASHINGTON LETTER.

Washington, D. C., June 2, 1876.

THE CINCINNATI NOMINEE.

Now that Blaine's candidacy is out of the question, the Republicans are in a quandary. Only a very small proportion of the "regulars" want Bristow at any price, as he is not considered sufficiently loyal. Morton has rendered the party excellent service by waving the blood-stained under garment; and his radicalism is unquestioned. But he is not personally popular, and he is considered, even by many of his friends, to be unavailable as a candidate. The Southern Republicans would, of course, vote solidly for him; but he would be a miserable failure before the people of the North and West. Conkling is by no means a favorite; but the strong posibility is that he will get the nomination The Republican leaders know that the candidate of either party can reasonably hope to be elected without the vote of New York. They know that leading Democrats from one end of the country to the other, have got to understand that fact, and are, one after another abandoning their respective favorites, and frankly avowing their preference, under the circumstances, for Samuel J. Tilden, the present Democratic Governor of New York, and the strongest man in the State of either party. Tilden's strength is so great that he was elected by a majority of more than 50,000 votes over the Republican candidate, Governor Dix, who had been elected, two years before, by a majority of more than 53,000 votes, and was, by all odds, the best and the most popular Republican Governor the State ever had. Against a man who thus changed more than 103,000 votes in his favor, while running against an opponent of rare ability and unexceptionable character, it will be indispensable to any show of success for the Republicans, that they nominate that man of their party who has the most strength in New York. Conkling has been, for years, dispensing federal favors all over the State; and, if he has not made many friends, he has, at least, many political adherents. The influence of the Administration would also be freely used in his favor; and, altogether, he is perhaps, the best man the Republicans could nominate with reference to carrying the Empire State.

It has been ascertained here that neither Gov. Tilden nor any of his friends had any knowledge whatever of the circular recently sent out by an advertising agency, offering to pay for the publication of newspaper extracts favoring Tilden's nomination. The circulars were sent to many papers known to be opposed to Gov. Tilden; and the firm of advertising agents, of which that most radical of radical Republicans, Petroleum V. Nasby, is a member, declines to say who employed them, or whether their employers are Republicans or Democrats.

SPEAKER KERR.

The country is watching with intense interest the course of the House Committee which is investigating the charge preferred against Mr. Kerr. The Republicans hope to see the Democratic members of the Committee and of the House speak and act with partiality toward Mr Kerr, and would be delighted to see the Democratic press of the country prejudge the case, abuse the witness, Harney, and affirm it to be impossible that Mr. Kerr could have committed the crime and blunder with which he is charged. I am happy to be able to say, however, that all the leading Democrats here, in and out of Congress, abstain from expressing an opinion on Mr. Kerr's guilt or innocence. They all, including Mr. Kerr's friends, say, "The House is investigating the conduct of public men, irrespective of party. We are, of course, sorry to see Mr. Kerr arraigned; but duty to the country require from the Democratic House an investigation so conducted that it will stand the strictest scrutiny. If Mr. Kerr is found guilty, the Committee must so report, unequivocally. If the evidence turns out to be conflicting, so that they will not know how to decide, they must publish the evidence in full, that the people may judge for themselves. Above all, they must not follow in the wake of the Republicans, and bully the witness against Mr. Kerr.

It is gratifying to be able to record the fact that the Democratic Press of the country is, as a general thing, pursuing the proper course. The most influential Democratic papers in the country say, substantially, in regard to Kerr's case, "Let us have the facts, no matter who is hurt." And that is right. All the expositions of Congress of the manifold rascalities of the Republicans will go for nothing—will count against us—if we show the slightest disposition to screen men of our party.

THE GREAT RAILROAD FEAT.

The fast train which left New York on the 1st inst. at 1 A. M., for the Pacific has sped on with tireless energy night and day until, in the inconceivably short time of eighty-three hours and thirty-four minutes, it has reached its journey's end, and the greatest railroad feat of any age or any country has been triumphantly accomplished. The Atlantic and Pacific coasts are thus brought within three days and a half—soon to be reduced no doubt to three days—of each other, a fact which seems to suggest that railroading, fast as we have regarded it, may yet be in its infancy in this country. As a contemporary says, the time is not distant when regular daily trains will run from New York to Chicago and St. Louis on the schedule time of the special train that has now arrived at the Pacific, and in a week after they shall have been started they will be accepted as the matter of course progress of this progressive country.—Even if the fast train had accomplished nothing more than the time made to Cheyenne, this conjecture is shown to be reasonable. Five years ago such a thing as a run from New York to Pittsburg without stopping had never been performed, never attempted, and never dreamed of in the world. Not even in England, where railroad traveling is more rapid than our own, guarded against all obstructions and free from abrupt curvatures and grades, had any such run ever been tried. Now it is an accomplished fact, and in addition to that the North American continent was crossed in less than eighty-four hours, showing, even if the train had been far behind time at San Francisco, the possibilities of railroad travel in the enormous region of our country thus rapidly traversed. We can scarcely realize the fact that, as late as 1829, not half a century ago, seventeen miles an hour on railroad was considered a great rate of speed. It is gravely related by the chroniclers of that period that the projectors of the Liverpool and Manchester (England) railroad, intending to run their carriages at high rates of speed, offered a premium for the best engine, which was won in 1829 by the Rocket engine of Messrs. Stephenson & Booth, which made an average speed of fourteen miles, and in some instances seventeen miles. If such an engine could be called Rocket, no name short of Thunderbolt would describe the train that has just reached San Francisco, and which has carried the rays of THE SUN that "shines for all" to the Pacific coast. —Baltimore Sun.
