THE VACANT CANDIDACY.

The republican papers affect to believe that the refusal of Seymour to became the democratic candidate has ruined the party in New York. This is sheer drivel. They do not believe it: the wish is the father of the thought. Nothing has been lost but time, and the convention can reassemble more harmonious than ever.

Indiana presented an infinitely worse case than this, and the republicans never seemed to consider the party ruined there. For in Indiana they put up the Venezuelan swindler Orth, and tried in vain to make the party accept the ticket. Then at a late hour they had to withdraw their repretentative republican swindler, and put up a new man.—That was, indeed, a bad change of front in the presence of the enemy, so bad that the republican chances are very small.—But in New York the democracy put up a most honored man, and nominated him by acclamation. It was known that he had strong personal reasons for refusing the nomination, but it was believed that he would not refuse a unanimous nomination. He has, however, finally declined to serve, and so the convention must reassemble and put up another man. We suppose that there are not fifty voters in New York that will be affected by the refusal of Seymour to serve; and there is little doubt that Evarts, if he receive the nomination, will sweep the State by Tilden's majority, somewhere in the neighborhood of fifty thousand votes. One thing is certain: that is, that the democracy must put up a man distinguished as a reformer and thief fighter. If they select such a man there need be no fear of the result.—Baltimore Gazette.

FIFTEEN HUNDRED FEET UNDER GROUND IN NEVADA, AND WHAT MAY BE SEEN THERE.

From the Virginia Sentinel.

It takes only five minutes. You step on the stage and the band that guides the Titan at the surface touches the rein of his black monster and you are plunged into the gloom. The car stops and you are more than a quarter of a mile below the busy city; from the dusty highway you have stepped into the world's grandest treasure-house; you have passed from the temperate to the tropical zone in a minute—you are in the Bonanza.

It is no little thing to work a mine 1,500 feet below the surface. True, there are broad avenues, broad timbers which, like Atlas, seem competent to support a world; there are engines at work and cars running; but every glimpse of the men reveals the exertion necessary to keep up this conflict with the spirits that guard the buried treasure below. The men are stripped to the waist, those brawny delvers, with perspiration bursting from every pore.

It looks pleasant down there in the [illegible] streets and under the lantern's [illegible] but before these streets were opened there was in the stifling air a work [illegible] that cannot be calculated. [illegible]

OUR NEW YORK LETTER.

NEW YORK, Sept. 4.

POLITICAL.

The state of excitement in which we have been for the past two or three days is indescribable. The news that Gov'r. Seymour had accepted the nomination tendered by the Saratoga Convention, created such joy and enthusiasm among Democrats, and such sadness among the Republicans, that there could be no mistake about the influence which his name possessed among both parties. Then came the intelligence that he had not accepted, and would not under any circumstances accept. Republicans now began to crow more than the event could warrant, for it was quite certain that, even if the great man would not himself accept the nomination he would exert his utmost influence for him who was chosen by the Democrats to serve the State as its Governor.

Things are now resuming their usual condition. We are satisfied that with the moral strength and the numbers of votes, which the Democratic candidates will receive from outside sources, not here, but all over the country, the triumph of the people will be more thorough and overwhelming than anything that was anticipated when we entered upon the struggle. Our State ticket will be settled in such a manner that even our opponents cannot any longer question our success, and are confining their efforts to make our majority as small as they can, and we turn our eyes to other parts of the battle field, to see how things look there.

Indiana seems to be specially honored this year. What with Orth, to whom that severe accident happened as he was proceeding towards the Capitol; Kilpatrick, who let his letters fall about and get into the hands of prying individuals, for whose eyes they never were intended; Dittenhoeffer, who figured so largely and conspicuously in the New York Whiskey Ring; and last, though not least, the great Morton himself, the prince of Republican demagogues; the voters of Indiana have certainly no excuse, if they do not come well into harness, march boldly to the polls, and declare for a continuance of the pure and wholesome methods of Grant's government, which have so exalted us as a nation, and tended so greatly to our personal happiness and prosperity. And yet there seems every prospect that the people of the State will, in October, show a preference for their revered and honest friend Blue Jean Williams, and in November will proceed unblushingly to cast their ballots for our Governor and their Governor, and repudiate the cunning ways of Grant, which are so extremely involved that to honest men they are somewhat incomprehensible.

While some of the methods by which the Hayes and Kilpatrick party endeavor to carry their ends, are very serious, as tending to impair the liberties of the people through all sections of the land, some are very amusing. Here is an element of great danger, which must not be allowed to remain. If such be the law, the law must be altered. The ridiculous comes very prominently into play in the new manner of cancelling the postage stamps, I should have said marking instead of canceling, for the stamps marked "Vote for Hayes," are not canceled, and can be used any number of times until they are disfigured according to the rules of the Department.

But my letter is getting too long. I will only add that from indications here, and from letters which come from all parts, in greater numbers as the days go by, there remains but little doubt that the majority which will elect Tilden in November next, will be even greater than that which was rolled up for Grant in 1872.

