IT is getting to be very much the fashion for prominent Republicans to leave Garfield and come over to Hancock's ranks.

DENNIS KEARNEY'S arrest and imprisonment, instead of creating a sympathy among his former sand-lot supporters, seems rather to have changed them to the opinion that Dennis is after all nothing more than a braying jackass. Whereas once, thousands listened to his sand-lot speeches with enthusiastic approval, now matters have so changed, that Dennis scarcely dares to show his face at the sand lots for fear of being mobbed. He is about to leave San Francisco in search of more congenial surroundings.

WE hardly ever hear any thing about Weaver, the Greenback candidate for president. Neither side seems to consider him of enough consequence in the fight, to look up his record. Weaver himself, however, does not seem to be at all humble in his expectations. He is confident of his ability to carry Alabama, Tennessee, Texas, Mississippi, Missouri, West Virginia, and Arkansas, and says he will make heavy gains in Maryland, Iowa, Michigan, and Minnesota. He says if he does not receive the majority of the electoral votes neither of the other candidates will, and the matter will again go to the House of Representatives. If thrown into the House he will stand an equal chance with the rest. De La Matyr, he claims, has the balance of power there, and no concessions will there be made by his partisans favorable either to Democrats or Republicans. In case no agreement is reached there, the matter will become a constitutional question, and it shall be for the Senate to determine what disposition shall be made of it. He says he will stump every State he can before election, but will confine to no section. Kearney, he says, will lend him all his support, and give him California beyond a doubt.

☞ The New York Sun has reduced Garfield's record to a fine point, and keeps it standing in type. The condensed form in which the Sun gives it is as follows:

GEN. GARFIELD'S CREDIT MOBILIER RECORD.

From his Own Sworn Testimony before the Poland Committee, Jan. 14, 1873.

I never owned, received, or agreed to receive any stock of the Credit Mobilier or of the Union Pacific Railroad, nor any dividends or profits arising from either of them.

From Judge Poland's Report, Feb. 18, 1873—Garfield's Testimony Perjured.

The facts in regard to Mr. Garfield, as found by the committee, are that he agreed with Mr. Ames to take ten shares of Credit Mobilier stock, but did not pay for the same. Mr. Ames received the eighty per cent. dividend in bonds and sold them for ninety-seven per cent., and also received the sixty per cent. cash dividend, which, together with the price of the stock and interest, left a balance of $329. This sum was paid over to Mr. Garfield by a check on the Sergeant-at-Arms, and Mr. Garfield then understood this sum was the balance of dividends after paying for the stock.

From the New York Times, Feb. 19, 1873.

Messrs. Kelley and Garfield present a most distressing figure. Their participation in the Credit Mobilier affair is complicated by the most unfortunate contradictions of testimony.

From the New York Times, Feb. 20, 1873.

The character of the Credit Mobilier was no secret. The source of its profits was very well known at the time Crogressmen bought it.—Though Oakes Ames may have succeeded in concealing his own motive, which was to bribe Congressmen, their acceptance of the stock was not on that account innocent. The dishonor of the act, as a participation in an obvious fraud, still remains.

Some of them have indulged in testimony with reference to the matter which has been contradicted.—The committee distinctly rejects the testimony of several of the members.—This can only be done on the ground that it is untrue. But untrue testimony given under oath is morally if not legally, perjury.

It is the clear duty of Congress to visit with punishment all who took Credit Mobilier stock from Oakes Ames.

From the New York Tribune, Feb. 19, 1873.

James A. Garfield of Ohio had ten shares; never paid a dollar; received $329, which, after the investigation began, he was anxious to have considered as a loan from Mr. Oakes Ames to himself.

Well, the wickedness of all of it is that these men betrayed the trust of the people, deceived their constituents, and by evasions and falsehoods confessed the transaction to be disgraceful.

From the New York Tribune, Feb. 26, 1873.

Mr. Ames establishes very clearly the point that he was not alone in this offence. If he is to be expelled for bribery, the men who were bribed should go with him.

HANCOCK CAN CARRY PENNSYLVANIA.

[New York Sun.]

PHILADELPHIA, July 10.—The Democracy of this State is in better heart than it has been since 1856. The Harrisburg Convention settled all divisions in the party, and the Cincinnati nominations have filled it with enthusiasm. Hunt where you will, you cannot find a sorehead or a croaker. There is not a Democrat in Pennsylvania who does not believe that Hancock will be elected, and scarcely one who does not believe he will carry his own State. They say: "The last Democratic President was a Pennsylvanian nominated at Cincinnati, and so will the next one be."

