Chestertown Transcript.

THURSDAY, FEB. 17, 1881.

Fresh Fish will soon smile upon us again; or otherwise we will soon smile upon fresh fish again.

The George Law came over Tuesday and reports Chester River clear of ice, but that there is much floating ice in the bay.

Valentine Day passed off serenely. Who sent it? And did you get mad over it? And what are you going to do about it?

Stores to be Closed.—The 22d instant is a legal holiday. Most of the stores and places of business in Chestertown will be closed on that day.

The frolicsome oyster, which was kept under by the prolonged freeze, is again among us. May he long continue to be a familiar guest at our tables.

Dwellings Sold.—We learn that Mr. Samuel L. Rawleigh sold last week, at private sale, to Mr. Robert Hatchinson, two dwelling houses on Kent street, between High and Cannon. The buildings are two-story frames, nearly new.

Grain Market.—Tuesday's quotations were as follows: The supply of Southern Wheat is light and the market firm, and quiet; sales are limited to a few small lots at 1 13a$1 16 for Fultz and $1 23 for long-berry. Southern Corn was steady and quiet, with sales of white at 53 cents.

Our Fishermen are busily engaged in overhauling their seines, nets, boats and tackle, and in a day or two, should the weather continue favorable, will be hard at work. It is said that a hard winter is usually followed by a good fishing season, so that those engaged in the business have strong hopes of success.

Rev. S. A. Hoblitzell.—The Record and Gazette, of Saturday last, says the recent meeting of the quarterly conference, by a unanimous vote, instructed the delegate to the Maryland Annual Conference of the Methodist Protestant Church, to ask for Mr. Hoblitzell's return to Pocomoke circuit for another year.

May be a Diamond.—Mr. Arthur Jetson, living on the Milton Baker farm in Quaker Neck, found last November a water colored, transparent stone, which reflected light in many shades of color. The stone is so hard that it readily cuts glass. Mr. Jetson designs taking it to a city jeweler, to obtain his opinion as to its nature and value. He has so much faith that the stone will prove valuable, that he says he would not accept twenty dollars for it on a risk. The stone will weigh perhaps one-half ounce.

Navigation Open.—The warm sun, high wind and strong tide broke up and cleared the ice out of Chester river last week, so that by Sunday scarcely a piece of floating ice was to be seen in the river as far up as Chestertown. The George Law came from Baltimore on Tuesday, and the L. G. Cannon, which has been lying at her wharf in Chestertown, steamed out yesterday morning with a cargo of grain.

It is believed that winter is pretty well broken in our latitude, and though we may have some more cold snaps, yet it is hoped that there will not be any more weather sufficiently severe to close navigation.

Protracted Meetings.—The protracted service at the Methodist Protestant Church is now in its sixth week, and the interest is unabated. The church is filled every night, and penitents in numbers sufficient to take up the pews in front of the altar, present themselves and engage earnestly in prayer Up to Tuesday night forty-seven persons had professed conversion.

The meeting at the Methodist Episcopal church is still going on and the nightly services are well attended. Quite a goodly number of conversions have taken place, but we have not been able to ascertain how many.

The Kent Guards are to have a gala day on the 22d inst. They are to shoot at a target in competition for a prize, listen to an address at the Court House, at 11 o'clock A. M., from the Rev. E. B. Newnam, and to dine sumptuously off roast turkey and canvas-back duck. The target shooting will take place in the afternoon. In addition to shooting for a prize, the company will be divided into two squads, which will shoot against each other for a supper, the losing squad to foot the bill. It is to be feared that the Guards will suffer from too much dining and supping.

Appointed to the Naval Academy.—Hon. Daniel M. Henry has appointed Mast. Pearce Crisfield, of Chestertown, Kent county, to the United States Naval Academy, from the first congressional district of Maryland.

The young man is a grandson of the late Senator James Alfred Pearce, and a nephew to James A. Pearce, Esq., of Chestertown. The last appointment from this district was held by the son of Col. Lloyd of Talbot county.

Master Pearce has successfully passed the entrance examination to the academy. He is a sprightly and spirited young man, and is no doubt the sort of material that good naval officers are made of.

