Farm and Household.

POULTRY NOTES.

The comb is a true index of the health of the fowl.

In cold weather feed more in proportion of the fat-producing grain.

Don't attempt too much; master one variety before you begin with another.

Roup is an inflammation of the mucous membrane lining the n... trils and adjoining parts.

Fresh bones from th... her shop pounded fine are ...rior to the commercial bo... for fowls.

Plan your fowl-houses so that they shall be warm in winter, cool in summer and sunny and airy at all times.

Fowls during molting require warm and more generous diet on account of this drain upon the system.

At five of six months old the cockerels should be separated from the pullets, and rear each sex by themselves.

A very good plan if one has not carbolic acid on hand, is to mix with the whitewash a teacupful of kerosene before using it in the fowl house.

Selling pure-bred chickens in the fall is becoming popular among fanciers. This gives a semi-annual boom to the poultry business.

Ducks and geese can be raised without an abundance of water.—Give them enough of pure water to drink, and allow them an occasional bath.

The chicken houses must be kept clean as circumstances will permit. The diseases of the poultry yard are confined to no particular season or climate.

Those who raise ducks near rivers or streams should remember that muskrats, minks and turtles, and also house rats, have a particular liking for young ducks.—Poultry Monthly.

Secure Perfect Wheat Seed.—Geo. Geddes, of New York, says: "The grading-mill saves trouble, but I do not think it sufficient alone to accomplish all we want. My plan is to first select the best heads, shell and then grade them, throwing away all the small seeds. Sow this selected seed and do not allow a weed to grow with it. Repeat the selecting process and continue to do so. In this way we not only retain great yields but combine with these the improved quality. This process involves some labor, but it is a labor that will be well repaid."

A Texas Plan of Keeping Sweet Potatoes.—Go into the woods and cut a hollow tree, about six inches in diameter and five feet long. Cut holes in the side of this, and place one end in the ground. Lay straw all around the "pipe," and on this lay potatoes, and pile them up in a pyramidal form to the top of the "pipe." Then get straw and lay over them, also corn stalks, pretty heavily, and throw on dirt until the pile is covered good—at least six inches. Do not cover the top of the "pipe" for two or three weeks, so that the steam arising from the potatoes can escape. At the first intimation of cold weather cover the "pipe," but always open it in good weather. To get into this "bank," as we call it, simply make a hole in the south side to put your hand in, but keep it covered also, "when not in use." By this method a small family can, with very little trouble, keep all their potatoes through the winter.

A pound of crushed wheat, when properly cooked, is worth four pounds of bread. Beans and peas afford the most nourishment for the least money.

Cake Without Eggs.—One and one half cups sour milk, one-half cup butter, two cups chopped raisins, one teaspoonful soda; spice to taste; flour enough to make a thick batter.

Cracker Fruit Pudding.—Six crackers pounded fine, one quart boiling milk, one spoonful flour, one cup brown sugar, six eggs, raisins and currants; all kinds of spices. Bake.

Ginger Snaps.—Boil together one pint of molasses and teacupful of butter. Let it stand till cool; add two tablespoons ginger, and one teaspoonful soda, flour to roll. Bake quick, in thin rounds, on a flat sheet.

Rue Newton Cake.—Three-quarters pound of flour, half pound butter, half pound pulverized sugar, six ounces currants, teaspoonful of baking powder, four eggs, a little candide orange peel, and three drops of lemon essence.

Sallie's Biscuits.—Three good-sized potatoes boiled and mashed fine, one tablespoonful sugar, one half pint boiling water. When cool add one cup yeast, let it rise till light, then add one quart water and flour to kneed; half an hour and set it to rise light again before baking.

Outdoor Air.—Give your children plenty of outdoor air; let them sniff it until it sends the rosy current dancing joyfully to their cheeks and temples. Air is so cheap and so good and so necessary that no child should be denied access to it.

One of the best things in the world to give a horse, after he has been driven, is a quart of oatmeal stirred into a pail of water. It refreshes and strengthens him, relieves his immediate thisrt and prepares his stomach for more solid food.

Cheese Fritters.—Put about a pint of water into a saucepan with a piece of butter the size of an egg, "the least bit" of cayenne, and plenty of black pepper. When the water boils throw gradually into it sufficient flour to form a thick paste: then take it off the fire and work into it about a quarter of a pound of grated Parmesan cheese, and then the yelks of three or four eggs and the whites of two beaten up to a froth. Let the paste rest for a couple of hours and then proceed to fry by dropping pieces of it the size of a walnut into plenty of hot lard. Serve sprinkled with very fine salt.

