Battle of Caulk's Field.

We shall publish next week, on our first page, the official accounts of the Caulk's field battle, from American and British officers in command on the field. They are interesting, but differ almost as greatly as many reports of engagements during the late war between the States.

Town Property Sold.

Last Tuesday a lot, improved by a good and roomy two-story dwelling, also granary, stable and carriage-house, on Cannon near Princess street, in Chestertown, was sold at Sheriff's sale, and purchased by Mr. James A. Shaw, for the sum of $1,606—one third cash, balance in two instalments in five and nine months from the day of sale.

In reference to the Cake Trade.

A few days ago casually dropping in at Hudgins' new Queen street bakery, and observing the rapidity with which ordinary ginger cakes (the kind upon which they were then engaved) were being cut out and baked, we were led to inquire the number turned out in a week. To our surprise we were told that during the previous week they had baked 27,000 ginger, 11,000 spice and 9,000 sugar cakes; also, 1,300 bunns, 3,000 biscuits and 1,400 loaves of bread. Small lots of other kinds of cakes had been baked during the same week. It may not be out of place to add that all had been readily disposed of.

Worton Agricultural Club.

On Monday last the Worton Club, or as it is now called The Kent County Agricultural Society, dedicated their new Club Room at their grounds, Worton station.

The exercises were opened with prayer by Rev. J B. Jones.

Mr. E. P. Janvier, in a very happy speech, gave an account of the origin and progress of the Club, and paid a tribute to the deceased members. The Club originated in 1868, from a conference between the late George S. Hollyday, Robert Nicholson and John W. Corey, Esqs.; now numbers over one hundred members and owns the grounds where they hold their fairs, some fifty acres, and the buildings.

Mr. Rivers's remarks were listened to with marked attention. He illustrated in a most attractive manner the advantages of Agricultural Associations and the advantages and beauties of the rural home. A vote of thanks was tendered him and a copy of his remarks requested for publication.

The Kent Cornet Band was present and interspersed the programme with music.

The future meetings of the Club will be held at the Fair Grounds, being more convenient and accessible to all the members.

Very Superior Beef.

Mr. Richard S. Usilton had on exhibition Thursday morning last, a magnificent beef, raised by Mr. James M. J. Byron, and fatted on corn. It will be slaughtered and on sale at Mr. Usilton's stall in the market house, on Saturday morning, where lovers of first-class beef are invited to call and examine it.

Among Centennial Exhibits

In the Ladies' Department, we see very favorable mention made of a cape, cap and muff, made by Miss Overend of Kent county. The articles, we presume, are the same which were exhibited and attracted so much attention at our County Fair a year or two ago.

Trappe School

Will give an entertainment this (Friday) evening, at Rees' Corner, commencing at half-past seven o'clock. It will, no doubt, be a very interesting affair.

Mr. J. W. Carroll,

A native and former resident of Chestertown, is named in a late number of the New York World in a list of the theatrical celebrities of the country, and the amount of salary per week received by eschof them. Mr. Carroll's pay is put down at $75 a week.

Old Kent.

In our issue of the 30th of June next, we shall commence the history of the Tylden or Tilden family of this county. Col. Hanson has bestowed great labor and spared no pains in his researches to make it complete, and it will no doubt be very interesting, particularly to the numerous members of the family now living. Those desiring extra copies of the Transcript during its publication must make immediate application, otherwise we shall only print the number of extra copies already ordered.

Fourth District Association.

The Teachers' Association of the Fourth District met on Saturday last. In the absence of the President Mr. Melvin was called to the chair and E. F. Perkins appointed secretary.

The committee reported for discussion at the next meeting "The best method of teaching long division."

In the absence of Mr. Greenwood, the regular Essayist, Mr. Copper read the paper he had prepared for the last meeting, on School Discipline.

The regular question, 'Map Drawing,' was taken up and discussed by Misses Leaverton and Downes, and Messrs. Melvin, Copper and Perkins.

