Farm and Household.

HOW TO TREAT FROST-BITES.

If any part of the body gets frozen, the very worst thing to do is to apply heat directly. Keep away from the fire. Use snow if you can get it; if not, use the coldest possible water. Last winter our little boy of five years froze his feet while out coasting at considerable distance from the house. He cried all the way home, and the case seemed pretty bad. I brought a big panful of snow and put his feet into it, rubbing them with the snow. But my hands could not stand the cold. I was alarmed to see him keep his feet in the snow so long, but he could not bear them out of it. It was half an hour before he would take them out, and then the pain was all gone, and when I had wiped them dry and rubbed them a little, he was entirely comfortable, put on his stockings and shoes, and went to play. He never afterwards had any trouble with his feet on account of this freezing. His sister got her feet extremely cold, and put them at once to the fire. Her case at first was not so bad as her brother's, but the result was much worse. Her feet were tender all winter, and she suffered from chilblains. Her toes had a swollen purple look, and she had to take a larger size of shoes.

MANGE IN A HORSE.

This is caused by an insect.—White-wash the stable and stalls with lime and cover the floor also with it, as the mange insect will live upon the woodwork for some months, and return to the horse if not destroyed. Treat as follows for the disease: Make an ointment of lard, twelve parts, carbolic acid one part, and sulphur two parts. Rub these together thoroughly, until it is well mixed and smooth. Work some of this ointment into the affected portions of the skin twice a day. Give an ounce of flowers of sulphur daily in the feed, until the perspiration of the horse smells strongly of it, then discontinue it, but continue the use of the ointment some time longer, until the skin recovers a healthy appearance.

THE FARMER'S YEARLY SUPPLY OF FLOUR.

Those farmers who do not purchase their family flour will find it of much advantage to have their year's grist floured at one time. It not only saves so many days in going to the mill, but they will find the flour to improve with age. Put in a day in going to the mill, and see to the grinding and sacking of your flour yourself. Have your miller to make you an extra good grade of "middlings," and sack that also.—This latter will make an excellent addition to your housewife's buckwheat batter, as well as come in in various ways. The flour should be put in paper sacks, and corded up in some cool place out of the way of rats and mice.

QUALITY OF WOOL.

Amateur sheep growers are not all aware that the wool of sheep grows most rapidly in cold weather, and that any check in the quality and amount of feed at this time injures the quality of the wool. When sheep are well fed in the winter the wool starts to grow, but should any starving take place the wool fibre would have a weak place in it, and render it entirely unfit for combing wool, which brings such a good price in our markets. It could only be used where poor grades of wool were used, as in coarse blankets and carpets.

THERE are 54,000,000 sheep in the province of Buenos Ayres, of which 18,000,000 are owned by Irish settlers.

The wheat crop of Missouri is estimated at 44,450,000 bushels, or about one eleventh of the total crop of the country.

THE value of the crops raised in Pennsylvania during the season of 1880 was $111,250,000. The live stock in the State is valued at $85,570,612.

KEEP tea in a close chest or canister.

Keep coffee by itself, as its odor affects other articles.

BREAD and cake should be kept in a tin box or stone jar.

CRANBERRIES will keep all winter in a firkin of water in a cellar.

OIL-CLOTH is ruined by the application of lye soap, as the lye eats cloth.

CRANBERRIES, with their malic and citric acids, are good food for those living in malarious places.

To select nutmegs, pick them with a pin. If they are good, the oil will instantly spread around the puncture.

WHEN you drive a nail into a wall, clothes press or closet, to hang things on, drive it through a spool up to the head.

A BROOM should never be permitted to stand on its brush, as it makes it one-sided and ill-shapen. Hang it up by a loop in the handle.

TURN up the big toe as hard as you can for a cramp in the leg, and rub the skin, where the cramp is, briskly. This toe remedy is the best possible for a cramp.

To clean brass kettles, after washing clean, take a teacup of vinegar and a tablespoonful of fine salt; wash every spot on the inside of the kettle with it; then rinse off in pure water.