Two Claimants to a Horse.—Mr. S. G. Swart of Crampton, had stolen from his stable some five or six years ago a valuable black mare, the recovery of which, after diligent search, he abandoned. A few days ago Mr. Swart believed that he recognized his mare in the possession of Rev. Mr. Smith of the Sudlersville M. E. Church. Mr. Swart has instituted legal proceedings for the recovery of the horse. In the meantime a communication to the Centreville Observer from Elkton, states that the mare in possession of the Rev. Mr. Smith was foaled on the farm of Mr. Adam R. Magraw of Cecil county, and was never in the possession of Mr. Swart.

Ministerial Change.—We understand that Rev. E. B. Newnam, in adhering to his custom never to remain at an appointment longer than two years, will not be with the M. E. Church congregation at Chestertown after next conference. Mr. Newnam has been highly esteemed by his congregation here, and there is no doubt but that much regret will be felt at parting with him. It is thought that he will go to Odessa, Del. In his place we hear that Rev. Dr. Caldwell is to be asked for. It is understood that Dr. Caldwell is willing to come, the Presiding Elder is willing that he shall come, and the church here desires his services. Putting these three considerations together, it is probable the Doctor will come. Dr. Caldwell stands as a pulpit orator and scholar among the first ministers of the Wilmington M. E. Conference.

Orphans' Court, TUESDAY, February 10, 1881. Present, Judges Nicholson, Shallcross and Willson.

Bartus Trew, executor of Deborah Trew, returned his first and final administration account which was examined, passed as stated, and ordered to be recorded.

Thomas W. Skirven and J. Walter Skirven, two of the executors of John T. Skirven, filed the inventory and appraisement of the personal estate of said deceased, which was received and ordered to be recorded.

John Bordley, coroner, filed his official bond in the sum of $3000, which was approved and ordered to be filed in the Clerks Office for record.

The sale made and reported by James B. Willson, executor of Henrietta E. Willson, of lot near Rock Hall, was ratified and confirmed, and the audit as made by J. C. Slaughter, special auditor, was examined and approved.

Queen Anne's Items.—Three youths went from Centreville to Philadelphia last week, to secure positions upon the United States training ship Constitution. Only one of them, Daniel Goldsborough, passed the physical examination. The other two returned to their homes.

McFadden's mill, located between Sudlersville and Crampton, came near being burned last week.

A correspondent of the Centreville Observer tells a story about a dog that on a cold day, being repeatedly driven by the darkies from a warm corner by the kitchen fire, finally stole a chunk of burning wood and took it out with him, and lay himself down by it, stretching his paws on each side of it. Having a private fire of his own, he made no further effort to get into the kitchen.

A Tour Through the South—A Kent Countian's Opinion of North Carolina.—Marcus Ascher, son of M. Ascher, storekeeper at Rock Hall, has just returned from an extensive trip through North Carolina, the object of which was to buy up furs of the grey fox, mink, otter, and other fur-bearing animals. Young Ascher bears in his face and speech evidence of his Teutonic origin. He has, however, a good-natured twinkle of the eye and a shrewd business look, which bespeak that he is able to hoe his own row, in North Carolina or anywhere else.

Some of his sketches of travel are highly entertaining. He has traveled all through the mountain and forest portions of North Carolina, with his two-horse, covered wagon, buying up furs. He says that when the North Carolinians gaze upon his trim-looking horses, and spick and span wagon, they think he must be the president of the United States, or at least some rich nabob on a pleasure tour. They can't imagine how any ordinary private citizen can travel in so much grandeur. The only vehicle known to the Carolinians of the backwoods districts, is a pair of wheels connected by an axletree. When the cotton crop is gathered, it is loaded up on these wheels, and the old man and old woman climb up on top and ride to the town, which is often forty or fifty miles distant, where they dispose of their crop, and lay out the proceeds, and then return home seated side by side on the axletree.

