Editors and Proprietors.

ANOTHER famous six-days walk has just ended in New York city.—It was won by Hart, the colored walker, who has beaten all past records, making 565 miles in six days. Of the eight walkers engaged in the race seven made over 500 miles. There were two other colored walkers engaged in the contest, one of whom came in next to Hart, making 543½ miles.

THE St. Michael's Comet is looking better typographically. We are glad to find it thus improved.—The only thing that has long kept the Comet from being a very readable paper, is that it was hardly readable—or to speak less ambignously, the Comet hitherto, though well edited and sparkling with good things, has been so poorly printed that it would vex the soul and almost ruin the eyes even of a strong-eyed man to dig out its hidden meaning.

A BILL has been reported in Congress by the district committee appropriating $677,000 for the finishing of the Washington Monument. A resolution for the erection of the monument was passed in 1799 but nothing was done towards its erection till 1848. From 1848 to 1856 it was built to a height of 156 feet. In 1876 Congress determined upon the completion of the monument to a height of 550 feet.

AFTER the adjournment of the legislature, Gov. Hamilton raised the question of the constitutionality of his signing bills passed by the legislature, after that body's adjournment. It has always been a custom with former governors to so sign bills, and Gov. Hamilton has concluded to follow the example of his predecessors. Attorney General Gwinn and other eminent authorities have expressed as their opinion, that there is nothing in the constitution that forbids the Governor affixing his signature after the adjournment of the legislature.

EVERY now and then some interviewer comes to the front and says Samuel J. Tilden is barely out of the grave,—that he is paralyzed and afflicted in several other ways, that if he were elected president of these United States, he would be positively certain to die before he could get half way through with his inaugural speech. Immediately in contradiction of this statement, some friend of Mr. Tilden arises to say,—that the Hon. Samuel J. Tilden is as hale and hearty as he has been in the last twenty years; that he attends to all his business personally, and instead of being paralyzed and growing weak-minded, he is as keen and sharp-witted as ever he was in his life. Which of these two statements is correct it is difficult to guess, but one thing may be pretty accurately arrived at and that is that either Mr. Tilden is not demented by a long ways or else some shrewd, clear headed agent is managing the Tilden campaign in New York. In spite of the strong anti-Tilden movement in that State and the personal opposition of the powerful John Kelley, and of a large number of leading newspapers, yet Mr. Tilden seems to be holding his own, and to stand a better chance than any other man of being represented at Cincinnatti by a New York delegation. The result of the approaching Syracuse convention will be watched with interest.

THE Annapolis Republican issued a highly ornamental extra at the close of the late session of the legislature. An imaginative sketch dated June 2d, 1950, given in the form of an interview with a future ex-judge Howell, reviews men and measures connected with the legislature of 1880. The Republican gives the following sketches of our Senator and Representatives:

HON. WILLIAM T. HEPBRON.

This gentleman holds deservedly a high place in the esteem of his constituents and his associates in the Senate. His cultivation of mind and sterling character are apparent in everything he does, and adorn his walk and conversation. He was born near his present residence, in Kent county, Md., March 8, 1832.—At the age of twelve he was left an orphan, and to gain an education and livelihood in the best way he could. He took up his studies where his common school experience left off, and learned his books and the trade of blacksmithing together.—At twenty-one he had succeeded admirably in both. He is now, however, a large land proprietor and an extensive peach-grower. He is a democrat, and has held the offices of Constable, County Commissioner and Judge of the Orphans' Court. In 1875 he was elected State Senator, re-elected in 1879, and is now serving the first session of the new term. His large legislative experience makes him one of the most useful, as well as active, men in the Senate. He is a member of the Committee on Agriculture and Labor, Printing, Chesapeake Bay and its Tributaries, Public Institutions and Article 3, Section 24, of the Constitution. He is warmly attached to his county and its interests, a regard which is heightened by interesting family traditions dating back to its earliest settlement by his ancestors, and by his possession of land contained in the original grant to a pioneer of whom he is a lineal descendant.

HON. WM. H. FORD, HON. THOS. A. HULME.

Kent county is well represented in the House of Delegates. Hon. William H. Ford is a gentleman of the best type and an unswerving, conscientious democrat. Particularly interested in the affairs of his own people, he is, however, not forgetful of giving due attention to the larger interests of the State. He lives by tilling the soil, and knows well the needs of those whose success is the basis of all prosperity.—His present position is the first he has held; he fills it ably and acceptably on the floor and as a Committeeman on Inspections, Roads and Highways, and Library. He was born in Kent county, Delaware, November 8th, 1843, and liberally educated at Millington, Md. He is a true man.