Mr. Peterson was appointed Essayist for the next meeting, and Mr. Copper and Misses Sutton and Leaverton a committee on questions. Eight members were present.

About 16 schools were not reported.

The first question of the programme was discussed by James Kendall and others, and the conclusions of the convention embodied in the following preamble and resolution:

Whereas, the discussion drew out the following points, vis: That the Sunday School is the instrumental foundation of the Christian Church, the safeguard of society, the originator of a true progressive civilization, an economist in finances and an educator of a pure public sentiment; therefore,

Resolved, That it is the sense of this convention that as Sabbath School work has accomplished so much, and with but little aid from systematic effort, and in view of the immense facilities we now enjoy, ought to be made more efficient in impressing the mind and heart, and thereby saving the youth of our country from the influence of evils to which they are exposed.

The discussion of the second question was opened by Rev. Eugene R. Smith, supt. Maryland Sunday School Union.

The convention then adjourned to meet in the M. P. Church at 2 o'clock.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

The convention was opened by religious exercises conducted by Rev. T.B. Killiam.

The special committee on the report of the executive committee presented the following:

Resolved, That we recommend the formation of Temperance Societies in our Sunday Scoools, and that we do all that we can to advance the temperance interest in our county by aiding in the adoption of the Local Option Law, and in all other practicable ways.

Resolved, That the Sunday School Convention of Kent county recommend the Maryland Sunday School Union, and will gladly co-operate with it in its important work, which was adopted, and the report itself adopted.

The sup. of the Md. S. S. Union was, by vote of convention, made a member of the executive committee of Kent county. Adjourned.

EVENING SESSION.

The newly elected President, Rev. E.W. Gaylord, took his official position, making a few pertinent remarks. He then introduced Rev. E. R. Smith, Supt. Md. S. S. Union, who delivered a forcible address on "our poor and rich relations." A rising vote of thanks was tendered to the speaker. The discussion of the second question of the series was resumed, and the question referred to Rev. D. W. Bates, The convention adjourned.

THURSDAY MORNING.

The convention opened by devotional exercises, conducted by Jas. Kendall. D. W. Bates, special committee on the second question, offered the following, which was adopted: "How can Sunday Schools be made attractive without loss of spiritual power?"

In the discussion of this question the following points were presented:

1st. That Sunday Schools may be made attractive by juevenile theatricals (familiarly called Sunday School celebrations and exhibitions,) as well as by impure literature, but at the sacrifice of spirituality.

2d. That they may be made spiritual by a holy, dignified and reserved demeanor, but at the expense of attractiveness. And

3d. That attractiveness and spirituality may be combined when the Church and Sunday School workers make the Church attractive by furnishing it according to the laws of taste and comfort; and by an earnest love pervading and manifesting itself in all our operations, by the prompt attendance and great interest developed in the general management of the classes and the school by the officers; as gravitation draws the lesser orb, so the magnetic influence of a Sunday School teacher's love will naturally attract the young and tender heart. And finally by furnishing our Sunday School libraries with such literature as shall develope the purer natures of children and present to them a higher mark of spiritual excellence, and prompt them to aspire after the true, spiritual, dignified position that God intends them to occupy.

The third question, "How can the entire Church membership be interested in the Sunday School so as to secure their hearty co-operation?" was taken up and debated by Rev. T. B. Killham and others, and referred to Rev. W. B. Gregg.

The fourth question, "How shall we teach as Sunday School teachers and what should be our aim?" was opened by R. S. Griffith, and further discussed by Messrs. Killiam, Smith, Pratt of Marlboro, Mass., and others, and referred to R. S. Griffith. Convention adjourned.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

Convention met, Rev. W. B. Gregg opening by religious services. Bro. Gregg presented the following as the reply to the 3d question. The question was thoroughly discussed, assuming a very wide range. Many very important ideas were advanced, among which are the following: The Sunday School is a part of the Church; personal supervision of the Pastor; reading papers; more piety, zeal and devotion; Bible study; manned with officers adapted to the work. The most prominent arguments brought out to interest the Church were: The Pastor should preach to the Church upon the subject; more piety and knowledge of the importance of Sunday Schools; united effort in their behalf. It is very difficult to get the central thought after so much being said, and such diversity of opinion. The paper was adopted.

