The Telegraph

And Adams' Express offices have been removed from Stant & Bro's. to Hines & Co's. Agricultural implement store. The change was made, we learn, in order to secure more room for the express business. The location is also a very desirable one, being in the same building with the post office.

Custom House Changes.

There were a number of changes at the Baltimore Custom House, in the way of removals, appointments, &c., last Monday. John H. Redue, of this town, was removed from the position of Storekeeper, and Pere Wilmer, of Charles county, was appointed in his stead. It is rumored, says the American, that other changes will be made in the Custom House between now and the 1st of July, and that differences among Republicans is the basis of removal.

National Educational Association.

The sixteenth annual meeting of this Association will be held in the Academy of Music Baltimore, on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, July 10th, 11th and 12th.

The papers and reports will be by the first educators of the country.

Prof. Rivers of Washington College, is seventh on the "Department of higher education."

The State Teachers' Association also meets in Baltimore during the same week.

Wheat Harvest.

General harvest in this county may be said to have commenced on Wednesday, though some farmers commenced as early as Monday. The crop, as far as we can learn, is considered a good one—the growth of straw heavy, heads of fine size, and grain perfect. There is some complaint of scab, and we have heard of injury, in isolated instances, to Fultz wheat by the fly.

The weather Wednesday and Thursday was delightful, with cool brisk breezes from the West, and must have have been a great relief to the toil of the harvest field, enabling man and best to perform a greater amount of work in the same time. Should it continue favorable most of the wheat will be reaped this week, and harvest will be over fully a week earlier than last year.

Temperance Excursion and Picnic.

Last Monday morning, about half past eight o'clock, Capt, Jas. H. Thompson's fine, large schooner Fred Raven, left her wharf with a goodly number of the members of Kent Division, Sons of Temperance, on board, bound for Cedar Grove, some six miles distant, a beautiful spot on General Vickers's farm, directly upon and commanding a fine view up and down Chester river. The breeze was light but the party arrived in good time, and the greater portion of the day was spent in regular picnic style. A brisk and favoring breeze sped the vessel along on the return trip, arriving shortly after 5 o'clock, P. M. Captain Thompson—who, by the way, is a zealous Son of Temperance—tendered the Order the use of his vessel free of charge.

The Odd Fellows

Of Centreville advertise in the last issue of the Observer for proposals for building a new market house, town hall and Odd Fellows hall; the building to be 70 by 36 feet.

Bank at Centreville.

The stockholders of the "Centreville National Bank of Maryland," held a meeting in this town yesterday, (says the Observer of Tuesday last,) Judge Carmichael in the chair. The report of the committee on sites was read and the meeting determined to purchase the lot of C. R. Ferguson on front street for the bank. The following gentlemen were elected directors: William McKenney, John B. Brown, Richard T. Earle, Jas. B. Palmer, R. B. Carmichael, William H. Jarrell, W. W. Busteed, J. Hersey Hall, B. S. Ford, W. E. G. Newnam and Lloyd Tilghman. The directors subsequently held a meeting and elected Wm. McKenney President, and J. B. Brown Vice-President of the Bank. The election of these gentlemen was unanimous. William A. Cunningham, of Westminster, was elected Cashier, and R. E. Feddeman, Teller.

TRAPPE, June 21, 1876.

Mr. Editor—The entertainment given by Mrs. L. M. Beck's school in the Hall at Rees' Corner, on Friday evening, 16th inst., was a very pleasant and successful affair. The exercises were opened with a tableau and recitation, entitled "The Mission of the Spirits." It was very beautiful, and was warmly applauded.

"Lord Dundreary's Visit," was truly amusing and caused much laughter. Mr. Crew, as Lord Dundreary, and Miss Jennie Brice, as his friend's sister, acted their parts to perfection.

"Lilly Dale," sung by little Nannie Brice, was surprisingly well executed, and was one of the most pleasing features of evening.

Mr. Charlie Beck's jig dance was greatly appreciated, so much so indeed that he was called for a second time, and received a beautiful boquet.

