Farm and Household.

Water Furrows.—If the land is not well drained, when all else is done in the wheat field, make the necessary furrows with the plow, for carrying off the surface water during heavy rains.

Seeding to Grass.—Grass seed may be sown a few weeks after the grain. Thrifty growing timothy will frequently retard the growth of the grain if sown as early as the wheat crop, and clover seed is best sown in the spring after or with the last snow.

Turnips should be kept free from weeds and the soil loose and mellow. Proper thinning is important; a single root needs from nine to fifteen inches in the row to grow to its best. On rich lands white turnips may still be sown and good crop expected.

Beans are injured by heavy rains; when ready pull them and stack around the poles driven in the ground; cover the stacks with straw. In pulling leave them in rows for a time to cure, and if rain threatens they can be gathered quickly in stacks.

Shocking is an important matter and should be done with care. If the stalks are not well set up and properly tied, the shocks fall in all directions and the husking made more difficult. Bands of rye straw, or even of willow, may be used with advantage.

Potatoes.—Early ones should be dug at once; rains will otherwise start them into growth and do them injury. The last brood of bugs should be destroyed, as it is those that furnish the early brood next season. It is a good plan to sort the potatoes as they are gathered, thus saving much labor in handling them afterward.

Corn Crib.—The only perfect protection of a small building against rats, is the setting it upon posts protected by tin, by broad caps, or in some such way. A corn floor is sometimes made in the peak of the barn roof, above the tie-beams, and resting upon them fully half the length of the rafters above the eaves. This is not, however, perfect protection, though it often remains for years before the rats find any way of getting to it; it is an excellent place to keep corn and seeds of all kinds. The grain must be hoisted by a horse with a block and tackle. Free ventilation is absolutely essential to the proper curing of the corn crop, hence corn cribs and bins have open, slatted sides, and, if exposed to storms, such a slant that the rain will not drive in. The old rail pen, narrower at the base than at the top, and well thatched, with straw or stalks, cures and keeps the corn as well as the most expensive corn house, and protects it quite securely from everything except vermin.

Refuse of Manure.—Dr. C. A. Greene, Lancaster, Penn., made, at a recent meeting of the local agricultural society, this good suggestion about utilizing refuse for manure: "The careful farmer will save all substances of whatever character that while decaying and undergoing decomposition will furnish plant food to raise wheat, corn, beans and other crops, such as decaying weeds, saw-dust, old bones, hats, ashes, either coal or wood, old carpets, mats and straw, and place them with his night soil in a heap, in a clayey, hollow piece of ground, where their virtues may be retained; under a shed in the first place, for if diluted with rain water they will escape into surrounding places. All farmers should make a box of plank and place it under their privies, on rollers, and occasionally throw on to the night soil some muck or mellow earth, and when the box is full roll it out and convey the contents into your compost heap, to be mixed with other manures. In this way you will never have any unpleasant smell. The privy should be high enough to allow of this box being removed easily and readily from the rear portion of the building. There should be three common wooden rollers about five inches in diameter and as long as the box."

Molasses should be kept in a cellar. Never keep pickles in glazed ware, as the vinegar will form a poisonous compound with the glazing.

White Cake.—One cup butter, two cups sugar, three cups flour, whites of five fresh eggs, one teaspoonful soda, two teaspoons cream tartar, one cup milk.

Lemon Tea.—A glass of this delightful drink may often be made from the tea remaining in the teapot, a few lumps of sugar, a slice of fresh lemon, with a little of the juice and some cracked ice. If too strong, add water.

Vegetables.—Do not wash vegetables until just before using them.—Lettuce may be spoiled by dipping it in water a couple of hours before bringing it to the table. Potatoes suffer by being washed too long before cooking.

Pie Crust.—Three and a half cupfuls sifted flour, one cupful sweet lard, one teaspoonful salt, one teaspoonful baking powder, one cupful very cold water; mix with knife, using hands as little as possible to mix with; roll.