Hon. Thomas A. Hulme is a middle aged gentleman, of good physique and easy manners. He watches closely the business of the House and takes special care of his county's interests. Mr. Hulme, if he lives, will rise to still higher distinction in his county, where he enjoys the entire confidence and respect of his people. He has also been useful on the Committees on Corporations, Printing, Chesapeake Bay and its Tributaries, and as chairman on Immigration.

"NOTES BY THE WAY."

THE WEATHER AND THE FRUIT—GARDENING—THE NEW M. P. CHURCH—TWO VESSELS BLOWN ASHORE—FISHING AND FISHERMEN—A DEATH FROM COAL OIL—CHURCH FACILITIES.

The mercury was down to 28° at daylight this morning.

The cold weather of the past few days has been very unfavorable on peaches. Damage has been done—but to what extent no one can tell at present. We fear the flow of sap has been checked, and that the young peach will die. The young peach must grow as soon as it is impregnated. They do not seem to be growing a particle.

The pear, apple, quince and cherry are not so forward, and they may escape.

Those who have been gardening must wish they had their garden seed out of the ground. There is no use to sow seed until the ground gets warm.

The carpenters begin work on the church here to-day. The building is under the supervision of William S. Culp.

Two vessels were blown ashore, Saturday night, on the rocks between Betterton and Barnard's. They are in a precarious condition.

There are plenty of shad in the bay, but our fishermen cannot "drift" for them owing to the blustery weather. If they had stake nets they would be making money every day. It is strange that pound nets can be set up Sassafras river and stake nets cannot be set in the upper waters of the bay. Justice will be done our bay fishermen, after awhile, if nothing happens. There is bound to be a change. All we ask is fair play. If the upper part of Kent and Cecil counties own the State of Maryland and Chesapeake bay they had better take possession and let our fishermen know that they must starve.

A son of James White, aged twelve years, living at Barnard's wharf, died yesterday morning, from the effects of a burn received a few days previous by the explosion of a can of coal oil. He was using the oil to kindle a fire when the explosion occurred. This should be a warning to those who are in the habit of doing the same thing.

From Locust Grove to Hanesville, North of the railroad, there are twelve places of public worship. The people in this section of country ought to be mighty good. We have ministers who expound the truth faithfully. There is hardly another district of country in the State that is favored with so many ministers and places of worship. Why cannot we be happy?

Peninsula News.

Smyrna, (Del.) is going to apply $1500 toward cleaning out hercreek.

The Smyrna Methodists have restored the salary of their minister from $1000 to $1200.

A lager beer bottling establishment has been started at Rehoboth and it is said promises great success.

Oxford in Talbot county, is booming. It has nine oyster packing houses, a crab cannery and is about to start an iron foundry.

$360.17 has be donated by Talbot county for the relief of the Irish poor, and forwarded by the committee to Dublin.

Milford is the champion ship building town of the Peninsula. There are now on the stocks there a 1100 ton ship, a 1000 ton ship, a 800 ton ship, a ninety-five ton schooner, a 125 ton schooner, and a 425 ton schooner.

Speculators are putting the estimate of the peach crop at 7,000,000 baskets this year, but the present outlook does not show any such probability, as the cold freezing wind of the last two or three days, has, from advices received, done incalculable injury to this crop.—Delawarean.

Mr. George Seward of Goldsborough, Caroline county, has sold the iron ore on his farm and the right to get it out, to Messrs. Mundell & Co., of Pennsylvania. They pay him $500 cash and a royalty of a certain amount on every hundred tons they take out. They are briskly engaged getting out the ore and getting it in shape for shipment.

VERY FOOLISH.—A young man of this town, because the young lady did not see fit to join hands with him in life's struggles, told her he was going to kill himself, and took a dose of laudanum. He took too much, and he is yet living, doubtless a wiser young man, or ought to be, for the young lady afterwards married him.—Dover Delawarean.

Sometimes a new and innocent correspondent commences a communication as follows: "Our enterprising fellow-townsman, Mr. Joshua P. Squiggs, has just opened a first-class dry goods and grocery store in Sciberville, where he is prepared to see all his old friends and many new ones. Mr. Squiggs is the most popular merchant in all this section, and is selling extremely low for cash or country produce. Give him a call before going elsewhere." It is worth fifteen cents to see the editor smile when he receives some local news like the above, accompanied by a modest request to send the aforesaid Squiggs a marked copy of the paper.—Middletown Transcript.