TO MAKE BEESWAX.—First, make a bag of the size desired, out of an inside coffee sack or something similar. Put your comb in this, and sew or tie it up tightly; have ready a boiler of hot water, into which immerse the bag, and, with the back of a hoe, press the bag well down into the water; this will cause the wax, (which is now melting,) to escape through the fine meshes of the bag, and rise to the surface of the water, while the sediment—dead bees, &c—will remain in the bag. Skim off the wax, and remelt and mold into any shape you want.

IN the northwest they are burning corn for fuel.

FAR OUT IN THE WEST.

I am poor; I am shabby. There's something about me
That fellows in broadcloth will look on askance;
The maids in their soft-flowing flounces will doubt me,
And sneer if I offer my hand in the dance.
But when I am sad there's a vision that cures me,
And lightens the heart that has sunk in my breast;
In daylight and darkness it ever allures me;
A jolly log-cabin far out in the West—
A shabby log-cabin, a shaky log-cabin,
A jolly log-cabin far out in the West.

Then ho! for the land where the sunset is glowing!
Good-bye to the town with its perils and woe!
Where forests are waving and broad rivers flowing
There is room for a fellow whose pockets are low.
It is there in my fancy whatever befalls me,
It shows me the joys that are purest and best.
Ah, sweet is the vision that ever enthralls me;
A jolly log-cabin far out in the West—
A shabby log-cabin, a shaky log-cabin,
A jolly log-cabin far out in the West.

Who cares for the scorn of the city's proud daughters,
Where fashion and folly together agree?
There is one who will dwell by Missouri's fair waters,
And wait at the wash-tub for love and for me.
The sounds that I hear are the voices of childhood,
The crow of old chanticleer doing his best;
The home of my heart is a home in the wildwood,
A jolly log-cabin far out in the West—
A shabby log-cabin, a shaky log-cabin,
A jolly log-cabin far out in the West.

I am poor, but I'm honest. The fetters that bind me
Will fall in the West like dead leaves from the tree;
A prince on the prairie the future shall find me,
As proud as the eagle, as wild and as free.
What words shall I borrow to tell of my rapture?
When eve warns the hunter of home and of rest,
With a gun on my shoulder, a deer as my capture,
I'll ride to the cabin far out in the West—
A shabby log-cabin, a shaky log-cabin,
A jolly log-cabin far out in the West.

IF I COULD KNOW.

"If I could know," I said,
Weeping beside my dead,
"Know all about the life
Beyond this mortal strife.

"Then I might bear to give
Thee up, dear heart, and live
As one who only waits
The opening of barred gates."

Just then a lilly bell
From out the dead hand fell;
I took it in my own—
I thought how it had grown

From senseless bulb and root,
A slender, fragile shoot,
Until, with sudden power,
It burst into a flower!

But how? Nay! who can know
Just how the lillies grow?
And were the secret ours,
Say, would it change the flowers?

And if we knew what lies
Beyond these earthly skies,
Knew all, past doubt, what then?
Would we be better men?