One of the finest things of the entertainment was the piece entitled "The Destiny of Josephine." Miss Lizzie Wilkins, with regal grace, sustained the character of the Empress. Miss Etta Brice personated Cleopatra, and truly it seemed as if the Egyptian queen really stood before us in all her matchless beauty. We regretted very much that our position was such that we were unable to see Miss Mary Price, as Elizabeth, but judging from her voice we feel assured that she fully sustained the high reputation of England's noblest ruler. The prophetess, Miss Jennie Sappington, was dressed in black, and leaning upon her staff of fate formed a striking contrast with the richly attired queens.

"Fashionable Dissipation," spoken by two little sisters, Lillie and Laura Sappington, reflected much credit on them and their instructress.

Miss Lizzie Wilkins, as Phillis, in "Advertising for Help," brought down the house with laughter when she came sailing into the room with such an easy dashing manner.

In "Aunt Betsey's Beaux," Miss Jennie Brice acted the part of Aunt Betsey very successfully; but let us hope that the fate of Aunt Betsey may not be hers.

"A Husband at Last," caused much merriment, and was well carried out by those who took part.

The tableau entitled "The Guardian Angel," was simply beautiful.

The piece entitled "The only Man in the Village," was very ludicrous, and we could not but pity poor Mr. Brown, (Mr. Crew) as he strove in vain to free himself from the crowd of ladies by whom he was surrounded.

The exercises were closed by two tableaux, one entitled "The Belle of the School," (which was only the old school bell) and the other "Our School."

We trust the participants will excuse us for leaving out so many pieces which certainly deserved a place here, but as we were pressed for time, we could only select those which struck us more forcibly.

Mrs. Beck and her scholars merit great credit for the almost wondrous success of their enterprise, since they were only about three weeks preparing for it.

Mr. John Judikin, (who was present in all his glory, dressed in black with white pants and standing collar,) says that he would willingly attend the same thing every night of his life; and we can almost say the same thing, provided that we enjoy ourselves as much as at the last.

In conclusion we would say that we hope Mrs. Beck will soon favor us with another exhibition; and that we think it would be difficult to find two places of the same size that can boast of more hospitable people or more beautiful ladies than the Trappe and Rees' Corner.

VISITOR.

FIFTH DIST. TEACHERS' ASSOCIATION

Met at Swan Creek, June 17th. Among the visitors present were Mr. and Mrs. Richard Jones, Mr. and Mrs. William Stevens, and Mr. James Gale.

The proceedings of last meeting were read and approved.

The Essay was prepared and read by Miss S. Taggart.

The Teachers present—Messrs. J. V. and W. D. Crosby, C. Crittenden, and Misses Taggart and Copenhaver—expressed their views in regard to the District Associations. They believed the Associations would prove beneficial if the teachers would manifest an interest in them and attend regularly, but thought that little would be accomplished while so few attended.

Each teacher then gave his method of teaching composition.

Mr. Hopkins was appointed Essayist.

The Association adjourned to meet the third Saturday in September.

E. COPENHAVER, Secretary.

BRAZIL AT BUNKER HILL.

From the Boston Commercial Bulletin.

The Janitor who has charge of Bunker Hill monument, arriving at about half-past seven on Friday morning to open the premises, found two strangers in waiting. One, a tall, gray-bearded man in a slouch hat, asked if they could ascend the monument.

"Yes," said the custodian, "you can for twenty-five cents," (holding out his hand).

The stranger produced the money, and the custodian unlocked the doors and forthwith commenced sweeping out, raising a cloud of dust and paying no especial attention to his visitor, who was looking about him curiously, until, half choked with dust, he inquired "if these were the steps."

"Yes, all right, go ahead, go right up till you get to the top."

The visitor and his companion did as they were bid, and stayed some half an hour enjoying the beautiful panoramic view from the summit, after which they descended, and were quietly walking away when they were hailed by the custodian with—

"H'yar, just write your names in this book; all visitors that go up the monument sign their names here."

The gray-bearded man laughed and signed his name, and the two departed.

The custodian never looked at the book, but some hours afterward was electrified by one of the officers of the Monument Association, who chanced to come in, asking him, in the most agitated manner, when Dom Pedro, the Emperor of Brazil, had been there.

"Hasn't been here at all," was the reply.

"Hasn't been here; why, here is his signature on your visitor's book. What does this mean?"

"What?" said the custodian, rushing up to the volume. "Why, good gracious! that was written by a tall man with a slouch hat."