The railroad to the crater of Vesuvius is now completed. The depot is situated at a height of 810 metres, or 210 metres above the Observatory. A restaurant and cafe capable of accommodating 100 people is attached to the depot. The angle of inclination of this railroad attains at various points 40, 50 and 63 degrees. There are two passenger cars, the Vesuvius and Etna, accommodating 12 persons each.—The system adopted in the construction of the railway is of American invention, and is known as "the "prismatic system."

ST. PETER'S HANDWRITING.

LONDON, April 8.—The British and Foreign Bible Society deny the allegations of certain Italian papers that they have sent out a commission to inquire into the authority of a manuscript supposed to be written by Peter the Apostle, or that they have ever offered any sum for its possession. [The allegations appeared in the Seminarate and Fiaccosa, Protestant evangelical journals published at Rome, and, according to their statement, was copied by them from the Sabbaoth, an organ of the Jewish community, printed at Jerusalem, where the manuscript written by the hand of the Apostle Peter is said to have been discovered.] On July 13, 1879, so runs the account, there died in Jerusalem, in the 110th year of his age, a reputedly poor man of the name of Core. For fifty years he had led the life of a hermit in a grotto at the foot of the hill of Gethsemane, enjoying for the greater part of that period a saintly reputation. When his death became known and it was ascertained that no kinsfolk claimed his effects, and that he had left no will, the local authorities took possession of his grotto. On entering they were surprised to find it furnished with considerable luxury. Magnificent tiger skins were spread over the floor and the anchorite's bed was composed of costly furs. Underneath the skins a trap door was discovered, leading to an underground apartment sixteen feet square and twelve feet high. In one corner of this room stood an iron-bound oaken chest.—With some difficulty it was broken open, when out rolled a stream of broad pieces of various dates, countries and denominations, of a total value, as it was estimated, of £3,000. At the very bottom of the chest, where it had been covered by the hermit's treasure, a still more important find was made—a packet wrapped up in old and almost rotten newspapers. These papers contained a splendid and antique Cashmere shawl, of great value, though somewhat injured by damp. Inside the shawl were divers documents, from which it appeared that the deceased anchorite was a Hebrew, belonging to a rich family of Stockholm. Among these documents was a voluminous papyrus manuscript, folded in green silk, so old that when touched it became dust.

The manuscript bore the following inscription:

"Peter the fisherman, disciple of Jesus the Son of God, and continuator of His work, speaks to the people of the earth who listen to the word of the Lord, according to the love, and in the name, of the most holy God."

The superscription to the manuscript, "written in a style equally strange and elegant," runs thus:

"I, Peter the fisherman, in the name of God, finished the writing of the word of love in the fiftieth year of my age, the third Easter after the death of my Saviour and Master Jesus Christ, son of Mary, in the house of Belieri, the scribe, near the temple of the Lord."

The papyrus of the manuscript is described as being strong and flexible and the ink very black, from which it was first supposed that it might be the work of Core, but scholars and experts at Jerusalem, by whom the writing has been submitted to a searching examination, are of opinion that no man of this age could write old Hebrew so pure in style, with such an intimate knowledge of the meaning of many obsolete words and so complete a mastery of the archaic forms that characterized the literature of the epoch in which the new epistle purports to have been produced. A further proof of its antiquity is that the papyrus of the manuscript has long since ceased to be made. To solve the doubts which still remained as to the genuineness of the document, the account goes on to say that the Bible Society of London were asked to send out a commission to look into the matter and deliver judgement. This was done, and, after long investigation, the commission pronounced in favor of the authenticity of Core's papyrus. They considered it to be the veritable work of the Apostle Peter. The Sabaoth, it appears, did not hesitate to state that there had been a lively interchange between the London Bible Society and the heirs of the deceased hermit—the Cores of Stockholm—with reference to a sale of the precious papyrus, and that an offer of £20,000 for it has been unhesitatingly refused.

The French Communists are growing bolder every day. One of their organs, the Epalite, publishes the following paragraph: "At the request of a number of our readers, and in commemoration of the workmen's blood which was shed like water in April and May, 1871, the Epalite will continue to appear in red during the two months that the red flag of the Commune floated at the Hotel de Ville of Paris."

