Farm and Household.

Save the soot that falls from the chimneys. A pint of soot to a pailful of water will make a liquid manure of the greatest value for flowers and plants of all kinds.

Time intelligently given to the bees will pay as well as any other farm work, and when too many are not kept, most of the work can be done either before or after regular working hours.

When good earth is used for potting plants seldom need any special manure. The best soil for plants is found in old meadows, and the corner of fences where the sod has grown a long time.

There are twenty-six pounds of phosphoric in twenty-five bushels of wheat; if there are not twenty-six pounds of available phosphoric acid in the soil, it matters not how much there may be of other elements, you cannot have twenty-five bushels of wheat to the acre.

Give the hens the run of the orchard, and plow up several open places where the sun shines longest, and make the land mellow that the hens may have plenty of room to scratch and dust themselves at pleasure. Hens are fond of picking at pumpkins, squash, melons, tomatoes, cabbage, etc. They are seldom diseased when they have free access to a variety of food. When they cannot find worms, grubs, flies, grasshoppers and similar insects, they should have small rations of liver, lights and other cheap meats. But the increased quantity of fruit and its improved quality, of every variety, will amply pay for the labor and expense of turning a portion of the orchard into a poultry yard.—Stockman.

Something a Farmer Should Know.—As a general thing the farmer is liable for all the public injury his hired man may cause while actually employed by him. If he sends him into a lot to burn old brush and he, for any purpose whatever, leaves it and runs into his neighbor's lot, destroying his fence or injury his crops, the farmer is liable for the damages caused by the wanton neglect of his man. If he sends a hired man on the road with a team and he by negligence runs into another vehicle and injures it, or the persons who may be in it, the farmer is liable for the damages: but should the hired man leave the road he was directed to go and travel another road for his own pleasure and profit, then the farmer is not liable for the damages should any occur. If a hired man, in going to or from the lot with a scythe, and by the careless handling or carrying he injures a passer-by, the farmer is liable for the damages. If in cutting wood the hired man cuts down a tree in another lot, the owner is liable for trespass and damages, although he distinctly showed him the boundary, and though the man may have cut the tree with malicious intent. Should the hired man, from maliciousness, run into a team, even if it block his way, yet the farmer must pay the damage, though done contrary to his positive orders. In all these cases the farmer can compel the hired man to pay him back, if he has anything to pay with; but this is rarely the case unless the farmer keeps back his wages and only settles when his time expires.—American Cultivator.

Lavender Water.—Take oil of lavender eight ounces, essence of bergamot one and a half ounce, essence of musk four ounces, alcohol two gallons, and mix well.

Rose Water.—Take otto of roses, twenty-five drops, rub it with an ounce of white sugar and four drachms of carbonate of magnesia; then add gradually half a gallon of water and four ounces of proof spirits.

Doughnuts.—Two eggs, one and a half cups of sugar, nutmeg; stir this in a quart bowl with buttermilk; two teaspoonfuls of saleratus dissolved in boiling water, and two cups of flour sifted in; bake them in sheets.

Chicken Broth.—Cut a chicken into small pieces; put it in two quarts of water with a little salt, and boil it two hours; a tablespoon of rice and an onion may be added if you wish. This will make one quart.—The chicken should be skinned, and the fat taken out.

Lemon Pudding.—The peels of two large lemons grated on sugar, or boiled and beaten in a mortar, half a pound of butter, ten eggs, leaving out half of the whites. Beat all together, and putting a puff paste in the bottom of a plate, bake it.

Fruit Cake.—Four cups of flour, two cups of sugar, one cup of molasses, one cup of butter, one teaspoonful of soda in a cup of sour milk, four eggs, one pound of raisins, one pound of citron, one pound of currants, with a little wine. Spice and cinnamon to suit the taste.

Apple Croutes.—This simple and dainty little dessert is one taught by Miss Corson: Peel and core the apples and bake them; take half slices of bread, spread thickly with butter and sprinkle with sugar, then lay apple on bread, core side down; sprinkle on more sugar, and any kind of spice to taste. Bake.

Jam Sandwitches.—Take the weight of two or three eggs in the shell of butter, flour and sugar, flavor to taste, roll the paste out very thin, and put it into a flat tin and bake in the oven, then cut in two. Lay some jam on one-half, cover it with the other half, and cut into any shape you like.

Apple Custard.—Two eggs, six tablespoonfuls sugar, one cup cream, beat the mixture thoroughly and flavor strongly with lemon, unless some other flavoring is preferred.—Then take a teacupful of stewed apples, mash them and add them to the other ingredients; make crust and bake same as egg custards.—They are delicious.