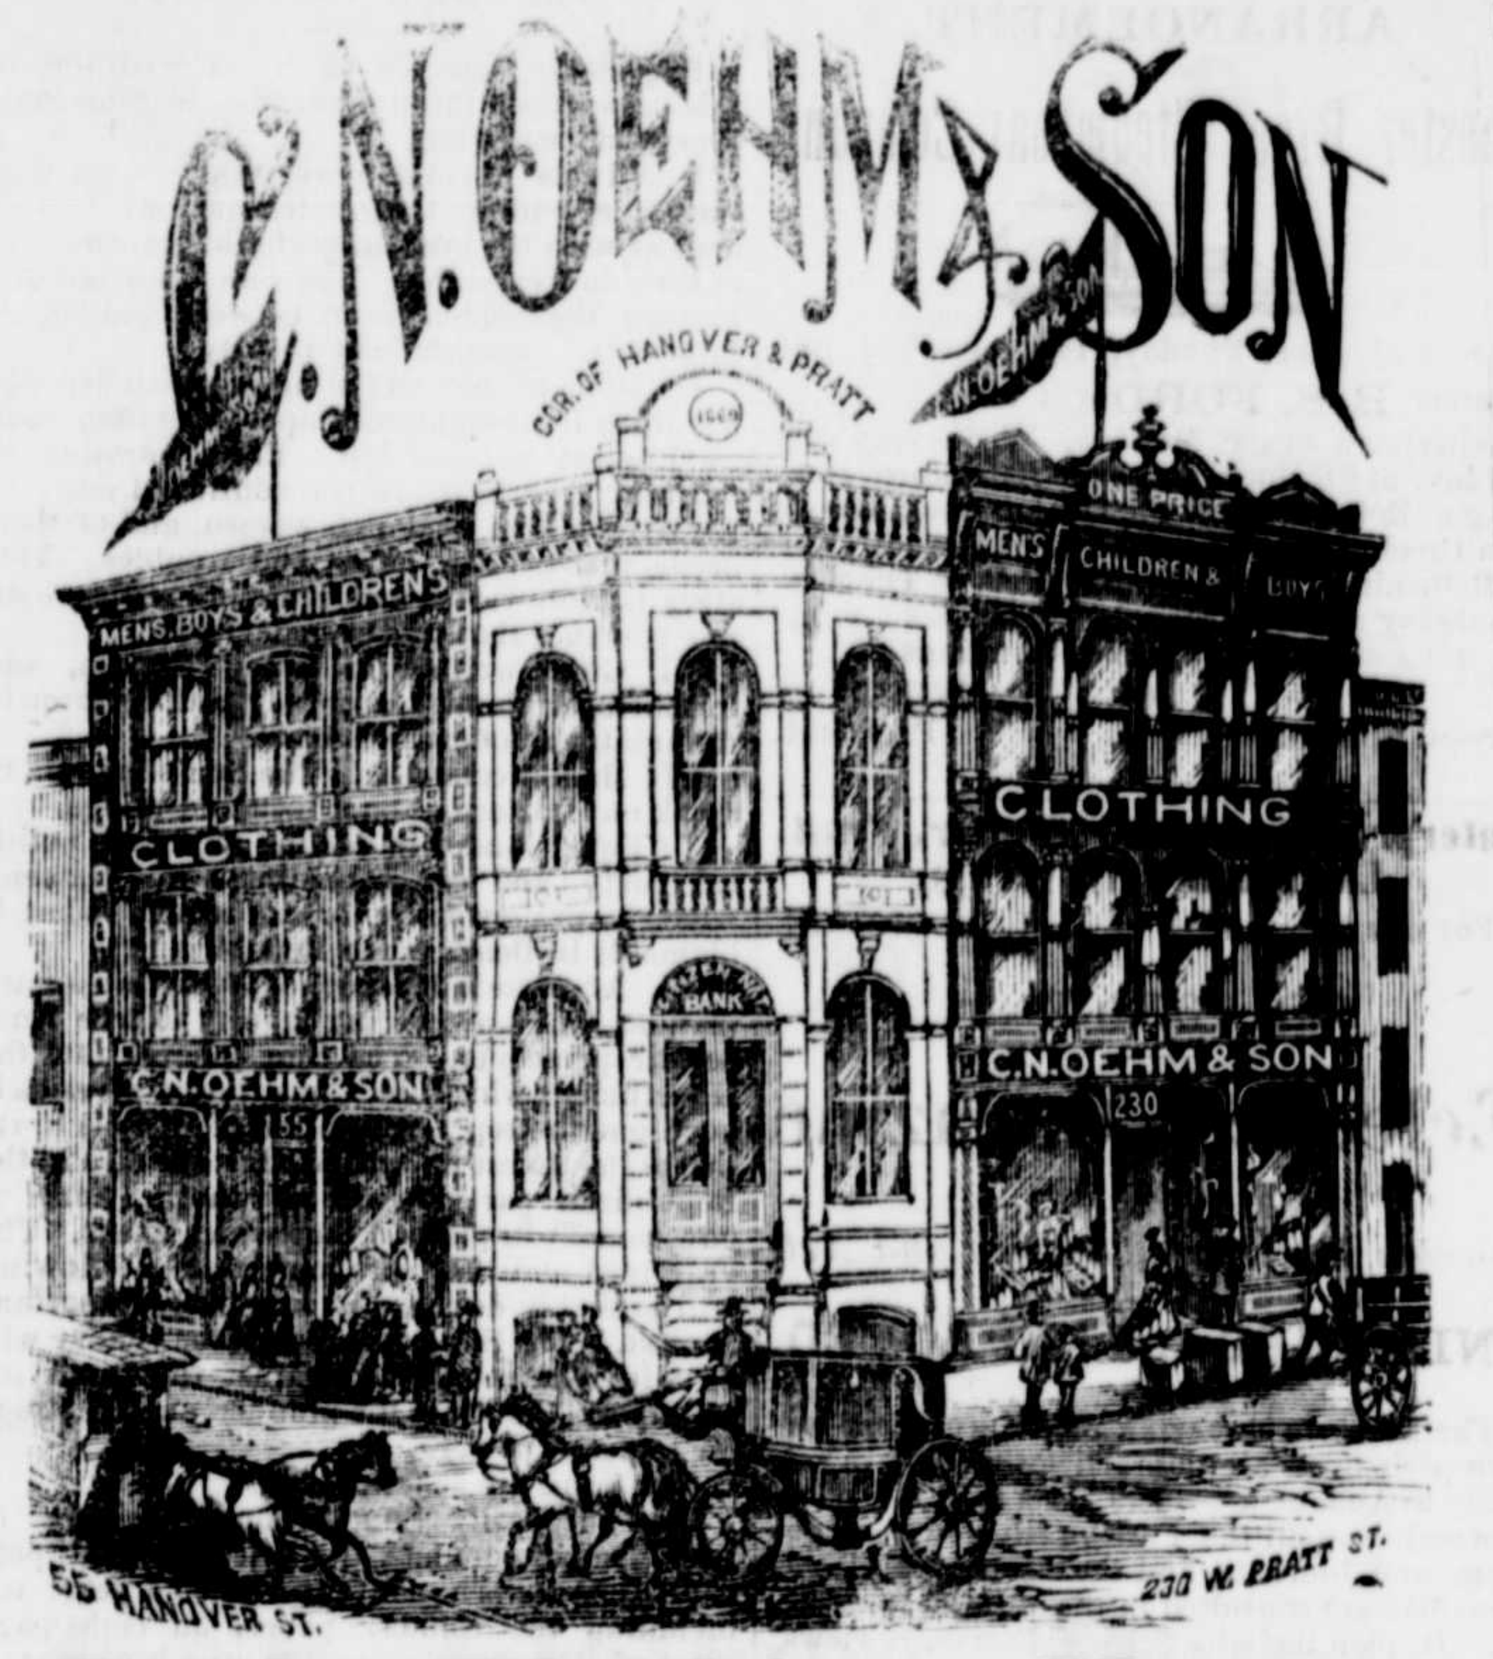

☞ All marriages are not made in heaven. Many must be made down here upon earth by the multitudes of French matrimonial agents who puff themselves and their merchandise in the advertisement columns. Some of these persons must do a roaring trade, for as you drive up the hill at St. Cloud you pass by a sumptuous villa which has been reared by riveting hymeneal houses. One of these agents advertises to-day a "Grand Choix de Veuves"—a "large selection of widows"—on hand, with large stocks of maidens with dowries varying from 200,000f. to many miliions. One has a girl of eighteen, with 12.000 of francs for her dower. Many others are in the market who have 8,000,000 to 10,000,000 of francs down.—"Why don't the men propose?" was a famous song much sung in our younger days. Why, indeed, it may be asked, when such fortunes go a-begging?

☞ Of all professions in the world there are none in which the mistakes made are brought so prominently before the public as that of journalism. A merchant may make mistakes in his figures, in his prices or weights or measures, but it does not appear where every person in the city and vicinity can see it. It is not proclaimed to thousands of eyes the next morning nor published where all can know it. If a doctor gives a wrong prescription it isn't known by everybody; but in journalism every such blunder is seen and noted by thousands. A word misspelled, a letter out of place, an ungrammatical sentence or misstatement of facts, overlooked in the hurry and bustle of rapid work, is pounced on by critics, and the journalist informed that such mistakes are inexcusable.