Eight months ago a Boston capitalist threw a package into his son's lap, saying: "There is a package of railroad bonds, worth on their face $30,000. As they will never be worth anything in my day, you may keep them for your children." The son put them in his safe and forgot all about them, but three weeks ago something recalled them to him, and, on inquiry, he found them now worth $27,750. Mr. Peabody's relations have benefited very heavily by his practice of buying up shares, &c., deemed worthless. These he left to his family, and many of them have proved very valuable.

MR. VANDERBILT'S PROPOSITION.—Mr. W. H. Vandebilt has offered to lease for forty years the entire water front on the west side of New York city, between Sixty-fifth and Seventy-second streets, fill it in, erect substantial stores and warehouses upon it, and pay the city $15,000 a year for the first ten years, $18,000 the second, $21,000 the third, and $24,000 the fourth.—This plot, now under water, includes about a thousand lots. The railroad Mr. Vanderbilt represents already owns the land fronting on the river between these streets. The New York Express claims that these additional lots will enable the company to provide terminal facilities of great public convenience and utility and place the commerce of New York on a level with that of Baltimore and other cities. The dock commissioners, it is stated, have acceded to Mr. Vanderbilt's propositions. The plans for the improvement have all been prepared and will be approved by the department as soon as the sinking fund commissioners have set apart the land.

PROPOSED NEW STOCK EXCHANGE.—A proposition is on foot for a new Baltimore Stock Exchange building, and a committee of bankers and brokers has the matter in hand. Many members consider the present quarters too limited, and it is thought sufficient stock would be subscribed to insure the enterprise. It is said that a South-street site is favored, and that one of the ideas of the plan is to have galleries, where spectators can view the business proceedings. The question is to be submitted to the "members of the stock board, as to whether they will decide to become part tenants of such a building, subscribe to the stock, etc. Among the committee are Messrs. Hollins McKim, Lewis Roseberg, Wm. B. Wilson, J. H. Ferguson and others.

STATE TEMPERANCE CONVENTION.—The seventh annual convention of the State Temperance Alliance of Maryland will be held at the rooms of the Young Men's Christian Association, to-day and to-morrow. The session will probably be a very interesting one, from the fact that eight new counties are soon expected to adopted local option, which will be a great addition to the six or seven counties in which prohibition already prevails. Among the prominent temperance advocates to be present during the convention are: Hon. Neal Dow, of Maine, author of the prohibitory system; Hon. Henry W. Blair, United States senator, and mover of the proposed prohibitory constitutional amendment; Hon. Evart W. Farr, member of Congress from New Hampshire; Miss Mary Woodbridge, of Ohio; Rev. D. C. Babcock, secretary of the National Temperance Society, and other advocates of the temperance cause.

CHINESE SEEKING NATURALIZATION.—A New York letter mentions a rumor that at least one hundred Chinamen in that city, following the recent example of one of their countrymen at Fond du Lac, Wis., are preparing to take out naturalization papers with a view of becoming American citizens. They are understood to have been persuaded to this step by the Chinese Employment Bureau, which was organized in New York some weeks since by a number of philanthropic men and women, who were desirous of protecting them from the persecution to which "the little brown people" are subjected in San Francisco. The expense attending the procurement of the necessary papers will be borne by the society.

GRANT MAKES NO DENIAL.—It is no trivial matter that on a recent occasion, in a public speech, Gen. Grant made references to the charge, so constantly reiterated against him that he sought to make himself Emperor, without any denial to the charge or any intimation that it was not true!

This would seem to be an admission by silence that it was true!

Such precisely was the course pursued by Gen. Grant in reference to the third term. When, four years ago, Republican Conventions all over the country were adopting strong resolutions against a third term, Grant could not be induced to say a word on the subject. Why? Because he was always in favor of a third term for himself.

In the same way now, he has not a syllable to say to the charges that he desires to become Emperor, because he knows them to be true.—N. Y. Sun.

Life is but short, and we should do all we can to prolong it. Check a Cough or Cold at once by using an old and reliable remedy such as Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup. Price only 25cts. a bottle.

POVERTY AND DISTRESS.

That poverty which produces the greatest distress is not of the purse but of the blood.—Deprived of its richness, it becomes scant and watery, a condition termed anemia in medical writings. Given this condition, and scrofulous swellings and sores, general and nervous debility, loss of flesh and appetite, weak lungs, throat diseases and consumption are among the common results. Therefore, if you are a sufferer from thin, poor blood, do not hesitate, but employ Golden Medical Discovery which enriches the blood and radically cures these affections by striking at the root of the evil and removing the cause.