MOSBY'S GUERRILLAS.

Who would have thought to see the day when the notorious guerrilla chief, Col. John S. Mosby, whose deeds during the war are as familiar as the horrors of Andersonville, would be adopted as an authority by the Republican party, petted by the President, recognized by the Administration, and put forward as a leader for Hayes and Wheeler? Yet the fact is so. We have before us a pamphlet of four pages, containing a letter of John S. Mosby to the New York Herald, dated August 12, 1876, followed by the editorial comments of that paper.

This pamphlet is now circulated by hundreds of thousands from Washington, by Zach Chandler's committee, and the copy in our possession was obtained directly from that souece. Mosby was a zealous third-termer, and when that scheme failed he fell back naturally on the ticket which was nominated to continue Grantism.

No individual is stronger at Washington with the powers that be than this same guerrilla chief. He drove a profitable business as an office broker while Grant was seeking a renomination; and his influence to-day is stronger even than it was then, as was recently shown in the most positive way. Major Griswold, one of Mosby's band, was lately appointed to a place in the Treasury, with a salary of $1,800 a year, upon the direct recommendation of Grant. Chapman, another of the same band, only failed to secure a special agency of the Post Office Department because of a difficulty with Jewell, in consequence of which Mosby turned round and helped to drive him out of the Cabinet.

At the very time when Zach Chandler and his crew are falsely charging the Democrats with removing Union soldiers from the House of Representatives, they themselves are appointing Mosby's guerrillas in the departments, and turning out soldiers' widows, soldiers' children, [illegible] equally worthy, in order to [illegible]

THE DROUTH.

We learn that the drouth in the Eastern States has been very protracted and severe, and is matter of general complaint among the farmers of that section. A letter received in this city from the Valley of Connecticut says: "We have had a drouth here of very rare severity. The roads are all powdery and the carriages plow through clouds of white dust. Pedestrians are covered like millers, and the very grass is gray. Persons who were here last summer describe the change as most striking, and Northampton and the Connecticut valley are not looking like the same places. Ordinarily their greenness is their great charm. But there is none of summer's usual tints this year in any perfection." Here, in Maryland, we have also been suffering from drouth for a month, past, although superficial observers, noting the fact that it rained on seventeen days during the month, may imagine that the soil cannot be greatly parched. But the record of the rainfall for the month of August for the past six years tells a different story. In August, 1871, the rainfall was 3.41 inches; 1872, 4.59; 1873, 9.40; 1874, 3.47; 1875, 8.67; 1876, 1.76, scarcely more than one-half the rainfall in the driest August for the previous five years, that of 1871. But we, in this meridian, have the satisfaction to know that the crops were all pretty much made before the dry weather set in, so that the principal loss will be in autumn pasturage. To the eastward it is different, for there the crops mature later and some of them, as corn and tobacco, and the later grasses, will be correspondingly short.—Baltimore Sun.

☞The colored voters of Alabama having advanced sufficiently in political knowledge to understand that the talk about it being the purpose of the Democrats to reduce them to slavery again is all nonsense, the virtuous carpet-baggers in that State have had recourse to a new invention for working upon their fears. A colored man in Hale county informed a correspondent of The Sun that he would have voted the Democratic ticket at the last election, only he had been told that if the Democrats were elected, although they could not put the negroes back into slavery, yet they would pass a law regulating the prices to be paid the colored people for their labor, and under the proposed Democratic schedule the wages of a negro man would be limited to four dollars per month, while no colored woman would be permitted to receive over half that sum. It is by such devices as this the Republican managers in the South seek to maintain their influence over the unsophisticated American citizen of African descent.

Iron in the Blood

PERUVIAN SYRUP

MAKES THE WEAK STRONG.

The Peruvian Syrup, a Protected Solution of the Protoxide of Iron, is so combined as to have the character of an aliment, as easily digested and assimilated with the blood as the simplest food. It increases the quantity of Nature's Own Vitalizing Agent, Iron in the blood, and cures "a thousand ills," simply by Toning up, Invigorating and Vitalizing the System. The enriched and vitalized blood permeates every part of the body, repairing damages and waste, searching out morbid secretions, and leaving nothing for disease to feed upon.

This is the secret of the wonderful success of this remedy in curing Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Chronic Diarrhœa, Boils, Nervous Affections, Chills and Fevers, Humors, Loss of Constitutional Vigor, Diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder, Female Complaints, and all diseases originating in a bad state of the blood, or accompanied by debility or a low state of the system. Being free from Alcohol, in any form, its energizing effects are not followed by corresponding reaction, but are permanent, infusing strength, vigor, and new life into all parts of the system, and building up an Iron Constitution.

Thousands have been changed by the use of this remedy, from weak, sickly, suffering creatures, to strong, healthy, and happy men and women; and invalids cannot reasonably hesitate to give it a trial.

See that each bottle has PERUVIAN SYRUP blown in the glass.