There are in this State 80,000 soldiers who served under Gen. Hancock or with him. The people, without regard to party, are grateful to him, not only for his splendid services to the Union on distant fields, but for the immediate preservation of their homes and firesides at Gettysburg. There is no name that would have stirred Pennsylvania feeling to a greater depth than Hancock's, and it is exactly true that his nomination was received in every city, town, and village with a general outburst of applause. He will poll the full party vote, a large independent and Republican vote, and pretty much the whole soldier vote. Under these circumstances the talk of carrying Pennsylvania is anything but wild. Hoyt is a minority Governor. The majority against him on the combined vote of the opposition was about 60,000.—The Riot bill, the pardon of Kemble and the other bribers, and other measures of a most disgraceful administration have seriously disgusted and disheartened the Republicans. These scandals afford local issues which will materially aid the Democratic electorial ticket.

On the other hand, the Republican party here is in the worst condition since it was born. In order to carry through the third-term scheme, Mr. Don Cameron and the machine managers committed a series of outrages upon the rank and file that cannot be forgotten. They failed, and in their failure the machine was smashed, its power dissipated, and the old and experienced leaders buried in the rubbish. Mr. Cameron has disappeared. He is heard of only through a dismal groan from the White Sulphur Springs, or somewhere else far beyond the scene of conflict. His father, the old General, has covered his head and turned his face to the wall. None of the ancient set, who have held the State for years by their energy, their money, and their thoroughly organized system, will turn a hand for the election of Garfield. Why should they? They have had enough of Hayes and his kind, and they know that the high-handed means by which they undertook to force Grant on the party can never be forgiven. What can they expect from Blaine, and Sherman, and Garfield, or from the Republican people, who were compelled to imperil the very existence of the party—to fight them to the verge of disruption—in order to get rid of their audacious tyranny? They will regard Garfield's defeat as their vindication, and they look forward to that event in November as confidently, if not as hopefully, as the Democrats.

There have never been so many changes reported at this stage in any campaign. In many places we hear of Hancock and English clubs composed exclusively of Republicans. Some of the deserters are men of national reputation—among them E. Joy Morris and Col. John W. Forney, who have already thrown themselves unreservedly into the canvass. The old Republican ship is lurching and sinking in full view, and the sea is black with departing rats. The flight of some of these—old and sagacious fellows—is, in the eyes of Pennsylvanians, a sure sign of the coming victory.

THOUGH General Grant's boom received a great shock at Chicago, the gas was not let entirely out of it. A despatch from Topeka, Kansas, dated July 9th, says:

General Grant and his party arrived here by special train at 4 P. M., and were met at the depot by an immense crowd and escorted to the plaza by military and citizens. There an address of welcome was delivered. In the evening a reception was given him at the Governor's residence, followed by a banquet. En route to this place General Grant stopped at Las Vegas, where he met with an enthusiastic reception, being escorted to the plaza by the San Miguel Rifles, band of music and citizens en masse from the city. He was also escorted to the Hot Springs, four miles distant, where he was tendered a reception in the evening, followed by a ball, which was attended by the elite of the Territory.

PROBABILITIES.—Hancock and English will certainly receive the 138 electoral votes of the Southern States. They will also probably get the votes of the following Northern and Western States:

Connecticut,	6	Indiana,	15
New York,	35	California,	6
New Jersey,	9	Oregon	3
Pennsylvania,	92
Southern States			138
Total			241

This would leave to the Republican candidates 128 votes, giving the Democrats a majority of 113.

Nobody need borrow any trouble about the way of counting these votes. They will be counted by the two Houses of Congress, according to the Constitution. No Electoral Commission will interfere.—New York Sun.

☞ There is one not surprising fact in regard to all the defences that have ever been made of Mr. Garfield's share in the Credit Mobilier business. Neither he himself, in his speeches, his explanations, his pamphlet, nor any of his friends in their attempts to explain away his guilt, have ever had the courage to quote the ten lines of "Facts in regard to Mr. Garfield," contained in the report of the Republican Poland Committee. Why did Mr. Garfield fail to quote these ten lines in all the twenty odd columns which he wrote to break the force of the Poland Committee's findings? Because the ten lines declare Mr. Garfield guilty of perjury, a more infamous crime than bribe taking!—N. Y. Sun.

Dorchester county's population is 22,872. In 1870 it was 19,458.

Letter from Still Pond.