Bro. Robert S. Griffith presented as his reporth on the fourth question the following:

Believing that the office of Teacher in the Sunday School is a high and holy one, and that a just sense of the responsibilities of the position and the true nature of the work will be an important aid in stimulating teachers to the preparation for and engaging in the duties of the office: therefore,

Resolved, That the Teacher should seek to know the mental and spiritual characteristics of the scholars; should study carefully the lesson to be taught; how to teach the lesson; should teach lovingly, earnestly, enthusiastically, and with spiritual fervor and power gathered by communion with the Master; and that the aim of the teacher should be the leading of the scholars to Christ, and their growth in grace, and the knowledge of Him who is "the way, the truth and the [illegible] which was adopted.

[illegible] Sabbath School [illegible] the social, intellectual and spiritual life of the teacher?" was [illegible] by Bro. Irvin, and being fully considered was referred to Bro. Irvin, who reported as follows:

In the discussion of the question, it was deeply felt and forcibly said that there is a present reward for the faithful teacher of the way of life; that the Sunday school worker is elevated among the "princes of this world;" is appropriating the treasuries of divine knowledge; is growing in grace; is partaking of the Divine image; is becoming identified in feelings of deeper sympathy with all that is pure and good. It was also truly said that Christian Sacrifice is the source of true enjoyment: and that the waterer is sure to be watered. Therefore, in view of all these blessed facts, we, in this parting session of our Convention, resolve in the strength of Divine grace, that we will be faithful to our work of Faith and labor of Love: which was adopted.

Resolutions of instruction to the Executive Committee offered by Howard Meeks, were referred that the Committee for their consideration. It was decided to increase that Committee to 5 members, and E. P. Janvier and W. H. Stewart were added thereto.

The following were elected as Delegates to the State Sunday School Convention to be held at Hagerstown in November next: Thos. H. Jacobs, R. S. Griffith, E. P. Janvier, Samuel Vannort. As alternates, B. H. F. Caulk, C. H. Baker, Geo. H. Thompson and C. W. Warren, were elected.

Resolved, That all Pastors and Superintendents in the county be requested to communicate the name and P. O. address of each Superintendent and Secretary to the Secretaries of this Convention.

Resolutions of thanks were adopted to the citizens of Galena, officers of the churches, to the Choir, and officers of the Convention.

The music was particularly fine, Miss Eva S. Vernon presiding at the organ.

W. N. SHERWOOD,
HOWARD MEEKS,
Secretaries.

For the Transcript.

In your paper last week you mentioned that the work of digging for the skeleton of a Mastodon, supposed to be imbedded in the marl pits, on Mr. Geo B. Westcott's farm was about commencing. As the Mastodon is an animal of the past a short account of its history known to Geologists, would perhaps be interesting to your readers.

The animal according to Dana's classification, lived during the Post Tertiary Period of the world and became extinct just before its close or just before that period which is called the Era of Mind and Age of Man. It roamed the coast from Canada to Florida, living on the leaves of Spruce and Fir Trees. Dana in his Geology mentions that the finest skeleton in any collection is that [illegible] up by Dr. Warren at Boston. It was [illegible] from a marsh near Newburg, M[illegible] Its height is 11 feet, the length to the [illegible] of the tail 17 feet, the tusks 12 feet [illegible] ng, 1½ feet being inserted in the soc[illegible]. When alive the height must have [illegible]een 12 or 13 feet and the length including tusks 24 or 25 feet.

This illustration will give us some [illegible]ea of the immense magnitude of the Ma[illegible]don, and enable us to contemplate [illegible] wonder the gigantic beasts that [illegible] the world previous to the appearan[illegible] our race.