For all bronchial, throat, and lung affections, severe lingering coughs, weak lungs, consumption in its early stages, asthma and kindred affections, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is the sovereign remedy, and has outrivaled all its competitors. It is harmless in any condition of the system, yet powerful to cure. Druggists sell it.

☞ We have recently received a copy of the Saint Louis Medical and Surgical Journal, containing the proceedings of a meeting of the St. Louis Medical Society and of the medical profession in that city, held November 15th, 1879, to express their loss in the death of Dr. THOMAS KENNARD; and from the proceedings we reprint the resolutions passed, as a matter of public interest to the people of our county, of which Dr. Kennard was a native, and where he practiced for a time. The resolutions are as follows:

With a deep sense of the sad and irreparable loss we have sustained in the death of THOMAS KENNARD, Ex-President and honored member of this Society, we give expression to grief and record this tribute to his manly virtues and excellencies, and to his professional capacity, attainments and standing.

Nature cast him in no diminutive mould; lavish of her gifts, he was not denied ability to acquire knowledge from books, but added thereto the capacity to create it by observations and experience. Thorough literary training and extensive reading formed an appropriate basis for his professional education. Assiduously he kept pace with the rapid progress of scientific medicine; patiently and energetically he practiced the art with enviable success.

Cosmopolitan in all his views, the elevation of the standard of medicine was near to his heart, and while he inculcated needful professional reform, he demanded for medicine a more just recognition of its relations to government, society, and the other noble professions, an enlightened secular and religious press, and an intelligent public. And for the welfare of profession and people he desired the safeguards and protection of wise legislation.

Eminently characteristic of our lamented brother was the bold and fearless advocacy of his views. He wielded a free lance, neither giving nor asking quarter. Concise, condensed and incisive, he grasped the gist and marrow of a subject, and whether in its presentation or defence wielded with grace and precision the weapons of debate. As he spoke so did he write, and his frequent contributions to our journals and the various monographs emanating from his pen have elicited merited praise and remain an enduring monument to the enlarged views and ability of the writer.

For the administration of affairs he was singularly well adapted, and whether as President of the Society or Chairman of its important committees, he exhibited an acquaintance with parliamentary law and the routine of business which harmonized action and attained results.

Honest and honorable in all of his dealings, he strictly obeyed the spirit and letter of our ethics, and in professional intercourse he was marked by exceeding fairness and respect for others.

Capable, truthful and scientific himself, he despised quackery in all of its forms, and his deep censure, mingled with contempt, fell heavily upon hypocrisy and pretension.

A man of strong character, it was not astonishing that he had devoted friends and decided enemies. The former testify to his kindly and affectionate nature, while the latter find more to admire than to condemn.

Only close association elicited a full knowledge of the gentle, kindly disposition which underlaid the sometimes harsh and severe exterior presented by our deceased brother.

He was, without ostention, charitable, not only in speech, but in acts.

A strong man has fallen! A counsellor, friend and leader is lost to us forever! We sorrow with the family of our deceased brother, and offering this tribute to his memory, tender our condolences and express a hope that on "the other shore" he "rests from his labors" and reaps the reward of the just.

The foregoing resolutions abundantly show the position occupied by Dr. Kennard in a great city and among a medical faculty of admitted learning and distinction, and the addresses delivered upon the reading of the resolutions speak with the same voice. Dr. Dickinson said of him—

"As a physician Dr. Kennard held a high rank among his fellows; he was devoted to the study and practice of his profession. His superior natural endowments he had enriched with exalted attainments in medical science, and was ever in possession of its latest achievements. To all these was added the large experience that rendered him the safe and successful practitioner.

He was an earnest and steadfast collaborer in promoting the interests and prosperity of this Society, and was himself regular and constant at its meetings till declining health rendered it impossible. Having been associated with Dr. Kennard upon important committees of this Society, the duties of which brought us into frequent and confidential relations, I bear willing testimony to his uniform courtesy and considerate. It will be remembered also that it was chiefly through his instrumentality and personal effort that this Society directed the publication of the monograph upon "Yellow Fever," prepared at its behest by the members of this Society, an achievement unique in the history of medical societies."