EDITORS OF TRANSCRIPT—Dear Sirs:—Judging from the advertisements in the papers and the number of hand-bills with pictures of steamboats printed on them that meet one at every turn, the excursion season has undoubtedly commenced. And our people anxious for a day of relaxation are scanning the aforesaid bills and reading the advertisements in the endeavor to find out which one of them promises the greatest amount of pleasure for the smallest amount of legal tender. I suppose nearly all will get a share of our patronage, but by far the largest party I have heard spoken of yet, intend to intrust themselves to the tender mercies of the KENT GUARDS on their trip to Annapolis, July 16th, feeling sure that everything that can be done for our comfort and pleasure will be done. So, Guards, you may prepare to take care of a select party of from thirty-five to forty of our young gentlemen and ladies on that occasion.

ANOTHER REPUBLICAN DECLARES FOR HANCOCK.—Gen. Patrick H. Jones, of New York, who has heretofore been a prominent republican, once elected register on the municipal ticket and for several years postmaster of New York city, has written a letter announcing his purpose to support Hancock and English. In his letter Gen. Jones says: "If Gen. Hancock is elected, as he undoubtedly will be, I shall have the utmost faith that his administration will recognize the distinction between the civil and military authorities of the government, will adjust and establish the relations properly existing between them, will restore, as far as lies in his power, the old-time commercial prosperity of the republic, and will protect the public domain from the grasp of corporations and schemers, reserving it for the use of actual settlers." Gen. Jones entered the army as a private in a New York regiment and came out of the war a brigadier-general.

DEATH OF COL. PELTON.—Colonel William T. Pelton, a nephew of Hon. Samuel J. Tilden, died at the Everett House, New York, last Thursday morning, of embolism of the heart. He was born at Ithica, N. Y., in July, 1838, and was the son of Dr. Pelton, a well-known medical practitioner in Central New York. Col. Pelton was graduated at Williams College in 1858, studied law, and became the secretary of Mr. Tilden when the latter was elected Governor. His confidential relations with Mr. Tilden continued up to the discovery of Pelton's connection with the cipher dispatches, when, it is said, an estrangement ensued which has contined up to the present. The deceased lost his wife only a short time since, and this, it is said, hastened his death.

ONE STRONG POINT IN FAVOR OF HANCOCK'S ELECTION.—Gen. Hancock's pecuniary integrity has always been above suspicion. In view of the very large revenue we are obliged to raise since the war, the management of our finances has assumed an unprecedented importance.

If Gen. Hancock is elected his administration will be characterized by the strictest integrity. On that point there can be no doubt.

The fat rats in the public crib who have grown corpulent on stolen cheese will have to leave. He may say less than Gen. Garfield about civil service reform, but he will do more.

Hancock and Honesty. That is the ticket.

IT HAVING BEEN REPORTED, and some being under the opinion that Fruit shipped to Baltimore would bring more on one wharf than another, allow me to publish below the opinion and experience of the oldest and principal commission men of Baltimore, handed to me by one of the largest houses in the city, by whom it was drawn up, and signers requested, without any knowledge or assistance of mine whatever:

The Experience of Commission Merchants.
TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN.

We the undersigned, Baltimore Commission Merchants, do hereby certify that Fruit, if good and in order, will bring as much money on one wharf as on another, lying between Pratt street and Hughes' Key, inclusive.
Packers, Shippers, and Dealers generally, have no preference as to wharves and their locations.
THOS. H. EVANS & CO.,
BARTUS TREW,
D. N. ROBINSON,
W. H. RUTTER,
JESSE WILSON & SON,
L. J. COX & CO.,
JOHN A. STEPHENS & SON,
KENLY & TILGHMAN.

Having some little experience in the Peach Freighting Business, I would suggest to shippers three thoughts:
1st. You pay for the collection of many empty boxes that you nor the Commission Merchant never see, and you have no rebate whatever but to call on your commission man, and he sends you to the captain, and the captain has no redress whatever but to say, "if the boxes were on the wharf they were surely brought over." Now, to abate this custom and loss, demand that the man who freights your fruit receipt to your commission merchant for each and every box, (for I am sure there is not a merchant, to my knowledge, who would not be glad to do it) and you will find money saved and business done more satisfactorily.
2d. Each shipper should go to the city once a week and there see in what condition the market demands for the fruit, for you could gain more knowledge in ten minutes, yourself, than any one could explain to you in twice that length of time.
3d. You seldom get the sales of your peaches until the day after. You know not whether they were dumped into the bay, sold, or given away; and at many times you could put certain fruit on the market (when in demand) that not hearing from the market and not knowing its demand, is allowed to waste in your orchards. To remedy this, give your captain an order on your commission man for the price your fruit brings daily; compel him to place the price opposite your name on his manifest, and report to you at your landing, each morning, on his return; and should you do this you will have the handling of your fruit to give better satisfaction, and justify shipper, freighter and merchant.
Very respectfully,
JOS. W. THOMPSON.