Cold Cream.—Take oil of almonds one pound; white wax, four ounces. Melt, pour into a mortar; add, by degrees, rose-water, one pint. It should be light, and white. Use as a mild unguent to soften the skin, prevent chaps, &c.

...T YEAR'S NEST.

...lovers, John and I,
...as fresh, I pink and white;
..., spring flowers, blue skies could make
Th... world one bower of pure delight,

Through which our thoughts flew here and there,
Like young birds trying callow wings,
Or like a child's first conscious looks
Upon the earth's most lovely things.

...at was it first that came between?—
Well, he was proud and I was coy;
And so we dropped each other's hands
And said good-by to early joy.

But in a year he came again—
He could not stay away, he said;
But I had suffered, till I thought
That I should never care to wed.

It was the spring-time of the year,
And from the young grass at our feet
The fresh blue violets looked up,
Like faces pityingly sweet.

And, as we talked, we passed beneath
The bent boughs of a budding tree;
And, looking up through its scant green,
A vacant nest I chanced to see.

Then, with sad eyes that sought his own,
Pride wrestling with my heart's behest,
I pointed to it, as I said:
"There are no birds in last year's nest!"

We parted then. He one way went,
And I the other, toward my home,
"I have done right," I stoutly said;
But still the blinding tears would come.

And so the years crept sadly by,
And yet my life was all my own;
I walked to meet the setting sun
Wistful, and quiet, and alone.

But always when the robins came,
With the first delicate leaves of spring,
The violets brought back the past,
And I had never heart to sing

But one sad song, that o'er and o'er
Ran in my head—"Yet it was best"—
I said; and then, forgetful, sang:
"There are no birds in last year's nest!"

And so it fell, one April morn,
I passed beneath that self-same tree,
And with a bound my heart woke up,
Clamored, and would not let me be.

"Is that the very nest?" I thought,
It hung, wind-shaken, by a thread;
Ragged, deserted, bare and lone,
Its blithe inhabitants all fled.

"'Tis my life's type!" and, looking down,
I saw the vioets in the grass
Look up, like faces of loved wives,
To see a withered maiden pass.

Somehow, I was so weak just then
With pain I never had confessed,
I covered up my face and sobbed:
"There are no birds in last year's nest!"

Sudden a dry branch snapped behind,
A step came striding after me,
I would not look; went on. Strange eyes
My foolishness should never see.

A hand upon my shoulder. "Lois!
Be natural. We're getting old,
I'm not ashamed to come so late,
Though you will shame me if you're cold."

"John! You?" I would not let him see
My face of middle age, tear-stained!
But from between my fingers came
The words, sob-checked—and he had gained.

For now he knew—no matter what
I might be—that I was not cold,
And, man-like, sprang into the breach,
And down the wall crashed in his hold!

It was not that, but after that,
We, looking upward, chanced to see
Two birds—half-impudent, half-shy—
Prospecting 'round that same old tree.

"Ah! Lois" (he drew me closer yet,
The while my heart sung "This is best!")
"Here's an exception to the rule:
The birds have come to last year's nest!"

CHOICE SAYINGS.

The Christian is not ruined by living in the world, but by the world living in him.

The best way to do good is to do it, as opportunity offers, and not say or think much about it.—Golden Rule.

Men will never know us by our faith, for that is within us; they know us by our works which are visible to them.—Golden Union.

Good temper is like a sunny day; it sheds a brightness over everything; it is the sweetener of toil and the soother of disquietude.

Life is not done, and our Christian character is not won, so long as God has anything left for us to suffer, or anything for us to do.

How much larger would life be if men would start aright and never let go the one purpose of making all they can of themselves in the world.

The surest method of arriving at a knowledge of God's eternal purpose about us is to be found in the right use of the present moment.—F. W. Faber.

The faith to which the Scriptures attach such momentous consequences and ascribe such glorious exploits is a practical habit, which, like every other, is strengthened and increased by continual exercise. It is nourished by meditation, by prayer and by the devout perusal of the Scriptures.—Hall.