Pudding Sauce.—Mix together one and one-half cups of butter with the same amount of granulated sugar, and beat to a cream; add a pint of any small preserve and the beaten white of an egg. Nice for batter or corn starch puddings.

THE EGYPTIAN OBELISK.

Mysterious witness of an ancient race
  Unknown—save by tradition dark as night,
Will those symbols on thy face
  Remove the shadows and reveal the light?

Will they tell us why and when
  They raised thee from thy rocky bed?
What nation, or what race of men,
  Fashioned and raised thy lofty head?

We know thy form for centuries stood
  A watcher on the teeming Nile,
A witness of its annual flood
  Which made Egyptian harvests smile.

Thy shaft we think has stood through time,
  Beyond all other works of man;
Still firm as when in youthful prime,
  Thy destiny we cannot scan.

The mind can scarcely comprehend
  Or bridge the chasm of time,
When with our soil thy base will blend
  And when in youth and early prime.

Through this vast chasm centuries roll,
  Kingdoms and empires, great and small;
You gazed upon this open scroll,
  Saw kingdoms rise, decline and fall.

Around thy base art had its home,
  You saw it raise its infant head,
And build the temples of Greece and Rome,
  You saw it prostrate, lying dead.

In the dark ages art was lost,
  Crushed by the Vandals, Goth and Hun,
Her works destroyed like frost
  Beneath a burning, tropic sun.

Amid this wreck and desolation,
  (Thou mystic shaft of stone;)
Although the work of man's creation,
  Unscathed thou stood alone.

You saw the Pagan in his pride,
  His gorgeous temples on the Nile;
His household gods and gods outride
  The saintly Ibis and sacred crocodle.

As fleeting time and years roll on,
  You saw the pagan pass away;
His prestige and his power gone,
  His temples crumbling in decay.

You saw Egypt's beauteous queen
  In all her oriental style,
A witness to that gorgeous scene,
  Her barge sail proudly down the Nile.

You saw Mahomet rise in power,
  A witness of his dread career;
Before whom nations cringe and cower,
  And Christians tremble in their fear.

You saw the crescent rise on high,
  Above the cross on St. Sophia;
You saw it tower to the sky
  On Solomon's fane, on Mt. Moriah.

Coeval with the pyramids, erected by a race,
  But whom, or when, or why, unknown;
Can those symbols on thy face
  Reveal their secrets or disclose thy own?

Can science with success assail,
  And find the lost translative key,
To solve the symbols on thy mail,
  Lost links, perhaps, of history?

Lost secrets here may be concealed,
  Some doubtful questions be explained;
Lost arts perhaps may be revealed,
  And sacred writings be sustained.

The ashlers found beneath thy base,
  Speak volumes to the sage;
They bring our craftness face to face
  With craftness of that ancient age.

Another sign is also there,
  Not on the base, but higher,
A symbol cut by plumb and square
  Which points to Mount Moriah.

Search higher on the orient,
  You will not reach in vain;
The sword, the circle, and the tent,
  Symbolic of the sacred fane.

If thou could speak with human voice,
  Great revelations we would hear;
Some would lament, some rejoice,
  The Savior's advent—I forbear.

We speak of Greece and Rome's decay,
  Their ruins crumbling to the earth;
As nations of an ancient day
  Before our country's birth.

How old are they compared with thee,
  When quarried from a rocky bed?
As the sapling stands to the full grown tree,
  They stand beside thy hoary head.

Dumb witness of a mighty race,
  How long will thou resist decay;
Will thou stand upon thy base
  Until the earth shall pass away?

The Marriott Aeroplane Company for Navigating the Air is a San Francisco concern. The projector of the enterprise assures the stockholders that "matters are so far along that a few weeks more will see a machine in practicel operation," and in the mean time he keeps up their courage with such verses as this:

Now high, now low, away I go;
  A twist of wrist will lift me;
The steerer's hand has full command
  In any way to shift me.
I want no sails, or costly rails,
  Or land appropriation;
My track runs through the ether blue
  That's free to every nation.

GREAT WORKS IN OLDEN TIMES.