Grape Jelly.—Put the grapes in a kettle after they are stemmed, steam them until soft, then strain through a cloth while warm; one pound of sugar to a pint of juice; boil fifteen minutes; two pounds of grapes generally gives one pint of juice.

Dyspepsia Bread.—One pint bowl of graham flour, dissolve one-half teaspoonful of soda in two-thirds of a cup of yeast and add to the mixture one teacupful of molasses; poure in sufficient warm water to make it somewhat thinner than flour bread.

Salad of Lima Beans.—Put some Lima beans, potatoes and beets (all boiled tender) on ice, and a short time before serving, cut the potatoes and beets into rather thin slices, add the beans, and dress in oil, pepper, salt and vinegar. Garnish with a few water-cresses.

Old potatoes may be freshened up by plunging them into cold water before cooking them.

WHAT HAPPENED WHEN WE WERE YOUNG.

DOM PIATT.

I heard the bob-white whistle in the dewy breath of morn;
The bloom was on the alder and the tassel on the corn.
I stood with beating heart beside the babbling Mac-o-chee,
To see my love come down the glen to keep her tryst with me.

I saw her pace, with quiet grace, the shaded path along,
And pause to pluck a flower, or hear a thrush's song.
Denied by her proud father as a suitor to be seen,
She came to me with loving trust, my gracious little queen.

Above my station, heaven knows, that gentle maiden shone,
For she was belle and wide beloved, and I a cub unknown;
The rich and great about her thronged, and sought on bended knee
For love this gracious princess gave with all her heart to me.

So like a startled fawn before my longing eyes she stood,
With all the freshness of a girl in flush of womanhood.
I trembled as I put my arm about her form divine,
And stammered as in awkward speech I begged her to be mine.

'Tis sweet to hear the pattering rain that lulls a dim lit dream;
'Tis sweet to hear the song of birds, and sweet the rippling stream;
'Tis sweet amid the mountain pines to hear the south wind sigh,
More sweet than these and all besides was the loving, low reply.

The little hand I held in mine held all I had of life,
To mould its better destiny and soothe to sleep its strife.
'Tis said that angels watch o'er men, commissioned from above;
My angel walked with me on earth and gave to me her love.

Ah! dearest wife, my heart is stirred, my eyes are dim with tears—
I think upon the loving faith of all those bygone years,
For now we stand upon this spot, as in that dewy morn,
With the bloom upon the alder and the tassel on the corn.

How the Winters in the Sierras Grow Longer.

Virginia City (Nev.) Enterprise.

Prof. Legate has returned from a trip into the Sierras of eight days' duration. He had with him two assistants and his own vehicle for the transportation of his instruments, and camped out most of the time. The object of the Professors' trip was the study of recent interesting meteorological changes in the elevated regions of the Sierras. He was led to believe that during the present season the warm belt had shifted south. Beginning at a point just north of Lake Tahoe, the snow has not melted away as in former years. There are now banks of snow from 50 to 100 feet in depth at points where heretofore at this season no snow has lain. Nearly the whole of this snow will remain where it now lies until the snows of winter set in again. Up toward the head waters of the North Fork of the Yuba River, where no snow is usually seen at this season, it has but little more than begun to disappear. In that place are to be seen huge banks of snow, under which flow the waters of the stream, forming arches or natural bridges 100 feet in height, and from 200 to 300 feet in width. As nearly the whole of this snow will remain until snow again comes, the accumulation next year will be still greater, and the whole region around the head of that and other rivers high in the mountains will probably lie under the snow the year round.

It was for the purpose of ascertaining the cause of this remarkable change of climate to the northward that Prof. Legate went on his expedition into the mountains. Through the results obtained by observation made at many points with various delicate instruments, but principally by means of careful thermometrical tests, the Professor has established the fact that there has occurred in the region of the Sierra Nevada Mountains this season a grand isothermal change. He finds that the warm current of air which ever since the settlement of California by Americans—and probably before—has moved upward from the Pacific seaboard to the Sierra Nevada mountains and thence turned and flowed to the northward along the west side of the main ridge of the range, thus giving to all the regions in that direction a warm climate, no longer moves in that direction. It now comes up from the side of the ocean and pours eastward directly across the crest of the Sierras near Lake Tahoe.