Marcus says that when he strikes into North Carolina, he puts off the civilized garments of a Marylander, and rigs himself according to the customs of the natives. He buys a broadbrim slouch hat, purchases long boots that reach above his knees, straps a pistol-belt with two pistols in it around his body, and sticks a bowie knife down his boot leg. Thus accoutred he sallies forth in search of furs.

Everybody in the rural districts of North Carolina chews tobacco. He once chanced upon a family, where the old man, his wife, and fourteen children, all chewed tobacco, the juice of which they squirted at random.

Marcus has an appreciative eye for female beauty. The young women of North Carolina he thinks uncommonly pretty, with white, delicate skins, but they all chew tobacco. They most all have an entire circle of tobacco juice around their mouths. This he thought detracted from their beauty. These damsels all understood the science of kissing, but the condition of their mouths was a great source of grief to Marcus, as he does not chew. He performed his full duty, however, in kissing their cheeks.

On one occasion, he drew up to a shanty, called out the owner, and asked if he could stay all night.

The owner of the shanty, who was a middle-aged man, looked at him from head to foot, and asked him where he came from.

Marcus told him that he was buying furs, and that he would like to have himself, his horses and his furs taken care of for the night.

Oh, said the proprietor, if you are buying furs, I can take care of you. I have got some fur to sell myself, but I can't take care of your horses, because I have got no stabling.

Well, asked Marcus, is there any place near here where I could get my horses cared for.

Oh yes, said the proprietor, Mr. Link lives just over the way, and he has a large house and a big stable, and can take care of you and your horses too.

Marcus went over the way and found the big house to consist of one room below and one above, and the big stable was four poles driven into the ground with a shed over it. However, Mr. Link offered to take care of him, and so he put up for the night.

In his travels he always carries an accordeon with him, upon which he is a skilled performer. After he had supped at Mr. Link's he took his accordeon and walked over to the house of the first man he had called on, to talk with him about his furs, and to soothe him with a little music, so that he might be disposed to drive a better bargain. As soon as Marcus made his appearance, however, his host informed him that there was a party not far away, and that he knew the gals would be uncommon glad to see as good-looking a man as Marcus was. Marcus expressed himself as perfectly willing to go to the party, and so his host hitched up the family carriage, which consisted of a pair of wheels attached to a mule. Marcus and his friend seated themselves upon the axletree and set out for the party. Marcus took his accordeon with him. When he and his friend entered the room where the party was being held, every body stared at him. Nobody could tell where a stranger of such distinguished appearance could have come from. However, as Marcus was very friendly and sociable in his deportment, he soon became acquainted, especially with the "gals," and the party went along uninterruptedly They had two fiddlers there, who tried to grind dance music out of two cracked fiddles. One of the peculiarities of the music was that it did not follow any especial tune, and so the dancers had to make out as best they could. Marcus called the figures, however, and they managed to get along fairly well. After a while he drew out his accordeon, and opened up a waltz on them. The whole party was fairly electrified by the deliciousness of the music, and the fiddlers hid their fiddles, and could not be coaxed to bring them out any more that night. When the party broke up, they gathered around him, and wanted to know when he expected to be around that way again. They assured him that whenever he should come again, they would get up another party especially in honor of the occasion. Marcus considers that both the dancing and the kissing were remarkably fine at the party, bating the fact that he was compelled to take his osculations from the cheeks, on account of the tobacco juicy state of the lips of most of the fair maidens.

The country through which he travels, is not however a fair sample of most of North Carolina. In the purchase of furs he is compelled to travel through the wildest and most uncultivated sections, where the wild animals are not driven away by civilization.

LYNCHBURG, FEB. 15, 1881.

Messrs. Editors:—We are sorry to inform you that our enterprising townsman, Col. S. L. Rawleigh, has purchased from Mr. Carvill, a fine tract of land near Whaland's mill, and proposes to erect dwelling, stable and out-buildings thereon, and to leave our town and take up his residence there. Col. Rawleigh proposes, when he settles upon his estate, to engage in the cultivation of onions, sugar-beets, cabbages, turnips and cucumbers. He will also devote much of his attention to the raising of thoroughbred pups. Col. Rawleigh will be a great loss to Chestertown, but he does not propose to quit carpentering. In addition to raising sugar-beets, onions, dogs, &c., he still expects to continue a booming business in building houses.