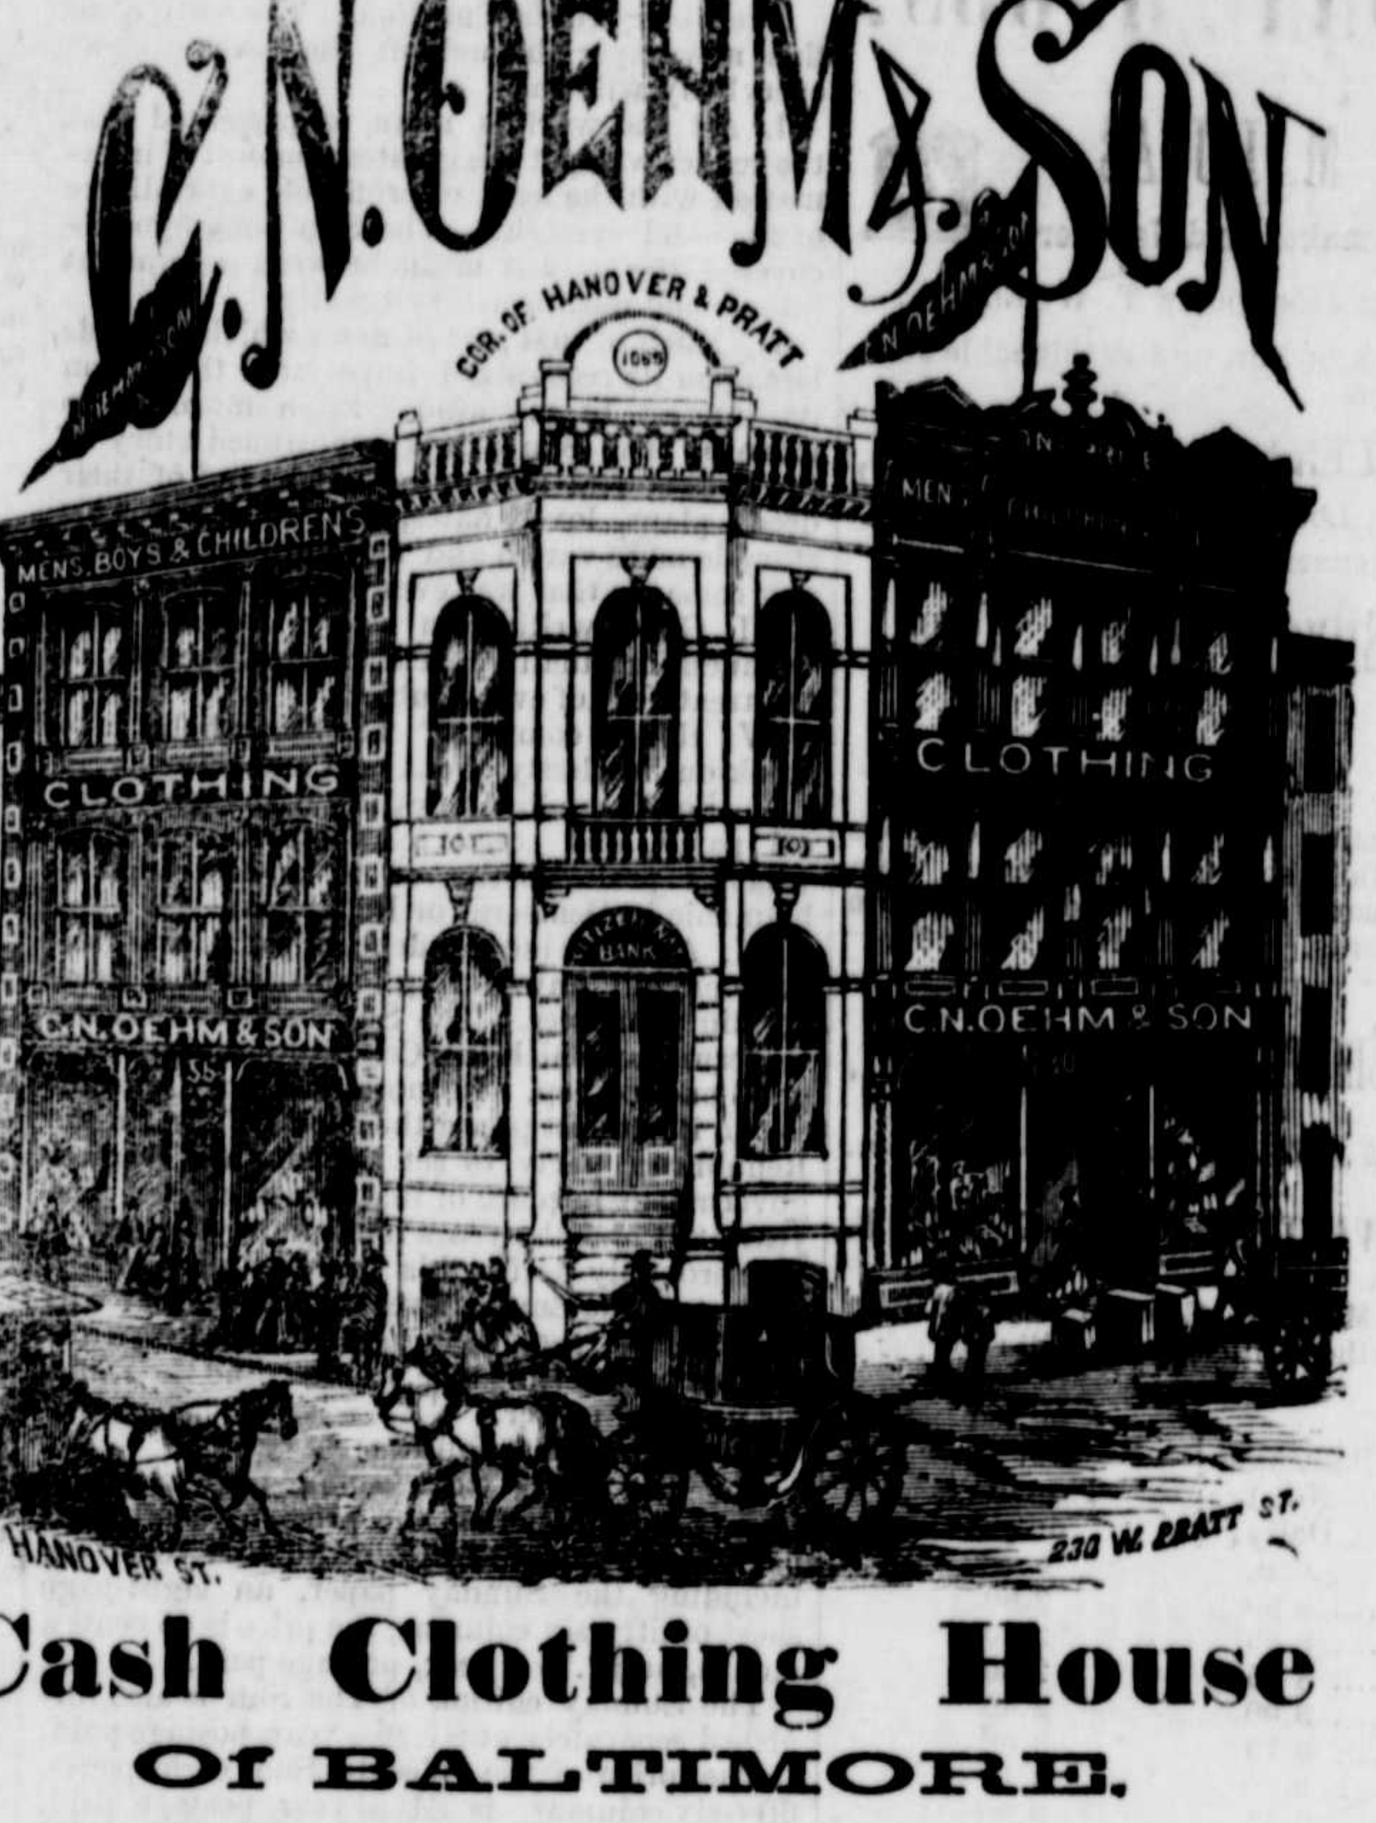

Wendell Phillips thinks the ancients attained perfection in some arts, the knowledge of which has been lost in our time. It is certain that those most familiar with steam-power and modern machinery are puzzled to explain how the grand structures of the ancient world were erected. Builders say that no modern contractor could erect the great pyramid in Egypt, and lift the gigantic stones at the summmit to the height of four hundred and fifty feet.

A recent visitor to Baalbec, and the ruins of the great temple of Baal, doubts if any modern architect could rebuild the temple in its ancient grandeur. Three huge stones, sixty-four feet long, thirteen high and thirteen wide, stand in a wall at the height of twenty feet. Nine other stones, thirty feet long, ten high, and ten wide, are joined together with such nicety that a trained eye cannot discover the line of juncture.

A column still stands in the quarry, a mile distant, which is completed, with the exception that it is not detached at the bottom. It is sixty-nine feet long, seventeen high, and fourteen broad, and one cannot understand how it can be separated at the bottom from the quarry without breaking. The ruins of this vast temple inspire respect for the genius of former years.