Prof. Legate has satisfied himself that this wonderful change, which is leaving all the northern parts of the Sierras buried in snow, summer and winter, is caused by the denudation of timber which the mountains have suffered through a belt beginning at Lake Tahoe and extending some 20 miles southward. Through the great gap thus left by the sweeping away of the forests now flows the warm current of air which formerly moved—with something of the circling motion of water in an eddy—far along the mountains to the northward. Prof. Legate says it must not be supposed that the change has been caused merely on account of the gap or trough left by the clearing away of the forests. The denudation of the ground is the principal cause. The heat of the sun pouring down upon the broad belt of bare ground now reaching across the mountains causes at that point an immense ascending column of heated air which draws in from the west the current which formerly flowed to the northward, and now all crosses the Sierras, passing in an upward and eastward direction.

Prof. Legate is of the opinion that the only thing capable of changing the isothermal line which has been recently accidentally and disastrously established is the creation, at some point well north, of another broad belt of denudation, the influence of which will be to draw in that direction a portion of the warm current of air moving up to and along the western slopes of the Sierras, and thus partly restore the equable temperature that formerly prevailed. He thinks the railroad which is to run in the direction of Oregon from Reno, and which is to strike and tap the great pine forests of the Sierras well to the north, will, after a few years, effect the desired change.

Literary Revolution and Universal Knowledge.

An Encyclopædia in 20 Volumes, over 16,000 Pages; 10 per cent more matter than any Encyclopædia ever before published in this country, and sold, handsomely and well bound, in cloth for 10, in half morocco for $15, and printed on fine heavy paper, wide margins, bound in half Russia, gilt top, for $20—an enterprise so extraordinary that its success, beyond all precedent in book publishing, may be fairly claimed to inaugurate a Literary Revolution.

The Library of Universal Knowledge is a reprint of the last (1879) Edinburgh edition of "Chamber's Encyclopædia," with about 40 per cent. of new matter added, upon topics of special interest to American readers, thus making it equal in character to any similar work, better than any other suited to the wants of the great majority of those who consult works of reference, and altogether the latest Encyclopædia in the field.

Specimen Volumes in either style will be sent for examination with privilege of return on receipt of proportionate price per volume.

Special Discounts to all early subscribers, and extra discounts to clubs. Full particulars with descriptive catalogue of many other standard works equally low in price, sent free.

Leading principles of the AMERICAN BOOK EXCHANGE:

I.—Publish only books of real value.
II.—Work upon the basis of present cost of making books, about one half what it was a few years ago.
III.—Sell to buyers direct, and save them the 50 to 60 per cent. commission commonly allowed to dealers.
IV.—The cost of books when made 10,000 at a time is but a fraction of the cost when made 500 at a time—adopt the low price and sell the large quantity.
V.—Use good type, paper, etc., do careful printing, and strong, neat binding, but avoid all "padding," fat and heavily-leaded type, spongy paper and gaudy binding, which are so commonly resorted to to make books appear large and fine, and which greatly add to their cost, but do not add to their value.
VI.—To make $1 and a friend is better than to make $5 and an enemy.

PERFECTLY SAFE IN THE MOST INEXPERIENCED HANDS!

For Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Cramps, Cholera, AND ALL THOSE NUMEROUS TROUBLES OF THE STOMACH AND BOWELS SO PREVALENT AT THIS SEASON.

No Remedy known to the Medical Profession has been in use so long and with such uniformly satisfactory results as

PERRY DAVIS' VEGETABLE PAIN KILLER

It has been used with such wonderful success in all parts of the world in the treatment of those difficulties, that it has come to be considered

AN UNFAILING CURE FOR ALL SUMMER COMPLAINTS

and such it really is when taken in time and according to the very plain directions inclosing each bottle.