Col. Rawleigh also possesses some very fine horse-flesh, and will devote considerable care to the raising of blooded horses. He especially has one horse, which he calculates to take all the first premiums at the Worton races next fall as a full-blooded heavy-draft horse. He is going to enter some of his blooded dog stock at the coming Cincinnati dog-show, at which he expects to carry off several first premiums. He also calculates to raise more thoroughbred onions and bigger cabbages than any other man in Kent county. OBSERVER.

SCHOOL ENTERTAINMENT.

MESSRS. EDITORS TRANSCRIPT:—Having the good fortune to attend the entertainment given at the Worton Fair Grounds last Tuesday night, under the management of Miss Susie Melvin, I cannot refrain from stating that it was a very creditable affair. Not having the pleasure of being very well acquainted with all the performers, I can only give a few of the names of those who were "well up" in their parts. The first play, entitled "Eh, what is it?" was in three scenes. The leading characters were Miss Anderson, Mr. Jack Mace, Messrs. Highley and Daisey Stewart. It was very funny. All the rest of the exercises were of an entertaining nature, but the principal parts that deserve especial mention are, "The Hardshell Sermon," by Mr. Topping, recitation "Mrs. Smart learns to skate," by Miss Ethel Stewart," and a "Stump Speech," by Mr. Jack Mace. Instrumental music was rendered by Messrs. Crawford, Hurlock and Jewell, accompanied vocally by Miss Belle Pippin, Mr. and Miss Melvin and J. W. Bordley. There was a large attendance, and the audience seemed to appreciate the programme from beginning to end.

Yours, truly, ONLY GHAGEN.

LETTER FROM WORTON.

HANESVILLE, Feb. 14, 1881.

A day or two after my previous note was written, a gay sleighing party was seen wending their way to St. James' Parsonage, headed by a faithful guardian of the affairs of Kent county's orphans, a genial-humored gentleman, always ready for purest innocent frolic. To say the worthy divine was a Little surprised would not be strictly true. Could he possibly be so, knowing the generosity of the Worton people. His pantry was soon filled with good things, his house with genial cheer and his heart with gratitude.

We no longer hear the jingle of sleigh bells, but hope the voice of the turtle will soon be heard in the land. Though spring may be long delayed, we have seen many a cowslip this winter.

If some of the school houses are in such a bad condition, it would have been a proper subject to debate "how to prevent ventilation."

ANON.

DECISIVE BATTLES OF THE WORLD.—Creasy's extremely interesting volume narrating the history of the fifteen decisive battles of the world, those few battles of which a contrary event would have essentially varied the drama of the world in all its subsequent scenes, is highly esteemed by all readers of history. It has a long time been on Harper's list as one of their standard books, at the price of $1.50. Now it is issued in a very handsome cloth-bound volume, by the American Book Exchange, New York, at the nominal price of 35 cents. It forms one of their Acme Library of History, which includes Macaulay's England, $1.25 (reduced from $7.50), Gibbon's Rome $2.00 (reduced from $9.00), Rollin's Ancient History, $1.75; Froissart's Chronicles, $1.50, and to which list will soon be added, at equally low prices, Grote's Greece, Green's (larger) England, Mommsen's Rome, Masson's Guizot's France, Carlyle's French Revolution, Schiller's Thirty Years' War, and others. Catalogues of the standard low-priced books of the Literary Revolution will be sent on application to the American Book Exchange, Tribune Building, New York.