☞ John Cornelius, of Plumstead, England, fell dead as he was running home out of the rain. He was one of the "noble six hundred" who charged at Balaklava, in 1845. Although the "Charge of the Light Brigade" will be forever renowned in English song and story, grateful England allowed Cornelius to break stones on the road for the magnificent sum of twenty-five cents a day.

Literary Revolution and Universal Knowledge.

An Encyclopædia in 20 Volumes, over 16,000 Pages; 10 per cent more matter than any Encyclopædia ever before published in this country, and sold, handsomely and well bound, in cloth for 10, in half morocco for $15, and printed on fine heavy paper, wide margins, bound in half Russia, gilt top, for $20—an enterprise so extraordinary that its success, beyond all precedent in book publishing, may be fairly claimed to inagurate a Literary Revolution.

The Library of Uuiversal Knowledge is a reprint of the last (1879) Edinburgh edition of "Chamber's Encyclopædia," with about 40 per cent. of new matter added, upon topics of special interest to American readars, this making it equal in character to any similar work, better than any other suited to the wants of the great majority of those who consult works of reference, and altogether the latest Encyclopædia in the field.

Specimen Volumes in either style will be sent for examination with privilege of return on receipt of proportionate price per volume.

Special Discounts to all early subscribers, and extra discounts to clubs. Full particulars with descriptive catalogue of many other standard works equally low in price, sent free.

Leading principles of the AMERICAN BOOK EXCHANGE:

I—Publish only books of real value

II—Work upon the basis of present cost of making books, about one half what it was a few years ago.

III.—Sell to buyers direct, and save them the 50 to 60 per cent. commission commonly allowed to dealers.

IV.—The cost of books when made 10,000 at a time is but a fraction of the cost when made 500 at a time—adopt the low price and sell the large quantity.

V.—Use good type, paper, etc., do careful printing, and strong, neat binding, but avoid all "padding," fat and heavily-leaded type, spongy paper and gaudy binding, which are so commonly resorted to to make books appear large and fine, and which greatly add to their cost, but do not add to their value.

VI.—To make $1 and a friend is better than to make $5 and an enemy.

HELP Yourselves by making money when a golden chance is offered, thereby always keeping poverty from your door. Those who always take advantage of the good chances for making money that are offered, generally become wealthy, while those who do not improve such chances remain in poverty. We want many men, women, boys and girls to work for us right in their own localities. The business will pay more than ten time ordinary wages. We furnish an expensive outfit and all that you need free. No one who engages fails to make money very rapidly. You can devote your whole time to the work, or only your spare moments. Full information and all that is needed sent free. Address Stinson & Co., Portland, Maine.

CHEAPEST!!!

The subscriber is now selling his best Ice Cream for $1.25 per gallon; 75 cents per half-gallon; 40 cents per quarter gallon; 25 cents per one-eighth gallon; plates 10 cts. It is now pronounced to be the very best that was ever in this market—so declared by ladies and gentlemen from New York, Philadelphia and Baltimore. The Cream furnished by the undersigned to the Odd Fellows' anniversary, at the Court House, April 29th, was said, by the two hundred or three hundred ladies and gentlemen who partook of it, to have been the best they ever ate; which, of itself, is a good advertisement.

Picnics, Festivals and Excursions will be allowed a discount on all orders of and above five gallons

All orders must be accompanied by the cash.

The Ladies' Parlor will be open after next Monday.

Thanking the public for all favors conferred in the past, and hoping for a continuance of liberal patronage, I promise to do my best to please all.

VOSHELL HOUSE.

The undersigned takes this method of terdering his heartfelt thanks to his old friends and the public generally for the liberal support and sympathy so generously extend to him under the recent adverse circumstances by which he has been surrounded, and takes great pleasure in informing them that the house, in a few days, will be in first-class condition, the repairs and improvements thereto being made under his own supervision.

THE STABLING,

which is commodious and in excellent condition, is now under his control, and those entrusting their horses and carriages to his care may rest assured that they will be faithfully attended to by trusty and experienced hostlers.

THE TABLE,

as heretofore, will always be found supplied with substantials and delicacies of the season, and will be under the experienced management of his wife, who will see that no pains are spared to make it, in every respect, first-class.

With the xed purpose of leaving nothing undone on my part which will conduce to the comfort of my guests, I respectfully solicit the patronage of the public.

JOHN C. VOSHELL.