In such diseases, the attack is usually sudden and frequently very acute; but with a safe remedy at hand for immediate use, there is seldom danger of the fatal result which so often follows a few days' neglect.

The inclination to wait and see if the morrow does not bring a better feeling, not infrequently occasions a vast amount of needless suffering, and sometimes costs a life. A timely dose of Pain Killer will almost invariably save both, and with them the attendant doctor's fee.

It has stood the test of forty years' constant use in all countries and climates, and is perfectly safe in any person's hands.

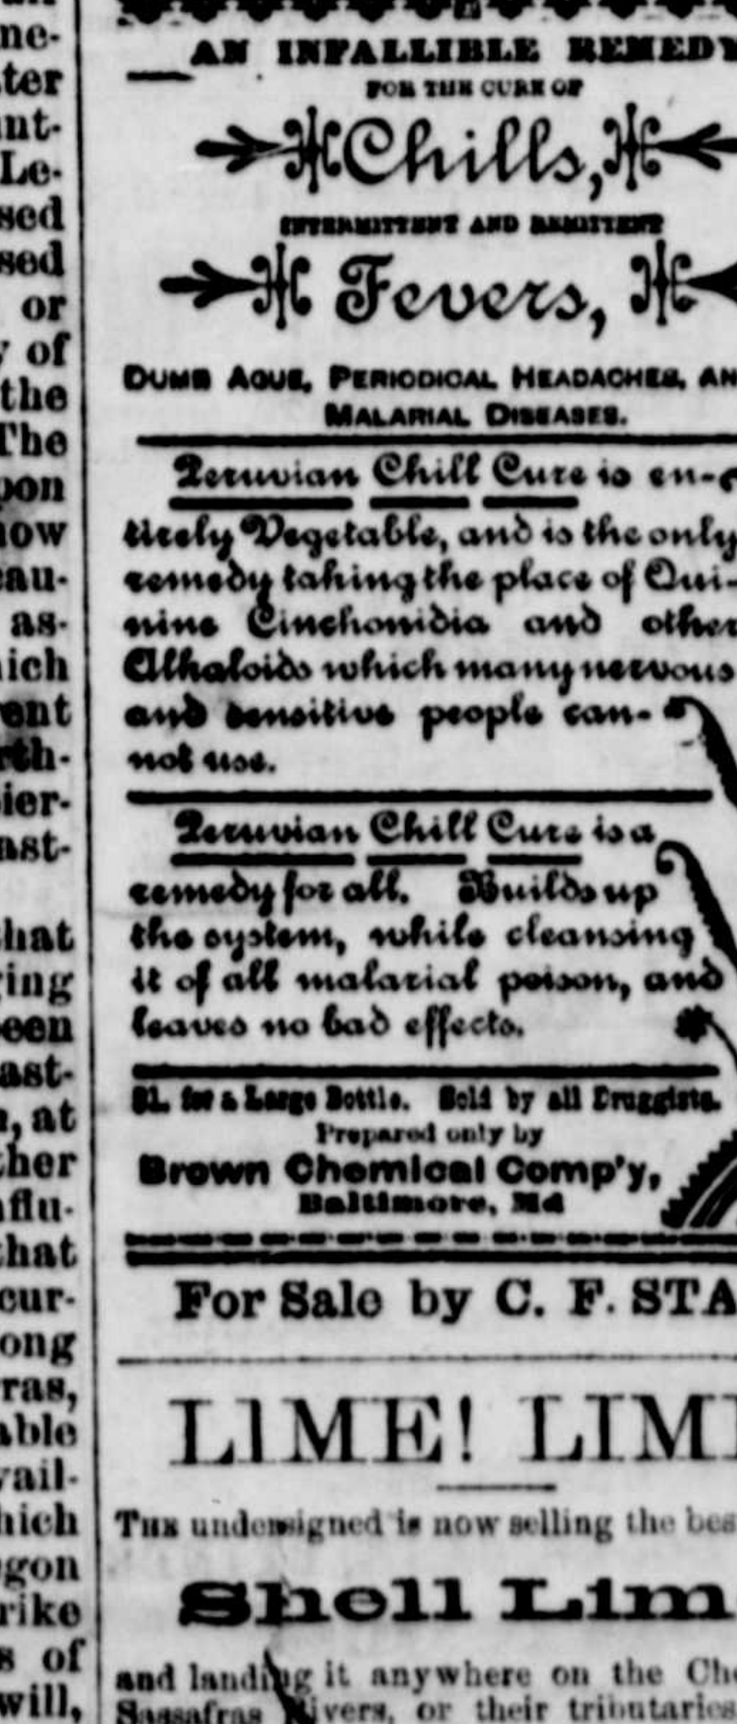

It is recommended by Physicians, Nurses in Hospitals, and persons of all classes and professions who have had opportunity for observing the wonderful results which have always followed its use.

THE BEST EVIDENCE:

I have long used the medicine known as PERRY DAVIS' VEGETABLE PAIN KILLER in my family and would not on any account be without it. When Cholera was last epidemic here, I used no medicine of any sort but the Pain Killer, and although myself and several members of my family were attacked severely, I am happy to say that the Pain Killer was equal to every emergency. I consider I should not be doing my duty to the community did I not say this much. If I were attacked by the Cholera to-day, Pain Killer would be the only remedy I should use. I have thoroughly tested it, and know it can be relied on.
F. R. BERGINSEND, Galena, Illinois.

Messrs. PERRY DAVIS & SON:
I know you need no testimonial to convince you that your medicine is all that you claim for it, but I cannot restrain the impulse to communicate to you the fact that in my family it has truly done wonders. I administer it to my children (one eighteen months, and the other three years old) with perfect success. It regulates their bowels, and stops all diarrhœa. Myself and wife resort to it in all cases, both for internal and external use. I've used it in my family for five years, and will not be without it. Feeling myself under much obligation to you, in many times being relieved from pain, I am very truly yours,