And so it was, but the tall man was the Emperor of Brazil, and this was the way he ascended Bunker Hill monument, just like "any other man."

SCRIBNER FOR JULY,

Though not entirely given over to Centennial topics, contains much, the publishers claim, that will just now be of peculiar interest to the American public. The accounts of the signing of the Declaration (even those by the signers themselves) are very conflicting, and Colonel Higginson's "Story of the Signing," in this number, is a concise and reliable review of the subject. The illustrations of this paper are quite striking. Recent research has shown that some of our most orthodox and cherished legends of the Declaration will not do "to tie to." But, if we must give up the "Ring! Grandpa!" story, as Colonel Higginson seems to think, we shall find, by way of compensation, plenty of authentic legens about Washington in the next paper: "A Little Centennial Lady," by Mrs. Constance Cary Harrison—a delightful, illustrated sketch of Sally Fairfax, Gen. Washington's pet and friend. This is a rare piece of magazine writing, and embodies portions of Sally's journal, written in the quaintest of language.

The Railroad War.—There are no indications of a termination of the railroad war, and a further reduction of passengers' fares in the State of New York is announced by Erie. There have been no further reductions on through freights by the trunk lines, and when it is remembered that these lines are taking freight from New York to Chicago at $3 to $5 per ton, according to the class, some idea of the folly and madness of the war will be obtained. These rates are actually less than the charges for cartage from warehouse to depot in this city and Chicago. We hear that some of the best of the trunk lines are engaging business on this scale of rates for months ahead—in fact, for the year—and are also agreeing, if further reductions are made, to do the business at the reduced rates.—N. Y. Evening Post, 19th.

The Best One of Hayes's Ohio Supporters can Say for Him.—As a candidate, Gov. Hayes will improve upon acquaintance. He is a man without a development of nonsence. He is a symmetrical man—not a giant, but of good dimensions for reasonable service. We do not expect of him much out of the common order. There will probably be a quiet time. Above all things, in the view of the easy-going multitude, we shall avoid harassing agitations. He will reward his friends, remembering those who remembered him in good time, and the party machine will not be disturbed in its regular revolutions.—Cincinnati Commercial.

☞Let not the House of Representatives be bullied by Grant and the Senate into receding from economical measures and restoring items left out of the appropriation bills after mature consideration. Reduced as the totals are, they are yet amply sufficient for the honest running of the Government, though they may not leave enough to pay big electioneering bills. The people are themselves using pinching economy. Let their servants likewise carefully watch every outgo of the public money. Let the Senate have the whole responsibility of extravagant appropriations.

ORDER OF PUBLICATION.

ALFRED S. HURLOCK ET AL,
VERSUS
ABRAHAM LAING.

In the Circuit Court for Kent County—in Equity.
April Term, 1876.

THE OBJECT OF THE BILL in the above entitled case is to procure a Decree for the sale of certain Real Estate, with the improvements thereon, particularly described in the proceedings hereunder.

The Bill states that a certain Annie L. Hurlock, formerly Annie L. Stephens, Jennie G. Stephens and Olivia V. Laing, formerly Olivia V. Stephens, are seized in fee as tenants in common, of a certain Lot of Land situated in Galena, containing half an acre, more or less, lately occupied by one Thomas K. Stephens, now deceased.

The Bill further states that Abraham Laing, the husband of the said Olivia V Laing, some time in the year 1875, left the State of Maryland and abandoned the said Olivia V., his wife, and has not been heard from since he left the State of Maryland in the said year 1875. That the parties entitled to said estate desire to sell the same, but that they are not competent to make said sale by reason of the incapacity of the said Olivia V. Laing to make a legal conveyance of her undivided interest in said estate without the concurrence of her said absent husband, and that such sale can only be made by a Trustee to be appointed by a Court of Equity.

It is thereupon adjudged and ordered, That the complainants, by causing a copy of this Order to be inserted in some newspaper printed in Kent county, once in each of four successive weeks before the fourth day of July next, give notice to the said absent defendant of the object and substance of this bill, and warn him to appear in this Court, in person or by solicitor, on or before the fourth day of October next, to answer the premises and show cause, if any he has, why a Decree ought not to pass as prayed.