SUCCESS IN PRACTICAL LIFE.—If you speak the right word at the right time; if you are careful to leave people with a good impression; if you do not trespass upon the right of others; if you always think of others as well as yourself; if you do not put yourself unduly forward; if you do not forget the courtesies which belong to your position, you are quite sure to accomplish much in life which others with equal ability fail to do. This is where the race is not to the swift nor the battle to the strong. It is where you make people feel that you are unselfish and honorable, and truthful and sincere. This is what society is looking for in men; and it is astonishing how much men are able to win for self-respect, and success, and usefulness who possess these qualities of good breeding. It is almost the turning point of success in practical life.

"Goin' to hang up your stocking Christmas?" asked a Chicago man of a Boston girl. "I shall certainly suspend my hosiery," she said, looking kindly at him over her eye-glasses, "because I think the beautiful custom of bestowing upon our friends those things we think they will appreciate should be adhered to." He put a copy of Emerson's works, Joe Cook's lectures, some annotated lectures on biology and two boxes of chewing-gum into her blue but long stocking last Friday evening, and is now her affianced oyster-buyer.

HE who does a good deed makes heaven his debtor.

Literary Revolution and Universal Knowledge.

An Encyclopædia in 20 Volumes, over 16,000 Pages; 10 per cent more matter than any Encyclopædia ever before published in this country, and sold, handsomely and well bound, in cloth for 10, in half morocco for $15, and printed on fine heavy paper, wide margins, bound in half Russia, gilt top, for $20—an enterprise so extraordinary that its success, beyond all precedent in book publishing, may be fairly claimed to inagurate a Literary Revolution.

THE LIBRARY OF UCIVERSAL KNOWLEDGE is a reprint of the last (1879) Edinburgh edition of "Chamber's Encyclopædia," with about 40 per cent. of new matter added, upon topics of special interest to American readars, thus making it equal in character to any similar work, better than any other suited to the wants of the great majority of those who consult works of reference, and altogether the latest Encyclopædia in the field.

Specimen Volumes in either style will be sent for examination with privilege of return on receipt of proportionate price per volume.

Special Discounts to all early subscribers, and extra discounts to clubs. Full particulars with descriptive catalogue of many other standard works equally low in price, sent free.

Leading principles of the AMERICAN BOOK EXCHANGE:

I—Publish only books of real value

II—Work upon the basis of present cost of making books, about one half what it was a few years ago.

III.—Sell to buyers direct, and save them the 50 to 60 per cent. commission commonly allowed to dealers.

IV.—The cost of books when made 10,000 at a time is but a fraction of the cost when made 500 at a time—adopt the low price and sell the large quantity.

V.—Use good type, paper, etc., do careful printing, and strong, neat binding, but avoid all "padding," fat and heavily-leaded type, spongy paper and gaudy binding, which are so commonly resorted to to make books appear large and fine, and which greatly add to their cost, but do not add to their value.

VI.—To make $1 and a friend is better than to make $5 and an enemy.

HELP Yourselves by making money when a golden chance is offered, thereby always keeping poverty from your door. Those who always take advantage of the good chances for making money that are offered, generally become wealthy, while those who do not improve such chances remain in poverty. We want many men, women, boys and girls to work for us right in their own localities. The business will pay more than ten time ordinary wages. We furnish an expensive outfit and all that you need free. No one who engages fails to make money very rapidly. You can devote your whole time to the work, or only your spare moments. Full information and all that is needed sent free. Address STINSON & Co., Portland, Maine.

VOSHELL HOUSE.

THE UNDERSIGNED takes this method of terdering his heartfelt thanks to his old friends and the public generally for the liberal support and sympathy so generously extend to him under the recent adverse circumstances by which he has been surrounded, and takes great pleasure in informing them that the house, in a few days, will be in r st-class condition, the repairs and improvements thereto being made under his own supervision.

THE STABLING,

which is commodious and in excellent condition, is now under his control, and those entrusting their horses and carriages to his care may rest assured that they will be faithfully attended to by trusty and experienced hostlers.

THE TABLE,

as heretofore, will always be found supplied with substantials and delicacies of the season, and will be under the experienced management of his wife, who will see that no pains are spared to make it, in every respect, first-class.

With the xed purpose of leaving nothing undone on my part which will conduce to the comfort of my guests, I respectfully solicit the patronage of the public.