L. F. MOORE, Bangall, Dutchess Co., New York.

No family can afford to be without it, and its price brings it within the reach of all.
The use of one bottle will go further to convince you of its merits than columns of newspaper advertising. Try it, and you will never do without it.
Price 25c. 50c. and $1.00 per bottle. You can obtain it at any drug-store or from

RAMBO LIME.

LAST year I purchased from Nathan Rambo the Blue Quarry upon the lands devised to him by his father, the elder Nathan Rambo. It was out of this Quarry that the Limestone came which gave this Lime its high reputation.

This, and this only, is the GENUINE RAMBO LIME.

I own ALL of the land on which this stone lies. This Quarry was discontinued only because a vein of earth cut off the face. I have cut through this and re-opened these Quarries upon the original stone which old Nathan Rambo quarried as long as he could find it.

WE CHALLENGE ALL TESTS.
R. McCOY & CO.

Robert McCoy bought of me my Blue Quarry—I have seen it since he re-opened it, and am satisfied that he works on the blue stone worked by my father in his lifetime.
NATHAN RAMBO.

This Lime will be shipped by railroad or water to all stations and landings in Maryland and Delaware. For Prices and Terms apply to

B. F. FLEMING,

DEALER IN

GRAIN, LIME, COAL, WOOD, PEACH CRATES AND BASKETS.

Schuylkill Lime a Specialty.

Mr. B. F. Fleming: I used Mogee's Schuylkill Lime on corn last spring. It slacked more to the bushel, acted quicker, and gave me the best satisfaction of any Lime I have ever used.
GEORGE H. SNITCHER.

Mr. B. F. Fleming: We have used Mogee's Lime for three successive seasons. It slacks more, contains less core, acts quicker, and we believe it is the best Lime in the market.
JOS. S. FOWLER, Round Top.