Of the last lots of Mormons embarking from Liverpool and Glasgow for Utah, 1,500 have been Welsh miners. It is a striking fact that the Mormons have never yet got a recruit in Ireland, and have hardly yet got one anywhere who was a member of the Protestant Episcopal or Catholic churches.

Literary Revolution and Universal Knowledge.

An Encyclopædia in 20 Volumes, over 16,000 Pages; 10 per cent more matter than any Encyclopædia ever before published in this country, and sold, handsomely and well bound, in cloth for 10, in half morocco for $15, and printed on fine heavy paper, wide margins, bound in half Russia, gilt top, for $20—an enterprise so extraordinary that its success, beyond all precedent in book publishing, may be fairly claimed to inaugurate a Literary Revolution.

THE LIBRARY OF UIVERSAL KNOWLEDGE is a reprint of the last (1879) Edinburgh edition of "Chamber's Encyclopædia," with about 40 per cent. of new matter added, upon topics of special interest to American readars, thus making it equal in character to any similar work, better than any other suited to the wants of the great majority of those who consult works of reference, and altogether the latest Encyclopædia in the field.

Specimen Volumes in either style will be sent for examination with privilege of return on receipt of proportionate price per volume.

Special Discounts to all early subscribers, and extra discounts to clubs. Full particulars with descriptive catalogue of many other standard works equally low in price, sent free.

Leading principles of the AMERICAN BOOK EXCHANGE:

I—Publish only books of real value
II—Work upon the basis of present cost of making books, about one half what it was a few years ago.
III.—Sell to buyers direct, and save them the 50 to 60 per cent. commission commonly allowed to dealers.
IV.—The cost of books when made 10,000 at a time is but a fraction of the cost when made 500 at a time—adopt the low price and sell the large quantity.
V.—Use good type, paper, etc., do careful printing, and strong, neat binding, but avoid all "padding," fat and heavily-leaded type, spongy paper and gaudy binding, which are so commonly resorted to to make books appear large and fine, and which greatly add to their cost, but do not add to their value.
VI.—To make $1 and a friend is better than to make $5 and an enemy.

VOSHELL HOUSE.

THE UNDERSIGNED takes this method of tendering his heartfelt thanks to his old friends and the public generally for the liberal support and sympathy so generously extend to him under the recent adverse circumstances by which he has been surrounded, and takes great pleasure in informing them that the house, in a few days, will be in r st-class condition, the repairs and improvements thereto being made under his own supervision.

THE STABLING,

which is commodious and in excellent condition, is now under his control, and those entrusting their horses and carriages to his care may rest assured that they will be faithfully attended to by trusty and experienced hostlers.

THE TABLE,

as heretofore, will always be found supplied with substantials and delicacies of the season, and will be under the experienced management of his wife, who will see that no pains are spared to make it, in every respect, first-class.

With the xed purpose of leaving nothing undone on my part which will conduce to the comfort of my guests, I respectfully solicit the patronage of the public.
Jan. 16, 1879. JOHN C. VOSHELL.

RAMBO LIME.

LAST year I purchased from Nathan Rambo the Blue Quarry upon the lands devised to him by his father, the elder Nathan Rambo. It was out of this Quarry that the Limestone came which gave this Lime its high reputation.

This, and this only, is the GENUINE RAMBO LIME.

I own ALL of the land on which this stone lies. This Quarry was discontinued only because a vein of earth cut off the face. I have cut through this and re-opened these Quarries upon the original stone which old Nathan Rambo quarried as long as he could find it.

WE CHALLENGE ALL TESTS.
R. McCOY & CO.

Robert McCoy bought of me my Blue Quarry—I have seen it since he re-opened it, and am satisfied that he works on the blue stone worked by my father in his lifetime.
NATHAN RAMBO.

This Lime will be shipped by railroad or water to all stations and landings in Maryland and Delaware. For Prices and Terms apply to

DEALER IN
GRAIN, LIME, COAL, WOOD, PEACH CRATES AND BASKETS.
Schuylkill Lime a Specialty.

Mr. B. F. Fleming: I used Mogee's Schuylkill Lime on corn last spring. It slacked more to the bushel, acted quicker, and gave me the best satisfaction of any Lime I have ever used.
GEORGE H. SNITCHER.

Mr. B. F. Fleming: We have used Mogee's Lime for three successive seasons. It slacks more, contains less core, acts quicker, and we believe it is the best Lime in the market.