THE CHOICE OF BOOKS.—A very elegant little volume with the above title, by Chas. F. Richardson, is just issued by the American Book Exchange, Tribune Building, New York, at the very low price of 25 cents; also a cheap paper edition at the nominal cost of five cents. It will delight all who love good books, and in its wise suggestions will be greatly helpful to all who want help in choosing the best books. In its various chapters it treats of The Motive of Reading, The Reading Habit, What Books to Read, The Best Time to Read, Remembering What One Reads, The Use of Note Books, The Cultivation of Taste. Poetry, The Art of Skipping, The Use of Translations, How to Read Periodicals, Reading Aloud and Reading Clubs, What Books to Own, The Use of Public Libraries, The True Service of Reading. The volume is remarkably rich in striking quotations from the world's most famous authors and thinkers, from Aristotle to Emerson, including such names as Addison, Bacon, Burns, Cato, Carlyle, Disraeli, Fenelon, Gibbon, Hugo, Keats, Lamb, Locke, Luther, Milton, Petrarch, Shakespeare, Ruskin, and Thoreau. It is a real literary treasury house.

THE INDEPENDENT.

"The foremost religious newspaper of the United States."—JOSEPH COOK.

THE INDEPENDENT seeks the patronage of the public on these grounds, as follows:

1st. It is the largest weekly religious newspaper published in the world.

2d. It employs as contributors more able writers, at home and abroad, than any other weekly newspaper.

3d. It gives its readers a wider range of topics and more and fuller departments than they can find elsewhere in any journal.

THE INDEPENDENT consists of 32 pages, neatly cut and pasted. It is printed from clear type (we stereotype the pages weekly, and hence, every issue is really printed with the new type) and on good paper, and mechanically it is unexcelled.

There is no question of prominence in religion, politics, science, education, finance, or any other department of human knowledge which THE INDEPENDENT does not discuss. It has regular departments devoted to Biblical Research, Missions, Religious intelligence, Book Reviews and Literary News, and Sunday school, Education, Science, Sanitary questions, Fine Arts, the movements of ministers, Personalities, News of the Week, Financial and Commercial matters, including Weekly Prices Current, Market Reports, Cattle Market, Dry Goods Quotations, Flowers and Farming, and Insurance. In its religious department it gives news and statistics of all denominations of Christians, everywhere. In fullness, accuracy, and comprehensiveness this department is unequaled. Several pages of stories and poems adapted to Old and Young are given every week, with a column of Puzzles.

From time to time Sermons by eminent ministers are published. The current topics of the day are discussed in our editorial columns freely and vigorously. We are not afraid to state our opinions.

Our New Terms for 1881.

One subscription one year, in advance	$3 00
For 6 months, $1.50; for 3 months	0 75
One subscription two years, in advance	5 00

Eclectic Magazine
OF
Foreign Literature, Science and Art,

ENLARGED and IMPROVED.

The ECLECTIC MAGAZINE reproduces from foreign periodicals all those articles which are valuable to American readers. Its field of selection embraces all the Foreign Reviews, Magazines, and Journals, and the tastes of all classes of readers are consulted in the articles presented. Its plan includes Science, Essays, Reviews, Sketches, Travels, Poetry, Novels, Short Stories etc., etc.

With the number for January, 1881, the ECLECTIC MAGAZINE will be enlarged to such an extent as will give about

Two Hundred Pages additional reading-matter during the year.

This increase of space will afford the opportunity not merely for an increased quantity but for a much greater variety of reading-matter; and the publisher confidently promises that the opportunity shall be so utilized that the ECLECTIC will be more valuable, more readable, and more satisfactory than ever before. The same pains will be taken as hitherto to exclude articles which are trivial in character, or of merely transient interest; but larger space will be assigned to articles of a popular and entertaining cast, and with ample materials of the best quality at command, the ECLECTIC will be made the ideal Family Magazine.

The following list of contributors to the periodicals from which the ECLECTIC is selected will give some idea of the value of its contents: Rt. Hon. W. E. Gladstone, Alfred Tennyson, Professor Huxley, Professor Tyndall, Richard A. Proctor, B.A., J. Norman Lockyer, F.R.S., Dr. W. B. Carpenter, E. B. Tylor, Prof. Max Muller, Prof. Owen, Matthew Arnold, E. A. Freeman, D.C.L., James Anthony Froude, Thomas Hughes, Anthony Trollope, Wm. Black, Mrs. Oliphant, Turgenieff, Miss Thackeray, etc.