We may add that Dr. Thomas Kennard was the oldest son of the late Dr. Thomas C. Kennard, of this county, who afforded him every advantage possible, both in classical and medical education, and from him he inherited his superior intellectual powers and his general strength of character. For nearly twenty-five years he resided and practiced in St. Louis—but the older generations of our people will remember him as a young man of marked ability and promise during his short professional residence here. His father, Dr. Thomas C. Kennard, died only a few months before his son, after a long life of distinguished usefulness and success in his profession, and as an agriculturist; and he will long be remembered as the last of a circle of cultured and influential gentlemen of a departed generation who gave tone to the politics and adorned the society of Kent county.

EGGS, BUTTER and LARD TAKAN FOR GOODS,

KENNARD & Co's
"Sterling Phosphate,"

$23.00 CASH or $25.00 TIME.

—:o:—

HAVING been used with such great success last Spring on Corn and Vegetables, we have enlarged our Factory, added new and improved machinery thereto and again offer it to the farmers with every confidence in its great worth. We also announce the fact that our capacity will enable us to fill promptly and without a failure, all orders for our goods.

The following are a few of the many testimonials as to the benefits derived from the use of the "STERLING PHOSPHATE" last Spring:

Chestertown, Md., February 21st, 1880.

Dear Sirs: Your Phosphate that I used on my corn last Spring, gave me great satisfaction. I also used your wheat Phosphate last Fall, it is now looking as well as other phosphates on the same land at a higher figure. I expect to use your goods next Spring.

Yours truly, COMEGYS BROWN.

Chestertown, February, 1880.

KENNARD & Co.: In reply to your question regarding the action of your Fertilizer, I will just state that I have only tried it on sugar beets. I applied it to my beets last Spring, putting it in the drill before I planted the seed, and notwithstanding the unfavorable circumstances to which the beets were subjected, the yield was far ahead of my most sanguine expectations.

Yours, &c., I. C. TAYLOR.

Chestertown, Md., March 5th, 1880.

MESSRS. KENNARD & Co—Gentlemen: I used your Phosphate last Spring on my corn; applied it at the rate of one handful to three hills, and where I put it the yield was about twenty-five bushels to the acre, and where I did not put any the yield was about ten bushels to the acre. On a portion of the same land I applied barn-yard manure, and the result was about twelve bushels to the acre. Where I used your stuff, the ear was large, well filled and I could not find a worm in a hundred ears, the grains were large and close together. Where I did not use the Phosphate a great many ears were wormy and poorly filled. I can cheerfully recommend it, and will use more this Spring. Truly Yours, GEORGE W. LONG,

We also keep on hand at all times a full line of

for manipulating, and respectfully invite the farmers to procure our prices before purchasing elsewhere.

OHIO CHILLED PLOW,
The Victor!

Read the Plowman's Opinion and Come and Purchase of KENNARD & CO.

Actual Results as compared with other Plows:

SYNOPSIS OF REPORT

OF JUDGES TO THE KENT COUNTY AGRICULTURAL CLUB.

The "OHIO CHILLED" plow was the lightest, and the "Advance" was the heaviest.

The "OHIO CHILLED" was 27.03 lighter to the cubic foot than the "Oliver Chilled," 33.57 lighter to the cubic foot than the "Roland Chill," and 169.08 lighter to the cubic foot than the "Advance." and letters to and from plowman:

Chestertown, Md., March 6th, 1880.

J. E. NEWCOMB, Esq.,—Dear Sir: You having been selected, by the Judges, as plowman in the late plow contest held on the farm of Mr. Wm. Morris, Tuesday, the 2d inst., we would be pleased to have your opinion of the "Ohio Chilled" and "Imperial" plow, entered by ourselves. Respectfully requesting an early reply, we remain, Very truly yours, KENNARD & CO.

Worton Station, March 8th, 1880.

MESSRS. KENNARD & Co—Gentlemen: In answer to your question of March 6th about the plows tried at Mr. Wm. Morris's of which I was plowman, I will simply state to you what I said to the Kent County Agricultural Club this afternoon, that of all the plows I handled, viz: the Advance, Roland, Oliver Chilled, Ohio Chilled and Gibb's Imperial, that the Ohio Chilled and Gibb's Imperial as sold by you were the best that I have ever handled. I state this in justice to your plows, not being pleased with them at first, am glad to say I was agreeably disappointed.

Very truly yours, J. E. NEWCOMB.

We also intend carrying a full line of Agricultural Implements,

and are satisfied that it would be to the purchaser's interest to first examine our Stock and prices.