The English periodicals are the great storehouse from which are drawn many of the best and most popular books of the time. The ECLECTIC reprints this material fresh from the authors' hands, and at a price far lower than its costs in book-form.

Terms: Single copies, 45 cents: one copy, one year, $5; five copies, $20. Trial subscription for three months, $1. The ECLECTIC and any $4 magazine to one address, $8. Postage free to all subscribers.

The Sun for 1881.

Everybody reads THE SUN. The editions of this newspaper throughout the year to come everybody will find:

I. All the world's news, so presented that the reader will get the greatest amount of information with the least unprofitable expenditure of time and eyesight. The Sun long ago discovered the golden mean between redundant fulness and unsatisfactory brevity.

II. Much of that sort of news which depends less upon its recognized importance than upon its interest to mankind. From morning to morning The Sun prints a continued story of the lives of real men and women, and of their deeds, plans, loves, hates, and troubles. This story is more varied and more interesting than any romance that was ever devised.

III. Good writing in every column, and freshness, originality, accuracy, and decorum in the treatment of every subject.

IV. Honest comment. The Sun's habit is to speak out fearlessly about men and things.

V. Equal candor in dealing with each political party, and equal readiness to commend what is praiseworthy or to rebuke what is blamable in Democrat or Republican.

VI. Absolute independence of partisan organizations, but unwavering loyalty to true Democratic principles. The Sun believes that the Government which the Constitution gives us is a good one to keep. Its notion of duty is to resist to its utmost power the efforts of men in the Republican party to set up another form of government in place of that which exists. The year 1881 and the years immediately following will probably decide this supremely important contest. The Sun believes that the victory will be with the people as against the Rings for monopoly, the Rings for plunder, and the Rings for imperial power.

Our terms are as follows:

For the Daily SUN, a four-page sheet of twenty-eight columns, the price by mail, post paid, is 55 cents a month, or $6.50 a year; or, including the Sunday paper, an eight-page sheet of fifty-six columns, the price is 65 cents a month, or $7.70 a year, postage paid.

The Sunday edition of The Sun is also furnished separately at $1.20 a year, postage paid.

The price of the Weekly Sun, eight pages, fifty-six columns, is $1 a year, postage paid. For clubs of ten sending $10 we will send an extra copy free.

Ohio Chilled Plow.

For lightness of draught, durability and superior work, this Plow cannot be equaled and has never been by any yet introduced; this may be considered by some a broad claim, but a trial will soon convince as to the correctness thereof. All who purchased of us last spring were so much pleased that they seem to delight in talking about them to their friends, and this fact alone has made for us a number of sales even this early in the season, hence it can be truly said that the OHIO CHILLED advertises and sells itself.
The following parties can furnish any information:

Bickford & Huffman's
Farmers' Favorite Grain Drills.
The PIONEER DRILL of AMERICA.
These Drills are so well known and in such universal use that it is not necessary to advertise its many points of superior merit, and we simply insert this more as a notice of the change of agents than as an advertisement of the Drill. Call and see us before purchasing.

Perry Spring Tooth Harrow.
Improvements in agricultural implements having finally reached the Harrow, we now present to our friends and patrons, claiming for it the great advantage of being both a time and labor-saving implement. Our neighbors of other States and counties of this State inform us that they are fast taking the place of the old solid tooth and from their representation and our own judgement, we firmly believe that ere long they will have entirely displaced all the old ones ever amongst us. Try one and judge for yourselves.

KENNARD & CO.
THE late crops where the above were used are the strongest possible testimonials, and it is with pleasure we can say that our goods have equalled, and in may cases, surpassed any article in the market, and along side the old standard brands they have been proven to be of the most superior quality.
The low price at which we sell is alone attributable to the fact that we pay no commission to agents, and are satisfied with a close margin ourselves.
Our Factory is always open to the farmers, and a cordial invitation is extended them to visit us there and inspect for themselves.
We also carry a full line of chemicals which with any special mixture desired we will furnish at Baltimore prices.
We might insert numerous testimonials, but prefer to hold them at our office subject to the perusal of all, and simply add the names of a few who have used our goods and to whom we respectfully refer as to their merits:
